REPORT

ON THE

REVENUE ADMINISTRATION,

North-Western Provinces and Oudh,

FOR THE REVENUE YEAR 1895-96.

No. $\frac{832}{XII-163}$ OF 1897.

FROM

D. C. BAILLIE, ESQ., C.S.,
SECRETARY TO THE BOARD OF REVENUE,
NORTH-WESTERN PROVINCES AND OUDH,

To

THE SECRETARY TO GOVERNMENT,
NORTH-WESTERN PROVINCES AND OUDH,
REVENUE DEPARTMENT.

Dated Allahabad, the 13th March 1897.

SIR,

Present:
J. J. D. LATOUCHE, ESQ., C.S.I.,
AND
H. F. D'O. MOULE, ESQ.

I AM directed to submit, with the usual enclosures, the Board's report on the Revenue Administration of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh for the revenue year ending on the 30th September 1896.

2. Mr. Neale and Mr. Moule officiated as Senior and Junior Member respectively for the first month of the year in place of the permanent Members, as Mr. Cadell was holding the office of Lieutenant-Governor, and Mr. Adams was on privilege leave. On Mr. Adams' return from leave on 1st November 1895, he relieved Mr. Neale as officiating Senior Member, and he in turn replaced Mr. Moule. This arrangement continued, owing to Mr. Cadell's joining the Governor-General's Council as Additional Member, till the 13th May 1896, when Mr. Cadell resumed charge of the office of Senior Member for the remainder of the year, Mr. Adams replacing Mr. Neale as Junior Member.

3. The divisional reports were received in good time, except those for Benares, Gorakhpur and Lucknow, which reached the Board on the 4th January, and the Allahabad report, which was three days later. The press of work on both Collectors and Commissioners caused by the prevailing scarcity may be accepted as sufficient reason for the delay.

PART I.

Chapter I.—AGRICULTURAL.

SEC. I.—RAINFALL AND HARVESTS. App. I.

4. The year, which followed an abnormally wet one, was characterized by an early cessation of the monsoon on which depended the kharif crop of 1895-96, and by unusually scanty winter rains. The rainy season of 1895 began about the middle of June and continued with occasional breaks till the end of August. In June the rainfall was everywhere heavy, especially in the central and western divisions of the provinces. Drier weather in July was succeeded by moderate and fairly well distributed rain in August. In September the rainfall was on the whole greatly below the average, and except in the eastern and submontane districts it ceased entirely before the middle of the month. October and November were practically rainless. In the early days of December there was a slight fall, but after this there was no more rain till the end of January and the beginning of February, when a few light showers fell in Meerut and Rohilkhand and parts of the Agra division. Over the entire province the rainfall of the year averaged only 36·2 inches as compared with 50 inches, the average of the preceding five years. Of this amount an unusually large proportion fell in the first month of the rains, and the cold weather rains accounted for only a little over an inch.

5. Owing to the early cessation of the rains the autumn crops, which at first had promised well, suffered from deficient moisture; on the whole, however, they were decidedly superior to those of the past two years. The earlier reaped crops were generally good, and the yield of cotton and indigo proved better than it had been for some years past. Rice was as a rule good, though in districts where the transplanted variety is grown on the higher lands it was almost an entire failure. The autumn pulses and til (gingelly) suffered greatly from the heavy rains in August and the drought which followed.

Except in irrigated tracts the cold weather crops were inferior, especially in Bundelkhand and the submontane districts. The rains ceased early and the soil dried up, and the subsequent prolonged drought checked the growth of the plants. The yield of arhar and rapeseed was almost everywhere excellent and that of gram and peas generally good. Linseed, a staple crop in Bundelkhand, turned out very badly. Sugarcane and poppy on the other hand yielded good returns, a result the more remarkable for the latter, because germination and subsequent development was greatly retarded, and the early reports regarding it were very unfavourable. Several district officers notice the damage done immediately after germination to poppy and other rabi crops by a small weevil identified as Tanymecus Indicus. Damage to poppy by this insect has been extensive in many previous years. The unusually high temperature which prevailed in the eastern districts at the time when rabi sowings were made in 1895 was in all probability the reason why its ravages were extended to crops other than poppy, and the attention of cultivators who had previously been ignorant of its existence called for the first time to the damage done by it. One result was an outcrop of new names for an insect generally known to poppy cultivators by the name of "gadela."

6. The character of the harvests in the different divisions may be referred to in more detail. In the three most northerly plains districts of the Meerut division, the rainfall was in excess of the average, and the kharíf crops were throughout the division worse than in the preceding year. The rabi crops were generally poor, especially in the unirrigated tracts. In Agra both harvests were fair. In the Rohilkhand division the rainfall in Sháhjahánpur and Pilibhít was notably deficient, and throughout the division the outturn of the kharíf crops was below the average, and the rabi crops suffered from the prevalence of strong winds as well as from the absence of winter rains. Sugarcane, an important crop in Rohilkhand, did well on the whole. In Allahabad, where the rainfall was especially scanty, the kharíf was on the whole an indifferent one, and the rabi still poorer. Mahua (Bassia latifolia), the flower of which is largely used for food by the poorer classes, failed. On the other hand the dry season benefited the cotton crop. In the Benares division the harvests of the year were very fair, though rice suffered from want of moisture. In the Gorakhpur division the kharíf was below the average, though the Azamgarh indigo yielded a bumper crop: the rabi, however, was decidedly better than in the preceding year. In Kumaun both harvests suffered from the scanty rainfall; but the potato crop was an excellent one. In Oudh, on the whole, the autumn crops were fair and better than in the previous year, except in Sitapur and Hardoi. The rabi crops were also better than they had been in 1895, except in Kheri and the two districts mentioned above.

Generally speaking, the year, though better than its predecessor, was one of poor harvests. Relief operations on an extensive scale had to be undertaken in the four districts of Bundelkhand, and to a less extent in parts of the Allahabad, Hardoi, Pilibhít, Garhwál and Almora districts. Bundelkhand has suffered from agricultural depression for the past three years, and the effects of the short rainfall in September and the total absence of winter rains showed themselves in high prices and depleted stocks of grain. Famine relief works were started in February 1896, and remained open till the rains broke. In addition revenue was freely suspended and advances were liberally given.

7. The following figures given by the Director compare the average estimated outturn of the principal crops for the entire province with that of the previous year, sixteen annas denoting a full average crop :—

	1894-95.	1895-96.
Cotton	9	14
Indigo	14	16
Rice	13	13
Maize	10	14
Juár	7	13
Bájra	7	13
Small millets	8	14
Autumn pulses	7	11
Til	7	11
Wheat	9	11
Barley	11	11
Gram and peas	11	11
Arhar	12	14
Linseed	9	9
Rapeseed	9	12
Sugarcane	13	14
Poppy	10	12

In the case of almost every staple the outturn was better than that of the previous year.

8. The following summary of the character of the rains of 1896 and the prospects of the current year is taken from the half-yearly agricultural report of the Director of Land Records and Agriculture :—

"The autumn rains of 1895 were unequal and ill-distributed, and ended unusually early in September. The rains of 1896 were still more irregular and scanty and ceased earlier than those of the preceding year. Throughout the first three weeks of June the meteorological conditions were uncertain and the falls of rain irregular both in distribution and quantity. In the last week a general fall took place, owing to which the month's rainfall was generally in excess of the normal, except in parts of Oudh and of the eastern districts of the North-Western Provinces. In July the Meerut division received about the normal amount of rain, but elsewhere it was deficient. In the next month the falls were slightly excessive in the Himalayan and sub-Himalayan districts; normal in the Gorakhpur division; and very scanty in the Agra and Allahabad divisions. The other divisions showed a slight variation from the normal. The rainfall except in restricted areas was, however, just enough for agricultural operations until about the end of August, when it suddenly came to an end. The months of September and October were practically rainless: scattered showers fell in most districts, but were so light as to be quite insufficient for the requirements of the crops. The rain therefore ceased just at the time when it was most needed to bring the growing crops to maturity; and the little moisture that was left in the soil was lost owing to the dry westerly winds which then set in and which continued almost throughout the whole of September. The seasonal deficiency of rainfall was most marked in the divisions of Agra, Allahabad, Gorakhpur and Lucknow. The most fortunate divisions were Meerut and Rohilkhand.

"Compared with the area of 1895 the kharíf area of 1896 shows a small decrease of 1,10,079 acres. This decrease, it may be remarked, took place in the area sown, which, owing to the utter destruction of crops in places, differed materially from that harvested. Owing to the favorable character of the season at its commencement, a larger area than usual was sown, chiefly with maize and juar, in the Meerut division and in Bundelkhand; and to a smaller extent in the Agra and Rohilkhand divisions except Mainpuri, Etáwah and Pilibhít, where some decrease took place. Some increase also occurred in the kharíf area of Cawnpore, Allahabad, Benares, Ballia, Naini Tal, Sitapur, Kheri and Partábgarh. In the rest of the province, especially in the divisions of Benares and Gorakhpur where the rainfall of the earlier months of June and July was not sufficient, a large contraction in the acreage under kharíf took place owing entirely to diminished cultivation of rice. The rains of June and July proved very scanty for rice, especially in tracts where it is extensively grown; and the early cessation of the monsoons interrupted the sowing of the autumn pulses: a decrease consequently occurred in the area of these two crops. The decrease under rice amounts to 1,474,559 acres or 22 per cent. and has extended to every part of the province though it is greatest in the Benares and Gorakhpur divisions. The falling off in the acreage under autumn pulses occurred mostly in the Lucknow division. The area of sugarcane which rose in 1895 to the extent of 1,43,605 acres declined in 1896 by 1,69,836 acres, of which the Agra and Rohilkhand divisions taken together contributed about 75,000 acres, and the Allahabad and Benares divisions 35,000 acres. For the sowing of maize and juar the light rains proved very favourable, and they were accordingly sown on a much larger area than in 1895. The extended sowing of bajra, arhar and til is also due to the favourable character of the earlier part of the season. The high prices realized in the preceding year from indigo and cotton led to an extension in the cultivation of these crops. A substantial increase is also noticeable in the area of small millets and juar-fodder; the increase under the latter being doubtless due to the fact that the crop which dried up for want of rain was given to cattle as fodder.

"Except in parts of Oudh and of the eastern districts of the North-Western Provinces, the season as already described was generally favourable up to the end of August for all kharif crops, save for rice which required more rain. Agricultural operations were properly carried out and there was every hope of a bumper kharíf crop, but the premature cessation of the monsoon entirely altered the prospects of the season. Except in lowlying parts, the unirrigated crops either dried up altogether or gave a very meagre outturn. The yield of irrigated crops was, however, fair. The small millets were fairly satisfactory and varied from 6 to 13 annas; the average for the province being 9 annas. Maize was almost everywhere the best of all food crops, and in lowlying tracts the crop was very heavy. In eleven districts it was more than a twelve-anna crop. Elsewhere it varied from 6 to 12 annas. Early rice was in places successful, but late rice was an almost total failure; the outturn of rice varying from one anna to five annas in no less than twenty-five districts. In a normal year rice occupies fully one-third of the total kharíf area of the province; and the loss from this single crop was therefore very serious. The early cessation of the rains also seriously curtailed the produce of juar and bajra, which on an average yielded a 7-anna crop each. The autumn pulses were still worse, the average outturn being 6 annas. The yield of cotton was a little better than that of most kharíf crops; and the indigo crop was distinctly good. On the whole the outturn of kharíf crops in the Meerut division was satisfactory; and the canal-irrigated parts of the Agra division and the submontane districts of Rohilkhand and Oudh gave a yield which, though not satisfactory, was still tolerable. In the rest of the plains the outturn was bad, the loss being greatest in those parts which depend mainly on rice. In the Himalayan districts the staple crops, viz: rice, mandua and maize, did fairly well.

The following table shows the condition of the principal crops for the present and past three years on the average of the figures furnished by district officers:—

Crops.	Condition in number of annas, 16 annas denoting a full average crop.
Rice	14	13	13	5
Maize	12	10	14	10
Juar	11	7	13	7
Bajra	11	7	13	7
Mandua, kodon and other small millets ...	10	8	14	9
Urd, mung and moth	11	7	11	6
Cotton	10	9	14	9
Til	11	7	11	8
Indigo	16	14	16	13

"The loss from the kharíf crops, which followed a succession of inferior harvests of recent years, was so great as to cause extensive and serious distress, which has necessitated measures of relief in the greater part of the province. Some of the district officers have noticed in their half-yearly reports the hopeful prospects of the present rabi as they stood at the end of December last. Since these reports were drawn up the situation has considerably improved by the timely falls of winter rain; and from almost all quarters an unusually good account of the crops is received. If therefore the season continues favourable for a short time more, the crops will be above the average and their enhanced yield will materially make up for the deficiency in the area which has been sown and reduce the pressure caused by the prevailing scarcity."

SEC. II—HAIL-STORMS AND FLOODS

9. The province was visited by several hailstorms of varying, but in no case of remarkable severity. In the districts of Saháranpur, Bulandshahr and Aligarh remissions and suspensions of revenue had to be sanctioned on account of the injury done to the crops by hail.

10. As was to be expected in a dry year, floods caused little damage. In the Meerut district, however, where the annual rainfall was the heaviest ever recorded, the rivers were in high flood, but the volume of water drained away without doing much damage. In Aligarh certain villages on the lowlying land on the Jumna suffered severely from inundation, and proposals for the remission and suspension of revenue in tracts affected have been received.

Locusts appeared in several districts, but the injury caused by them to the crops was inconsiderable. In several villages of the Allahabad district some damage was done by fire.

SEC. III—HEALTH

11. The year on the whole was an unhealthy one, and in the Meerut, Agra, Rohilkhand and Kumaun divisions, and in most of the Bundelkhand districts of the Allahabad division, the mortality was higher than in the preceding year. In the two eastern divisions, in Oudh, and in the rest of the Allahabad division the public health however was fairly good. Cholera was more prevalent than in the previous year, its ravages being most severe in the Rohilkhand, Benares, Gorakhpur and Fyzabad divisions. In Basti alone it accounted for 10,460 deaths. The mortality from small-pox in the year under report was also heavy. In part of the Jaunsár-Báwar tract of Dehra Dún there was an outbreak of the fever known there as "lochhara." "This disease," the Superintendent of the Dún writes, "is characterized by very high temperature, and bleeding at the mouth and nose. A large proportion of attacks terminate fatally in ten or twelve days. The disease is highly contagious, and appears to be a form of typhus known in Kumaun as 'sanjar.' It makes its appearance at the end of the rains." The Assistant Superintendent of Chakrata, who reported its existence in the pargana under his charge, considered that it was primarily due to the scarcity which prevailed at the time. Mr. Giles does not consider it a famine fever. He states that it is confined to particular localities and does not select the poorer classes in especial for its victims. In this opinion the Sanitary Commissioner, to whom the matter was referred by the Board, agrees. He does not regard poverty and want as causes of this disease, though, no doubt, they predispose to it, but holds it to be essentially a disease originating in filth and overcrowding. In Almora also there were a few cases of typhus fever.

12. Malarial fever was as usual of all diseases responsible for the greatest mortality. In the Meerut division, where heavy rains in the earlier months were followed by a long and unhealthy break, and in Bundelkhand, where the scarcity of food and the use of coarse grains by the poorer classes seem to have rendered them readily susceptible to disease, it was especially fatal. In accordance with the orders of Government, the experiment of selling quinine in five-grain packets at one pice each through postmasters and other officials was introduced in the Meerut division and the Pilibhít and Naini Tal districts. It was also tried in the Budaun, Moradabad and Sháhjahánpur districts. The results so far have not been encouraging, but it will take time for the people to familiarise themselves with the advantages of this system of supply. In only two districts were over 1,000 packets sold. In Muzaffarnagar the Collector apparently did not call for reports from the postmasters and vaccinators of the sales made by them. In Moradabad over 5,000 and in Budaun over 3,000 packages were sold: but in the former district the demand was not a retail one, as some large land-holders purchased quinine for distribution. The Deputy Commissioner of Naini Tal suggests that packages containing from 3 to 15 doses should be made up for sale: but if purchasers are not inclined to buy sufficient quantities at a time of the present packages of one dose, they are not likely to buy quinine in larger quantities even in single packets.

IV.—CATTLE DISEASE.

13. There were the usual forms of disease among cattle during the year, but in the provinces generally the mortality was less than in 1894-95. In the Meerut and Rohilkhand divisions there was not much cattle disease, except in Aligarh, nor were the losses especially great in the Agra division, except in Farukhabad. In the Allahabad division the condition of the cattle was better than in the preceding year, except in Bánda, Allahabad and Jhánsi, where the mortality from rinderpest especially was excessive. In the Benares division, except in Ballia, disease was severe. In Benares, Jaunpur and Mirzapur the mortality from rinderpest and foot-and-mouth disease was exceptionally great. In Gházipur, where there was a virulent epidemic of foot-and-mouth disease, the Collector is inclined to attribute the mortality to overwork and to poisoning from the nitrate of potash in the juar stalks, which is the general fodder. There was a severe outbreak of surra among the tonga ponies on the Naini Tal road from Káthgodám which caused the loss of over 70 ponies. In the Lucknow division the mortality was greatest in Rae Bareli, where over 7,000 animals are reported to have succumbed to rinderpest and foot-and-mouth disease. In the Fyzabad division, Sultánpur and Bara Banki suffered most.

. V.—PRICES.
ndix. E.—I.

14. Owing to deficient harvests, prices were exceptionally high in all districts. In January 1896 they ranged considerably higher than they did a year before, except in the case of rice, the rate for which remained fairly normal; but the failure of the winter rains accelerated the upward movement to such an extent that towards the close of the year the rates for all food-grains had reached a level which had in previous years been reached only in time of famine. The coarser grains sold for little less than the better sorts. The harvests in the Panjáb were also poor and the large importations from that province which had tended to keep down prices in the two previous years did not take place. Those who had stocks held them up in anticipation of the failure of the ensuing harvest which the abnormal dryness of the season appeared to render more than probable; and, though export trade assisted in some measure to tighten the markets, this seems to have been the most potent cause of the exceptional rise in prices which occurred during the latter half of 1896. Several officers notice the fact of the agricultural and labouring classes suffering less from the high prices of food-grains than might have been expected, as indicative of the improvement in their material condition of recent years.

Chapter II.—FINANCIAL.

15. The total receipts from the several sources of income treated of in this report amounted to Rs. 7,44,26,546, as against Rs. 7,29,04,641 in the previous year, showing a net increase of Rs. 15,21,905. The details are given in the following table:—

Total, Oudh ...	1,48,72,027	1,42,56,395	6,15,632	98·4	95·9
GRAND TOTAL ...	6,03,07,924	5,73,64,985	29,42,939	98·5	95·1

The aggregate demand for the United Provinces was Rs. 6,03,07,924 or Rs. 4,59,592 more than that of the previous year. The largest variations in the demand occurred in the following districts:—

Increase.	Rs.	Decrease.	Rs.
Dehra Dún	3,522	Cawnpore	8,461
Saháranpur	25,915	Hamírpur	13,560
Unao	62,957
Rae Bareli	52,143
Sultánpur	80,240
Partábgarh	1,62,774
Bara Banki	85,874

The increase in the demand is, in all districts in which it is important, mainly due to revision of assessment or to progressive jamas fixed at settlement. In Dehra Dún the increase in revenue is due to revision of short term settlements of grants; in the other districts named to the regular revision of settlement.

The decrease, in the two districts noted above in which it is important, is due mainly to reduction of revenue in overassessed villages.

In the remaining districts assessment of resumed revenue-free tenures and grove lands and the periodic reassessment of alluvial lands led to variations of small importance in the aggregate. In Rohilkhand the alluvial assessments implied a loss to Government in all districts except Moradabad. The deterioration of maháls so assessed was considerable in Bareilly.

The collections amounted to Rs. 5,73,64,985 or 95·1 per cent. compared with Rs. 5,89,26,331 or 98·5 per cent. in the previous year. The demand in all divisions includes nominal items, and the following table shows the percentage of collections after eliminating those items :—

GRAND TOTAL ...	98·64	95·35

The total balance on the 30th September 1896 is classified as follows :—

	Rs.
(1) Recoverable	23,34,646
(2) Doubtful	4,03,448
(3) Irrecoverable	63,455
(4) Nominal	1,41,390

18. Taking the less important items first, the doubtful balance is unusually large. The Allahabad Division alone accounts for Rs. 3,84,197 out of Rs. 4,03,448 classed under this head. The amount is due chiefly from the districts of Bánda and Hamírpur which have suffered severely from the unfavorable seasons of the past year. Particulars of the doubtful balance in Bánda were reported to Government and the sum of Rs. 2,12,647 was subsequently remitted by G. O. No. $\frac{61}{I-443B.}$, dated 6th January 1897. The sum of Rs. 1,50,000 shown against Hamírpur represents a portion of the amount suspended by G. O. No. $\frac{3576}{I-443B}$, dated 30th September 1896, on a consideration of the circumstances of the various landlords as well as of the extent to which their crops had suffered from drought. From experience recently gained the Collector considers that it will be necessary to convert the greater part of the suspensions sanctioned for the year 1895-96 into remissions. The balance of Rs. 5,813 in Aligarh is due from deteriorated villages of the Jamna khadir. The Board have ordered a local inspection of this tract where there has been diminution of cultivation, with a view to ascertaining whether a reduction of revenue is warranted.

The balance in Cawnpore includes Rs. 13,613 suspended in anticipation of reduction of revenue in deteriorated villages. A systematic enquiry was ordered by Government into the state of the parganas on the Jamna and the result was reported in the Board's No. $\frac{3170N.}{III-476}$, dated 26th October 1896. The reductions proposed were sanctioned in G. O. No. $\frac{4302}{I-18B-1}$, dated 21st November 1896. This sum will now be dealt with in accordance with those orders. Postponements to the extent of Rs. 7,937 were also made in Cawnpore, and recovery of this sum is believed to be doubtful owing to the failure of the rains. The doubtful balance of Rs. 12,578 in Budaun was proposed for remission, but under the orders conveyed in G. O. No. $\frac{4504}{I-38B-12}$, dated 3rd December 1896, the Collector has revised his proposals in accordance with the principles laid down in Circular 8—III, Board's Extant Circulars, and in letter No. $\frac{264}{III-684}$, dated 4th March 1897, the Board have supported the Collector's proposal to remit only Rs. 6,058-12-0 and to suspend Rs. 6,790-15-0.

Of the total doubtful amount of Rs. 4,03,448, Rs. 2,26,260 have, by orders of Government received after the close of the year, been already pronounced irrecoverable.

The Jalaun district is chiefly responsible for the balance shown as irrecoverable. A remission of Rs. 61,398, on account of the early cessation of the rains of 1895 in this district, was sanctioned by G. O. No. $\frac{4716}{I-44B.}$, dated 17th December 1896, but Rs. 315 were recovered before the orders of Government were received. The irrecoverable balance in the other districts chiefly represents remissions on account of injury caused to the crops by hail.

The nominal items include the following:—

	Rs.
Remissions of revenue on account of diluvion	66,539
Ditto due to reduction at regular settlement	36,738

The reductions of revenue at the regular settlement were granted principally in the districts of Partábgarh and Bara Banki.

19. The recoverable balance in 1894-95 was Rs. 6,14,991. That for the year under report was Rs. 23,34,646, of which Rs. 1,31,415 were realized after the close of the year. Details of the balance still outstanding are given below:—

	Rs.
Suspensions due to failure of crops	4,75,239
Due from estates under the Court of Wards	83,377
Due from estates under direct management, attachment and sale	73,902
Due from defaulters residing in other districts	20,595
Under recovery	15,50,088

An examination of the details in Appendix I shows that the whole of the realizable demand was collected only in the districts of Muttra, Agra, Ballia, Fyzabad and Bahráich. The importance of the sums shown as arrears calls for a more detailed examination of district figures than is in general considered necessary. A general opinion on the subject can be more confidently given after this detailed enquiry.

The Saháranpur district accounts for the largest balance in the Meerut Division. The Collector remarks that the sum of Rs. 53,617 contains to the best of his belief not a single item which it would have been possible to collect during the year. The state of the collections in this district attracted the Board's attention in July, and the Commissioner's attention was drawn to the matter. Mr Neale, in his review of the year's administration, does not agree in the opinion expressed by the Collector, as there was no agricultural depression worth the name, and he considers that, with firmness and a fair apprehension of the general condition of the district on the Collector's part, the arrears should have been very slight. Before expressing a definite opinion in the matter, the Board will await the further report promised by the Collector. The whole of the balance in Muzaffarnagar will probably have to be remitted,

The collections in the Agra Division were the best in the provinces. The Agra district again succeeded in collecting its demand in full. The Collector ascribes this to the prosperity of the agricultural body who in 1895-96 not only obtained bumper cotton and mustard crops, but had been enriched by the favorable harvests of several preceding years. The balance of the demand in this division is due chiefly from the districts of Farukhabad and Mainpuri. In the former district only Rs. 2,248 of the balance is realizable. About half this amount is due from proprietors living in the Hardoi district and consequently affected by the intense depression in that district. Four-fifths of the balance in Mainpuri is due from the well known Chaudhri of Bishengarh. To facilitate the recovery of arrears from this notorious defaulter, it has been the practice to propose the sale of his property for the arrears a month after default. He, however, invariably manages to pay up the arrears on the date fixed for sale, thus securing, as a period of grace, the time occupied in obtaining sanction and in the issue of proclamation. In future the process of annulment of settlement will be employed. The Board endorse the Commissioner's remarks that the revenue administration of this division has been effective. "The collection of the revenue is no doubt facilitated," Mr. Rose remarks, "by the grant of relief in past years where such relief was necessary. I refer more specially to the revisions of settlement which have been made from time to time in the continuous tracts and isolated villages, the assets of which had been much reduced by the supersaturation of the soil."

Next to Allahabad the largest balances occur in the Rohilkhand Division, where they amount to Rs. 5,52,996. In this sum is included Rs. 1,09,696 postponed in the three following districts:—

	Rs.
Bijnor	79,226
Moradabad	14,965
Pilibhít	15,505

besides suspensions to the extent of Rs. 34,885 sanctioned in Pilibhít. The Collector has since proposed that this sum should be remitted, but the Board have deferred recommending the proposal till more accurate information regarding the rabi outturn is available. Notwithstanding the injury to the rice crop and the gloomy prospects of the rabi in Bareilly, the Collector thinks that the collections might have been better in the Baheri Tahsíl. In Budaun it is explained that, "directly the crops began to suffer, no more revenue was paid in, and in most cases it was not considered advisable to press for it." Sháhjahánpur again shows the largest balance in this division, a result which is ascribed to the bad harvests for the past two years. The Pawayan tahsíl, in which three-fourths of the balance is due, contains large bhur tracts which have suffered alternately from an excess and insufficiency of rain. Rs. 36,552 alone of the balance is due from a single individual—Raja Fateh Singh—whose estate is highly assessed and who is consequently entitled to consideration. This matter is still under inquiry and the result will be reported to the Board.

Large as the balance in Rohilkhand is, the Board doubts whether it can, in the circumstances, be pronounced excessive. Each district has contributed to it and on the whole in the proportions in which it might have been expected to do so. That arrears so large remained outstanding is not therefore due to the idiosyncrasies of individual officers. The cause is to be found in the succession of unfavourable seasons.

As might have been expected, nearly half the total recoverable balance in the provinces is due from districts in the Allahabad Division. The Bundelkhand districts have suffered most severely and the relief these districts have so far received on account of the past year is given below:—

	Remission. Rs.	Suspension. Rs.	Postponement. Rs.
Bánda	2,12,647	52,144	...
Hamírpur	...	1,72,230	...
Jhánsi	...	99,596	...
Jalaun	61,083	2,32,530	2,256

No dates have been fixed for the recovery of the suspended amounts, but Collectors of the districts concerned have been asked to report when collections will be possible. The Collector of Jhánsi recently reported that he did not think that the amount suspended in his district will "ever be capable of realization." In paragraph 18 above it has been stated that the Collector of Hamírpur anticipates that a large part of the suspensions in his district will have to be converted into remissions. The balance will not in any case be capable of recovery in the current year. Reports will be awaited from the Collectors of Bánda and Jalaun.

Bánda shows the largest balance of any district in the United Provinces. The circumstances of this district are well known, and Mr. Ferard's report summarises the difficulties with which it has had to contend for a succession of years. To use the Collector's own words "the zamindárs and the tenants alike were impoverished by successive bad seasons; even at harvest there was quite insufficient employment for the very large body of low-class labourers which characterises the district, and they began to feel the stress of the times very severely indeed. Famine relief works were started in consequence and continued to the rains, and, but for them, the district mortality would have been much higher and the state of impoverishment even greater. As it is, there is no credit available in the district and excessive pressure for land revenue would be ineffectual. Most of the jewellery is probably already with thepawnbrokers and stock commands no price in the market."

The Collector of Fatehpur has collected Rs. 3,295 since the close of the year out of his recoverable balance of Rs. 52,947, but the Board consider it improbable that he will collect the remainder before the end of March as he expects to do.

The balance in Allahabad includes Rs. 53,769 which has been suspended. The Collector hoped to realize a large portion of the balance from the produce of the early rice crop, but this crop was almost completely lost owing to the early cessation of the rains and Mr. Fuller states that he had practically to stop all pressing for payment in September as the cultivators could pay nothing, and the zamindárs could only pay by borrowing at ruinous rates of interest.

The Board have no doubt that the revenue administration of this division will receive the Commissioner's attention. The difficulties to be contended with are well known and the badly affected districts will take years to recover from the disastrous seasons they have encountered, and will require considerable relief from the burden of arrears which now presses on them. A special officer has been deputed to inquire into the pressure of the settlements in Jalaun, Bánda and Hamírpur. During the present cold weather the inquiry will be confined to the first named district. As already stated in the Board's No. 1235N, dated 21st July 1896, it will extend to all villages in which there are grounds for suspecting overassessment instead of being limited as hitherto to those which are obviously breaking down and an attempt will, if it is considered practicable at the same time, be made to introduce on a fairly extensive scale the fluctuating system of assessment, rules regarding which were finally sanctioned in G. O. No. $\frac{2122}{1-80B.}$, dated 18th June 1896.

In the Benares Division the arrears are comparatively small. By far the largest part of the balance is due from the Benares district, Rs. 2,433 were collected just before the year closed, but it was too late to credit the amount to the year's accounts. The actual balance was therefore Rs. 16,014 which is due from 196 mahals. The existence of a considerable balance in a permanently settled district is probably mainly due to the late succession of bad harvests. The Collector, however, considers that some part of it is to be ascribed to "the disintegration of the old joint family system and the creation and development of the pattidari system..... Every year adds to the number of pattidars and makes the collection of the land revenue as complicated and difficult as possible." The major portion of the balance in Jaunpur is stated to have been collected before the close of the year.

Of the balance outstanding in the Gorakhpur Division, Rs. 22,084 or about one-third was collected soon after the close of the year. The Board are glad to have the assurance of the District Officers that consideration was shown in the collection of the revenue. In the Gorakhpur district the outturn of the crops was deficient and the early cessation of the September rains tended to increase the straitened circumstances of the people. In Basti a balance of Rs. 2,346 only remains to be collected. The realization of this sum depends on a successful rabi crop. The defaulters are badly off and coercive measures will not be adopted for the recovery of the amounts due. The balance outstanding in Azamgarh was double what it was in the previous year and the Collector reports that "the failure of the past kharíf has made it impossible to collect the year's demand within the year. As a matter of fact, since I have been in this district, the landlords have been almost universally paying a considerable part of their revenue out of the harvest in advance of that for which such revenue has fallen due. A notable instance of this was afforded by the indigo crop of the year under review, far the greater part of the income from which went to pay for the rabi kist of 1894-95. There is also I fear a considerable class of persons who pay their revenue entirely out of borrowed money, never attempting to do otherwise and spending their rents as they get them. The failure of the kharíf of 1304 fasli and the present gloomy prospects have caused the mahajans to tie their purse strings, and the indigo crop too has been far inferior to last year's yield."

The balance outstanding in the Naini Tal district is almost entirely due from the Kashipur pargana where it has been necessary to have recourse to coercive processes for the collection of the demand. The Deputy Commissioner represents one portion of this area as in a "chronic state of default." Postponements to the extent of Rs. 5,308 were sanctioned by the Deputy Commissioner. The whole of the balance outstanding was recovered shortly after the close of the year. A postponement of Rs. 10,537 was also authorized in Almora. Owing to the poor yield of the kharíf and the failure of the rabi crops, landlords were not pressed in this district. The balance in Garhwál is due in parganas in which scarcity prevailed during the year. If the spring harvest does not fail, the Deputy Commissioner hopes to be able to collect the balances before the close of the financial year.

The balance in the Lucknow Division is large compared with previous years, and is contributed chiefly by the districts of Sitapur, Hardoi and Kheri. Rs. 22,429 were collected in Sitapur after the close of the year and postponements of Rs. 23,909 were allowed. The Deputy Commissioner considers that the whole of the balance will have to be suspended. He states that "the causes which have led to such an abnormal balance are self-apparent. The harvests of three successive years have been very indifferent. For two years we have had excessive rain, while during the year under report it has been so much below the normal as to have caused severe distress and to render famine imminent." The Commissioner remarks:—"I hesitate to criticise an administration of which I know nothing. But, if Rae Bareli, where the enhanced revenue has come into effect, can pay its revenue in full, I should have expected Sitapur which is paying its old jama to have paid more than 85 per cent. of it." The Deputy Commissioner of Hardoi thinks that the greater part of the balance in his district will have to be eventually suspended or remitted. Of the balance in Kheri Rs. 45,130 or more than half are due from the Taluqdár of Oel whose estate has been taken under the Court of Wards, and the Deputy Commissioner hopes that the sum due will be paid as soon as its affairs are settled. The Rani of Bahadurnagar whose estate was attached has since the close of the year paid the arrears due from her amounting to Rs. 15,730. The remainder, viz., Rs. 23,745 is due from small zamindárs who, owing to the scanty outturn of their crops, were unable to pay.

The Partábgarh district accounts for the largest part of the balance in the Fyzabad Division. Against this balance must be set off Rs. 17,297 on account of reduction of revenue which has been allowed with retrospective effect and which will have to be refunded. Rs. 8,792 were recovered after the close of the year, so that the real balance on the 30th September last was Rs. 42,909 only. The general cause of the arrears is ascribed "to the new assessment which came into force this year and to the fact that the present kharíf on the earlier crops of which the late payers rely to clear up their arrears has been almost a complete failure." The Deputy Commissioner of Sultánpur says that it will be difficult to realize the arrears in his district, but that it is premature to make proposals for remission. The Board have since supported proposals for the remission of Rs. 5,268 c.f. No. $\frac{274}{\text{III. } 796}$, dated 8th March 1897. The balance in Gonda was nearly all recovered after the close of the year.

Such are the details of the largest balance of land revenue which has occurred in these provinces since 1877-78, a year in which famine prevailed over an extensive part of the province. The arrears are of course heaviest in those districts in which distress was prevalent during 1895-96, but they were considerable elsewhere and more than average in almost every division. It is clear from the account which has been already given of the harvests of the year that their inferiority does not entirely account for the excessive amount of the arrears. The inferiority of preceding harvests and the gloomy prospects for succeeding ones contributed also to the result, and to the standstill at which revenue collections have, in certain districts, arrived during the current year. Referring back to previous reports it will be seen that certain parts of the provinces have not had two good harvests during any one of the past five years. In 1891-92 the autumn crop, generally good, was poor in the Benares Division and Azamgarh; and cotton, the most paying of the Bundelkhand crops, a failure. The rabi, very fair in general, was poor in Azamgarh. In 1892-93 the Benares Division with Gorakhpur and Azamgarh again had a poor kharíf and in Azamgarh it was very poor. The rabi, generally good, suffered in Bundelkhand and the northern and eastern districts. In 1893-94 the kharíf in Allahabad and the Oudh Divisions was greatly injured by excessive rain. The rabi suffered from the same cause in the Benares and Gorakhpur Divisions, and in Bundelkhand the injury was serious. In 1894-95 the autumn harvest was everywhere injured and in the greater part of the province exceptionally poor. The rabi was inferior in a large number of districts. It was sown late, damaged by blight and rust, owing to cloudy weather and finally shrivelled by premature hot winds. In Bundelkhand the entire linseed harvest was lost. This succession of unfortunate seasons had, before the year 1895-96 commenced, exhausted the resources of the cultivators in a large part of the province, and rendered collection of revenue difficult throughout the year except in a few specially favoured western districts. The subsequent failure of a single harvest plunged the Bundelkhand districts into a famine and though the rest of the province was less severely affected during the year, the anticipation of still more serious failure in the harvests of the current year rendered full revenue collections both difficult and undesirable. In considering the prospect of recovery of these large arrears the still graver failure of the late kharíf and the accumulation of very much larger arrears during the current year will have to be taken into account. The amount of balance a mahál can bear without permanent injury is limited and there are many mahals in which this limit has been reached. There can be no doubt that in the Allahabad Division a sum equal at the least to the arrears of 1895-96 will have to be remitted.

App. A.—II. Outstanding balance of previous years.

20. The outstanding balance at the close of the year 1894-95 was Rs. 9,31,962. Rupees 113 have been added in Garhwál on account of the enhanced demand in Chandkot, and Rs. 394 in Bánda, an amount erroneously credited to land revenue in the previous year. The year thus opened with a balance of Rs. 9,32,469 compared with Rs. 2,37,837 in the previous year. Rupees 5,16,861 were collected and Rs. 3,05,865 were remitted within the year. Rupees 1,628 classed as nominal will be removed from the accounts during the current year. Deducting these sums and Rs. 675, realized since the close of the past year, the net balance shown for recovery amounts to Rs. 1,07,440. A large part of this sum is, however, in all probability not recoverable. The detailed analysis, given in Appendix E.—III, shows Rs. 8,186 to be doubtful, proposals for revision being for the most part under consideration, Rs. 13,534 to be due from mahâls under attachment, and only Rs. 85,720 to be otherwise in train of liquidation.

Well over two-thirds of the outstanding balance is due from the Allahabad Division. Considerable sums are also due in the Budaun, Shâhjahânpur, Sitapur, and Hardoi districts. Orders have been issued directing that the balances shown as outstanding in attached mahâls in Hamírpur be examined with a view to ascertaining whether remissions are not in equity due to the proprietors proportionate to those which have been granted to other distressed mahâls in the same districts. Proposals for the remission of balances due from certain attached mahâls in Budaun were submitted in the Board's No. $\frac{265}{III-793}$, dated 4th March 1897. With the large balance referred to in the preceding paragraphs of the report and the still larger balance anticipated during the current year pressing on the distressed districts of the province, it will be necessary to deal liberally with proposals regarding the arrears shown above which District Officers have, during a period of two years, found it impossible to collect.

Advance collections of land revenue on the roll.

21. The year opened with a balance of Rs. 98,739 and Rs. 9,19,406 were collected during the year under report. The total amount for adjustment was therefore Rs. 10,18,145, of which Rs. 9,15,886 were credited and Rs. 3,662 refunded, leaving a balance of Rs. 98,597 for future adjustment.

App. A.—III.
Demand, collections and balances of land revenue not on the roll.

22. The demand under this head fluctuates from year to year. Details are given in Appendix E.—IV. Including a recoverable balance from the previous year it amounted to Rupees 1,01,805. Of this Rs. 21,506 are on account of the enhanced land revenue assessed at the regular settlement of parts of the Garhwâl, Partábgarh and Bara Banki districts. Rs. 45,088 are the increase in jamas assessed on alluvial mahâls, and Rs. 20,173 the assessments on resumed muafis. The collections during the year amounted to Rs. 62,094, Rs. 807 were realized after its close and Rs. 211 are nominal. The actual balance was therefore Rs. 38,693. The greater part of the recoverable arrear belongs to the Jhánsi, Garhwâl, Hardoi and Partábgarh districts. In Jhánsi the collection of Rs. 13,967 was suspended under the orders of Government, while the balance in Garhwâl is reported to be due chiefly from the southern parganas which were affected by scarcity. Poor harvests are assigned as a cause for the outstanding balance of Rs. 4,137 in Hardoi. The balance in Partábgarh is under recovery.

SEC. III.—ALTERATIONS IN THE DEMAND FOR LAND REVENUE ON THE ROLL.
App. A.—IV.

23. The demand for land revenue on the roll has risen from Rs. 6,03,07,924 at the commencement of the year under report to Rs. 6,08,91,991, a net increase of Rs. 5,84,067. The chief cause of increase is the enhancement of land revenue at the regular revision of settlement of the Garhwâl, Lucknow, Rae Bareli, Sitapur, Hardoi, Sultánpur, Partábgarh and Bara Banki districts. Increase from progressive jamas was important in Muzaffarnagar. Under the orders conveyed in G.O. No. $\frac{4343}{I-451B.}$, dated 25th November 1896, the collection of the enhanced demand in the Oudh districts which came into effect from 1st October last has been suspended, while the reductions resulting from the settlement will be given effect to. The various alterations in the demand are detailed in Appendix E.—VI. The only important increase from resumption of revenue-free tenures took place in the Jhánsi district in the Gursarai estate which was, for reasons connected with the claims of dependents of the ubaridár, assessed during the year to pay a full revenue. Alterations of the demand due to alluvion and diluvion attract attention owing to the comparatively large amount of diluvion in the western and alluvion in the eastern districts.

SEC. IV.—TWELVE PER CENT. LOCAL RATES, N.-W. P.

24. There are very slight variations in the demand for local rates in the temporarily settled districts, the figures for the past two years being Rs. 50,47,378 and 50,49,755. The collections during the year were Rs. 49,41,365, and the balance on the 30th September last was Rs. 1,08,390. Of this sum Rs. 7,277 were realized after the close of the year, Rs. 4,136 are doubtful and Rs 6,390 irrecoverable. The actual balance shown as recoverable is therefore Rs. 90,587. The largest sums outstanding are in the districts of Sháhjahánpur, Bánda, Allahabad and Garhwál. In the last named district no less than one-third of the total demand remained unrealized. The reasons for the existence of this large balance are those already given in connection with the land revenue balance.

Apps. A.—V. and A.—VI. Current demand and balances.

25. Deducting the remission of Rs. 7,763, the demand on account of outstanding balances amounted to Rs. 16,779, and the collections were Rs, 15,152. The real balance at the close of the year was Rs. 848, the remainder being either doubtful or irrecoverable. The doubtful balance of Rs. 697 belongs entirely to the Cawnpore district, and is due from villages in which a reduction of revenue has recently been sanctioned. The necessary adjustment will now be made.

App. A.—VII. Outstandings of previous years.

26. In accordance with Act V of 1894, and the rules framed under it, a consolidated rate has been imposed in Oudh with effect from the 1st April 1895, in place of the cesses previously collected under settlement engagements and the rate levied under Act IV of 1878. The current demand for the year was Rs. 10,92,089 against a total demand of Rs. 10,47,518 in the previous year. Of this sum Rs. 10,82,287 were collected during the year and Rs. 688 shortly after its close. Of the balance Rs. 2,646 are irrecoverable and will be removed from the accounts. The real balance is Rs. 6,468. Except Rs. 83 which is shown against Partábgarh, and which has already been realized, all of this balance is due from districts in the Lucknow Division. The inferiority of the harvests of the year account for the outstandings.

SEC. V.—CONSOLIDATED LOCAL RATE—OUDH.
App. A.—X. Current demand on the roll.

27. Omitting the nominal balance of Rs. 32, the demand not on the roll amounted to Rs 1,432. Including the sum of Rs. 70 recovered after the close of the year, the total collections amounted to Rs. 964 leaving a balance of Rs. 468 which is classed as recoverable.

App. A.—XI. Not on the roll.

28. The real arrears of the previous years were collected with the exception of Rs. 25 in Unao which is in train of liquidation and Rs. 7 in Hardoi which will be removed from the accounts as irrecoverable.

App. A.—XII. Outstanding of previous year.

29. The demand for acreage rate and other cesses in the permanently settled districts shows a slight increase, being Rs. 6,01,394 compared with Rs. 6,00,538 in the previous year. The increase is due chiefly to the revision of the acreage cess assessment in the Mirzapur and Gházipur districts. The collections amounted to Rs. 6,00,320, leaving a balance of Rs. 1,074, almost entirely nominal.

SEC. VI.—ACREAGE RATE AND OTHER CESSES.
Apps. A.—VIII-IX.

To the arrears at the close of the previous year have been added Rs. 10-14-3 in the Gházipur district on account of the assessment of one alluvial mahál and increments in others, raising the demand for outstanding balances to Rs. 1,145-11-9 of which Rs. 805-9-6 were remitted and the balance collected.

30. During the year 4,485 acres of land were appropriated, of which 4,088 acres were acquired permanently and 397 temporarily. The compensation paid under both heads amounted in all to Rs. 2,48,812 and revenue was reduced by Rs. 4,854 annually. The average rate of compensation per acre was Rs. 60-0-9 for permanent, and Rs. 8-6-1 for temporary acquisitions, rates varying little from those in the previous year of Rs. 64-3-5 and Rs. 8-8-7 respectively. The small area of 15 acres was acquired by Government without resort to the Land Acquisition Act.

SEC. VII.—ACQUISITION OF LAND.
App. A.—XIII.

Special officers were deputed for the acquisition of land for canal purposes in the Cawnpore and Fatehpur districts and for railway purposes in the Gorakhpur, Azamgarh, Ballia, Gonda, Bahraich and Partábgarh districts. Special arrangements were also made for the assessment of compensation for land taken up in the Family Domains of the Mahárája of Benares.

In 169 cases in which land was acquired compensation had not been paid up to the close of the year. This shows a satisfactory improvement on the previous year's work when there were 199 such cases. The oldest pending cases are in the following districts:—

Dehra Dún	... 5th July 1893.
Benares	... 13th March 1893.
Gorakhpur	... 25th July 1894.
Kheri	... 6th December 1894.

In the Dehra Dún case an appeal filed by the owners of the land is pending in the High Court. In Benares the case has been referred to the Civil Court for adjudication on the rights of the parties to receive the compensation awarded, the amount of which is not in dispute, and its decision is awaited. In the Gorakhpur and Kheri districts the cases have been disposed of since the close of the year.

Of the districts in which appropriation registers Nos. XIV and XV were reported to be incomplete last year, Lucknow, Rae Bareli and Bara Banki have completed them and those in Bareilly, Benares and Kheri are nearly ready.

SEC. VIII.—RESUMPTION OF REVENUE-FREE HOLDINGS.
App. A.—XIV.

31. During the year one hundred and seventy lapsed revenue-free tenures with an area of 108,306 acres were assessed to a revenue of Rs. 22,189. The number of cases that remained unsettled at the end of the year was 21. The resumptions were important in the Jhánsi district only where the ubári tenure of Gursarai was resumed under circumstances which have already been the subject of extensive correspondence with Government. The area of grove land brought under cultivation was 2,680 acres, and the revenue assessed thereon Rs. 6,129. The year closed with a pending file of 230 cases, and 19 cases though settled were not reported before the year closed.

SEC. IX.—MISCELLANEOUS LAND REVENUE.
App. A.—XV.

32. Including the recoverable balance of Rs. 38 outstanding at the close of the year 1894-95, the total demand was Rs. 76,438. Of this sum Rs. 75,244 were collected, leaving a balance of Rs. 1,194 in the course of realization. All but Rs. 97 of this balance is on account of water-mill rents in the Almora district which could not be recovered in full owing to failure of crops. The receipts from the Mirzapur stone quarries amounted to Rs. 58,154 as compared with Rs. 57,948 in the preceding year. The difference is small and requires no comment.

SEC. X.—CANAL OCCUPIERS' AND OWNERS' RATES.
App. A.—XVI.
Occupiers' rate, current demand.

33. The demand on account of occupiers' rate was Rs. 58,51,775 compared with Rs. 32,49,360 in the previous year or an increase of over 26 lakhs. Every district without exception, in which there was canal irrigation, contributes towards this increase. The demand in the previous year had been exceptionally low, but the scarcity of the winter rains in the year under report caused extensive resort to artificial irrigation, and the amount of the demand was generally higher than it has been for some years. The collections amounted to Rs. 57,77,696, Rs. 13,367 were remitted, and Rs. 8,976 were realized after the close of the year, leaving a recoverable balance of Rs. 51,736. Details of this balance are given in Appendix E—IX. The most noticeable item is the sum of Rs. 26,258 outstanding in Saháranpur which is attributed by the Collector partly to the impoverished condition of the people owing to agricultural depression, and partly to the fact that irrigation was resorted to in many cases too late to give any return for the expenditure. The Commissioner doubts the accuracy of this explanation, and the Board consider that without undue pressure more might have been collected. With regard to a similar explanation, furnished by the Collector of Mainpuri regarding the balance in that district, the Commissioner (Mr. Rose) remarks:—"It is precisely in a season of drought that those who possess the great privilege of canal water should be required to pay promptly for it. They constitute one of the few classes who distinctly and directly benefit by the failure of the ordinary rains. Their produce is now selling in the market at double and more than double its ordinary rates. To show leniency in the collection of the demand on account of the privilege which has placed them in this fortunate position is an injudicious and misdirected policy." With these remarks the Board thoroughly agree.

34. Rupees 3,385 were due at the commencement of the year on account of arrears of occupiers' rate. Of this Rs. 108 were remitted and Rs. 3,133 collected. Of the small balance outstanding, Rs. 83 will have to be written off as irrecoverable; and the remaining Rs. 61 is due from estates under attachment.

App. A.—XVII. Occupiers' rate, arrears of previous years.

35. With the increased demand on account of occupiers' rate, there was a corresponding rise in the demand for owners' rate from Rs. 1,52,726 in 1894-95 to Rs. 3,18,028. Of the real demand, Rs. 3,15,177 were collected within the year, and Rs. 496 shortly after its close, leaving a sum of Rs. 1,104 outstanding.

App. A.—XVIII. Owners' rate, current demand.

36. The real demand on account of previous years was collected in full with the exception of Rs. 14, due from one of the attached villages from which an arrear balance of occupiers' rate is also due.

App. A.—XIX. Owners' rate, arrears of previous years.

37. At the commencement of the year there were 392 State properties in the provinces with a land revenue demand of Rs. 1,34,514. During the year 18 estates, with a revenue of Rs. 1,669, were acquired; while 17, with a revenue of Rs. 71, were removed from the accounts. There were thus 393 estates, paying a revenue of Rs. 1,36,112, in the possession of Government at the close of the year. The most important of these are the special State properties of the Kumaun and Garhwál Bhábars and the Tarái in the Kumaun Division and the Dúdhi estate in the south of Mirzapur. The only other districts which contain properties with a rental demand of over Rs. 10,000 are Allahabad (where Government owns two large escheated estates), Bánda, Jhánsi, and Lucknow. The total current rental amounted to Rs. 7,44,751 against Rs. 7,53,002 in the preceding year. The decline is mainly due to the falling off to the extent of Rs. 9,000 in the rent-roll of the Kumaun-Bhábar estate owing to numerous relinquishments of holdings in preceding years. This matter has been fully dealt with in the report of this estate submitted separately to Government. Including arrears, the total demand was Rs. 7,81,005, of which Rs. 7,06,149, or 90·4 per cent., were collected—a satisfactory result in a year such as that under report. Of the balance (Rs. 74,856) Rs. 33,655 are doubtful and Rs. 2,962 irrecoverable, the Bánda district alone being responsible for Rs. 31,370 classed under the former head. After payment of land revenue and rates, the income was Rs. 5,38,781, of which Rs. 3,49,479 were spent on charges of establishment, contingencies, and improvements, leaving a net profit for Government of Rs. 1,89,302.

SEC. XI.—STATE PROPERTIES AND WASTE LANDS.
Apps. A.—XX and E-X.
App. E-X.

In the Bánda district only 28 per cent. of the demand could be collected. The Commissioner of Allahabad has asked the Collector to have the balances carefully tested on the spot and to submit a further report regarding them; but a considerable portion will probably have to be removed from the accounts as irrecoverable, as, in consequence of successive bad harvests and the existing distress, there is but a small chance of their being collected. The management of the large Holagarh and Khargapur estates in the Allahabad district was on the whole satisfactory. In Holagarh nearly 91 per cent. of the demand was collected, while in Khargapur, where the tenantry were less able to withstand the effects of successive bad seasons, the percentage of the collections to the demand was 78. The outstanding balances were also large in Jhánsi (Rs. 6,357), Mirzapur (Rs. 2,049), Naini Tal (Rs. 4,414), Garhwál (Rs.3,246), Lucknow (Rs. 2,203), Sitapur (Rs. 2,347), Hardoi (Rs. 2,059), and Kheri (Rs. 1,554). Adverse seasons are more or less accountable for these arrears everywhere, the silting up of fields by sand from the Gumti being an additional reason for short collections in Lucknow. The poor results in Sitapur are due to the failure of grantees for life of certain villages to pay up the Government demand. Since the close of the year, it was ascertained that in some cases these villages were held in proprietary tenure, and had been erroneously shown as State properties. The arrears in Naini Tal and Garhwál are comparatively insignificant, being only 1 and 11 per cent., respectively, of the demand; in Garhwál the collections include rents for 1894-95, which remained over for payment in the year under report. The apparently low collections in Cawnpore are accounted for by the estates having been under management only for a few months of the year.

The expenditure was as follows:—

	Rs.
Establishment	80,256
Contingencies	70,986
Improvements	1,98,237
Total ...	3,49,479

The bulk of this amount was as usual spent in the Tarái and Kumaun-Bhábar estates in the Naini Tal district. Excluding these estates the cost of establishment was only 7 per cent. of the receipts. The expenditure on improvements shows an increase of Rs. 25,483 over the figures of the preceding year, most of which is in the Kumaun estates. Full details of the works carried out during the year on these and on the Dúdhi estate are given in the separate reports submitted to Government. In Bánda the amount spent on improvements (Rs. 2,867) was more than double that of the preceding year, and Mr. Ferard has given considerable attention to this matter. In addition Rs. 3,091 were spent during the year on famine relief works, chiefly tanks, in or near distressed villages belonging to Government. In the Allahabad estates Rs. 4,174 were disbursed, partly in the construction of masonry wells and partly to meet the balance of the cost of the Ramgarh jhíl drain referred to in previous reports. Owing to drought little progress was made in the reclamation of úsar land. The planting of waste plots with babúl trees was, however, taken up. The tenants also were encouraged to improve their holdings. They built 13 masonry wells at their own expense, the estate supplying the wood; and planted a number of fruit trees on land given by the estates. In the Oudh State properties more might have been done in the way of improvements.

The appendix also gives details of the advances made to tenants. The outstanding balances in the Tarái estate have been somewhat reduced. They are heavy in Bánda, where, however, only Rs. 3,008 were advanced against Rs. 9,168 in the preceding year, and in Mirzapur, where Rs. 10,000 had to be distributed to the Dúdhi tenantry. The Board consider that more liberal advances might have been made with advantage in Allahabad and Jhánsi and in many of the Oudh districts.

App. A.—XX.

38. The total demand, including outstandings, for the price of confiscated, escheated, and waste lands was Rs. 51,985; but this, as mentioned in the previous year's report, includes a sum which is payable in instalments of Rs. 5,000 per annum. The demand actually recoverable within the year was Rs. 16,985, of which Rs. 16,654 were collected, leaving a balance of Rs. 331, which is in course of recovery.

SEC. XII.—PATWARI RATE. DIRECTOR'S Apps. V—VII.

39. Figures showing the demand, collections and balances of patwári rate are incorporated in the statements at the commencement of this chapter. Of the recoverable balance of the current demand (Rs. 33,788), Rs. 2,539 have been realized since the close of the year; Rs. 8,565 represent postponements and suspensions in villages, the crops of which have suffered, and the remainder, Rs. 22,684, is in course of recovery.

Of the balance of Rs. 511 outstanding at the close of the preceding year, Rs. 6 are nominal owing to the reduction of land revenue and Rs. 253 are due from villages the crops of which were damaged. The rest is being collected.

SECTION XIII. REVENUE DEPOSITS. App.—XXI.

40. Including the unadjusted items of the previous year, the total number of revenue deposits for adjustment was 39 of the value of Rs. 6,077. Of these, 20 items of the value of Rs. 3,415 were adjusted during the year, leaving 19, value Rs. 2,662, for future adjustment. The date of the oldest item in deposit is 21st December 1893, in Almora. The Deputy Commissioner states that steps are being taken for its adjustment.

SECTION XIV.—PAYMENT OF LAND REVENUE AND MISCELLANEOUS REVENUE BY MEANS OF MONEY-ORDERS.

Land revenue remittances.

41. The total number of money-orders increased from 1,54,699 in the previous year to 1,70,806, during the year under report, and the sums thus remitted rose from Rs. 33,45,331 to Rs. 36,54,412. The following table gives the statistics for the United Provinces:—

The districts of the Gorakhpur Division account for nearly half the number of remittances and nearly one-third of the total value. Oudh and Rohilkhand on the contrary send much less than the usual proportion.

The total figures for the provinces since the introduction of the system are given in the *margin. They show year after year, whether prosperous or the reverse, an increase slow but steady in the number and value of revenue money-orders sent, and of late years a tendency to decrease, slight but uniform, in the average value of the remittance. From the facts that the average remittance is only Rs. 21 and that it is the districts of small co-sharers who pay direct into the Treasury that chiefly employ this system, it is clear that as a rule revenue is remitted to the Treasury by money-order only in small sums, and by small men. That the system should extend implies no blot on the tahsil system of collections. Rather on the contrary the fact that its convenience has not commended it more largely and more rapidly to the general body of revenue payers is good enough evidence that the payment of revenue into the tahsíl is ordinarily accompanied by no important desagrêments.

Chapter III.—RENT LAW.

SEC. I.—SUITS AND APPLICATIONS.
Apps. B.—I, II, IIA, IIB, III, IIIA, B, C and D.

43. The year to which these returns relate was, like its predecessor, one of poor harvests, and the main characteristics of the litigation were similar to, though less marked than, those of the previous year. There was a further increase, though a small one, in suits for arrears of rent, and applications for the ejectment of tenants with rights of occupancy were made even more freely than in the preceding year. On the other hand, applications for the ejectment of tenants-at-will, the falling off in which was so pronounced a feature in 1894-95, continued to diminish. The number of suits in the North-Western Provinces increased by 2,782 or 2·53 per cent., whilst applications have decreased by 20,264 or 13·90 per cent. In Oudh the number of suits increased by 1,442 or 4·25 per cent. The figures for the past two years by districts are given below :—

Suits, North-Western Provinces.

A classified list of the suits instituted in the two years 1894-95 and 1895-96 is given below:—

45. The only increase of any importance is in suits for arrears of rent, which is to some extent counterbalanced by a falling off in suits connected with distraint and by lambardars for arrears of revenue. As compared with the previous year, the variations in the several divisions in the number of arrear suits are as follows:—

Division.	Increase.	Decrease.
Meerut	...	782
Agra	...	190
Rohilkhand	1,019	...
Allahabad	1,855	...
Benares	...	219
Gorakhpur	1,409	...
Total ...	3,092	...

From these figures it is difficult to draw any definite conclusions. An analysis of the district returns shows that only in the Allahabad and Gorakhpur divisions was the divisional tendency shared generally by the districts of it. In other divisions some of the districts exhibit an increase in suits for arrears, and others a decrease. Taken broadly, the decrease in the Meerut and Agra divisions may be due to the comparatively good harvests they enjoyed in 1894-95, while the continued bad seasons in the Rohilkhand and Allahabad divisions account for the further marked increase in suits for arrears. In the Benares division there was practically no variation, and in the Gorakhpur division suits have considerably increased after steadily diminishing for the preceding three years. The district variations are for the most part unimportant, and do not require detailed examination. The increase in Budaun in suits for arrears have been very marked for the past few years, and, though the point is not noticed by the local officers, it may possibly be due to the revision of settlement in progress. Except in Jhánsi, where the total number of suits is few, landlords resorted freely to the courts in the Allahabad division, probably more in order to register their demands against their tenants than with a view to their early collection. In Benares there was unusual activity in the preceding year on the part of the Mahárája in instituting suits for arrears, and the present decline in such suits reflects, in the Collector's opinion, the introduction of a better system of management. The number of suits for arrears has been steadily increasing in Jaunpur for some years back, and the present returns exhibit a further rise of nearly 15 per cent. The Collector attributes the increase to the fact that the harvests of the year under report were better than they had been in the two preceding years, and that the landlords took the opportunity of suing to recover some of the arrears due to them. The Commissioner, however, takes a wider view of the situation. "In Jaunpur," he writes, "the excessive number of rent suits and of distraint cases, and, in general, of all disputes between landlord and tenant, compared with the other districts of the division, is a sign of the bad economic condition of that district. It is not, I am afraid, a coincidence merely that the district which exhibits this state of things is the one which has broken down most completely under the stress of the present scarcity, and is found to possess within itself the fewest resources against a bad season and a partial failure of crops." In Gorakhpur and Basti, where rent suits had for some years been falling off, there has been a reaction in the past two years. Suits for arrears in Azamgarh, though they rose by as much as 32 per cent., have done little more than regain the figure they stood at in 1891-92.

The most noticeable feature in suits other than those for arrears of rent is the falling off in suits connected with distraint, more especially in the Agra division where every district shows fewer such cases.

Disposal of suits.

46. The following table shows how the suits decided were disposed of :—

Without trial	10,504
Compromised	7,036
Decreed on confession	19,872
Do. ex-parte	45,915
Dismissed do.	5,773
Decreed after reference to arbitration	196
Dismissed ditto ditto	42
Decreed after contest	20,266
Dismissed ditto ... ... — ...	4,207
Total ...	113,811

There were altogether 118,219 suits for disposal, out of which 10,504 were disposed of without trial against 11,306 in the previous year; 78,596 against 72,717 last year were decided without contest; while 24,473 were contested as compared with 24,349 in 1894-95. Ex-parte decisions rose from 47,444 to 51,688 and formed an increasingly large proportion of the total number of decisions, 45 per cent as against 44 in the preceding year. It is satisfactory to notice that, although the number of suits for disposal was larger, only 4,408 cases were pending at the close of the year against 5,586 in the previous year. In the Allahabad division, despite increased institutions and the extra work thrown on the staff by the prevalence of scarcity, suits were disposed of with commendable promptitude. Only 481 remained pending at the close of the year, and none longer than three months. In this division, however, suits decided without contest are proportionately more numerous than elsewhere, more especially those decreed on confession, which formed nearly a third part of the total number.

47. The following table shows the percentage of contested and uncontested cases in each division. The Allahabad and Meerut divisions still head the list in the matter of a high proportion of uncontested cases, while in the Gorakhpur division, though the percentage of such cases has risen, it is still lower than elsewhere :—

Division.	Total for disposal.		Total decided.		Without contest.		With contest.		Percentage to total disposed of— Without contest,		With contest.		Pending at the close of		Average duration. Without contest.				With contest.

The total number of cases decided rose from 108,585 to 113,811, and in spite of more institutions the pending file in every division has been reduced.

Of the cases pending, 122 had been on the file for more than three months. The divisional figures are given in the margin. The Aligarh and Gorakhpur districts are accountable for 31 and 35 cases respectively pending over three months. For this, press of criminal work is given as the reason.

The duration of suits has again fallen in both contested and uncontested cases, the figures being—

	1894-95 M. d.	1895-96. M. d.
Contested	1 12	1 11
Uncontested	0 24	0 23

In only two districts did the average duration in contested cases exceed two months. The figures for the past two years in these districts were as follows:—

	1894-95. M. d.	1895-96. M. d.
Benares	2 3	2 4

The delay in the disposal of cases in Benares was noticed in last year's report. The Collector mentioned among other causes habitually unmethodical practices on the part of presiding officers of courts and chronic failure to insist on strict procedure and punctual attendance. The Board look to the Collector to put a stop to this unsatisfactory condition of things.

The amount of rent remitted through the post-office exhibits an increase in the North-Western Provinces, which is more than balanced by a falling off in Oudh. More money was sent in this way in the up-country divisions of Meerut, Agra and Kumaun, and in the Allahabad division, but less in all the other divisions. The increase in the Allahabad division was mainly in the Allahabad and Cawnpore districts. The more pronounced local variations may be briefly referred to. The continued decrease in Saháranpur can hardly be ascribed to the causes mentioned last year. As the Commissioner observes, hard times do not make the relations between landlord and tenant easier. In Bulandshahr remittances have largely increased, though they are still below the amount of three years back. The Collector has received statistics for each village from the post-office, and will now be in a position to localize the variations. The continued decline in Gorakhpur is attributed by the Commissioner to there being less friction between landlords and tenants owing to competition for land being less keen, and to settlement having receded a year further back. The Deputy Commissioner of Partábgarh reports that settlement operations have left the amount of rent to be paid so certain and titles so clearly defined, that resort to the money order system has been less frequent.

Printed receipts for rent.

49. Some progress was made in the introduction of printed receipts, but in many districts sales of receipt forms fell off owing to the poor rental collections of the year.

North-Western Provinces Rent Act applications.

50. The number of applications under section 95 of the North-Western Provinces Rent Act filed in each year since the Act was passed is given below. The decrease, which commenced in the preceding year, continued, and the figures fell to the level they had reached ten years ago.

* 53,955 applications were erroneously shown last year.

The total decrease amounted to 20,264 or 13·90 per cent., following a large decrease of 17·91 per cent. in 1894-95. The statistics of the year present the same features as those of its predecessor: a continued and marked falling off in applications connected with the ejectment of tenants at-will and in enhancement of rent cases, along with a more frequent resort to the courts to obtain the ejectment of tenants with rights. Owing to the difficulty landholders found in retaining tenants, applications to declare notices of relinquishments invalid were three times as numerous as they were two years before. The following table gives the divisional figures of applications for the past five years:—

For the past two years the decrease has been general in every division. In the Rohilkhand and Allahabad divisions, where the falling off has been most marked, it has been as much as 40 per cent. in these two years. In contrast with its neighbours, the rise in Bánda is noticeable, but it is due to a special cause—the increased number of cases filed to declare notices of relinquishment invalid.

51. Applications under Classes III, VI, XVIII, XIX, XX and XXI formed, as usual, the bulk of the litigation under section 95 of the Act, and the percentages contributed by them to the total number of applications are noted in the margin.

	Per cent.
Class III.—Determination of the value of crops ...	2·12
Class VI.—Enhancement of rent	3·66
Class XVIII.—Applications under section 35	19·84
Class XIX.—Applications under section 36	35·69
Class XX.—Applications under section 39	9·65
Class XXI.—Applications under section 40	24·36
Total ...	95·32

Class III.—Cases of this kind continue to diminish. Of the total decrease of 671 cases, the Rohilkhand division, where the fall in ejectment cases was very marked, accounts for as many as 494. As the Collector of Aligarh remarks:—"The number of applications under section 42 of the Rent Act depends entirely on the dates on which ejectment cases under section 39 are disposed of. Where the number of contested ejectment cases is small, and such cases can be decided before the kharíf sowings begin, applications under section 42 are unnecessary. Where, however, the file of section 39 cases is heavy, it is impossible to dispose of them until after the commencement of the next agricultural year. In such cases crops are generally standing on the land when ejectment takes place, and the landlord, if he desires to obtain immediate possession of the land or to recover rent for the period for which the tenant has occupied the land until he harvests the crops, must make a further application under section 42. Cases under section 42 are the most unsatisfactory of all to decide; and it is to be hoped that the proposed amendment of the law, altering the time within which notice of ejectment must be served, will be carried out soon."

1892-93	9,668
1893-94	7,068

The decline of 1,349 in the year under report occurred chiefly in Muzaffarnagar (210), Agra (274), Bareilly (153), and Moradabad (324); the lapse of another year from settlement accounted for the continued decrease in Muzaffarnagar. That in Agra is due to a special reason, fewer cases being instituted by the Kotila Estate. Where harvests are bad and rents paid with difficulty, such cases tend to diminish, and the diminution in Bareilly and Moradabad may be attributed to this cause of general operation. The large proportion which the number of applications for enhancement filed in the Meerut division, especially in Bulandshahr, bears to the total for the provinces, is again noticeable.

52. Class XVIII.—Applications of this class remained practically stationary in the Meerut and Benares divisions; but elsewhere landlords resorted with increasing frequency to the courts to secure the ejectment of their tenants with rights, against whom they had in the preceding year or in the year under report secured decrees. The increase in such applications was greatest in Budaun (541), Allahabad (626) and Jaunpur (478). In Budaun landlords were desirous of having their tenants with rights of occupancy ejected before the commencement of settlement operations, and this cause operated in Meerut also to increase applications under section 35 of the Rent Act. In the Allahabad district the conditions of the past year offered a favourable opportunity to the landlords to oust tenants whom they wished to get rid off, and they seem to have freely availed themselves of it. In Jaunpur the explanation of the large increase may perhaps be found in the strained relations between landlord and tenant referred to before. Of the districts of greatest decrease, in Bijnor and Sháhjahánpur, no adequate explanation is offered. In Bulandshahr the cause of decrease is said to be the disappearance of the disputes which were prevalent at settlement; but it follows a corresponding increase in the preceding year. In Mirzapur and Ballia the decline is due to reaction after the very large increase of the previous year. The progressive increase in the past five years in the area in the Benares division, in which tenants have lost rights of occupancy by process of court, is noticeable. In 1890-91 it was 10,474 acres; in 1894-95, 12,693, and in the past year 16,285 acres. The number of notices actually issued under section 35 of the Act (Appendix B-III), including those pending from the preceding year, was 24,974. Ejectments took place in 9,730 cases against 8,995 in the preceeding year, and the area affected was as much as 61,561 acres against 55,559 acres last year. The results of the notices issued during the past two years are given in the following statement:—

53. Class XIX.—The total number of notices issued on tenants-at-will was 44,786 against 54,602 in the previous year, and 72,097 in 1893-94. The continued decrease is general in every division and is distributed over every district except Dehra Dún, Aligarh, Farukhabad, Etah, Benares and Ballia. The statistics by divisions and the area affected are given in the following statement :—

* 659 notices affecting 20,696 acres were erroneously omitted from last year's statement.

These figures reflect the effects of unprosperous seasons and require little comment. Under the present law the power of eviction is used by landlords in many instances as a means of obtaining an enhancement of rent; but in a bad year it is confined to its more legitimate purpose, the getting rid of thriftless tenants who will not pay their rent. The decrease in notices issued in the Rohilkhand and Allahabad divisions is most pronounced. In the latter division, where scarcity was prevalent, the number also of relinquishments of their land by tenants increased enormously. In the Meerut district, where the falling off in the number of notices was exceptionally large, it is attributed to the fact that the landholders had been particularly busy in this direction for several years in anticipation of the approaching settlement and that there were thus fewer cases for treatment under the ejectment sections during the year. The Commissioner of Benares considers that the chief cause for the decrease in applications under section 36 in his division is the diminution in the number of occupancy tenures open to dispute. Up to twelve years after the revision of the records-of-right the number increased owing to the necessity of actively contesting the settlement record or of acquiescing in it: now the settlement record is 12 years old and can be contested no longer. The figures reported from Mirzapur last year were afterwards ascertained to be incorrect.

54. Classes XX and XXI.—Of 44,786 notices issued under section 36, the tenants contested 12,090 or 27 per cent.—the same percentage in 1894-95. The percentage of contested notices to the total number issued in each division is given below :—

Division.	Percentage.
	1894-95.	1895-96.
Meerut	30	30
Agra	22	23
Rohilkhand	24	24
Allahabad	22	21
Benares	* 35	32

* Owing to the inaccurate figures given for Mirzapur, the percentage entered in last year's report has been corrected.

Twelve thousand and eleven applications under section 39 were tried during the year, of which 8,735 or 72·7 per cent. were disposed of after contest. The tenants were successful in 4,749 cases disposed of after contest, being 54·4 per cent. of the number so decided. The percentage of success attained by tenants in each division is given below:—

Division.	Percentage.
	1894-95.	1895-96.
Meerut	47	50
Agra	52	52
Rohilkhand	57	61
Allahabad	49	58
Benares	45	49
Gorakhpur	60	58
North-Western Provinces ...	52	54

This year the tenants in the Rohilkhand division were most successful. The increased percentage of notices in the Allahabad division, which the courts declared invalid, invites attention. The results of the entire number of contested notices, in whatever way decided, were that the tenants were successful in 6,148 cases, covering an area of 33,840 acres out of a total area of 64,584 acres affected by the notices.

The percentage of success and failure in each division on the total number of notices is given in the following table for the past three years:—

Applications under section 40 for assistance to eject were made in 30,569 cases out of 44,786 notices, or 68 per cent. of the notices issued.

55. At the suggestion of Mr. Lambe, a former Collector of Gházipur, a system devised to ensure tenants being informed of proceedings in ejectment taken against them, was introduced experimentally into the Rohilkhand division in 1894. When a landlord applied for the issue of a notice of ejectment under section 35 or section 36, Act XII of 1881, intimation was sent by post service-bearing to the tenant, and, in order to let him know what he was receiving, the contents of the letter were superscribed on the envelope. The system has had over two years' trial, and it was found that an increasing number of covers was refused by the addressees, who gained all the information they required from the note on the envelopes as to the contents of the intimation. Under these circumstances the experiment was abandoned, as involving labour and trouble incommensurate with its practical results. It is hoped, however, that the special measures proposed by the Board and sanctioned by Government (G. O. No. $\frac{4790}{I-3A-4}$, dated 22nd December 1896) as regards the substituted service of notices of ejectment when the tenant is absent from the village will be useful in preventing fraud in the issue of notices of ejectment on tenants-at-will. The patwari will now be required at his periodical visits to the tahsíl to enter in his diary a note of all such notices issued since his last visit, and on his return to his circle to inform the tenants concerned of the issue of such notices or ascertain if they have received them.

56. The following statistics of the area held by the different classes of tenants in the North-Western Provinces in 1893-94 and 1894-95 illustrate the result of the operations of the ejectment provisions of the Rent Act:—

	1893-94.	1894-95.
	Acres.	Acres.
Total tenant area	21,323,278	21,283,272
Area held under some kind of right	10,243,839	10,204,481
Ditto by tenants-at-will	11,079,439	11,078,791
Ditto for more than 12 years	3,395,290	3,597,646

The contraction in cultivation due to unfavourable seasons accounts for the small decline in the total tenant area. The decrease in the area held under some kind of right of nearly 40,000 acres is more than compensated for by the increase of over 200,000 acres in the area held for more than 12 years. No further comment on these figures is necessary here, as paragraph 26 of the Director's Report at page 98 at the end of this report explains them.

57. There were altogether 136,854 applications under all classes for disposal against 158,929 in 1894-95; 127,230 or 92·97 per cent. were decided as compared with 147,564 or 92·85 per cent. in the previous year, leaving 9,624 pending, of which 989 were awaiting disposal for more than three months when the year closed.

* The figures for the Benares division for 1894-95 were erroneous.

Owing to the smaller number of cases for disposal the pending file was lighter at the close of the year in every division except Allahabad, where the strain on the district staffs owing to scarcity was great. As in the preceding year, the number of cases left on the file in the Bulandshahr district (1,301) was the largest in the province, but only six cases had been on the file for more than three months.

The number of cases pending over three months in Moradabad (392), Aligarh (176) and Farukhabad (129) is large. In Gorakhpur such cases show a satisfactory decrease from 275 to 118. Of the cases pending for some time at the close of the revenue year, applications under section 100 of the Rent Act ordinarily form a large proportion. These cases involve as a rule local inspection during the cold weather and have to be tried by an officer specially empowered.

58. The average duration of contested and uncontested applications in the two years 1894-95 and 1895-96 has diminished slightly. The figures are:—

	Contested.		Uncontested.
	M.	d.	M.	d.
1894-95	2	7	1	9
1895-96	2	6	1	8

The work of the courts under the Rent Act was probably lighter than in the preceding year, as the small addition to the number of suits for trial was more than balanced by the diminished number of applications under the heads which may involve a contest in court. The duration rose to an appreciable extent in the following districts, only those being noted where it is above the average:—

	Contested.				Uncontested.
	1894-95.		1895-96.		1894-95.		1895-96.
	M.	d.	M.	d.	M.	d.	M.	d.

Moradabad	1	24	2	15	...		...
Mirzapur	1	22	2	7	0	27	1	9
Ballia	2	1	2	21	...		...

In Bulandshahr for some time there was only one officer with powers under section 100 of the Rent Act, and enhancement cases had to be postponed. The increase in duration in Agra and Budaun is not explained: in view of the high duration in Budaun in former years it may be doubted if the figures of 1894-95 were correct. The increase in Moradabad is attributed to a heavy tale of criminal work, and that in Mirzapur (under both contested and uncontested cases) to frequent changes in the office of tahsíldár. In Ballia, as the Commissioner of Benares points out, litigation is often very complicated, and a high duration is not unusual. None of the districts which appeared in the list last year appear again this year, but, though the measures taken in Benares and Gorakhpur have contributed towards a reduction in duration in contested cases from 3 months 16 days to 3 months 6 days and from 3 months 22 days to 3 months 19 days respectively, the duration in these districts is still high.

* 4,978 cases were erroneously shown last year.

The large increase in the number of relinquishments noticed in the preceding year has been followed by another similar increase. It is, however, practically confined to the Allahabad division, where nearly two-thirds of the whole number of notices were filed. In this division in 1893-94 the figures were 8,046 notices; in 1894-95, 16,431, and in the year under report 27,880. These figures are not of such serious importance as they would at first sight appear, as probably what is reported to be the case in Hamírpur holds good in the other Bundelkhand districts, that the majority of relinquishments were made by tenants of inferior fields or of fields which had gone out of cultivation, and who as a rule left them without any intention of abandoning cultivation altogether. In Budaun the deterioration of the bhur tract, which has been fast falling out of cultivation, is given as the cause of the large number of relinquishments; but the increase of the year under report follows a larger decrease in the preceding year. An objectionable practice of taking nominal relinquishments from tenants who had either acquired or were just about to acquire rights of occupancy was introduced by certain landholders in Basti. The relinquishments were often followed by a nominal transfer of one relinquishing tenant's holding to another, which led to many complications.

The Commissioner has issued orders for a careful verification of the actual fact of relinquishment in any case in which such notices are presented, which have had the effect of stopping this practice. The comparatively small number of relinquishments filed in the eastern districts is an indication of the pressure of the tenantry on the land caused by the dense population of these tracts.

Applications for the sale of distrained crops continue to increase. The local variations are very marked. While about 7,000 applications were made in the Moradabad and Shâhjahânpur districts, only 2,252 are recorded in the whole of the Allahabad division, where even in years of good harvests this method of collecting rents is little resorted to. In Jaunpur such applications are still more numerous than in any other district. The result of the enquiry made by the Collector shows that for the most part this process is resorted to by landholders who do not take a direct personal interest in the management of their estates, but employ agents for the purpose. Out of the total number of cases, in about four-fifths the process of distraint is used merely as a method of putting pressure on the tenants to induce them to pay their rents, and sale of crops actually takes place in the remaining one-fifth only. The Commissioner regards the excessive number of distraint cases as an indication of the unsatisfactory economical condition of the Jaunpur district referred to in a previous paragraph, and views with some apprehension, which the Board share, the spread to other districts of the division of what he terms the wasteful and demoralising process of rent collection by selling at auction the tenants' crops.

Oudh Rent Law Litigation. App. B.—I. Suits.

60. The district and divisional totals for all suits under the Oudh Rent Act are given in the statement in paragraph 43 above. The diminution in the number of suits instituted in the preceding year was balanced by the larger number filed in the year under report: and the figures for both the Lucknow and the Fyzabad divisions almost exactly repeat those of 1893-94. A classified list of the suits instituted in the past two years is given below. The most noticeable variations are again in the direction of those noticed in the preceding year. There has been a further increase of 1,807 cases in Class II (arrears of rent suits) and a further decrease of 205 in Class VIII (suits to contest enhancement or ejectment) and of 160 in Class XIV (recovery of occupancy). Suits by lambardars or pattidars for arrears show an advance of 190, which is shared by almost every district.

61. The prominent feature of the district returns as regards suits for arrears of rent, which otherwise show no fluctuations of importance in either direction, is the large increase of 1,732 cases or nearly 77 per cent. in Sultánpur. This is attributed to the action of certain estates, notably Hasanpur, in filing suits freely against their tenants. In Rae Bareli the Deputy Commissioner explains the increase as due to the better crops of the year which induced landlords to resort to the courts to try and recover the arrears of rent due; but he evidently overlooks the fact that there had been a large increase in such suits in 1894-95 also. The falling off in Bara Banki and Bahraich is reported to be in a measure due to superior proprietors being unable to secure the requisite accounts from patwáris, who were busy with settlement work. In Bahraich the Kapurthala estate came to a settlement with many of their tenants with regard to arrears without resorting to the courts.

62. Suits under Class VIII (to contest enhancement or ejectment) and under Class XIV (to recover occupancy) were fewer in number, though the percentage of decrease is less than in the preceding year. In Oudh, as in the North-Western Provinces, notices of ejectment were less freely issued, and suits to contest them were in consequence less numerous. No other class of suit requires special notice.

63. The following statement shows the number of suits under the Oudh Rent Act for disposal in the past two years and the manner in which they were decided:—

The pending file remained stationary in the Lucknow division, and owing to the larger number of cases for disposal rose somewhat in the Fyzabad division. In Unao as many as 49 cases were pending over three months when the year closed. The file in Gonda has decreased, but it is still heavy, and cases pending for over three months have risen from 62 to 87. They are reported to be chiefly suits for arrears of rent; but no explanation of why their disposal has been so long delayed is given. The large balance of cases in Sultánpur is attributed to the effect of orders passed by the Deputy Commissioner that suits filed during the latter half of September should not be refused by tahsíldárs, as they commonly had been, with the intimation that they should be brought again early in the following month. The further increase in the percentage of cases disposed of without contest in the Lucknow division indicates a growing recourse to the courts as means for collecting rent rather than as tribunals for the settlement of disputes.

App. B.—IIIA, B. and C.
Notices of ejectment.

64. The numbers of each class of notices and applications for ejectment issued in the past two years are shown in the following table:—

	1894-95.		1895-96.
	Number.	Area in acres.	Number.	Area in acres.
1. Notices on statutory tenants on payment of the prescribed fee.	4,305	20,404	4,169	17,481
2. Notices on the heirs of statutory tenants without fee...	1,829	9,364	1,825	13,783
3. Notices on tenants holding under registered leases without fee.	139	4,530	368	15,129
4. Notices on others without fee	3,454	30,263	3,025	38,697

Grand total	13,647	103,698	13,462	118,852

Notices of all kinds decreased, except those on tenants holding under long leases, which are more affected by local causes than by the general character of the year. The area, however, to which the notices relate was larger than in the preceding year. Applications to eject tenants for arrears of rent decreed were slightly more numerous than in 1894-95, when, however, their number rose largely. It will thus be seen that the fluctuations in Oudh in the matter of ejectment proceedings followed much the same lines as they did in the North-Western Provinces. The total area affected rose by over 14 per cent. Actual eviction took place from 7,974 holdings with an area of 60,235 acres, of which 20,946 acres were relet to new tenants.

App. B.—IIIA.
Notices of ejectment on statutory tenants.

65. There was a further fall, though not to any marked degree, in both the number of notices issued for the ejectment, on the expiry of their tenancy, of statutory tenants, and also in the area affected. The difficulty in unfavourable seasons experienced by landlords in finding new tenants or in inducing their former tenants to continue to cultivate at a higher rent acted in Oudh, as in the North-Western Provinces, to diminish such notices. 4,169 notices to statutory tenants issued affecting 17,481 acres. Actual ejectment followed with regard to 2,602 holdings covering an area of 9,383 acres. The average rise in the rent of land relet, in the districts in which the rents are taken solely in cash, was again as much as 13 per cent. or more than double the percentage allowed by law in individual cases, after a temporary fall to seven per cent. in 1894-95. As in the preceding year, 36 per cent. of the total number of notices issued were contested. Out of 1,486 suits instituted to contest notices of ejectment, 656 were successful. The district variations in notices issued are not of much importance. The diminution in the past two years of ejectments of statutory tenants in Hardoi, due probably to the unfavourable seasons that district has experienced, is, however, noticeable. In 1893-94, 526 notices were issued: in 1894-95, 296: and in the year under report they dwindled to 170. The tendency to rise, which was, however, checked by poor seasons, is attributed both in Partábgarh and Rae Bareli to the endeavours of the landlords to pass on a portion of the increased burden of land revenue to their tenants. The cases of illegal eviction reported were few: and in Sitapur, the only district where they were at all numerous, they appear to have been for the most part not evictions at all, but voluntary relinquishments. The number of suits for compensation for illegal ejectment rose from 49 to 67.

App. B.—IIIB. Notices of ejectment in respect of which no court-fee was paid.

66. Of notices in respect of which no court-fee is payable, the number of those issued under section 48 on the heirs of statutory tenants remained stationary. Those under section 69 rose from 139 to 368, owing to a large number of notices having been served on lessees in Balrampur and other important estates in Gonda. Notices under other sections of the Rent Act were 429 fewer than in the preceding year, though the area affected, owing to the exceptionally large area to which they related in Gonda, was larger. The statistics of this latter class of notices which are chiefly issued by landlords on tenants in their sír, or by tenants on their sub-tenants, are affected by the same causes which operate in the cases of notices on statutory tenants. Of the notices of every description entered in this appendix, 23 per cent. were contested, and 47 per cent. of the suits brought were successful. Tenants were evicted from 35,975 acres or 53 per cent. of the total area to which the notices had reference. The average rise in the rent of the land relet after ejectment (exclusive of the figures for districts in which a portion of the land was relet on grain rents) was over 13 per cent.

App. B.—IIIC. Applications for ejectment under section 61.

67. Applications under section 61 to eject tenants for failure to pay decreed arrears of rent again rose from 3,920 to 4,075. Such applications were twice as numerous in the Fyzabad as in the Lucknow division. Ejectment took place in respect to 14,877 acres out of 33,762 acres to which they related, and in rather more than half the cases in which it was applied for. As an instance of the care with which this section is worked the remarks of the Deputy Commissioner of Rae Bareli may be quoted. He writes: "I endeavoured in every case to discover whether the defaulter had discharged his rent for the current year, and whether he was making any attempt to clear off the balances decreed against him. For this purpose the total amount decreed and otherwise due from the tenant was found and compared with his yearly rent, and his yearly rent was also compared with the amount actually paid by him for current rent and arrears during the past year. If it was found that he was attempting to clear off the balance which had accrued during a run of unfavourable seasons, time was always given; if it was found that he was running deeper into debt, he was ejected."

App. B.—IIID. Notices of enhancement.

68. Only 60 notices of enhancement were issued, of which Bahraich accounted for 42. These were issued in the Balrampur and Nanpara estates, where legal methods of obtaining an increased rent are more prevalent than in most other large estates. None of them were contested, and the tenants paid the amounts claimed without demur. Of the 13 notices issued in Partábgarh, every one was successfully contested; but the objections raised by the tenants are not stated. It is in favourable seasons that the question of illegal enhancements of rent assumes most importance, and for the year under report it may be very briefly dealt with. In Sultánpur the patwáris were employed on settlement work, and figures are not available. This must have been the case in several other districts also. A few cases of the ordinary type of enhancements unauthorised by law are reported from Lucknow, Gonda and Bahraich. The Deputy Commissioner of Lucknow, however, considers that rents are already pitched so high in his district as to forbid, on a general scale, any illegal enhancements. No instances came to light in Fyzabad, and in Rae Bareli, though there were many cases under inquiry, in only a single case was the enhancement found to be legally inadmissible. From Unao 45 and from Partabgarh 83 cases are reported; but it is not stated in what manner the law was evaded. The rents of 150 tenants in Bara Banki were illegally enhanced: in some cases before, and in others after, the termination of the statutory period of seven years. The percentage of increase averaged as much as 25 per cent. The Deputy Commissioner of Hardoi does not believe that evasions of the law in the matter of enhancement are frequent in his district; but he gives cases of tenants being allowed to hold on after payment of the costs of ejectment or of incoming tenants having to pay the costs: of land being let nominally to relatives and servants of landlords and sublet at higher rents: of enhancements effected by converting grain rents into cash rents or vice versâ: and of relinquished land being split up and sublet at rates beyond the statutory limit. A few cases in which a premium was levied on the grant or renewal of a tenancy came to light, and in other instances it was suspected that the practice obtained.

App. B.—IIA. Oudh. Miscellaneous applications and proceedings under the Oudh Rent Act.

69. In this appendix the only applications which call for remark are those under Class II, notices of relinquishment, Class VIII, applications for assistance to eject, and Class X, applications by distrainers for sale of distrained produce. As a result of unfavourable seasons, formal relinquishments continued to increase, the figures being 23,822 against 17,561 in 1894-95. They were most numerous in Unao (4,470), Rae Bareli (3,245), where deterioration in certain waterlogged tracts is given as the cause, Hardoi (3,018), Gonda (4,157), and Bara Banki (3,417): the area relinquished in these districts being 86,647 acres out of a total of 111,307 acres. The harvests in Bahraich were fairly good and relinquishments diminished.

With a smaller number of ejectments, applications under Class VIII were fewer.

Distraint cases continue to be numerous in Hardoi, where out of a total of 6,366, 2,838 were filed. It has been ascertained that the accuracy of the figures in this district is not open to doubt. The Deputy Commissioner writes:—"It has been suggested that in the estates of talukdárs and large zamíndárs distraint is not usually required, the authority of the owner being sufficient to make the tenants pay their rents promptly; whereas in estates belonging to co-parcenary communities or to small zamíndárs the tenants can resist the owners' demands for rent more strongly. This explanation possibly contains some truth, for I believe the talukdári area in Hardoi is much less in proportion than in other Oudh districts." The Board have requested him to keep the matter in view and to endeavour to obtain a satisfactory explanation of the difference between Hardoi and other districts; ascertaining if the tahsíls in which these notices are the least frequent are those in which talukdári properties predominate. The large rise in applications for sale of distrained produce in Partábgarh from 25 to 611 is attributed by the Deputy Commissioner to the pressure of the new revenue demands, which compelled the landlords to realize summarily from their tenants by distraint the rent of the year under report and the arrears of the previous year. He has overlooked, however, the section of the Rent Act forbidding distress to be made for the recovery of any arrear due for longer than one year.

Owing to the prevalent scarcity and sickness, and partly also to certain cases which used to be filed in the revenue courts being now instituted in the civil courts, there was less litigation in all three districts, and the pending file was reduced to 65 cases. Most of the suits (442 out of 588 instituted) were for arrears of rent (Class II) and by malguzárs for arrears of revenue or rent (Class XII). There were only 65 ejectment suits before the courts for disposal. The average duration in contested cases for the two years was —

SEC. II.—APPEALS. Apps. B.—IV to B.—VII and B.—IX.

71. Including the figures for Kumaun, the number of appealable suits decided in the year of report was 23,985 against 23,664 in the previous year, and appeals to Collectors and Deputy Commissioners rose from 3,994 to 4,172. In the North-Western Provinces the percentage of appeals to appealable cases rose from 17·68 to 18·21, and in Oudh the percentage rose from 13·82 to 14·65. In Kumaun, however, it fell from 22·14 to 20·66. The divisional figures are shown in the table below :—

As in the previous year, most appeals were filed in Budaun (297), Gorakhpur (288), and Azamgarh (219). In the Rohilkhand and Allahabad divisions, though more appealable suits were decided, appeals fell off. In the latter division at any rate suits for arrears of rent were brought as a rule to register claims, and not to have disputes decided, and only 12·50 per cent. of the decisions in appealable suits were appealed against, a noticeable contrast to the Meerut and Gorakhpur divisions, where over 25 per cent. were appealed. Exclusive of 223 appeals either summarily rejected or dismissed for default, there were altogether 4,276 for disposal. Of these 3,943 were decided, leaving 333 pending at the close of the year. Only four cases were pending more than three months.

72. The percentages of appeals in which the decisions of the lower courts were undisturbed are shown in the margin. There was a marked improvement in the Fyzabad division, but the work of the tahsíldárs of the Lucknow division stood the test of appeal very badly. In the Lucknow district only 34 per cent. of the decisions of the lower courts remained undisturbed, and in Unao only 35 per cent. In Kheri and Hardoi also less than half the decisions were unaltered on appeal. In these districts, however, the total number of appeals was small, and percentages are not altogether a safe guide.

The following table shows for each division how the appeals were disposed of:—

In the Lucknow division the increase in the percentage of the decisions reversed is striking, and for this the work in the Lucknow and Unao districts is in a large measure responsible. The average duration of appeals in the North-Western Provinces fell from one month and one day to one month, and in Oudh from one month and four days to one month and two days. In Kumaun it was one month and twenty-three days. It was highest in the Meerut district (2 months and 19 days). This the Collector attributes to a large extent to the number of appeals made over to him by the Commissioner. Only 55 appeals were so transferred in the year, and the explanation does not appear to be adequate.

App. B.—V. (N.-W. P.) Appeals to Collectors from orders on applications.

73. The number of appealable applications decided by Assistant Collectors of the second class fell from 2,085 to 1,684. Out of 98 appeals for disposal, only seven were left pending when the year closed. As in previous years, the largest number of appeals was filed in the Meerut and Rohilkhand divisions.

Including 1,527 cases pending from the previous year, there were 3,375 for disposal, of which 2,152 or 64 per cent. were decided, leaving 1,223 appeals undecided at the close of the year. The pending file in the North-Western Provinces slightly increased, but in Oudh it was reduced by nearly half, from 1,002 to 552 cases. Of the Oudh cases as many as 468, of which 369 had been pending over three months, were in the judgeships of the Fyzabad division. The average time occupied in the hearing of appeals was 6 months and 15 days in the North-Western Provinces or four days longer than in 1894-95. In Oudh the duration rose by over 2½ months and reached the very high figure of 13 months and 24 days. The old arrears, however, have been much reduced, and the current year should show a sensible improvement.

App. B.—VIIA, B.—VIIB and B.—VIIC (N.-W. P. and Oudh and Kumaun.) Appeals to Commissioners.

75. The following table gives particulars for each division of the number of appeals filed in the courts of Commissioners. The appellate work of Commissioners was, owing to the continued diminution in the number of applications filed, again lighter in both the North-Western Provinces and in Oudh, Agra being the only division where appeals increased to any extent. Except in Rohilkhand and Allahabad, where appeals to Collectors were also proportionately less numerous than in the preceding year, and in Gorakhpur, the proportion of appeals filed to the total number of appealable cases decided rose considerably.

Excluding cases transferred to Collectors for disposal, Commissioners had 5,118 appeals to decide or nearly a thousand less than in the preceding year. Of these 970 remained pending at the close of the year as compared with 833 at its commencement; but the small number of 35 cases only had been pending over three months. The appeals decided were most numerous in Gorakhpur (792) and Agra (783). It is satisfactory to find that the pending file in Gorakhpur has been reduced from 360 to 161 cases. In Meerut it reached 285 cases, but, as only three of these had been on the file for over three months, the increase is probably due to a number of appeals having been filed late in the year. Appellate work was again very light in the Allahabad division, the Commissioner keeping his work up to date by deciding only 191 appeals. In Fyzabad, as usual, work was well in hand, as many as 553 appeals having been decided and only 25 left over for next year. Including 313 appeals pending from the previous year, and excluding 142 cases which were re-transferred to Commissioners, Collectors in the Meerut and Benares divisions had 577 appeals to dispose of during the year. Only 64 of these, none over three months old, were left pending, of which 46 were in the Aligarh district. During the year instructions were issued to the Commissioners of Meerut and Benares not to transfer appeals to officiating Collectors of less than ten years' service, and appeals against orders passed on applications for the enhancement of rent were added to the classes of appeals which the Commissioners were empowered to so transfer.

The following table shows the number of appeals rejected under rules 5 and 13, Board's Extant Circular 18-II. The number of appeals rejected after perusal of records, but without the parties being heard, fell from 1,219 to 842, and summary rejections from 212 to 127. Every division except Allahabad, where the number of appeals so dealt with is trifling, and Gorakhpur shared in the diminution in the former class. The number of appeals so rejected in Meerut is, however, still very large. Out of 571 appeals decided, as many as 436 were rejected after perusal of records.

The percentage of decisions upheld entirely fell slightly in the North-Western Provinces and improved to a similar extent in Oudh. In Kumaun only 12 appeals were instituted, and percentages on such small numbers are misleading. The Rohilkhand and Gorakhpur divisions show the poorest results, while in Fyzabad there was a noticeable improvement. The small number of contested cases decided by the Commissioner of Meerut affected favourably the figures of that division.

The total number of cases disposed of by the Board of Revenue in the North-Western Provinces amounted to 2,123 against 1,927 in the previous year, the total number pending at the close of 1895-96 being 908. The Board examined records of lower courts in 636 cases, but in no case were parties heard. The orders of lower courts were disturbed in 237 cases, being 11·16 per cent. of the total number of cases disposed of.

The judicial work of the Board of Revenue for Oudh was as follows :—

App. B.—IX (N.-W. P).
Action taken to avert sale of land in execution of decrees of revenue courts.

77. Including those pending from the previous year, there were altogether 440 applications for sale of land under decrees of revenue courts, of which 314 were filed during the year against 275 in 1894-95. The distribution by divisions is shown in the margin. As in previous years, the number of such cases was largest in the Agra division. Two hundred and ninety-four cases were disposed of, in 83 of which sale was averted through the Collector's intervention or otherwise, and 211 were reported to the Board for sanction to sale. Out of 199 cases in which sanction to sale was accorded, sale was carried out in 88, and the remaining 111 were disposed of as follows :—

Agra ...	145
Rohilkhand ...	88
Allahabad ...	55
Benares ...	45
Gorakhpur ...	20
Total ...	440

(1) Cases in which decree was satisfied	20
(2) Cases in which sale was postponed, either for want of bidders, or at the decree-holder's request, or suspended at the request of the civil court	47
(3) Cases struck off at decree-holder's request	7
(4) Cases in which sale did not take place during the year owing to sanction not having been received before the end of the year	37

App. B.—IX (Oudh).

Decrees were taken out in 482 cases in Oudh against 486 in the preceding year. Sale was averted in 72 cases and sanctioned in 204 out of 213 cases reported to the Chief Commissioner or Commissioner for sanction. In 85 of these sale actually took place, the remaining 119 cases being disposed of as follows :—

Cases in which decree was satisfied	51
Sale postponed	33
Struck off	12
Cases in which sale did not take place during the year	23
Total ...	119

The pending file rose from 135 to 197 cases, and was heaviest in the Unao and Fyzabad districts.

78. The difference between the opening figures in the return and the closing balance shown in that for last year is caused by the correction of mistakes in the treasury accounts of the Etah, Mirzapur, Ghâzipur and Gorakhpur districts. The adjustments included Rs. 1,080, which lapsed to Government.

Regarding writs of demand it appears useless to examine in detail the figures for different divisions and districts. The variations, in the extent to which this process is employed in successive years and in similarly situated districts, make it clear that the use of this process has not been systematised, and depends to a great extent on the individual inclinations of the District Officers. Thus, whilst Azamgarh issues 4,095 writs and Gonda 2,179, Allahabad is content with 408 and Meerut with 16. Again, the majority of districts issue a single writ only to each mahál, Fyzabad issues 3 to almost all mahals and Sultanpur 3 to the majority of mahals. Again, whilst Bara Banki finds it necessary to increase the number of issues from 199 in 1894-95 to 677 in 1895-96, it is possible in Bahraich to reduce the number from 230 to 69. These are extreme instances, but want of uniformity is evident throughout the provinces to a very marked degree. The Rohilkhand Division, in all districts except one, decreased the number of writs as compared with the preceding year. The Benares Division, in all districts except two, increased them. The Commissioner of Agra, in remarking on a decrease in the number of writs in the Agra district from 2,356 to 1,566, remarks that the decrease is, in a great measure, due to the influence of the Collector in encouraging or in restraining their issue. Mr. Rose adds, "the fact that in any district the number of writs has diminished, or that the number of arrests has decreased, must not be taken to indicate that lesser pressure has been applied. All that it may mean, and all that it does mean, in the absence of exceptional circumstances, and assuming that there has, in the past, been no inordinate or inconsiderate resort to coercion, is that irregular methods of collection have been substituted for those which the law prescribes."

(a) Minor processes (writs of demand, arrests and detention, distress and sale of moveable property.)

It is no doubt true that the issue of dastaks is frequently restricted where resort is made to unauthorized methods of collection, but it is certain that the number of dastaks which are distributed broadcast through many districts would be lessened by a truer appreciation of the value and limitations of this form of process. A dastak, if not to be considered as an intimation that severer measures are contemplated, is useless, except in the cases of persons who, as a rule, pay regularly. Mr. Thomason's directions that the issue of dastaks in all cases is not necessary, before other process is issued, is overlooked in many districts. In such cases their regular issue after the lapse of so many days has the effect only of allowing a period of grace to habitual defaulters who take no action towards the payment of arrears till a succession of dastaks have been received.

Passing to the consideration of processes other than writs of demand, it will be observed that in the North-Western Provinces there has been a decrease both in the number of processes issued and the amount of land revenue in respect of which they issued, whilst in Oudh there has been an increase under both heads. Of arrests (a process much more largely resorted to in the North-Western Provinces than in Oudh) there has been an increase in both provinces. Attachments of moveable property and severer processes of all kinds show a decrease in the North-Western Provinces and an increase in Oudh, except in the case of sales of which there were none in Oudh in either year. It would appear therefore that in the North-Western Provinces, as a rule, the difficulties by which the landowners were confronted have been recognized by a decrease in the pressure applied, whilst in Oudh, where arrears are rarer, greater efforts were made to obtain the usual standard of collection. On the whole, it must be recognized that the revenue demand was not collected with undue severity, and that in those districts in which the character of the seasons was most unfavourable, and the resources of the people most severely tried, coercive processes were more sparingly resorted to than usual.

80. Of the districts of the Meerut Division, the largest increase in the number of writs and arrests was in Aligarh. The Collector, however, does not consider the number excessive, as the year was not, on the whole, a favourable one. The only other district in this Division which shows an increase in minor processes is Muzaffarnagar, in which the number of attachments of moveables rose from 34 to 87, but sale took place in only three cases.

In the Agra Division, the Farukhabad and Etáwah districts show a slight increase in the number of writs issued, while all the other districts show a decrease, more especially Agra, where the number fell from 2,356 to 1,566.

Every district of the Rohilkhand Division shows a decrease in the number of writs issued except Sháhjahánpur. The number of arrests also rose in this district, and sale of moveable property took place in 14 compared with 12 cases in the previous year. This increase points to some difficulty in the collection of the revenue, and tahsíldars "were reluctant to resort to more stringent measures in such cases until the landlord had received ample warning and had been given an opportunity of declaring his intentions." The only other district which shows a large increase in the number of attachments of moveables is Moradabad, where the number rose from 153 to 229, but sale took place in only six cases. In an ordinary year the Collector remarks that the property would have been sold had the arrear not been paid. In cases in which he was satisfied that there was real difficulty in paying, the property was restored and time given.

In the Allahabad Division there are considerable variations in the statistics of minor coercive processes compared with those of the previous year. Bánda especially shows a large increase under every head, particularly in writs, which rose from 1,397 to 1,786, while out of 410 cases of attachment of moveable property sale took place in 78 cases. The Collector remarks that "the increase in these processes is due to the fact that even people who could afford to pay were unwilling to pay owing to their smaller receipts due to repeated failure of crops." But Mr Ferard admits that the reason for the increase in the issue of writs is that "smaller zamíndárs, whose crops were injured by the drought of the year, could not pay up the arrears owing to their straitened circumstances." This, as the Commissioner remarks, points to the fact that this form of process was unnecessarily resorted to.

Attachments of moveable property were largely resorted to in Fatehpur, and sale took place in 25 cases. It is explained that it was necessary to have recourse to this process, as even well-to-do zamíndárs, who had realized the full rental from their tenants, made excuses and did not pay up the Government demand in the belief that it would be remitted. The number of cases of attachment of moveable property also rose in Allahabad, where the Collector found it necessary to adopt this measure in a large number of cases to see whether the defaulters could really pay or not. "In any case in which it was shown that the default was due to poverty, the property attached was released from attachment."

In the Benares division all districts, save Gházipur and Ballia, show an increase in the number of writs. The largest number was issued in Jaunpur, where the harvests were good. This form of process was sufficient in most cases for the recovery of the revenue, and the Collector considers that the increase in the number merely indicates an increased recourse to the process instead of resorting to informal demands through tahsíl peons.

Gorakhpur is the only district in that division in which increased resort was had to dastaks. When prospects improved, the Collector himself reminded tahsíldárs that greater activity should be shown in collecting the demand. The number of arrests, however, which fell from 99 to 70, are comparatively small compared with the other districts in the division, and is probably due to the Collector, at the Commissioner's request, having prohibited tahsíldárs using the process without his express sanction. On the other hand, there was a very noticeable increase in the Basti district, due to the process being used mostly in tahsíls Domariaganj and Khalilabad, where the state of the harvest has not been good; and the Commissioner remarks, "This at first looks a rather surprising explanation, but on reflection it will appear that there is a good deal of common sense in giving a preference to a process which puts the defaulter to little expense, and which can be at once terminated if it appears that the refusal to pay is not contumacious, instead of resorting to attachment of property with the much greater attendant expenses." The Board consider that the inference to be gathered from these remarks is that it would have been well had the restriction on this process introduced in Gorakhpur been extended for the time to Basti also. In Azamgarh resort was very freely made to warrants of arrest.

The number of arrests in Almora (1,005) for arrears of revenue, amounting to Rs. 24,357, was phenomenal; but it is reported that the arrears were paid before arrest actually took place. This process in Almora appears to be employed much in the same way as the Oudh summons to appear. The Commissioner does not remark on the extremely large number of warrants of arrest; but the subject appears to deserve attention, and further enquiries will be made by the Board in regard to it.

The statistics for the Lucknow Division do not call for special notice. The only district in which the process of arrest was largely used was Unao: no explanation has been furnished and the figures, though large for Oudh, do not call for special attention in a general return.

The increase in the number of writs in Gonda and Bara Banki is ascribed to the bad harvests which necessitated a resort to this process for the recovery of the arrears. In the case of the latter district the Deputy Commissioner gives his assurance that they were issued with much discrimination. In the Gonda district the number of arrests also increased very largely. Gonda appears to be the only district in which imprisonment for wilful default under section 116 of the Revenue Act was resorted to. Such imprisonment was in that district awarded in three cases, the longest period of actual detention being 58 days. The process is one which is rarely employed, and its removal from the Revenue Code has been recommended by the Revenue Acts' Committee.

81. The attention of District Officers was invited to the remarks in paragraph 18 of the Government review of the Board's report for 1894-95 and they were asked to give a trial to the system introduced by Mr. Wyer, by which lambardárs are supplied with statements of the demand some 15 days before the revenue instalments fall due. In some districts the system is said to have worked well, while other District Officers remark that the orders were received too late in the year to admit of it being introduced. They will be asked to report on the working of the system in their next report. But it is doubtful whether the present year will be suitable for the trial of experiments of this kind, and a final decision on the subject must await the arrival of a more normal year.

82. The experiment of utilizing the post for the service of writs was again tried in all districts with the exception of those mentioned in last year's report. Opinions are still divided as to the results. It is generally admitted that writs served through the post are not so effective as those served through peons. As an instance of this the remarks of the Collector of Jhánsi may be quoted: "The zamíndárs are in most part illiterate and took very little notice of the writs, in some cases not even opening the envelopes." The Collector of Bijnor states that the system saves trouble, but he adds, "it certainly tends to make people think even less of writs than they did." It is also said to have no effect on landowners, "who are always in arrears on principle." The Collector of Fatehpur, who speaks of the experiment with the experience both of a landowner and a revenue officer, condemns it. It was never believed that the introduction of the system would dispense entirely with the employment of process servers, but it will, to a certain extent, keep in check the evils referred to in the last report; and the post should, with advantage, be more largely made use of, the more persistent defaulters being suitably dealt with. The Board are in favour of continuing and extending the system.

Process fees.

83. Including arrears of previous years, the demand for process-fees amounted to Rs. 36,300, of which Rs. 34,844 were collected, leaving Rs. 1,456 outstanding. The establishment charges aggregated Rs. 19,892. There was therefore a net surplus of Rs. 14,952, after allowing for a deficit in some districts amounting to Rs. 730.

(b) Attachments of landed property.

84. The number of cases of attachment of immoveable property fell from 522 in the previous year to 492 in the year of report. The largest number of attachments in the Meerut Division was in Aligarh, where a dispute had arisen in connection with a well-to-do estate, and the revenue had fallen into arrears. In the Agra Division this form of process was used chiefly in the districts of Farukhabad and Etah. In the latter district, the arrears for which the estates were attached having been paid up, all the estates were released before the close of the year. No explanation has been supplied by the Collector of Farukhabad regarding the 13 cases of attachment in his district. The Commissioner, however, states that "such cases were reported to me at the time, and I cannot call to mind any instance in which satisfactory grounds for attachment did not exist." Two-thirds of the attachments in the Rohilkhand Division are accounted for by the Sháhjahánpur district. The Collector does not furnish an explanation; but from his report it appears that 20 cases occurred in the Pawayan tahsíl which seems to have suffered most during the past year. Bánda shows up most prominently in the number of attachments made during the year. The reasons advanced by the Collector are that "nearly all these mahals were attached for recusancy, or recusancy and bad management combined, and they are characteristic of the manner in which the vagaries of the seasons have upset our calculations. When they were taken over, the kharíf promised a harvest in area and outturn excelling all previous years in the memory of the oldest residents. Zamíndárs and tenants, great and small, allowed that the promise was excellent. At the same time, the moderation in revenue pressure, necessitated by the previous sequence of bad seasons, had created a spirit of recusancy, and an idea that all arrears were to be remitted; and clear demonstration that recusancy must not become the rule was absolutely necessary. The only method was to take the clearer cases of recusancy under direct management, and so ensure full collections from the promised abundance. Suddenly the rains stopped, the crops withered, and the prospects altered entirely. I then considered very seriously the question of giving back these estates, but have decided that for the present it is undesirable to do so, as it would create an idea that no land revenue was to be got in this year." The Collector promises to take up the question of restoring these properties to the proprietors when a portion of the realizable kharíf demand has been got in. The Commissioner has already issued instructions to all Collectors in his division to the effect that they should satisfy themselves that there is a fair prospect of collecting the rents before resorting to section 154 of the Revenue Act. The largest number of attachments in the Gorakhpur Division (54) was made in Azamgarh. As a matter of fact only four estates were attached, two of which comprised 22 and 24 mahâls respectively. No undue pressure appears to have been used in the collection of the revenue. In Almora the arrears were paid up before the attachments actually took place. The number of attachments increased largely in Lucknow and Sitapur, the number for which the two districts are responsible being 16 and 19 respectively. In Sitapur 14 out of the 19 mahâls were attached in the previous year, and the Deputy Commissioner is unable to explain why they were omitted from last year's return. It is satisfactory to notice that the enhanced land revenue, recently assessed in several districts in Oudh, has not been productive of any serious increase in the number of coercive processes.

(c) Transfers of shares or pattis; and (d) annulment of settlement.

85. In 16 cases compared with 28 in the previous year, the rights and interests of defaulting co-sharers were transferred for various periods for arrears amounting to Rs. 2,663. There were 22 cases of annulment of settlement resulting in the property being farmed in 15 cases and taken under direct management in 7.

(e) Sales.

86. The number of sales under section 166 of the Land Revenue Act fell from 32 in the previous year to 12 in the year of report. They occurred chiefly in the Allahabad Division. With regard to the cases of sale in Cawnpore, the Collector writes:—"There is naturally some reluctance on the part of the Board to resort to this extreme process when the revenue seems excessive; but it is useless to help a man who will not help himself. When there is no prospect of a village improving under the present management, the zamíndárs ought to be changed. There is no kindness in reducing the revenue if the zamíndárs will continue hopelessly embarrassed, or if their creditors will reap the benefit. Again, a man who tries to evade responsibility deserves no consideration, e.g., a person who has executed a nominal transfer in favour of a man of straw from whom nothing can be realized. Just at a time when deteriorated villages are receiving reductions of revenue, zamíndárs must understand that they forfeit all claim to consideration by trying to trick Government. Unless this principle is recognised, a premium will be placed on default, and it will be extremely difficult to collect the revenue." As this process cannot be resorted to without the sanction of the Board, care will be taken to see that it is sparingly used during the current year. Notwithstanding the remarks made by the Collector of Cawnpore above, the Board will insist on rule 25A, Board's Extant Circular 3-III, being complied with, that is, that an inspection of a village by a responsible officer be made before proposals for sale are submitted and that there be ordinarily evidence that, in spite of bad seasons, the proprietor has had from his estate income enough to meet the land revenue demand. Exceptional cases will be dealt with in an exceptional manner; but the intention of the rules as to sale is as has now been stated, and the Board can recognize the fairness of sale for arrears of revenue only when it is clear that the demand has been collected or should have been collected from the tenants, and has been made away with, or when, as occasionally happens, it would be for the advantage of the estate that its connection with a hopelessly embarrassed proprietor should cease.

App. E.—XI. Estates managed direct after annulment settlement.

87. There were 40 estates under direct management during the year under report against 44 in the previous year. The rental demand, including arrears, amounted to Rs. 39,184, of which Rs. 30,275 or 77·2 per cent., were collected leaving Rs. 8,909 outstanding. Nearly the whole of the arrears are due in Hamírpur (2,882), Jhánsi (873), Azamgarh (1,774), Gonda (2,207). In the two Bundelkhand districts the balances are due chiefly to the bad harvests of the year following on a cycle of bad seasons. The balance in Azamgarh represents arrears on account of the years 1890-93, a legacy due to inefficient management in previous years. A part is, no doubt, irrecoverable, and will have to be remitted in due course. A large portion of the balance in Gonda is due from zamíndárs who are said to be habitual defaulters, but it was necessary to be lenient even with them during the past year. The four resumed muáfi plots in Jalaun were taken under management late in the year, and there were no receipts or disbursements during the period they were under management.

The charges on account of management were—

	Rs.
Establishment	449
Contingencies	150

The percentage of cost of management to the rental demand was 1·35, and cannot be regarded otherwise than as very moderate. An insignificant sum of Rs. 5 was spent on improvements in Gonda. A considerable balance was outstanding at the close of the year on account of advances in Jhánsi and Hamírpur. The amounts recovered were less than the amounts advanced during the year, so that the balance carried forward for recovery in future years has increased, though not largely. No more favourable result could have been expected. It will undoubtedly, as pointed out by Commissioner, be necessary to continue the grant of advances to tenants even though immediate recovery is not possible.

App. E.—XII. Estates attached by order of Civil or Rent Courts.

88. Including two estates in the districts of Muzaffarnagar and Unao, of which the accounts for 1894-95 were not furnished by the District Officers, and omitting two estates in the Cawnpore and Fyzabad districts, which were eventually managed by the Collector under section 320 of the Civil Procedure Code and do not therefore appear in this appendix, the number of estates at the commencement of the year of which District Officers actually held charge as managers or receivers was 41. Eighteen more were taken charge of during the year under report, making a total of 59. Of these, nine have been released, leaving 50 under management at the close of the year. The rental demand, including outstanding arrears, was Rs. 2,42,376; and, including advance collections, Rs. 1,63,893, or over 67 per cent. of the demand, were recovered, as compared with 75 per cent. in the preceding year. Of the districts in which the rental demand is over Rs. 1,000, less than half the demand was collected in Muttra and Bara Banki, where estates were under management for part of the year only, in Rae Bareli and in Jalaun, where poor harvests rendered collection difficult, and in Moradabad. Only 40 per cent. was collected in the latter district, and the Collector has been asked for an explanation. The outstandings were heaviest in the Sihipur estate in Fyzabad, but the civil court has sanctioned the remission of irrecoverable balances, amounting to nearly Rs. 19,000. They are also heavy in Har Shankar Prasad's estate in Gházipur, where more than half of the arrears are on account of previous years. They are still under enquiry: but the Collector should see that the balances which are found to be really irrecoverable are removed from the accounts at an early date. The total funds available for expenditure, including the opening cash balance and miscellaneous receipts, were Rs. 1,98,420, of which Rs. 1,44,180 were disbursed for charges, including revenue and proprietors' allowances, and Rs. 21,436 were paid into court towards the liquidation of debts. Unnecessarily large cash balances seem to have been retained in the districts of Gházipur, Sitapur and Moradábad, and orders from the civil courts for the payment of further sums towards debts should have been obtained. The debts still undischarged amount to Rs. 5,50,205. The bulk of this sum is due from the three estates mentioned last year: Fatehpur in Bara Banki, Har Shankar Prasad's estate in Gházipur and Rampur Kalan in Sitapur. The sale of the first estate was confirmed by the civil court, and it was released from management in the middle of the year. As regards Har Shankar Prasad's estate the District Judge has authorised the Collector to withdraw from the management which he had been authorised to undertake under section 326 of Act XIV of 1882. The Collecter is now managing the property in execution of the decrees against it under section 320 of that Act, and arrangements are being made to sell it to the Anapur estate belonging to the owner's brother, which is under the Court of Wards, the latter estate in return paying off the debts due on it and allowing Har Shankar Prasad an annuity. The position of the Rampur Kalan estate in Sitapur remains the same as has been reported in previous years. Negotiations for a reduction in the rate of interest on one of the principal debts were pending when the year closed. The debts of the Bansgaon estate in Fyzabad have been slightly reduced: but the circumstances of this insolvent estate remain unaltered. The litigation connected with the large Sihipur estate in the same district has now terminated in favour of the Khapradih Court of Wards' estate, and this estate will in future be managed by the Court of Wards. The unpaid balances of land revenue at the close of the year amounted to Rs. 1,851. They were largest in Unao (Rs. 377) and Rae Bareli (Rs. 1,157). The balances in the latter district are, however, not directly due to Government, but to superior proprietors. The cost of management of the several estates, which includes the contribution to the cost of supervision under Act X of 1892, fell on an average at 10·7 per cent. on the collections.

The variations in the number of transfers effected by order of court are not material. The character of the year, one of agricultural depression, is reflected in the statistics which relate to private transfers. Sales of revenue-paying lands rose by 17 per cent. and mortgages by 15 per cent., while redemption of mortgages declined by 8 per cent. The redemption of mortgages is not always a sign of returning prosperity: it often means that more properties have been sold to third parties who have paid off the mortgages by deduction from the purchase-money. In the year under report, however, when money for investment was unusually scarce, this cause would not operate to counteract the fall in the number of redemptions. The increase in the number of succession cases continues, but the number is still below that of 1892-93. The bulk of the increase is in the Gorakhpur division, where, as a result of more accurate registration, such cases were over 5000 more than in 1894-95, and in Almora and Garhwál, where, owing to the ravages of cholera and small-pox, they rose by nearly 2,500. The district figures under the various classes of transfers require no detailed examination. The general increase in voluntary sales and mortgages in the Allahabad division may, however, be noticed. They were of course due to the prevalence of scarcity, a cause which also affected voluntary sales in the Almora and Garhwál districts, where they rose from 785 to 2,460. Part of this increase, however, so far as Garhwál is concerned, is attributed to the introduction of a new form of mutation register.

For two years seasons have been unfavourable, and the effect of this on voluntary transfers of land may be exhibited by a comparison of the figures for the past five years. Under the two main heads they are :—

Year.	Sales of revenue-paying land.		Mortgages.
	N.-W. P.	Oudh.	N.-W. P.	Oudh.
1891-92	18,246	1,999	8,010	5,826
1892-93	19,451	2,330	8,792	6,985
1893-94	17,107	2,539	7,655	6,483
1894-95	17,052	2,717	8,256	7,144
1895-96	20,030	3,070	9,486	8,255

In the North-Western Provinces sales, which had been falling off for two years, exhibit a large increase in the year under report: in Oudh they have been steadily becoming more numerous in the past four years. In Oudh, mortgages show the same tendency, but undoubtedly a large portion of the increase is merely nominal, being due to better reporting.

Taking the returns of prices fetched by landed property on sale for what they are worth, the land sold by private purchase in Dehra Dún, Meerut, Ballia, Gorakhpur, Basti, Almora, Garhwál, Sitapur, Gonda and Bahraich fetched on an average over 40 years' purchase of the land revenue. In the Gorakhpur and Basti districts the Commissioner attributes the high prices obtained (over 50 years' purchase) to the leniency of the settlements, and to the fact that rents have since been raised considerably. Owing to the sale of the large Dubari estate, which is permanently settled, the average price paid for land sold in Azamgarh by order of court reached the abnormal figure of 84 years' purchase. As a contrast the figures for the four Bundelkhand districts may be noticed: in them the price of land on the whole, whether sold by private or by public sale, averaged under 10 times the land revenue.

The number of sales by order of civil courts, which had been gradually declining in the two preceding years, rose from 199 to 259. In Jaunpur, in no less than 448 cases, the civil courts ordered the sale of fixed rate tenures. The 112 cases, in which sale actually took place in consequence, do not represent the full extent of the transfers in this district, as there is little doubt that, in many of the other cases in which sale is shown as averted by agreement, the decree-holder was satisfied by money raised by the private sale of the tenure. Sales ordered by the revenue courts are nowhere numerous.

JHÁNSI ENCUMBERED ESTATES' ACT. (XVI OF 1882.)

92. No advance was made under the Jhansi Encumbered Estates' Act. One-hundred and nineteen accounts were closed during the year as follows:—

By regular payment of instalments	... 110
By payment of the whole debt in a lump sum	... 6
By sale of defaulter's share	... 3
Total	... 119

The accounts of 149 loans still remain open.

SEC. III.—PARTITIONS. App. C.—IV. N.-W. P. and Oudh.)

93. The number of applications for partition for disposal in the North-Western Provinces, which for three years has continued to decrease, fell from 3,658 to 3,149. In Oudh, where in certain districts in which settlements have been concluded applications show a tendency to increase, the number rose from 521 to 602. The pending file in Oudh increased from 195 to 298 cases, but taking both provinces together it was reduced by 209 cases.

The following table shows the distribution of the cases by divisions and the progress made in disposing of them:—

In eight districts there were cases pending over three years and more. The oldest case was that dating from February 1891 in Cawnpore, referred to in last year's report. It is pending in the court of the Collector, and the further delay is attributed to the numerous objections lodged. There is another case of 1891 in Gonda, and one of 1892 in Jaunpur, awaiting the result of appeals filed in the civil courts. As last year, the largest number of cases for disposal was in the Gorakhpur division (673): though Meerut follows it closely with 647. In both divisions nearly 400 cases were disposed of, and the pending files show a satisfactory reduction. Most of the cases not disposed of at the close of the year in Oudh were of recent institution, and the files should be reduced in the current year. The partition work of the year resulted in a further increase of over 5,000 mahâls, though in certain districts advantage was taken of the ruling that the administrative inconvenience caused by the formation of minute and scattered mahâls is reason sufficient for the Collector to stay the partition.

The system of employing partition amins on fixed salaries continued to work well in the districts in which it was in force, though in one district the Collector continued to employ an amin long after he had ceased to have funds to pay him.

The total sum advanced in the North-Western Provinces was more than double that in the preceding year, the Allahabad division, where, owing to drought and the wish of landlords to provide work on their estates for their tenants, advances were freely given, accounting for the bulk of the increase. In Oudh the falling off in the Fyzabad division was more than balanced by the larger advances given in the Lucknow division, more especially in Rae Bareli. The average amount of each individual advance was Rs. 165 to landlords and Rs. 17 to tenants, lower figures than are usually shown. The average in the case of tenants is reduced by the fact that towards the close of the year a considerable sum was advanced to tenants to enable them to dig kachcha wells and to buy well gear.

The rains of 1896, like those of 1895, ended at an unusually early date, and in the two months following the close of the year under report exceptionally large advances were made to both landlords and tenants to build unbricked wells to secure the rabi crop against drought. Subsequently large loans were given to enable landlords to build masonry wells. These matters, however, will find place in the Board's report for the current year, and all that need be noted here is that the deficient rainfall of the past two years has had the effect of inducing a demand for loans under the Act to a degree hitherto unknown.

In the year under report advances were even fewer than usual in the Benares and Gorakhpur divisions and in the Meerut division, which is protected by canals and in which dry seasons rendered drainage works less necessary. In the Rohilkhand division also little advantage was taken of the Act. In the Agra division the increase was principally in the Farukhabad and Mainpuri districts, where the money advanced was double that in the previous year. Rupees 1,200 were advanced without interest to tenants in Etáwah towards the close of the year to enable them to dig kachcha wells.

The scarcity in Bundelkhand caused a large demand for Government aid, and the bulk of the money distributed was expended in the construction of embankments and the digging and repair of tanks, the earthwork on which afforded labour for a large number of people. In Bánda and Jalaun alone nearly Rs. 60,000 were distributed. The only two districts which took less money than in the preceding year were Cawnpore and Jhánsi. The Collector of Cawnpore attributes this to an endeavour to carry out the orders of Government as to the reduction of expenditure under all heads. As the Commissioner points out, the retrenchment of takavi grants, which are reproductive loans, was not covered by these orders. In Jhánsi the falling off is only nominal, the advances of the previous year having been exceptionally large. With the sanction of Government advances were given, without interest, in the Allahabad and Jalaun districts for the deepening of tanks to serve as private relief works.

As much as Rs. 4,510 were distributed in the Garhwál district for the purpose of making irrigation channels, and with a scanty rainfall the construction of similar works in Almora and in the Kashipur pargana of Naini Tal should have been encouraged. The Commissioner suggests that wells should be sunk by means of advances in the unirrigated Jaspur tract.

In the Lucknow division the large advances made in Rae Bareli are most noticeable. As soon as the drought declared itself in September 1896, applications for advances for the construction of dams, and of both masonry and non-masonry wells, and for well gear, began to pour in: and loans for these purposes, which in other districts were not given extensively till a later date, were made before the year closed. In Kheri, as in the other submontane districts of Oudh, no advances at all were taken. As in the previous year, the bulk of the money advanced in the Fyzabad division was in Bara Banki.

95. Including Rs. 3,39,653, the arrears of 1894-95, the demand on account of principal advanced was Rs. 4,85,920, of which Rs. 1,14,194 fell due during the year, and Rs. 85,873 were collected. In Bánda, Hamírpur, Sitapur, Hardoi and Kheri, owing to poor harvests, less than half of the demand for the year was collected. Excluding these districts, 86 per cent. of the demand was realized. Owing to the character of the year it was deemed advisable to treat defaulters with leniency, and not to press for payment in full in all cases. The demand for interest was Rs. 36,075, of which a little over half was collected. In the Allahabad and Lucknow divisions collections were especially poor. In Bánda only Rs. 819 out of a demand of Rs. 3,409 was paid. App. C.—VII.

96. The amounts advanced under the Agriculturists' Loans Act during the past two years are compared in the following table:— ADVANCES UNDER THE AGRICULTURISTS' LOANS ACT. App. C.—VIII.

Had it not been for the very large sums advanced for the purchase of seed and cattle in the distressed tracts of the Allahabad division, the advances of the year would have been much less than in its predecessor; as it was, they nearly reached the same figure. In the Meerut division, Saháranpur is the only district which shows an increase in the amount distributed: the mortality among cattle had been heavy, and loans to buy bullocks were freely applied for. The falling off in the Agra division was most marked in Farukhabad and Etáh, where, owing to floods, large sums had been distributed in the preceding year. In Rohilkhand the bulk of the increase is in the Bareilly district. Fewer takavi loans were given in almost every district of the Benares and Gorakhpur divisions and in Oudh. More than Rs. 20,000, however, were advanced in Rae Bareli, Sitapur, Hardoi and Bara Banki, all districts in which in previous years Deputy Commissioners had taken trouble to see that the people were made acquainted with the advantages of the Act.

Half of the total grant for the United Provinces was allotted to the Allahabad division: and in the three districts of Bánda, Hamírpur and Jalaun alone, not much short of two and a half lakhs were distributed. As the Commissioner remarks, the money advanced materially helped the landholders and tenants at a time when such help was much needed, and had not funds been liberally allotted both under the Land Improvement and the Agriculturists' Loans Act, the amounts spent by Government on relief works would probably have considerably increased. In Jhánsi the falling off in the loans given is attributed to the fact that, whereas in the previous year takavi had been given somewhat too lavishly, in the year under report it was taken by applicants with a full sense of responsibility of repayment. The Collector of Bánda states that the system referred to in the last report, of making cultivators jointly and severally responsible for advances without any other security, has not yet had a fair trial, but he considers the plan a good one, and is confident that it will work well under ordinary conditions.

The annual cattle fair in Hardoi was held as usual, and 1,095 bullocks were purchased with advances given and branded against 1,493 in the preceding year. Fraud was brought to light in two instances, and in each case the culprits were tried and punished. Advances were again made for the purchase of cattle at the Sandila fair, 86 bullocks being purchased.

The outstanding balances of previous years amounted to Rs. 6,64,417, and, including these, the total demand reached the large figure of Rs. 13,02,083. Of this sum, Rs. 5,52,023 fell due during the year, and Rs. 3,48,524 or 63·1 per cent. were collected, leaving a balance of Rs. 2,03,499 at the close of the year. Pressure for payment was deemed inadvisable; but it is curious that in the Allahabad division as much as 59 per cent. of the demand could be collected, whereas in Rohilkhand and Lucknow the percentage of collections was only 55 and 50 per cent. respectively. The largest balances were in Sháhjahánpur (Rs. 10,420), Bánda (Rs. 18,023), Sitapur (Rs. 39,504), Hardoi (Rs. 27,277), Gonda (Rs. 17,582) and Bara Banki (Rs. 11,954). More than half of the balance in Sháhjahánpur represents the arrears in the Jalalabad tahsíl due to the floods of 1894, from which it has not yet been able to recover. The realization of the balance in Bánda and in other Bundelkhand districts is a difficult question, which can only be dealt with satisfactorily when the era of adversity closes. The balances in the Oudh districts mentioned are due to continuance of adverse seasons. The total demand for interest, including the arrears of previous years (Rs. 20,200), amounted to Rs. 61,552, of which Rs. 31,334 were collected, leaving an outstanding balance of Rs. 30,218.

SEC. V.—LAND REVENUE ADMINISTRATION. App. C—IX.

97. It will be seen from this appendix that there has been an increase under all the heads, viz., number of mahals, gross land revenue, number of cases for disposal, the number disposed of, and issues and receipts in the Revenue department. Taking letters issued and received together, the increase was as much as 13 per cent. in the year. The issues and receipts in the Board's Office amounted to 24,907 and 23,322 respectively.

SEC. VI.—ARRANGEMENT, INSPECTION AND WEEDING OF REVENUE RECORDS.
App. C.—X.

98. The number of files to be sent into the record-room increased from 1,353,098 in 1894-95 to 1,365,741 in the year under report. Of these, 1,310,524 were deposited, leaving a balance of 55,217 compared with one of 60,716 at the close of the preceding year. The work done was decidedly better than in the previous year, for, notwithstanding an increase of 12,643 in the total number of cases to be deposited, the balance remaining was 5,499 less. The heavy arrears in Muttra, which attracted notice in the reports of the two previous years, were almost entirely cleared off, as was the apparently large balance shown as outstanding in Partábgarh in the previous year, probably owing to the closing of settlement operations in that district. Meerut, Farukhabad, Gorakhpur, Azamgarh, Naini Tal, Fyzabad and Bara Banki show larger arrears than in the previous year, especially the last two districts. In Azamgarh the arrears are attributed to the tardy collection of mutation fees in some tahsíls, a matter which is engaging the attention of the Collector. This explanation is also given as regards Fyzabad. The Collector of Gorakhpur has promised to look into the record work of his district this year. In Naini Tal a large number of cases were decided at the end of the year, which could not be sent into the record-room in time. No explanations have been furnished by the District Officers of Meerut, Farukhabad and Bara Banki.

The work of registering and arranging the files also was more promptly carried out than in the previous year. The number of files duly registered and arranged rose from 1,284,428 to 1,303,768, while the number remaining fell from 7,954 to 6,756. Except in Farukhabad, where they rose from 844 to 1,266 files, the arrears are not large in any district. The Collector explains that these files were received on the last two days of the year and could not be disposed of within the year. They have since been registered and arranged.

99. The work of inspecting and weeding records also shows the same general improvement, 10,718 more bastas having been disposed of than in the previous year. The arrears noticed last year in Cawnpore and Bulandshahr have been cleared off, and those in Agra and Etah considerably reduced. In Gházipur, however, the number of those in arrears has increased from 996 to 2,232 bastas, while in Hardoi and Bara Banki little progress has been made. The Collector of Gházipur complains of the insufficiency of the staff of temporary weeders allowed for the work; but the Commissioner has, for due cause shown, power to supplement it from the divisional grant placed at his disposal. The Bara Banki report is, as last year, silent as to the cause of the heavy arrears in that district. In Hardoi the unweeded bundles are reported to consist of patwáris' papers which cannot, under the rules, be weeded at present.

100. During the year, the rules for the weeding and destruction of English and Vernacular records were revised by the Board with the sanction of Government. When weeding has once been brought up to date under the new rules, the mass of old records will be very considerably diminished, and the work of weeding made much easier in the future. The special establishment required for the thorough over-hauling of the records which the rules require will however cost some Rs. 15,000, which it has been ascertained cannot be allotted at present.

SEC. VII.—APPEALS UNDER ACT XIX OF 1873 (N.-W. P. REVENUE ACT) AND ACT XVII OF 1876 (OUDH REVENUE ACT).
App. C.—XI.

101. The number of appeals filed under the Revenue Acts fell in the North-Western Provinces from 5,211 to 4,625, and rose in Oudh from 718 to 908. The largest number of appeals for disposal in Collector's court were in Gorakhpur (229), Aligarh (197) and Cawnpore (194), and in Commissioner's court in the Gorakhpur division, where, though 318 appeals were filed, the cases pending at the close of the year were 28 only. The total number of cases pending when the year closed was nearly the same as when it commenced, but those pending over three months were reduced from 55 to 29. The Commissioner of Rohilkhand shows the heaviest pending file. The oldest case for decision is one of August 1893 in Jaunpur, which is awaiting the result of a civil suit.

SEC. VIII.—ACTION TAKEN BY DEPUTY COMMISSIONERS UNDER SEC. 158, ACT XVII OF 1876. Apps. C.—XII and C.—XIII (Oudh).

102. Applications to recover the rent of maháls held in sub-settlement in Oudh rose from 1,155 to 1,485, and the amount of arrears claimed from Rs. 1,93,810 to Rs. 2,55,825. The assistance of Government was freely applied for, as owing to the poor harvests taluqdars continued to experience difficulty in collecting rents from under-proprietors. With the exception of 82, all the applications were filed in the Fyzabad division, where the provisions of section 158 were most extensively resorted to in the Fyzabad, Gonda and Partábgarh districts. In Fyzabad more than half of the applications were made by the taluqdars of Ajudhya and Birhar. The action taken by Raja Rampal Singh accounts for the rise in the number in Partábgarh from 41 to 373.

SEC. IX.—APPLICATIONS FOR THE GUARDIANSHIP OF MINORS.

103. No expenditure was incurred during the year by District Officers in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh in respect of applications under section 8, Act VIII of 1890, for the guardianship of minors succeeding to landed estates.

SEC. X—MISCELLANEOUS.

Tours by Members of the Board.

104. The Members visited the following districts during the year :—

Mr. Cadell.—Bareilly, Bijnor, Meerut, Lucknow, Jhánsi, and Bánda.

Mr. Adams.—Meerut, Etàwah, Farukhabad, Aligarh, Sháhjahánpur, Bahraich, Fyzabad, Lucknow, Gonda, Benares, Bareilly, Bijnor, Moradabad, Bánda, Jhànsi, and Agra.

Mr. Neale.—Meerut, Muzaffarnagar, Bijnor, Budaun, Lucknow, Hardoi, Sitapur, Kheri, Bara Banki and Fyzabad.

Mr. Moule.—Naini Tal, Almora, Bareilly and Agra.

Record Fund Rules.

105. The Record Fund Rules are generally reported to have worked satisfactorily.

Territorial changes.

106. The only territorial change between districts that took place during the year was the transfer, with effect from the 15th November 1895, of the area known as the Bhabar Talla Des or Tanakpur circle, measuring 44 square miles with a population of 5,367, from Naini Tal to Almora. Under G. O. No. $\frac{1606}{I-407B.}$, dated the 12th May 1896, two villages in the Budaun tahsíl were transferred to the Dataganj tahsíl in the Budaun district, and owing to re-settlement some minor changes in the parganas of the same district took place.

Boundary pillars.

107. Boundary pillars and survey stations were duly inspected and the necessary repairs carried out. The work of re-numbering the monoliths erected along the boundary between Nepal and the districts of Pilibhít and Naini Tal has been completed. The new khasras and maps will be submitted to Government as soon as certain discrepancies in the description of the pillars have been reconciled by the local officers.

Hamírpur Forests.

108. All the protected forests save three were inspected during the camping season by the Joint Magistrate in charge of the Mahoba sub-division, and the tahsíldárs visited eight out of the 14 plots. From the notes recorded it appears that the arrangements made at settlement are working satisfactorily. In one case a penalty was inflicted on the zamíndárs for cutting wood in a manner contrary to the conditions imposed for the preservation of the forests plots. In two forests no boundary pillars existed, but in the year under report they were erected at the cost of the zamíndárs in one of them and are in course of construction in the other.

Service and character Books.

109. Service and character books were duly maintained.

Touring of tahsíldárs.

110. The orders requiring tahsíldárs to spend a minimum period of 60 days on tour in their tahsíls were in general fully obeyed. The submission of tour diaries secures that tahsíldars not only make themselves fully acquainted with the state of their tahsíls, but that they put the information they obtain on record in a shape in which it will be useful both to their superiors and their successors. There are still, however, not a few instances reported in which tahsíldárs failed to carry out orders as to touring, and a few instances in which District and Divisional Officers have failed to insist on this disobedience to orders being explained. The transfer of a tahsíldár to another division or district frequently enables him to avoid remark on his failure to complete the period of tour ordered. The want of tents for tahsíldárs is remarked on in several districts, and the Board agree that it is important that, as soon as the financial situation permits, the issue of tents for the use of tahsíldárs should be completed.

VILLAGE COURTS ACT.

111. The Collectors concerned have reported on the working of the courts of Village Munsifs, a matter which, under the orders of Government, will in future be mentioned annually in the Board's report. These courts were established in the beginning of 1895 in the following areas:—

District.	Tahsíl.
Bijnor	Bijnor (except parganas Chandpur and Basta).
Meerut	Bághpat.
Muzaffarnagar	Muzaffarnagar (except pargana Gurdhanpur).
Sháhjahánpur	Tilhar.

In Bijnor there were eight Munsifs, but only five did any work, and only one any appreciable amount. In Meerut there were eight Munsifs at the beginning of the year, but two of them were afterwards removed for misconduct. The number of courts (118) in Muzaffarnagar was found excessive, and was reduced after the close of the year to 48. The number in Sháhjahánpur remained at 46, but a Munsif had recently to be removed for forgery. Complete statistics for the calendar year 1896 have not yet been received; but from the figures available it would appear that the suits instituted in Meerut and Muzaffarnagar were not more than half those instituted in 1895, while the number of those instituted in Bijnor, where the courts are little resorted to, remained stationary. The decrease in Meerut is attributed partly to reaction after the first rush of litigation, and partly to the fact that no successors have as yet been appointed to the two Munsifs removed, whose circles were among the heaviest in the district. The percentage of cases contested was small, and the suits were chiefly under the classes—"on oral contracts," "for price of goods sold," and "on account stated." The courts seem to be used more in order to record debts than to decide disputes between the parties. In Meerut and Muzaffarnagar the courts are reported to be generally unpopular, and the Collector of Bijnor considers that they do not relieve the ordinary courts at all. The Collector of Sháhjahánpur, however, writes: "Looking at the small number of cases contested when combined with the low percentage of cases transferred, and other complaints made against the working of the Munsifs, the Village Court may be said to have started under good auspices."

SEC. XI.—MAPS.

112. The work of reproduction of the district maps of the North-Western Provinces series is now approaching completion in the Survey Office, Calcutta, and that of the tahsíli maps of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh series has been brought to a close in this office on the 31st December 1896, when the services of the extra draftsmen employed for the purpose were dispensed with. The map of the Naini Tal district was photo-zincographed in the year under report; that of the Garhwál district, which will be published shortly, is the last of the 13 unfinished district maps of the North-Western Provinces series transferred by this office at the close of 1887 to the Survey Office, Calcutta, for reproduction by the photo-zincographic process. The only tahsíli maps of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh series, which have not been reproduced by the Board's map department, are those of Pauri in Garhwál, and Gonda and Atraula in the Gonda district. The former district has only recently been cadastrally surveyed, and the latter will soon be and if new tahsíl maps are to be prepared they should be on the basis of the fresh survey. Excluding these tahsíls, the Board have republished since 1875 130 tahsíli maps, 14 of which were completed during the calendar year 1896. It has, however, to be noticed in this connection that, since the work of reproduction of tahsíli maps began, 22 years ago, the maps of many tahsílis have gone out of print, while others are obsolete owing to territorial and other changes or to a fresh survey having been made. The Board have accordingly addressed Government separately in their letter No. $\frac{3580}{XI-80}$, dated 26th December 1896, as to the arrangement which should in future be made to provide tahsíli maps fully up to date for the use of district establishments.

SEC. XII.—ECONOMIC HISTORY.

113. The general character of the year has been described in other sections of the report. It was, on the whole, one of agricultural depression, which in Bundelkhand and elsewhere deepened into famine. Deficient winter rains caused a large demand for canal water where it was available, and the commencement of a period of dry seasons, following on several years of excessive rain, had the effect of emphasising to the agricultural classes the advantages of artificial irrigation. The monsoon of 1896, like its predecessor, ceased at an unusually early date, and the prices of food grains rose to a very high level towards the close of the year. The economic sections of the district and divisional reports (which, as usual, are submitted for the perusal of Government) are, as it is natural to expect, more occupied with present prospects than with the conditions of the past year, and the keynote they generally strike is that of impending scarcity. The period of stress, however, through which the Provinces are now passing belongs rather to the history of the current year than to that of 1895-96. The circumstances of the year induced many embarrassed proprietors to apply for the assistance of Government in the Court of Wards' department in the management of their estates: and estates which came under the control of the Court were exceptionally numerous and important. In another direction also the aid afforded by Government was much appreciated, takávi advances for wells and for seed having been given to landlords, as well as to tenants, with a free hand.

The remaining matters of importance mentioned in the report may be briefly referred to. The need for more and better roads in most of the districts of the Meerut division, in Etáwah and in Almora, is discussed. Besides these, however, there are several districts in which communication by road requires development, and it is to be hoped that the new system, by which District Boards will be rendered to a greater extent financially independent than they have been hitherto, will enable them to take this matter up more methodically. Several branch railways were under construction during the year, and the earthwork afforded employment to a number of people. Among them were the Bengal and North-Western Railway extensions in the eastern districts, the Rae Bareli-Benares and the Moghal Sarai-Gya extensions, the Najibabad-Kotdwara branch in Bijnor, and the extension in the north of Bahraich. The question of drainage is noticed in most of the reports from the Meerut division. The Collector of Muzaffarnagar lays stress on a point which does not always receive sufficient attention when a new drain is constructed discharging into a natural drainage channel—the necessity of seeing that it is capable of dealing with the extra volume of water—and gives as an instance the Katha nadi, which cannot carry off the extra water which is discharged by drains recently constructed in the Saháranpur district.

Among miscellaneous matters of interest, a few may be noticed. In Dehra Dún the tea crop of 1895 was the best ever known. In Agra the establishment of the new John Spinning Mills was an event of more than local interest. In Bánda the introduction of the khesari pulse (Lathyrus sativus) as a staple food grain is a noticeable feature; but the Collector does not mention if its habitual consumption led to the injurious results it has in certain other districts. An interesting fact in connection with the resources of the people is reported from Gházipur. Rupees and half rupees of 1835 were being withdrawn from circulation, and, as the year progressed and as old hoards had to be broken into, such coins were received in gradually increasing numbers. In the Gorakhpur division, especially from Azamgarh, emigration was more than usually brisk, though this was not the case in Benares, probably owing to a closer supervision of recruiters.

Chapter V.—SETTLEMENT.

REVISION OF SETTLEMENT IN TEMPORARILY-SETTLED DISTRICTS.

114. As explained in last year's report, survey operations under the recent scheme are not essentially connected with settlement, and are dealt with in the chapter of this report relating to land records. The present chapter deals with the progress made in the assessment of the revenue demand and in revision of records in those districts only in which it was undertaken in accordance with the custom usual in former years as a part of settlement operations.

It will be convenient to deal first with those districts in which settlements were undertaken under the system formerly in vogue. In all districts, in which a complete settlement record has been prepared, settlement operations are now drawing to a close.

115. Budaun.—In this district the revision of maps and field record work had ended before the beginning of the year 1895-96, and the attestation of the new records has now been completed. The attestation work done during the year was the whole of pargana Usehat and in 1,241 mahâls in parganas Ujhani, Budaun and Salimpur. The fairing of records in parganas Islamnagar and Satasi has been completed. In Bisauli, Sahaswan and Kot it was practically complete at the end of the year, and in Ujhani it has been half done. A beginning has also been made in the Budaun pargana. The work of fairing remains to be taken in hand in parganas Usehat and Salimpur. The area inspected for purposes of assessment was 874 square miles; 496 square miles of this were inspected by the Settlement Officer and the remainder by the Assistant Settlement Officer. Parganas Bisauli, Satasi, Sahaswan, Kot, the remaining portion of Islamnagar and 53·7 square miles of Ujhani were assessed during the year. Reports for the Rajpura, Islamnagar and Satasi parganas have been submitted, and the sanction of Government has been received to the proposals in regard to pargana Rajpura. Subsidiary work connected with the records and the fixation of rents has been well kept up to date. The case work was heavy, but the arrears left over small. The Settlement Officer and Assistant Settlement Officer have so far been able themselves to decide all enhancement applications not settled by a compromise, and it is hoped that, heavy as the work has become, it will in future be possible to maintain this procedure. The cost of the work during the year was Rs. 79,746 or Rs. 40-1-6 per square mile, and the total cost from the commencement of the operations has been Rs. 2,63,009 or Rs. 132-3-8 per square mile.

116. Bijnor.—In Bijnor, as explained in last year's report, the preparation of a complete revision of maps and settlement record was originally undertaken. The record for five parganas was completed under these orders. In the remaining parganas it was determined that a record on the new system should be prepared—the patwaris' annual records being prepared with more than ordinary care after a full revision of maps—and that formal attestation should be undertaken for khewats only. From these amended instructions the forest villages which had to be completely re-surveyed were excepted. The field operations for the year consisted of the revision and bringing up to date of the maps and annual records of parganas Seohara, Afzalgarh and Barhapura: 757 villages comprising 929 mahâls were brought up to date. The attestation work commenced in Nehtor, Najibabad and Dhampur last year, was completed during the year. The 95 villages in parganas Afzalgarh, Najibabad and Barhapura, comprising an area of 169 square miles, which remained to be done last year, were cadastrally surveyed during the year under report, under the supervision of Mr. Scott, Superintendent, Land Records Surveys. The cost of the work was Rs. 5,049 or Rs. 30 per square mile. The cost was enhanced by the delays and difficulties of obtaining labour in jungle tracts and in working through heavy jungle tracts to isolated patches of cultivation. The fairing out of the records of paraganas Najibabad, Dhampur, Seohara, Afzalgarh and Barhapura has been carried out in accordance with the orders of Government. Including the pargana of Mandawar, three other parganas were inspected by the Settlement Officer and Assistant Settlement Officer. The work has now been brought up to date, and the programme laid down by the Board has been worked up to. The area inspected was 425 square miles. The total cost of the settlement operations up to date has been Rs. 1,41,553 or Rs. 99-2-0 per square mile.

117. Garhwál.—Settlement operations were closed during the year by Notification No. $\frac{3010}{\text{I.—556A}}$, dated the 18th August 1896, and the only expenditure that will now have to be met is the cost of printing and despatching the cadastral maps. Assessments were during the year declared in parganas Badhan, Chandpur, Dewalgarh, Nagpur, Painkhanda, Ganga Salan, Malla Salan, Talla Salan and Dasauli. The total enhancement in these is Rs. 42,100 or Rs. 50·28 per cent. on the former demand. The total expenditure incurred in survey and settlement up to the 30th September 1896 was Rs. 5,28,084. Of this Rs. 60,841 or Rs. 35-4-11 per square mile under operation was spent on the traverse; Rs. 2,61,625 or Rs. 275-1-6 per square mile on the cadastral survey, and Rs. 2,05,618 or Rs. 207-8-5 per square mile on settlement.

118. Of the Oudh districts, Unao, Partábgarh, Rae Bareli and Sultánpur only have completely revised their maps and records.

119. In Unao the only part of the settlement work left uncompleted at the beginning of the year 1895-96 was the final report. This has now been completed and printed, and is being reviewed by the Settlement Commissioner. Settlement operations were closed under Notification No. $\frac{3080}{\text{I—709A.}}$, dated the 4th December 1895, in the last pargana of this district. There are still, however, 36 appeals pending in the Deputy Commissioner's Court in connection with the settlement, and, to make it possible for the Deputy Commissioner to hear them, the Board have asked Government to invest him with the powers of a Settlement Officer under section 51 of the Oudh Revenue Act.

120. Partábgarh.—The work during the year in this district was almost confined to the operations necessary after the third revision of assessment in pargana Patti, and after the declaration of assessments in the other parganas. There was a good deal of work during the year in connection with the determination of under-proprietors' rent under section 40 of the Oudh Rent Act, and the distribution of assessments. The total expenditure on account of settlement operations in the district amounted to Rs. 2,71,132: this gives a rate of Rs. 187-14-4 per square mile. The final report of the settlement has been completed and printed, but, as the revenue assessed on sub-settled and leased villages has recently been revised, settlement operations cannot be considered to be finally ended.

121. Rae Bareli.—The work in connection with the fairing of records that remained to be done last year was finished during the year. The records of six parganas were made over to the District Officer during the year, and the records of pargana Simrauta and of tahsíl Salon after the close of the year. Records for other parganas await the entry of the new jamas. Inspection reports of parganas Bachhrawan, Kumhrawan, Hardoi, Rokha, Parshadipur and Salon have been submitted during the year, and the revised jamas in parganas Rae Bareli, Dalmau, Simrauta, Rokha, Parshadipur and Salon were declared during the year. The only work remaining in Rae Bareli is connected with the distribution of jamas and the fixation of under-proprietary rents. The expenditure during the year was Rs. 32,880, and the total cost of settlement operations Rs. 2,29,573 or Rs. 131-4-2 per square mile.

122. Sultánpur.—Is the last of the districts in which the maps and records have been entirely revised during the currency of settlement operations. The remaining parganas Baraunsa and Miranpur were assessed during the year. The rents of under-proprietors and occupancy tenants were fixed in parganas Gaura Jamun and both the Isaulis. The whole of the work in connection with the five parganas, for which the sanction of Government to the proposals has been received, has been finished completely. The charges during the year amounted to Rs. 79,800. The total cost of settlement in this district amounts to Rs. 2,42,063, or Rs. 141-4-11 per square mile. The intricacy of the tenures and records is responsible for a large part of this charge. The enhancement proposed over the whole district, exclusive of revenue on muafi properties, amounts to Rs. 2,88,698.

In the remaining Oudh districts under settlement, the work of revising maps and records was either not undertaken at settlement or stopped in 1894 after brief progress had been made with it.

123. Lucknow.—In Lucknow the work of settlement was from the first confined to assessment. The sanction of Government to the assessments of the entire district was received during the year. The work connected with the declaration of jama, execution of agreements by zamindárs, disposal of objections to assessments, distribution of revenue, and the determination of rents under section 40 of Act XVII of 1876 was taken up, and was nearly finished by the end of the year. The expenditure during the year was Rs. 26,385. The total cost has been Rs. 76,528, or Rs. 79-2-3 per square mile.

124. Hardoi.—The second half of the Bilgram tahsíl and the whole of the Shahabad tahsíl, 727 square miles, were inspected and assessed during the year. This completes the regular settlement of the district, with the exception of a few scattered villages. Government sanction to the assessments of tahsíls Sandila and Hardoi and the first half of tahsíl Bilgram has been received and, except in two or three villages, the assessments have been declared. The expenditure during the year was Rs. 50,431, and the total cost of the operations up to the 30th September 1896 was Rs. 1,98,535 or Rs. 85-7-5 per square mile.

125. Sitapur.—The Settlement Officer inspected the whole of tahsíl Sitapur, 569 square miles, and re-inspected parganas Sitapur, Kundri South, and Sadarpur, 289 square miles, and parts of the Misrikh tahsíl and parganas Tambaur and Kundri North. The Assistant Settlement Officer, Mr. Last, inspected and assessed the parganas of Biswan, Tambaur and Kundri North (576 square miles). The tahsíls of Sitapur and Biswan, 1,145 square miles, have also been assessed, and eight parganas have been re-assessed. Reports have been submitted for 11 parganas comprising 1,319 square miles, and revised reports for five parganas. The assessments of parganas Manwan, Bari, Mahmudabad, Hargaon and Ramkot have been sanctioned, and give an enhancement of Rs. 1,01,725, or Rs. 33 per cent. on the old jama. The cost of the settlement operations up to date has been Rs. 72,343, or Rs. 32-1-4 per square mile.

126. Bara Banki.—The assessments of the remaining 5 parganas were made and reported during the year. This completes the assessments of the whole district. The area inspected and assessed during the year was 588 square miles. The jamas of parganas Fatehpur, Ramnagar, Muhammadpur, Bado Sarai and of Daryabad, Surajpur, Mawai and Basorhi were sanctioned during the year. The total expenditure up to date amounts to Rs. 1,70,208: this gives a rate of Rs. 97-13-2 per square mile. The compilation of the final report, preparation of mauza and pargana registers, copies of assessment notes for the Board's Office, completion of the phantbandi papers for the parganas for which jamas have not been sanctioned, still remain to be done. The determination of the under-proprietary and sub-settlement rents have also to be done, and it will probably be necessary to ask Government to cancel the notification declaring settlement operations in parganas Nawabganj, Partabganj, Satrikh and Sidhaur to be closed. A separate report will, if necessary, be submitted to Government on this subject.

127. Fyzabad.—The assessment reports of four parganas—Tanda, Surhurpur, Birhar and Majhaura—were submitted during the year. In addition to this, the remaining six parganas, comprising 1,103 square miles, were inspected and assessed and reports have been submitted. The special statement called for by Government with reference to these 10 parganas were also prepared and submitted. The total cost of the settlement operations in the district during the year has been Rs. 41,159 or Rs. 23-13-7 per square mile.

128. Whilst settlement operations are drawing to a close in the majority of districts in which they were being carried on during the past year, arrangements were made to start settlement work in various other districts. In Meerut work was actually commenced during the year reported on. The district had been under cadastral survey for the past two years, and it was originally intended that no revision of records should be undertaken by the Settlement Department, the annual papers prepared by the Survey being accepted for settlement purposes. The fact that there had never been in the Meerut district any authoritative determination of the sír area led to orders being issued by Government for the attestation by the Settlement Department of all entries regarding sír and khudkasht, and subsequent representations by the local officers have led to the extension to the entire area of the provisions of the settlement rules regarding revision of records. A complete record will now be prepared in Meerut by the Settlement Officer. Sháhjahánpur, Lalitpur and the Oudh district of Bahraich have also come under settlement at the close of the year reported on. For Sháhjahánpur, a special enquiry, made with a view to determining whether the revenue could be summarily re-adjusted by the Collector, resulted in its being considered necessary to appoint a special Settlement Officer. For Lalitpur a special Settlement Officer and an Assistant Settlement Officer have also been appointed. So far, the proposal that no settlement record should be prepared has held good for both these districts; but the subject has recently attracted the attention of the Senior Member whilst on tour in these districts and in Bijnor, and a report on the subject will be submitted for the orders of Government. There is reason to doubt whether the plan of re-surveying districts, without at the same time submitting the record prepared with reference to the new maps to the test of attestation, is likely to be successful in the North-Western Provinces districts, however well suited it may be to Oudh where the sír area is limited and where occupancy rights exist only to a trifling extent and rarely accrue to new tenants. Settlement operations, including the preparation of a complete record, have also recently been started in the Gursarai estate in the Jhánsi district under Mr. Fremantle, who has been placed on special duty with a view to making enquiry into the assessments of the Bundelkhand districts.

129. Abstract statements of the work done during the year and of the cost of settlement operations are appended :—

PART II.

PATWARIS AND KANUNGOS.

130. A detailed account of the working of the Department is given in the report of the Director of Land Records and Agriculture, which is appended, and the remarks which follow will be confined to the more important matters with which it deals.

131. Survey operations, of which a full account is given in paragraphs 16 and 17 of the Director's report, were continued in Meerut and Bahraich and the Lalitpur subdivision of Jhánsi, and commenced in Sháhjahánpur and Kheri. The Gursarai and Kakarbai estates in Jhánsi, as well as certain alluvial mahál in Sitapur, were also surveyed during the year, and the survey of tracts in Bijnor, begun last year, was completed. A total area of 3,269 square miles was cadastrally surveyed in all these districts. The average cost per square mile for the entire area surveyed and for which records were prepared up to the end of 1895-96 varied from Rs. 27 in Lalitpur, where the waste area is large, to Rs. 48-10-7 in Bahraich, where a large number of small fields have to be surveyed, and where the area surveyed last year for which records had to be written up was considerable. The average cost per square mile was Rs. 36-10-8. As 465 miles have been surveyed for which records have not yet been prepared and which have not been included in the area shown as completed, the actual cost per square mile is somewhat lower. This result for both survey and record writing must be pronounced satisfactory, more especially as work in certain districts is reported to have suffered from the continued absence of patwáris from their survey duties. The professional methods employed by the Provincial Survey Department have been examined and reported on by the Deputy Surveyor-General, who has, in this respect, found matter for criticism only in minor details. The work done is reported by him to be but little below professional standard. So far, work in the larger circles has been completed with the assistance of kanúngos and other persons undergoing a survey training, and by enlisting the assistance of patwáris of other circles in parganas not under survey. The supply of men to be trained is limited; and the withdrawal of patwáris from their own circles for survey work elsewhere has caused confusion in district work, and is often impossible when settlement closely follows survey. It has therefore been recognised that instead of completing the survey of the area under operation in a single year, as at present, work should be spread over two years, during which time each patwári will complete his own circle. This will, to get a corresponding outturn, considerably widen the area to be supervised. The need for assistance to officers in charge of surveys has already been recognised, and two assistants for the provinces have been sanctioned; but the question whether an assistant is not necessary in each district has still to be considered. The methods of recruiting for the Provincial Survey Department are also under consideration in view of the criticism of the Deputy Surveyor-General.

Establishment.

132. Proposals to secure further assistance were under submission when the preceding year closed. The survey establishment under the Director had been, during that year, increased by the staff needed for the Sháhjahánpur and Kheri surveys. The staff wanted for Bareilly and two extra assistant survey officers to be available for employment where wanted have since been added. The alterations in the ordinary establishment under the Director's control have been slight, and call for no special notice. The number of temporary and permanent promotions of kanúngos to naib tahsíldárships and tahsíldarships compares favourably with previous years. The question as to advancement of kanúngo inspectors has been disposed of by the Board agreeing to accept a nomination for a tahsíldárship from the Director once in three years.

Revision of patwaris' circles.

133. The final scale of patwaris' circles and salaries sanctioned for the Pilibhít district was introduced during the year. For the reasons explained by the Director, the introduction of the revised scheme has been postponed by the Board for two years for Muttra, and for a year each for the Agra and Etah districts. Proposals for the revision in parganas Malla Salan, Talla Salan, Ganga Salan, Chandpur, Badhan, Dewalgarh, and Nagpur of the Garhwál district also received the sanction of Government during the year. In the resumed Gursarai estate of the Jhánsi district, the revision will be taken up on the completion of survey operations; whilst in Kheri and Sitapur the question is still under the consideration of the local authorities. The scheme for Gonda has been submitted for the approval of Government since the close of the year. The revision in certain districts in Oudh, where the introduction of a system of personal pay for patwáris has been authorized by the Board on the Director's recommendation, is kept in abeyance pending sanction to general rules on the subject, which are under preparation.

Education of patwáris and kanúngos.

134. The number of patwáris and assistants (exclusive of those in Almora and Garhwal) who have passed through the school course shows much improvement, the percentage having risen from 79 to 82, while the percentage of men who have still to qualify has fallen from 7 to 5. The largest number of untrained patwáris is still in Allahabad (285) and Basti (382). Many of the unpassed patwáris in Allahabad are reported to be now too old for examination; while in Basti endeavours are being made by the Collector to reduce the number of unqualified patwáris by removing all useless and incompetent men. In Cawnpore and Azamgarh the number of unpassed men has been considerably reduced through the exertions of the Collectors. The number of patwáris exempted from examination has fallen from 4,140 to 3,631, a marked reduction being effected during the year in Sháhjahánpur and Agra. In Muttra and Bareilly no reductions were found possible, while in Mainpuri, Allahabad and Benares the number of exemptions has increased.

The standard of examination at patwáris' schools continued to vary for each district, and a separate report on the proposed transfer of these schools to the Educational Department, or, alternatively, the adoption of measures to secure a uniform provincial standard of examination is promised by the Director.

The system by which candidates for kanúngoships are trained in survey parties has undoubtedly worked well and secured a far higher standard of survey knowledge than the former system of examination.

Residence of patwáris.

135. The subject of the residence of patwáris within their circles continued to receive attention, and further progress has been made during the year, the percentage of resident patwáris having risen from 70 to 71. The variations in districts where greatest changes have taken place have been sufficiently explained by the Director. The improved results in Jaunpur, Gorakhpur and Basti are specially creditable to Collectors. The Commissioner of Gorakhpur's proposal to introduce a system of advances to enable the patwáris in Basti to provide houses for themselves has been separately reported on. In Oudh the question of residence remains in abeyance until circles have been re-arranged and settlement operations are over.

Filing and testing of patwáris' papers.

136. There has been a still further improvement in the punctuality with which the village papers were filed during the year, and the results would have been even more satisfactory had not the settlement or survey operations interfered with this work in some districts. In the districts not under settlement or survey, 92·2 to 92·5 per cent. of the records on an average were filed in time, and only 0·4 per cent. were over a month late. The punctuality was most marked in Muzaffarnagar, Budaun, Jálaun, Benares and Basti. The percentage of fields tested by kanúngos has slightly risen, i.e., from 7·27 to 7·80. The prescribed minimum of 7 per cent. was in the aggregate more than reached, and it was much exceeded in Saháranpur, Budaun and Naini Tal, where over 10 per cent. of the fields were tested. Less than 7 per cent. were tested in 12 districts, in five of which the defect has been attributed to survey and settlement operations; while in the remaining seven districts the reason for the deficiency has not been given: it appears to have been due in some cases to the absence of a number of kanúngos who were deputed to learn surveying. The results of testing by superior officers have, on the whole, been satisfactory. These officers found a higher percentage of error than kanúngos in several districts, and in some instances the difference was, as the Director notices, so striking as to point to grave neglect of duty on the part of the kanúngos. As regards the testing by superior officers of patwaris' papers generally, the Director remarks that "too much attention is given to the minutiæ of the khasra, while the rent-roll, the map and the siyaha are comparatively neglected." Special attention of district officers will be called to this matter. Several cases of concealment of rent came to light in Aligarh and Hardoi during the year under report, and one of serious concealment was discovered in Farukhabad. The present jamabandis in the Basti district also are said to be largely fabricated, and rents systematically under-stated. The Collector will be asked to report what progress has been made in correcting the records.

Map corrections in Oudh.

137. Good progress has been made in the work of map correction in Fyzabad and Gonda. In Unao, Partábgarh, Rae Bareli and Sultánpur this work has been completed by the settlement officials, while in Sitapur it was being carried out by the district officers, but has been interrupted by settlement operations. The Survey Department has begun to supply Bahraich and Kheri with new maps. Survey classes for the instruction of patwáris have been formed in the Gonda district, which will shortly be cadastrally surveyed.

Tahsíl registers.

138. The progress made during the year in the matter of the use and maintenance of pargana books is summarised in paragraph 12 of the Director's report. Increased attention has been generally given to this matter. The proposals for certain modifications in the rules referred to by the Director have been approved by Government since the close of the year. Revised pargana books and mauza registers for the districts of Bulandshahr, Saháranpur and Jhánsi were completed in the preceding year, and work had commenced in Gorakhpur and Basti towards the close of that year. During the year under report mauza registers for all the villages in these two latter districts have been compiled, and bound volumes supplied to several tahsíls in them. New tahsíl hand-books, pargana books and village registers have been prepared under the supervision of Settlement Officers in the districts of Lucknow, Unao, Rae Bareli and Partábgarh, while in Hardoi, Sitápur, Fyzabad, Bara Banki, Sultánpur and Budaun the work is in progress.

Survey and boundary marks.

139. Lists of boundary and survey marks have been prepared in all districts except in some tahsíls of districts under settlement. The Director's suggestion to direct the use of stone instead of masonry pillars has recently been sanctioned by the Board, and details as to a standard form of pillar are being worked out.

Amendment of rules.

140. All the important changes in the rules made during the year have been noticed in the Director's paragraph 18. The draft rules for the guidance of patwáris in the Kumaún and Garhwál-Bhábar will form the subject of a separate reference to Government.

Director's note on agricultural depression.

141. A note by the Director on agricultural depression during recent years, which has been prepared in accordance with the orders of Government, is appended to his report.

The Director notices that the scope of the enquiry, a summary of which he desires to present in his report on this subject, is as yet insufficiently understood by certain district officers, and his remarks and those made in last year's report may be commended to the notice of all district officials. The object of the district reports is to secure that the information, which, under existing orders, ought to have been embodied in detail in the pargana books, should be collated and recorded in a readily accessible form for the district as a whole, and that deterioration which is important as regards extent or avoidable should not escape from notice. The district reports for a series of years should contain a fairly complete indication of the agricultural needs of the district. Remedial action will ordinarily, where it is considered practicable, be separately provided for by officers responsible for district or divisional administration. The Director's consolidated report secures for the superior authorities an opportunity of judging whether action on an extended scale is desirable, or whether due action has been taken by district officers in regard to less extensive requirements.

Certain matters referred to in the Director's summary of district reports appear to call for notice. It is suggested by the Deputy Commissioner of Garhwál that the frequent recurrence of acute distress in certain parganas of his district is essentially due not to temporary causes—recurring bad seasons or agricultural deterioration—but to an increase in the population beyond the standard for which the home-grown food-supply is in a succession of years sufficient. It is contended that, whilst the produce of superfluities, were they readily exchangeable for food-grains, is sufficient to secure general prosperity, the excessive cost alike of export and of import owing to the want of communications reduces the earnings of the agricultural classes below the standard of earlier years. This view the Board is not, without fuller enquiry, prepared to accept. It is true that distress has been recurrent of late years, and that its effect is to a certain extent cumulative; but there is reason to believe that the climatic character of the various years of distress within the last decade has been uniform, and such as to have been likely to cause distress in a Himalayan district at any period of its history. The question requires further investigation, and will no doubt be fully dealt with in the settlement report which the present Deputy Commissioner is now preparing. At the same time the Board have no hesitation in drawing attention to the value in Himalayan districts of improvement of communications. The benefit which would be conferred by central lines of cart-road, with well arranged feeder roads for the ordinary traffic by pack animals, cannot be over-estimated. In the outer barrier of low-lying and unhealthy valleys which separate the most populated tracts of Garhwál from the plains, roads for wheeled traffic are of special value.

In the plains districts the character of the agricultural deterioration reported for the past year is, as might have been expected, entirely different from that dealt with in last year's report. Damage by flood or excess of moisture is still referred to at length, but usually because it was so important in earlier years. During the past year it has in general greatly decreased. The theory of the District Engineer of Moradabad that the deterioration from damp in the bhur tracts of that district is due to the formation of an impermeable layer of clay a few feet below the surface is, so far as the Board are aware, now advanced for the first time. What reason there is to believe in the recent formation of such a layer is not stated. It is believed that the continued excess of rainfall in years before 1895-96 would in itself, without alteration in the subsoil, be sufficient to account for the deterioration; but the question whether the theory advanced is supported by actual observation is one which might well be referred to the Department of Public Works. As regards drainage, the Director's remarks and suggestions are worthy of careful consideration. The amendment of the law to facilitate private drainage schemes was suggested in the Director's report of last year; and the Board can only repeat the commentary then made that the need for, and provisions of, such legislative enactments can only be decided on after the difficulties connected with one or two selected schemes have been worked out. The remarks of the Director as to the dangers of entirely emptying natural depressions are fully approved by the Board. Each and every scheme in districts not supplied with canal irrigation must decide where the loss of potential irrigation becomes more important than the gain by the reclamation of swamped land. The question of the utilization of drainage cuts as stores of water for irrigation in dry years is one which might be commended to the notice of the Irrigation Department. In canal-irrigated tracts the need for such storage is of course less important than elsewhere; and it is believed that, in districts where there is no canal irrigation, drainage cuts are, as a rule, utilized in dry seasons or after the cessation of the rains for purposes of irrigation.

The part of the report on agricultural deterioration most directly concerned with the past year is that which relates to damage by drought and the remedial measures to be adopted. The extension of the system of canal irrigation already occupies the attention of Government, and whether the extensive scheme for the Sarda Canal is or is not considered desirable or possible, the utilization of minor hill streams in a system of petty canals, such as have been constructed by Government in the Bhâbar and the Bareilly district and by private landholders in Basti, calls for separate consideration. Measures to increase the area protected by well irrigation, in tracts in which canal irrigation does not exist, deserve, where practicable, the fullest encouragement. The attention of the Board has already been drawn to the inefficiency of the rule by which compensation for improvement by extension of irrigation is at present permitted at settlement, and proposals for amendment of the rule to allow of a more liberal scale of compensation are under consideration, and will be submitted for the orders of Government. Mr. Moreland's suggestions as to the offer of a bonus for the construction of wells to some extent coincide with the suggestions now being considered in connection with the settlement rule, but go further in providing for such a bonus being offered by reduction of revenue within the period of settlement.

I have the honor to be,

SIR,

Your most obedient servant,

D. C. BAILLIE,

Secretary.

The following changes were made during the year:—one supervisor-kanúngo, one assistant registrar and four chainmen were sanctioned for the Garhwál district in consequence of the extra work involved in the maintenance of the new settlement records. A supervisor-kanúngo and chainman were also sanctioned for the resumed Gursarai estate in Jhánsi, while one supervisor-kanúngo was transferred to the head "Registrars" in the Garhwál district. In Fatehpur one registrar-kanúngo was reduced owing to the amalgamation of Kora and Kaliyanpur tahsíls. One chainman was added to the patwári school establishment in the Etah district. The increase in the number of patwáris is due partly to the revision of patwáris' circles in certain districts and partly to the addition of 41 patwáris of the Gursarai Estate in Jhánsi, who are now paid by Government. Of the districts of Saháranpur, Meerut Cawnpore, Sháhjahánpur, Moradabad and Agra, in which the temporary reduction of the post of assistant record-keeper for want of a separate room for the patwáris' papers was noticed in last year's report, adequate accommodation has been provided in the first four districts and assistant record-keepers appointed there. Three copyists from the Patwari Fund have also been sanctioned for the Cawnpore and Basti districts, where the patwaris' papers are now separate from the revenue records.

Subjoined is a memorandum showing in detail the number of temporary and permanent promotions of kanúngos to the posts of naib-tahsíldárs and tahsíldárs during the last four years:—

	1892-93.	1893-94.	1894-95.	1895-96.
Temporary appointments as naib tahsíldárs	10	12	20	23
Permanent appointments as naib tahsíldárs	2	4	1	1
Temporary appointments as tahsíldárs	2	4	2	2
Miscellaneous appointments	3	2	2	1

It will be seen that, while the number of temporary appointments as naib-tahsíldárs has increased considerably, little progress has so far been made in securing permanent promotion for the department. Five kanúngos were again nominated for appointment as naib-tahsíldárs, and it may be expected that as vacancies occur in that grade the number of permanent promotions will rise; but the number of kanúngos is large, and opportunities of securing distinction are not numerous, so that the prospects of the staff, though much improved, are not yet altogether satisfactory. The question of promoting kanúngo-inspectors noticed in last year's report has attracted the attention of the Board, but no orders have yet been passed.

2. Revision of patwaris' circles and salaries.—The introduction of the final scale of patwaris' circles and salaries was completed on 1st April 1896 in the Pilibhít district. It is still in progress in Muttra, Agra and Etah. In Muttra it was, on the recommendation of the Commissioner of the Division, proposed to enforce the final scale on 1st April 1896, personal allowances being granted to meet hard cases; but the Board have allowed a further extension of two years up to 1st April 1898 for the complete introduction of the scale. In the Agra district the reductions were considered excessive, and a revised scale, involving a permanent increase of Rs. 281 per mensem and grant of personal allowances, amounting to Rs. 130 per mensem, was submitted to the Board of Revenue, but owing to the prevailing scarcity the introduction of the revised scale has been postponed for a year. Proposals to allow a further extension of two years in Etah have been submitted to the Board. In addition to the increase in the kanúngo staff of Garhwál required to maintain the new settlement records, an extra staff of seven patwáris, at Rs. 8 per mensem each, was sanctioned in previous years for parganas Barasyun and Chandkot, while an increase of 21 patwáris and an assistant for parganas Malla Salan, Talla Salan, Ganga Salan, Chandpur, Badhan, Dewalgarh and Nagpur has received the sanction of Government during the year under report. Proposals for a further increase of four patwáris, one chainman and three kanungos have been submitted to the Board of Revenue. In the resumed Gursarai Estate of the Jhánsi district it was proposed to reduce the number of patwáris' circles from 40 to 34, and that of patwáris from 48 to 37, effecting a saving of Rs. 203 per annum in the staff of the Estate; but, under instructions from Government, the submission of the final proposals has been deferred until the completion of the survey operations now in progress. The proposal to raise the pay of the patwári staff of Gonda, involving an extra expenditure of Rs. 6,918 per annum in the Balrampur Estate, and of Rs. 1,586 per annum in the rest of the district, has received the approval of the Board of Revenue; the question of improving the position of the patwáris of Kheri and Sitápur districts at an additional cost of Rs. 10,376 is under the consideration of the local authorities. It has been decided to introduce the system of personal pay for patwáris in Oudh, and general rules for revision in that province are being prepared. Pending their sanction, the revisional schemes for certain districts, noticed in last year's report, have been kept in abeyance.

3. Patwári schools.—Much improvement is noticeable in this branch during the year under report. The total number of patwáris and assistants in the United Provinces (exclusive of Garhwál and Almora) was 29,350, of whom 24,112 or 82·15 per cent. had passed through the school course as against 78·72 per cent. in the preceding year. The number of patwáris exempted from examination fell from 4,140 to 3,631, and the number of those who had still to pass, from 2,106 to 1,607. Subjoined is a statement showing for each district the number of patwaris passed, exempted, and neither passed nor exempted:—

In the North-Western Provinces the exemptions of previous years have been examined in detail by officers on the district staff, and have been withdrawn where they appeared to have been granted on insufficient grounds. The following statement shows the districts in which exemptions were numerous up to 1893-94, and the decrease which has been effected in them during the last two years :—

16. Allahabad	13·61	10·55	12·85
17. Benares	36·66	5·05	14·76

During the year a marked reduction has been made in Sháhjahánpur and Agra, and the numbers have been reduced in ten other districts. No reductions were found possible in Muttra and Bareilly, while in Mainpuri, Allahabad, and especially Benares, the number of exemptions has increased.

The large reductions effected in Agra and Sháhjahánpur have resulted in a corresponding increase in the number of unpassed patwáris in those districts. With the exception of Sháhjahánpur, all the districts in which the presence of a large number of untrained patwáris was noticed in last year's report, show a considerable improvement, as the following figures indicate :—

	1894-95.	1895-96.
Mainpuri	10·58	4·79
Sháhjahánpur	10·04	15·43

Basti	43·81	33·80
Azamgarh	14·82	4·85
Naini Tal	23·85	13·85
Lucknow	15·93	9·92

In Oudh the exemptions are large: in Unao 21·90 per cent; Rae Bareli 27·80; Hardoi 26·54; Fyzabad 23·18, and Sultánpur 24·29. Now that settlement operations in these districts are drawing to a close, it will be well to have these exemptions reconsidered, as has been done in the North-Western Provinces.

Returns are received from 46 districts; the following abstract shows the present position in education :—

In 15	districts	the number of passed patwáris	exceeds 90	per cent.
„ 12	ditto	ditto	is between 80 and 90	„
„ 16	ditto	ditto	„ 70 and 80	„
„ 3	ditto	ditto	„ below 70	„

Allahabad, Basti and Rae Bareli are the most backward.

The patwári teachers having returned from the survey parties to which they had been attached for instruction, the schools were open in almost all districts during the year under report, and there was a considerable increase in the attendance of patwáris and assistants, who numbered 1,056 as compared with 676 in 1894-95. Of these, 560 or 55 per cent. passed the examination; last year the percentage was 24. The number of candidates instructed in the schools rose from 1,562 to 2,691, of whom 1,090 passed against 577 in 1894-95. The following table shows the number of pupils that attended the schools in each division, the number passed, and the financial results:—

Judged by the percentage of passed pupils the following districts show good results:—

Sháhjahánpur	100	per cent.	passed.
Hamírpur	98	„	„
Gházipur	92	„	„
Partábgarh	77	„	„
Jaunpur	77	„	„
Cawnpore	76	„	„

The schools in Etáwah, Gonda, Bijnor, Bánda, Bareilly, Muzaffarnagar, Aligarh, Fyzabad and Sultánpur show very poor results when judged by the same test; but the standard of examination varies for each district, and the test is consequently of little value. Opinions are being collected regarding the suggested transfer of patwári schools to the Educational Department, and the matter will be separately referred.

4. Annual examination of kanúngos.—The special kanúngo class attached to the Agricultural School at Cawnpore having been discontinued, candidates for kanungoships are admitted to the school in the ordinary course, and receive separate instruction in the special duties of a kanúngo. During the year under report, 14 candidates of this class were admitted into the school. The Superintendent, Land Records Surveys, who examined the candidates in surveying, reports that they have been very carefully instructed in the present method of surveying villages, and are capable of making village plans unaided. Besides these, 186 candidates for kanúngoships from several districts were attached to survey parties for instruction and obtained certificates of proficiency from the officers in charge. The annual divisional examination of kanúngos was held, as usual, during the rainy season for all divisions except Bareilly, where it has been held since the close of the year. Out of 117 persons, who appeared for examination, 13 were patwáris and 101 were candidates other than patwáris. Thirty-five passed in all subjects and 80 in part. Of the number of successful candidates, 19 have not yet received practical training in surveying and will be required to join a survey party.

Forty-eight candidates for aminships were also examined against 62 in 1894-95: 7 passed in all subjects and 40 in part.

5. Residence of patwáris.—The increased attention which is being given to enforcing the residence of patwáris within their circles was noticed last year. During the year under report further progress has been made, the percentage of resident patwáris having risen from 69·98 per cent. to 71·35 per cent. The percentage of those exempted from residence has slightly risen from 14·11 to 14·55, while that of non-residents has fallen from 15·91 to 14·10. The following table shows the number of patwáris resident, exempted, and neither resident nor exempted, in each district of the United Provinces :—

Of these the first six districts have effected some improvement as compared with last year, but in Allahabad, Gházipur, Ballia and Azamgarh the number of exemptions has somewhat increased. Most of the exemptions are reported to be nominal, as the patwáris to whom they have been granted live generally within a mile of their circles. The number of non-resident patwáris has greatly decreased in Gorakhpur and Basti. The increase in Bijnor, Sháhjahánpur and Jhánsi is said to be due to the deputation of patwáris to Settlement or to the Survey Department. So far as this is the cause, the increase is temporary only. The Commissioner of Gorakhpur suggested the introduction of a system of advances to enable the patwáris in Basti to provide houses for themselves. Under instructions from the Board of Revenue an estimate of the money that would be required for the entire division has been called for.

In Oudh, though some improvement has been effected during the year under report the number of exemptions or non-residents is still large in all districts, and necessary action will be taken as soon as circle arrangements or settlement operations are over.

6. Filing of patwáris' papers.—Appendix I. shows in district detail the dates on which the patwáris filed their more important papers. Certain parganas of Meerut, Bijnor, Hardoi, Bahraich, Sultánpur and Bara Banki, which are under settlement, have been excluded from the statement as the patwáris were employed on settlement and survey work. The following table compares the result of the year under report with that of the preceding year:—

Of the total number of 92,284 comparative area statements, 81,442 or 88·25 per cent. were filed in good time as compared with 84·02 per cent. in the preceding year; 9,607 or 10·41 per cent. were lodged within one month after the prescribed date; 404 were filed after one month, leaving 831 which were not filed till after the close of the year under report.

Of 94,137 kharíf crop statements, 79,441 or 84·38 per cent. were filed in time as compared with 83·39 per cent. in the previous year; 10,890 or 11·57 per cent. were filed within one month after the fixed date; 3,578 or 3·80 per cent. were filed after one month, leaving 228 which were not filed till the close of the year under report.

Of 92,284 rabi crop statements, 85,360 or 92·49 per cent. were filed in time against 88·80 per cent. in the previous year; 5,448 or 5·90 per cent. within one month after date due, and 1,160 or 1·26 per cent. after one month.

Of a total number of 104, 811 jamabandis, 90,464 or 86·32 per cent. as against 79·29 per cent. in 1894-95 were filed in time; 10,225 or 9·75 per cent. within one month after date due, and 2,042 after one month; the balance of 2,080 jamabandis remained to be filed at the close of the year.

The following memorandum shows the districts in which the papers were filed after one month or remained to be filed at the close of the year under report:—

The delay in the first nine districts is due to survey and settlement operations.

The increased punctuality in filing papers throughout the provinces was noticed last year. During the year under report there has been a further marked improvement. Leaving out of calculation the districts where settlement or survey operations are going on, no less than 92·5 per cent. of area and crop statements and 92·2 per cent. of jamabandis were filed in time as compared with 88 and 87 per cent. respectively, reported last year. The rest of the area and crop statements and 7·4 per cent. of the jamabandis were also filed within one month, leaving only 0·4 per cent. of the latter which were filed later. In Benares and Basti all these papers were filed in time, and in Mirzapur the only outstandings were due from one patwâri who absconded, apparently taking his papers with him. The districts of Muzaffarnagar, Budaun and Jalaun were also distinguished by marked punctuality.

7. Results of testing papers.—Appendix II. shows the extent to which patwâri papers were tested during the year. In its present form the appendix is not very easy to follow, and I reproduce below the most important figures relating to khasra testings :—

The above figures afford materials for judging the work done by superior officers, kanúngos and patwáris. Superior officers are concerned not so much with seeing that the patwári is doing his work correctly as with enforcing the supervision of the kanúngo; the amount of their important work is therefore shown by the amount of re-testing. It will be seen that in several districts the amount of re-testing was so small that no inference as to the quality of the kanúngo's work can safely be drawn from it. This is the case in Meerut, Bareilly, Bijnor, Budaun, Moradabad, Sháhjahánpur, Fatehpur, Bánda, Allahabad, Mirzapur and Gorakhpur; and in 8 out of 12 Oudh districts. In Meerut, Bijnor, Budaun, Sháhjahánpur, Rae Bareli, Sitapur, Kheri, Fyzabad, Sultánpur, Partábgarh and Bara Banki the regular testing was interrupted by survey or settlement operations; but in the other districts named no reason appears why a fair amount of re-testing should not have been done. It should, however, be remarked that in Bareilly, Moradabad, Allahabad, Gorakhpur and Gonda a large amount of testing was done, but the chief object was missed as so few of the numbers had been tested by kanúngos. That the papers were generally tested by superior officers with care is shown by the last column in the statement printed above, which gives the difference between the percentage of error found by superior officers and that arrived at by kanúngos. Superior officers found a higher percentage than kanúngos in 34 districts out of 46, and in some instances the difference was so striking as to point to grave neglect of duty on the part of the kanúngos.

The amount of work done by the kanúngos generally exceeds the prescribed minimum, but the excess is noticeable only in Saháranpur, Budaun and Naini Tal, where over 10 per cent. of the fields were tested. Less than seven per cent. were tested in 12 districts: in Bijnor, Sháhjahánpur, Sitapur, Hardoi and Kheri the defect must be attributed to survey and settlement operations; in Dehra Dún, Mainpuri, Etáwah, Pilibhít, Jhánsi, Ballia and Azamgarh the reason for the deficiency is not given; probably in some cases at least it is to be found in the deputation of part of the regular kanúngo staff for training in survey. More important than the amount of work done is its quality. Of this there are two tests in the printed statement, the percentage of the errors found in re-testing, and the different results of testing by superior officers and kanúngos. Theoretically, after a kanúngo has tested an entry, no mistakes should remain; but this ideal cannot be obtained in practice, and so long as the percentage of error is below three, the work may be considered satisfactory. This percentage is exceeded in 13 districts, but in four of these (Budaun, Sháhjahánpur, Bánda and Hardoi) the amount of re-testing was so small that the high percentage may be accidental. The figures for Budaun are striking; only 300 numbers were tested, and 55 of these were found to be wrong. The remaining nine districts are Aligarh, Farukhabad, Etah, Pilibhít, Jhánsi, Jalaun, Benares, Basti and Azamgarh, where a sufficient amount of re-testing was done, and the figures for these districts lead strongly to the conclusion that the kanúngos do not test the papers with any sort of thoroughness.

The second index to the quality of kanúngo's work cannot be applied indiscriminately: it seems, however, to show clearly that in certain districts the kanúngos were very negligent. These districts are Aligarh, Etah, Sháhjahánpur, Basti, Azamgarh, Bahraich and perhaps Unao. In Sháhjahánpur, for instance, the kanúngos found eight mistakes in 100 fields, while superior officers found 19. In Azamgarh, kanúngos could only find six mistakes where others found 23. It is questionable whether a similar inference can be drawn from the Unao figures: kanúngos were able to find more than 14 mistakes in a hundred entries, while superior officers found three mistakes in every five! The latter proportion is so abnormal that I hesitate to draw any conclusion adverse to the kanúngos.

To estimate the correctness of the patwári's work it is necessary to consider the percentage of error found by kanúngos in connection with the value of the kanúngo's test. For the whole province the kanúngos found only 4·19 errors per cent., while the percentage found by superior officers in untested papers amounted to 7·50. With few exceptions, the patwáris of all districts appear from these figures to work with a degree of accuracy that is surprising considering the character of the workers. Of districts where the amount of testing was considerable, the work was most unsatisfactory in Etah, Basti and Azamgarh, and most of all in Unao; while of districts where little testing was done, Sháhjahánpur is the worst.

Increased attention was generally paid to the testing of rent-roll entries during the year under report; but no entries were tested in Dehra Dún, Meerut, Sháhjahánpur, Naini Tal, Sultánpur and Kheri, and a very small amount of work was done in Pilibhít, Bijnor, Budaun, Benares and Lucknow. Judging by the recorded results, the rent-rolls in Azamgarh, Aligarh and Farukhabad are in great need of attention. Thirteen per cent. of the entries tested were found incorrect in Azamgarh; 18 per cent. in Aligarh, and 11 per cent. in Farukhabad; and as these districts will shortly come under settlement, every effort should be made to obtain correct rent-rolls.

As regards the testing of patwáris' papers generally by superior officers, it may be repeated that too much attention is given to the minutiæ of the khasra, while the rent-roll, the map and the siaha are comparatively neglected.

8. Concealment of rents.—The correctness or otherwise of the recorded rents has been noticed in a few of the district reports. During the cold weather testing of patwáris' papers, no serious concealments of rents were discovered in the districts of the Meerut Division except in Aligarh, where several cases came to light. The Pisawa minor's estate referred to in last year's report has been taken under the Court of Wards, and the Collector hopes that the correct rental will now be ascertained. The late guardian (who was at serious enmity with the minor's mother and other members of the family) though pressed by the Collector to disclose the truth, persisted in denying all knowledge of any concealment, and declared that he had no access to the old papers of the estate. In the Agra Division the zamíndárs of the Etáwah district, besides those of Etah mentioned last year, are said to be manipulating the rent-rolls in view of the approaching settlement. This requires the special attention of the local authorities. In Farukhabad tendency to concealment is found in tahsíl Kaimganj, and one case of serious concealment was noticed which resulted in the suspension of a supervisor-kanúngo for three months. I have recently inspected this district and found clear indications that the rent-rolls were in certain cases manipulated. A few cases of concealed rents were also detected in Hardoi. No such cases are reported from the districts of Bareilly, Sháhjahánpur and Bahraich where revision of settlement is imminent; but it is doubtful how far the rent-rolls are correct in all these districts, and how far the absence of detected concealment is due to insufficient scrutiny. Special arrangements have been made in Bareilly to secure a trustworthy record of grain rents. Patwáris are required to be present at the time of weighment, and standard weights have been supplied to them from the Roorkee Workshop. Efforts are also being made to extend the use of the special counterfoil receipt books prescribed for grain-rented villages. The Collector of Basti writes that the present jamabandis in that district are largely fabricated, and rents have been systematically under-stated; but it does not appear from the report whether much progress has been made in correcting the records.

9. The settlement or survey operations in the districts of Budaun, Sultánpur, Fyzabad, Hardoi, Partábgarh, Bahraich and Kheri interfered with the tours of the sadar kanúngos. The sadar kanúngos of Saháranpur, Sháhjahánpur, Aligarh, Gonda, Muzaffarnagar, Farukhabad, Jaunpur, Muttra, Moradabad, Ballia and Cawnpore were on tour for more than one hundred days during the year; in other districts less touring was done. The largest amount of testing done by sadar kanúngos was in Muzaffarnagar (36,608 fields), Gonda (26,400) and Azamgarh (22,241).

10. The systematic inspection of patwáris' papers is referred to in some of the district reports, and the instructions issued on the subject appear to be generally complied with. The testing of all circles during the past three years has been completed in the districts of Pilibhít, Bareilly, Etáwah, Basti, Cawnpore and Mainpuri. The inconsistency of the various orders relating to testing has been the subject of correspondence with the Board of Revenue during the year under report. Pargana officers and tahsíldárs working in concert were formerly directed to inspect one-third of the circles in a tahsíl during each year; but subsequently the duty of inspecting every village in a tahsíl once in three years was imposed on tahsíldárs alone. These requirements were inconsistent, and experience showed that it was impossible for tahsíldárs to carry out their task effectively; the rules have therefore been amended, and tahsíldárs are required to test every patwári's circle during three years, and in each circle to test the papers of as many villages as is practicable. At the same time testing done by naib-tahsíldárs (who are now in charge of land records work) has been permitted to count as testing by superior officers. It may be noticed that the ambiguity in the rules has not even now disappeared: Deputy Collectors and Tahsíldárs are still required to complete the circle testing in three years, and as tahsíldárs alone are required to do the same, the logical conclusion is that Deputy Collectors need not test at all. I have suggested that a circular should be issued by the Board of Revenue stating clearly the work required from each class of officer, and emphasizing the necessity of attention to the record of new cultivation and of rental demand and collections.

11. Map correction in Oudh.—In Lucknow the work of map correction was completed in 1893-94. In Fyzabad all maps, except 13, are reported to have been corrected or revised up to 1301 fasli; but changes in fields during 1302 fasli and 1303 fasli have not been shown in 772 out of 2,571 village maps owing to the patwáris having been engaged in settlement work. In Gonda 248 village maps have been corrected completely, and 171 partly. This district will shortly be cadastrally surveyed, and survey classes for the instruction of patwáris have been formed. In Sultánpur the work of map correction has been completed, while in Bara Banki maps have been corrected and revised for all the villages except 51. About two-thirds of the patwáris of Partábgarh are able to correct maps, and fair progress has been made in this direction during the year. In Sitapur, where the work has been interrupted by the settlement, 536 maps out of 2,363 have been corrected. In Bahraich and Kheri new maps are being supplied by the Survey Department. The reports received from the districts of Rae Bareli, Hardoi and Unao are silent on the subject.

12. Tahsíl registers.—This paragraph deals with the steps taken to improve the material which forms the basis of the annual analysis of districts. A portion of the staff employed for compiling the revised mauza registers and pargana books in Saháranpur was moved to Gorakhpur in June 1895, and the remaining portion with Babu Lachman Parshad, the permanent Personal Assistant on special duty, went over in October after completing the pargana books for Jhánsi. The settlements of Gorakhpur and Basti were concluded many years ago, and the annual figures of cultivation and holdings for their villages were compiled by the registrar kanúngos in rough forms to be copied in the regular registers when supplied by the special staff. To minimise the labour of copying it was decided to push on the compilation of new mauza registers as fast as possible; the work was started in the two districts simultaneously, and in addition to the salaried staff, a number of men were employed on piece work. During the year under report mauza registers for all the villages of the two districts were compiled, and bound volumes were supplied to tahsíls Bansgaon, Deoria, Hata and Padrauna of Gorakhpur, while books for the remaining two tahsíls of Gorakhpur and for the tahsíls of Basti were in course of transit. Pargana books for tahsíls Bansgaon and Deoria were also supplied for use during the present cold weather. Babu Lachman Parshad remained in charge of this work till the 24th August 1896, when he was appointed to officiate as a Deputy Collector. The total expenditure on this head, including the pay of the officer in charge, amounted to Rs. 11,608. New tahsíl hand-books, pargana books and village registers have been prepared under the supervision of Settlement Officers in the districts of Lucknow, Unao, Rae Bareli and Partábgarh, while in Hardoi, Sitapur Fyzabad, Bara Banki, Sultánpur and Budaun the work is in progress. The revised form of pargana book has been found most valuable in localising the deteriorated parts of a district and in showing the direction in which enquiries are needed, as is shown by the reports received from the District Officers of Bulandshahr and Muzaffar-nagar. The old pargana books also were widely utilized in several districts; but in some cases their value seems to have been overlooked. The books were duly maintained in Dehra Dún. In Saháranpur out of 307 villages of which entries were scrutinized, notes were entered in 107, while in Meerut only 15 entries were found recorded. Mr. Wyer, the Collector of Meerut, explains that the absence of patwáris on survey duty made it difficult for Sub-Divisional Officers to examine the village statistics in a systematic fashion. In Aligarh Mr. Porter reports that careful attention was paid to this subject by the various Assistant Collectors, especially with reference to the concealment of rent. In the Agra Division the books have been properly maintained and made use of in all the districts except Farukhabad, where the subject has not received adequate attention. In the Rohilkhand Division the subject is noticed only by the Collectors of Bijnor, Sháhjahánpur and Pilibhít, who simply report that the books have been duly tested. They do not appear, however, to have been otherwise used. In Cawnpore these books have been intelligently utilized and with good results. In Allahabad they have been checked but apparently not used. In Bánda the Collector himself examined the books and used them in connection with proposals for suspension of revenue besides noting relevant matters in them. The Commissioner of Benares Division writes that except in Ballia, the notes made in pargana books in his division are of doubtful value. In the Gorakhpur Division the number of villages noted on in the pargana books was 296 in Azamgarh, 99 in Basti and 29 in Gorakhpur. In Oudh the books were utilized to some extent in a few districts, while in others they could not be used at all owing to settlement. In Bahraich and Sitapur their real value does not appear to be appreciated. In the latter district the Deputy Commissioner remarks:—"The registers are up to the average standard so far as I know. The pargana books I cannot speak to as I have not looked at them. They have now fulfilled their office as the district is under settlement, and it seemed to me a waste of time to look at them." These remarks appear to be based on a misconception of the value of the pargana book. Proposals have been submitted to the Board for certain modifications in the rules in order to secure that the information available in the pargana books should not merely be accumulated but should be made practically useful in the district administration, and that while all important matters are noted, the books should not be encumbered with useless remarks.

13. Maintenance of survey and boundary marks.—Lists of boundary and survey marks have been prepared in all the districts of the United Provinces except in some tahsíls of districts which are under settlement. Much progress has been made in the inspection of the marks and their repair and re-erection wherever necessary. It was suggested last year that ruined masonry platforms should be replaced by stone pillars. A proposal has now been submitted after consulting District Officers, that a standard form of stone should be prescribed and arrangements for supply made through this department. A trial is also being given to a suggestion made by the Deputy Surveyor-General that a trench should be dug round the mark and the excavated earth be piled over it, the earth mound thus raised being yearly repaired until it has become grass-grown. An impression having prevailed that all survey marks had to be maintained at the expense of Government, District Officers have, under the orders of the Board, been informed that all marks which are situated on a village boundary, whether erected in connection with a survey or in consequence of a dispute, are to be considered boundary marks for the maintenance of which the zamíndárs are responsible; only those marks which are not situated on the boundaries of villages are to be maintained at Government expense. Lists have accordingly been revised in several districts, and necessary funds for the latter class of marks allotted in Mirzapur, Basti and Bánda.

14. Inspection of districts.—Mr. Baillie inspected the work of the preparation of mauza registers, pargana books and pargana hand-books in Gorakhpur, Basti, Rae Bareli and Partábgarh. He also inspected the survey work in Bahraich, Sitapur, Kheri, Sháhjahánpur and Meerut, and the general land records work in Sultánpur, Fyzabad, Gorakhpur, Basti and Pilibhít. The work of the patwáris in the Gonda district was examined with special reference to the necessity of a re-survey, and a short tour was made through Garhwál and the Naini Tal Bhabar in order to obtain some insight into the working of the patwári staff in these districts. The kanúngo-inspectors attached to the department were employed in inspecting the patwaris' papers and kanungos' registers in the districts noted in the margin with a view to correcting errors of procedure and bringing defects to the notice of district authorities. Their inspection reports were forwarded to the District Officers for information and necessary action.

15. Preparation of districts for settlement.—The districts of Azamgarh and Bareilly were examined by Mr. Baillie preparatory to the submission of the usual reports on the condition of village maps and records and the probable financial results of a revision of settlement. Much of the time of the inspectors was taken up with the compilation of the statistics required for these reports as well as in assisting the Superintendent of Land Records Survey at his inspections of the districts of Gondá, Farukhabad, Aligarh and the hill parganas of Naini Tal.

16. Survey operations.—Mr. G. B. Scott, the Superintendent of Land Records Surveys, submits the following report on the work of the year :—

"Revision surveys by patwaris' agency under the supervision of officers on deputation from the Survey of India Department were continued in the Meerut and Bahraich districts and the Lalitpur Sub-division of Jhánsi, and commenced in Sháhjahánpur and Kheri districts. The Gursarai and Kakarbai Estates in Jhánsi, and certain alluvial mahals in Sitapur, were also surveyed, and the survey of tracts in Bijnor begun last year, was completed. The survey in Bijnor was made by amíns. In Lalitpur where the patwári circles average eight square miles in area, 25 amíns assisted in the survey.

"In all other districts the survey was done by patwáris, kanúngos and candidates for kanúngoships.

"(2). The total area surveyed during the season was 3,269 square miles. Khasras were written up of all areas surveyed last year, as well as of areas surveyed this year, except of 207 square miles in Meerut and of the villages surveyed in Bijnor.

"The total number of village khasras written up was 4,134, covering an area of 5,305 square miles, and containing 4,111,136 fields, &c. The following is an abstract of work and cost in each district :—

Scale of survey.

"(3). All surveys were made on the scale of 16″ to 1 mile, except of one village in Meerut surveyed on the 32″ scale.

Traverse.

"(4). They were based on theodolite-traverse plots supplied by Nos. 2 and 8 parties of the Survey of India under the orders of the Deputy Surveyor-General.

"All trijunction platforms were adopted as survey stations, and all other theodolite stations were marked by stone prisms, or baked clay cylinders, for future use.

Patwáris, training and survey.

"(5). In all districts the first months of the field season were employed in training the patwáris before starting work.

"The total number so trained and employed up to date in the several districts was 1,606. In addition a large number of kanúngos and candidates for kanúngoships was trained.

"The training classes were at various centres in the several tahsíls, under the supervision of inspectors trained in the Survey Department. These subsequently supervised both survey and khasra writing, assisted in many cases by kanúngos who had qualified in survey. Inspectors and kanúngos checked work while in progress.

Check.

"(6). Field book check lines were run in every village after completion of survey by partallers, who had no access to the original plans. These check lines were compared with field plans by the officers in charge, who also checked both survey and khasra writing on the ground when on tour each month.

"I personally examined some villages on the ground, and compared a large number of the field book partals, and found the work as a rule very accurate. Very few village plans had to be rejected and re-done.

Assistance to patwáris.

"(7). Where the areas of patwaris' circles were too large for one man to complete his own circle, or where work commenced late in the season, patwáris from tahsíls ahead were brought in to be trained and to assist in the survey. The men so trained will be ready to commence work as soon as field work re-opens, and thereby considerable time will be saved.

Future arrangement.

"(8). It has been arranged that in future, wherever time permits, patwáris will have two years to complete their circles. This will allow of their being more thoroughly trained in area estimating and drafting than has been possible hitherto.

More supervision needed.

"(9). This will necessitate the extension of operations over double areas and render it more than ever desirable to have assistant survey officers in each district where this area exceeds 500 to 600 square miles.

Patwaris' earnings.

"(10.) The patwáris were paid according to outturn, so that men working equally well received equal remuneration even when their salaries differed. Several earned from Rs. 5 to 25 over their salaries during the season.

Average outturn.

"(11). The average outturn of survey by patwáris per diem ranged from 5 to 6 acres in December to 16 acres in the later months.

The average number of fields written up in khasra ranged from 20 to 45 per diem per man.

Drafting.

"(12). The original field plans were inked up in office by draftsmen. This gave the patwáris more time for field work.

Areas.

"(13). Areas were throughout estimated in acres in accordance with procedure followed in cadastral parties in the Survey Department.

Traces.

"(14). Three sets of traces have been or are being prepared—one showing soils for Settlement Officer, one for deposit in táhsils, and one for use of patwáris. According to present arrangements outline traces of all villages where topographical items have changed since standard sheets were made, are to be prepared for Surveyor-General.

Khasras, &c.

"(15). Khasras, the usual yearly patwaris' papers, and statistical statements for the Settlement Officers, were prepared in accordance with instructions issued by the Director of Land Records.

These papers have not been completed in some districts owing to field work not having closed till July in some districts; till August in Kheri.

Causes of delay.

"(16). The causes of this are:— the time required for training patwáris during the early months of the field season;

the want of theodolite traverse plots owing to the traverse and detailed surveys commencing simultaneously in Sháhjahánpur and Kheri;

the constant withdrawal of patwáris to attend various Courts or for other duties. Fully a month was lost in most districts from this cause alone.

Under the circumstances, I think the several officers deserving of great credit for the work done.

Superintendence.

"(17). I visited the offices of the several districts at intervals between October and August.

The work in Bijnor was under my personal management, as there were no other survey officers available to supervise it.

Survey classes for Civilians.

"(18). During November and January two classes of Junior Civilians were personally instructed by me in the use of survey instruments and surveying villages. After the classes closed the officers were for a month attached to the survey parties in the several districts.

Survey examination, Agricultural School.

"(19). Eighteen students of the Agricultural School, Cawnpore, were examined by me in surveying and passed as able to survey villages unassisted and to work out areas of fields.

Examination, patwaris' plans.

"(20). The patwaris' copies of settlement maps of Gonda, Farukhabad and Aligarh were examined by me with the object of submitting a report as to whether a re-survey before next settlement was advisable.

I found those of Gonda had been much altered owing to the constant changes of field boundaries; those of Farukhabad often grossly incorrect; those of Aligarh as a rule very correct and up to date except in very large villages where they were somewhat distorted. The re-survey of Farukhabad and Gonda has been ordered.

Scheme for survey portions, Naini Tal.

"(21). After a tour through the "hill parganas" of the Naini Tal district, I submitted a scheme of survey which I think will meet requirements without any preliminary elaborate traverse, but in which I propose to utilise as much as possible the triangulation previously carried out across the tracts by the Survey and Forest Survey Departments.

Programme for next year.

"(22). The programme for coming season is:—

Meerut district	...	To be completed.
Lalitpur Sub-division	...	Ditto.
Bahraich district	...	Pargana Fakharpur and part of Nanpara.
Sitapur „	...	Alluvial mahals to be completed.
Sháhjahánpur „	...	Tahsíl Tilhar and part of Pawayan.
Kheri „	...	Tahsíls Mahumdi and Lakhimpur.
Bareilly „	...	Tahsíls Faridpur and Bareilly.
Basti „	...	Revision of "halbandi" villages.

The patwaris' maps of Azamgarh, Pilibhít, Etah, Etáwah, Mainpuri and Cawnpore to be examined and reported on.

The traverse parties under the Surveyor-General will complete Sháhjáhanpur, Kheri, Bisalpur, tahsíl of Pilibhít, the khadir lands in Meerut, the remainder of Bareilly, four parganas of Bijnor, and 1,000 square miles in Gonda."

17. I need add little to these remarks. The staff, with Mr. Scott at the head, show an excellent record of work despite various hindrances. The insufficiency of the supervising staff was seriously felt; two additional European officers have lately been employed, and proposals are being submitted to secure further assistance. Of the causes of delay noted by Mr. Scott, the first two are more or less temporary; efforts are being made to train patwáris a year in advance, and wherever this can be done, it will be possible to start surveying at the commencement of the season. Arrangements have been made so that the traverse parties shall work well ahead of the Land Records Survey, and the difficulty experienced in Sháhjáhanpur is not likely to recur. It can hardly be hoped, however, that delays caused by the absence of patwáris can ever be wholly avoided. The survey officers enforce regular attendance as strictly as possible, but in spite of all punishments the patwáris occasionally take a holiday of greater or less duration, and the delay thus caused is of importance in the aggregate. Further, interference with the work results from the frequent necessity of attending Courts. It is believed that in all classes of Courts the patwári is often unnecessarily summoned, and as each summons means an absence from work of three or more days, it is desirable that all Revenue Courts should be instructed to issue summonses to the patwáris in districts under survey only when the case could not be disposed of without their attendance. The work would be still more facilitated if the High Court and the Judicial Commissioner's Court would consent to issue similar instructions to the Civil and Criminal Courts under their control. During the present season the work is being greatly thrown back by the deputation of patwáris on relief duties; but this is a melancholy necessity, which it may be hoped will cease with the present year.

18. Amendment of rules.—The following important changes were made in rules and procedure:—Revised rules for the destruction of patwáris' records and of registers and returns maintained and prepared by the kanúngo staff have recently received the sanction of the Government of India. Forms of stock books to be kept by the sadar kanúngo, the registrar kanúngo, the supervisor kanúngo and the patwári school teachers have received the approval of the Board of Revenue. A rule has been introduced by which patwáris in specified areas can be required to provide themselves with an area comb in addition to the scale and compasses, which they must possess under existing orders. A form of mutation register for the Garhwál district following the form of the khewat has met with the Board's approval. The preparation of a field book by patwáris in this district having been found to be impracticable, the proposal to maintain a simple list of fields or index to the map is before the Board, who have also under consideration draft rules for the guidance of patwáris in the Kumaun and the Garhwál Bhábar.

19. Supply of patwári and kanúngo forms.—The total expenditure under this head was Rs. 66,303 in 1895-96 against Rs. 61,725 in 1894-95. The increase is due partly to the supply of forms for the registration of mares and their produce, and partly to the use of a better class of paper for khasra forms in the districts under survey.

20. The actual receipts of the patwári fund (excluding the Government contribution of Rs. 8,50,000) amounted to Rs. 24,33,070 as compared with Rs. 23,62,085 in 1894-95, and the expenditure, including the cost of survey operations, was Rs. 34,19,756 against Rs. 33,53,100 in the last year. There was thus a total deficit of Rs. 9,86,686, which is reduced to Rs. 1,36,686 when the Provincial contribution has been deducted. This deficit is due to the reduction of Rs. 1,50,000 in the contribution from Provincial Revenues.

Part II.—AGRICULTURAL STATISTICS.

21. Crop and area returns.—These returns have this year been received from all districts except Hardoi and Sultánpur, and portions of the districts of Meerut, Bijnor, Budaun, Sháhjahánpur, Jhánsi (Lalitpur Sub-division), Rae Bareli, Sitapur, Bahraich, Bara Banki and Kheri, where the patwáris were engaged in operation connected with survey or settlement. Figures for these have been taken as usual from previous year's returns to complete the provincial statement. The total cultivated area of the province for 1895-96 thus arrived at amounts to 32,403,691 acres as compared with 33,522,034 acres returned for the preceding year, showing a decrease of 3 per cent. The decrease took place entirely in the rabi area. Owing to the early cessation of the rains, the moisture in the ground at the time of sowing was insufficient for germination over a large area and in consequence many fields were either not sown at all or sown to no purpose. The following figures will show that in the first-half of the present decade there was a steady increase in the cultivated area of the province; in 1894-95 the cultivated area declined by 628,889 acres owing to the excessive rainfall of the year; and in 1895-96 there was a further falling off to the extent of 1,118,343 acres in consequence of deficient rainfall:—

Year.	Acres.
1889-90	33,625,270
1890-91	33,769,759
1891-92	33,861,084
1892-93	33,946,871
1893-94	34,150,923
1894-95	33,522,034
1895-96	32,403,691

The decrease in the cultivated area is shared by all parts of the province; it is greatest in Bundelkhand (11 per cent) and Naini Tal (7 per cent). In the Agra Division it amounted to only one per cent, and in Rohilkhand, Benares and Gorakhpur Divisions to two per cent.

22. The total crop area of the province was 40,136,415 acres as compared with 42,363,770 acres in the preceding year, showing a decrease of 2,227,355 acres. In 1894-95 there was also a falling off in the crop area to the extent of 314,000 acres. The decrease has taken place entirely in the rabi area and is due to the causes already stated; the area under kharif shows a slight rise:—

	1894-95. Acres.	1895-96. Acres.	Difference. Acres.
Kharif	21,128,410	21,262,279	×133,869
Rabi	20,933,849	18,598,622	—2,335,227
Zaid	301,511	275,514	×25,997
	42,363,770	40,136,415	—2,227,355

The decrease in the crop area of the province over last year's is about 5 per cent. It is greatest in the Allahabad Division (12 per cent.) and Naini Tal (10 per cent). The decrease in Lucknow Division was only 2 per cent; elsewhere it varied between 3 and 6 per cent.

23. The following statement compares the area of the principal autumn and spring crops in the year under report with their area in the previous year:—

Crops.	1894-95. Acres.	1895-96. Acres.	Difference. Acres.
Wheat	6,333,688	5,177,261	—1,156,427

Til	177,043	148,833	—28,210
Rapeseed	109,347	95,678	—13,669
Sugarcane	1,233,844	1,388,889	+155,045
Cotton	1,214,747	1,060,905	—153,842
Indigo	420,242	342,102	—78,140
Opium	290,805	329,615	+38,810
Other crops	1,535,023	1,401,852	—133,171

The increase in the area under rice, maize, bajra, and pulses was owing to the favourable character of the early part of the season. The area of sugarcane which had decreased by 88,426 acres in 1894 as compared with the preceding year, increased by 155,045 acres in the present year. The contraction in the area sown with juar was probably due to the substitution of rice and bajra for that crop; while the decrease under cotton, indigo and til was the result of the considerable losses which the cultivators of these crops suffered in the preceding two years in consequence of continued heavy rainfall. The decrease in the area sown with wheat, barley, gram, linseed and rapeseed was caused by the exceptionally dry character of the season, which has already been described. The decrease under wheat and barley was disproportionately larger than the general decrease in the rabi area as these crops require a larger supply of moisture. A transfer of area, therefore, took place from wheat and barley to gram, under which the decrease is slight. The area under peas, a crop generally grown with slight irrigation after a kharif crop, rose materially. The area under linseed, which is extensively grown in Bundelkhand, declined by about 50 per cent; while that under rapeseed fell off to a smaller extent owing to the fact that it is largely sown in the Sub-Himalayan districts in which irrigation is ordinarily unnecessary. The area under opium rose by 13 per cent., the increase being largest in the western opium-growing districts in which a rapid extension of opium cultivation is taking place.

24. The unfavourable character of the rainfall is further indicated by the returns of irrigation. The irrigated area rose from 6,002,679 acres in 1894-95 to 8,533,160 acres in 1895-96, showing an increase of 42 per cent. The increase in irrigation has taken place in all parts of the province except the Gorakhpur division; and is greatest in the Agra and Allahabad Divisions, where it exceeds 150 per cent. In the Meerut and Rohilkhand Divisions it was over 75 per cent. Of the various sources of irrigation, canals and wells gave most of the additional supply. The increase from canals is relatively greater; but wells continue to be the principal source of irrigation. Tanks and other sources also contributed to the increase but to a less extent; these sources of supply are almost entirely dependent on the local rainfall and so are of least use just when most wanted.

The total number of masonry wells returned for 1894-95 was 287,407; of these 1,642 wells are reported to have fallen in, while 3,684 new wells were constructed during the year under report; thus there has been a net increase of 2,042 wells in the present year. Estimating the area irrigable from these at the rates adopted in past years, the present increase in the number of wells raises the area protected by well irrigation from 2,637,713 to 2,654,476 acres.

25. Classification of holdings and rental demand and collections.—The returns showing the area of holdings and the demand and collections of rent hitherto formed Director's appendices IV and V of the Board's Revenue Report. The introduction of the new pargana book and mauza registers necessitated certain alterations in a few statements including the appendices referred to above; and a combined form for these returns was proposed and received the approval of the Board of Revenue. Statistics in the new form have been received for the first time from the districts recently settled, and these are correctly given in the appendix. For other districts it is impossible at present to separate the details of grain-rented land from those of land held on cash rents by different classes of tenants: consequently for these districts columns 11 to 14 though headed "cash-rented land," include all land whether the rent is paid in cash or in grain; columns 15 and 16, however, in all cases include only cash-rented land. The return showing the area of holdings and rental demand and collections is for the year 1894-95, as figures for 1895-96 are not available till a date later than that fixed for the submission of this report. It has been received from all districts except Budaun, Sháhjahánpur, Lucknow, Rae Bareli, Hardoi, Sultánpur and portions of Meerut, Bijnor, Jhánsi (Lalitpur Sub-division,) Fyzabad, Bahraich and Bara Banki.

26. The total holdings area in the North-Western Provinces amounted to 27,309,564 acres as compared with 27,359,902 acres returned in 1893-94, showing a decrease of 50,338 acres. A decrease of over 40,000 acres took place in each of the Meerut and Rohilkhand Divisions, and of 20,000 acres in Naini Tal; elsewhere there were small increases. The decrease which occurred chiefly in the area held without declared rights, may be attributed to a contraction in cultivation owing to unfavourable season. The area under "sir" declined by 18,493 acres; the falling off being noticeable in all divisions except Gorakhpur. The area under khudkásht rose by 8,161 acres. In Allahabad and Gorakhpur Divisions there have been increases; elsewhere there was a decrease. The area held with ex-proprietary or privileged rights continues to rise as explained in the last year's report. The area of land held with occupancy rights shows a decline of 55,281 acres, which is distributed almost all over the province. As explained last year, the decrease is merely formal, and is due to the fact that tenants who have held for more than twelve years are classed as having no declared rights until they obtain a declaration from the Courts, a course which they very rarely take.

The total holdings area for 1894-95 in Oudh amounted to 9,204,156 acres as compared with 9,277,201 returned in the year before, showing a decrease of 73,045 acres, which took place chiefly in Kheri and partly in Gonda, Bahraich and Bara Banki in the area held by tenants-at-will. The increase in sir is due mainly to the correction of records in connection with the progress of settlement operations in Unao and Partábgarh; and the decrease in khudkásht is due to the same cause. In these two districts about 8,000 acres have been transferred from khudkásht to sir; while in Gonda the khudkásht area has largely increased. The decrease which is noticeable in "land held with sub-proprietary and occupancy rights" and "held without declared rights," is not real, but is due to the fact that the area held "rent free or in lieu of wages" hitherto included under these heads has now been transferred to the new head "land held without rent."

The following table compares the areas under each class of holding in the North-Western Provinces and in Oudh in the year 1894-95 with those of 1893-94:—

27. The rent-paying area of the province was 28,664,843 acres as compared with 28,743,141 acres in the year before, showing a decrease of 78,298 acres. In Agra, Allahabad and Benares Divisions there has been an increase in the rent-paying area; in the rest of the province, and especially in Oudh, there was a decrease. The total demand and collections on tenants' lands in 1894-95 were as under:—

			Rs.
Total demand for 1894-95			12,23,59,972
Collections made in 1894-95—
(a) for 1894-95	Rs. 9,42,20,563
(b) for previous years	1,24,68,674
Total collections			10,66,89,237

In 1893-94 the percentage of total collections on total demand of the province fell from 93 to 91; in 1894-95 it further fell to 87. The total collections in the North-Western Provinces amounted to 85 per cent. as compared with 89 in the preceding year; and in Oudh to 92 per cent. as compared with 95 in the year before. The highest percentage of collections was in Lucknow and Rae Bareli, where the full demand was collected; in Sultánpur and Naini Tal it was 98; in Basti 96; and in Dehra Dún, Bareilly, Gorakhpur and Fyzabad 95. The lowest percentage of collections was 62 in Benares, 63 in Ballia, 67 in Gházipur, 69 in Hamírpur, 71 in Allahabad, 72 in Bánda, 74 in Farukhabad and Jaunpur, and 75 in Cawnpore. The following figures show the percentage of total collections in each division of the United Provinces for the past three years. The low figures for 1893-94 and 1894-95 were doubtless caused by a succession of unfavourable harvests, and the statement is of some value for comparative purposes. As a statement of positive facts, however, it leaves much to be desired. In some districts at least the record of collections has not hitherto received the same attention that has been given to other statistics, and actual collections exceed those returned; elsewhere it is not unusual to return the demand as collected in full without reference to facts. The low percentage in Farukhabad is certainly due to the former cause. When recently inspecting that district, I found that more than one-half of the rent-rolls examined admittedly under-stated the collections for many years past. The figures cannot therefore be accepted as they stand without criticism in the light of local knowledge.

The last column in this appendix purports to show the corrected rent-roll. It is obtained by adding to column 22 (total demand including siwai) the assumed rental of unrented land calculated for each district at the cash tenants' rate obtained from columns 15-16. In former years the rent-rate applied was calculated on all tenants' land, consequently the figures now given are not comparable with those of previous years. It may perhaps be suggested that the value of these figures is scarcely so great as to render necessary the toil involved in their calculation. A corrected rent-roll made without any preliminary criticism of the rates used may be very misleading even when the district is the unit of area.

Part III.—NOTE ON AGRICULTURAL DEPRESSION DURING RECENT YEARS.

28. The scope of this note is limited to the indication of areas which have suffered from depression in recent "non-famine" years, to investigation of the causes of depression and to the suggestion of remedies. It is unnecessary to describe in detail the general character of the past season. The rains of 1895 ceased early: the cold weather was abnormally dry, and the rains of 1896 were scanty and ill-distributed. The effects of this continued unfavourable weather are now being manifested in the scarcity from which many parts of the provinces are suffering, but this scarcity, which declared itself at or after the close of the year, is only incidentally the subject of this note.

29. Before attempting a summary of the district reports, it may be premised that they do not in all cases give the required information. Several are written by officers who have just assumed charge of their districts; and even where the pargana books have been carefully utilized, it is very difficult for a stranger to reduce the information they afford into a general description of the precarious tracts In other cases District Officers have been unable to spare the time necessary for collecting the available information. Just at the time when the reports were being drawn up it became necessary to prepare detailed schemes of famine relief for almost all districts, and the work thus entailed on District Officers was very heavy, and necessarily took precedence of the ordinary report-writing. In a few districts, again, the scope of the enquiry is apparently not yet understood. In some cases the reports merely mention that the entries in the pargana books were tested and found to be accurate. In another case it is assumed that the enquiry is directed towards ascertaining any undue pressure of the Government revenue, and consequently that while a district is under settlement no enquiry need be made. This view is I venture to think erroneous: the enquiry is really part of the "famine insurance" policy, and its object is to localize the deteriorated areas and to suggest measures for their improvement so that they may be protected from risk of scarcity: the fact that the revenue is being revised does not render the enquiry unnecessary.

30. I proceed to give a summary of the reports received from District Officers, reserving for the conclusion of this note such general remarks as it may occur to me to offer. In the summary I have followed not the administrative divisions, but the grouping of districts according to their geographical and physical conditions which has recently been adopted in the Weekly Agricultural Reports.

31. In the hill districts depression was experienced during the year in parts of Jaunsar-Bawar in Dehra Dún, in the southern parganas of Garhwál and in pargana Jaspur of Naini Tal. In Jaunsar-Bawar there have been three successive bad seasons: the causes are not stated, but the rainfall or snowfall is believed to be the controlling factor in the agricultural prosperity of these parts of the district. The remedies applied consist of advances to the villagers, and the Local Officers concur in the opinion that no other remedy is possible. In the affected tracts of Garhwál, comprising the entire parganas of Talla Salan and Malla Salan and portions of Chandkot, Barahsyun and Ganga Salan, the Deputy Commissioner is of opinion that the depression is not due to any deterioration in agriculture, but results from the population being unable to support itself on the land. The people are able to earn money by sale of spices, and of cattle, and also by labour: but they cannot produce locally the requisite amount of food, and even a partial failure of the crops results in severe scarcity, as the cost of carriage of grain is almost prohibitive. These tracts have suffered in this way in 1890, in 1892 and again in 1896; and as the effects of such depression tend to become cumulative, the application of some remedy is clearly necessary. The Deputy Commissioner considers that the remedy is to be sought in increased facilities for carriage, and given the economic condition described, there can be no doubt that his view is correct. The country needs to be opened up. As regards pargana Jaspur in Naini Tal, the Deputy Commissioner gives no particulars of the extent or causes of the depression.

32. In the western submontane districts the tracts that have suffered in recent years are :—(1) the Khadirs of the Ganges and Jumna and of minor streams; (2) certain bhur tracts in Moradabad; (3) the southern portion of the Bareilly district. The khadir tracts suffer from excessive moisture and consequently are usually prosperous when the adjoining uplands suffer from drought. The affected localities in the Saháranpur district were fully described in last year's report; it is not stated whether any improvement has since taken place, but the Collector intends to inspect them this cold weather in order to see what can be done. In other districts the khadirs seem to have made some improvement, and in Bijnor, where villages were deserted owing to the fear of floods from the bursting of the Gohna lake, there has been much progress towards complete recovery. In Moradabad the bhur tract in Hasanpur suffers from water-logging in the rains and drought in the cold weather. The locality has been examined by the District Engineer who attributes the deterioration to the gradual formation of an impermeable layer of clay a few feet below the surface. If this view is correct it is difficult to suggest a remedy, and the advice of superior officers in the Public Works Department should apparently be obtained. When experiments in well sinking were made in this locality about sixteen years ago, clay was found only at great depths, and the new formation is certainly remarkable. Besides the Hasanpur tract there is a bhur tract in the south-west of the Sambhal tahsíl which has been found to be seriously deteriorated. This tract will be inspected during the current season.

Saháranpur. | Moradabad.
Bijnor. | Bareilly.

The southern half of the Bareilly district depends almost entirely on the rainfall, and is therefore liable to depression in years like the present. In ordinary seasons the soil retains enough moisture to render general irrigation unnecessary, hence when a dry season comes, it is necessary in a large measure to create an artificial water supply, while in districts with drier soil, it is only necessary to extend an existing system. It is a tract, too, where the landlords will not assist the tenants. The remedy suggested is the creation of a regular irrigation system by bringing the streams under the Canal Department, thus securing a judicious and equitable distribution of water and removing a frequent occasion for quarrels and disturbances of the peace. This suggestion appears suitable: I notice that last year the same matter was under consideration, and it does not appear that any practical steps have yet been taken. A preliminary survey by an Irrigation Officer is the first necessity. Apparently the work would not be very remunerative in ordinary years as so much of the land does not then require irrigation, but in years of drought its value would be considerable.

33. The districts included in the Upper Doab reap the chief benefits of the canal system and no part of them is reported to suffer from drought. Of late years the complaint has been of excessive moisture, especially in the khadir tracts. These tracts have, as usual, benefited by the dry seasons and are recovering from the depression of former years. In Bulandshahr the Jumna khadir, which was last year reported to be suffering severely, was inspected in detail and proposals were submitted for a temporary reduction in the revenue of those villages where the deterioration was most marked. In these districts drainage schemes continue to be carried out by the Canal Department.

34. The Central Doab region is co-extensive with the Agra Division. The only area reported as actually depressed during the year is a portion of Mainpuri including pargana Barmahal and that part of the Shikohabad tahsíl which lies between the East Indian Railway and the Jumna. This tract has suffered from want of rain, and apparently the water supply is insufficient. No suggestions for improvement are offered by the Collector. The portion of Etáwah situated along the Jumna and the Chambal is not said to have suffered from depression, but its condition is very precarious, as it depends almost entirely on rainfall. Wells cannot ordinarily be sunk as water is not found at a less depth than 120 feet, and the broken nature of the ground prevents canal irrigation. In this case no direct remedy can be suggested; butindirectly the retention of moisture might perhaps be increased in some localities by planting the more broken ground.

In Mainpuri, Etah and Etáwah, drainage schemes continue to progress, and apparently not much remains to be done in these districts. The Collector of Mainpuri enters aprotest against draining every bit of lowlying land. He points out that all considerable tracts liable to flood in years of heavy rainfall have been relieved; but there are numerous isolated depressions which must suffer in such years, and in compensation yield in years of drought better crops than those obtained on higher land.

35. In the districts forming the North Central group the tracts requiring special notice are, (1) the khadirs, (2) the bhur tracts in Budaun, Sháhjahánpur and Sitapur; (3) the clay tracts in Sháhjahánpur and Sitapur. In Hardoi the whole district has suffered from acute depression. The khadirs have generally benefited by the dry season. The bhur tracts have everywhere suffered from drought. In Budaun (the locality is not specified) the rabi so far failed as to render remissions of revenue necessary. In Sháhjahánpur the bhur land in tahsíl Pawayan suffered from the want of winter rains; temporary wells cannot be made in such land, and the soil does not retain sufficient moisture for the rabi. The Sitapur bhur lies along the Gomti: it suffers alternately from floods and drought. No suggestions are offered by District Officers as to the remedies to be applied to the bhur tracts. The best method of irrigating such tracts can be decided only on the spot: unprotected wells are of course impossible, but it is believed that masonry wells can be constructed in some places at least with results of permanent value, and the land owners might be induced to do something in this direction, if necessary, with the aid of takavi advances.

Budaun. | Hardoi.
Sháhjahánpur. | Sitapur.

The clay tracts are generally low-lying and yield principally rice. In Sháhjahánpur they are to be found in tahsíl Jalalabad, in pargana Jamaur and in tahsíl Pawayan. The success of the rice crop depends entirely on the rainfall; in 1895 the rain was insufficient and the rice was seriously injured. Where, as in Pawayan, rice is usually followed by a rabi crop, this also suffered from the dryness of the soil. It must be anticipated that these tracts have suffered to a still greater extent in 1896, where the adverse conditions reappeared in aggravated form. In such cases the cause of depression is clearly the dependence of the affected tracts on a single crop. Elsewhere the effect of the season is averaged over numerous staples, some requiring more rain and some less, some needing rain in June and some in September. Probably, without a radical change in agriculture, it is hopeless to expect that these tracts will cease to depend on rice. Irrigation works are out of the question: they would be very costly and in ordinary years of no use, while in years of drought it is difficult to raise a good crop of rice even with the most copious supply of water.

The Sitapur rice tract has a different history: the eastern part of the district depends largely on rice, and in 1896 the early rice crop, aided apparently by early falls of rain, was exceptionally good. The danger in this tract is from flood, and apparently not from drought.

The condition of the Hardoi district requires special mention; depression has been general, due for the most part to want of rain, and in a lesser degree to other causes such as flooding affecting defined areas. Drainage schemes are necessary, but the landowners will not combine to carry them out, and few of them can afford the expense. These obstacles, which are pointed out by the Deputy Commissioner, are not always insuperable. If a scheme of general value were proposed, Government would no doubt take steps to prevent its obstruction by a single ill-conditioned landowner, and though the proprietors may not be able to bear the cost, they can be assisted with takavi advances.

The more general depression caused by scanty rainfall can only be met by some general scheme of irrigation, concerning which a few general remarks will be made later on.

36. In the central submontane region, depression is reported only from Pilibhít where it was general during the year. The district has suffered from want of rain and needs artificial irrigation. If, as the Collector understands, there is no hope of the Sardah Canal being taken in hand, something might be done by utilizing local streams in connection with the suggestion made by the Collector of Bareilly. These two districts might in fact be taken up together if the suggestion is considered worthy of further examination.

Kheri. |

37. The reports for the districts of Southern Oudh do not disclose any definite areas of agricultural depression, with the exception of some villages lying along the Gomti in the Lucknow district. These villages were injured by a deposit of sand left by the flood of 1894; the deposit still remains and the villages are still depressed. No remedy for this can be proposed: the deterioration has, however, been allowed for by the Settlement Officer in revising the revenue of the affected villages. The Deputy Commissioner of Bara Banki refers to the previous year's report; the remaining districts report either that there has been no depression during the year or that no tracts liable to depression exist. The Commissioner of Fyzabad remarks that the dry season has done much good to the lowlying tracts in Bara-Banki, Sultánpur and Partábgarh, which had suffered from inundation and water-logging in previous years; from this it would appear that in these districts (and I believe in Fyzabad and Unao also) there are localities where drainage cuts would be of value in ordinary years. In all these districts, however, District Officers have been hampered by having to work without the pargana books, which were under revision, and the matter will no doubt receive further attention in future reports.

38. The precarious tracts in the Lower Doab are stated by the Commissioner to be confined to the villages along the Jumna in Cawnpore and Fatehpur, and the southern part of the Allahabad district, which is more properly classed with Bundelkhand. In Cawnpore the inspection of deteriorated villages has continued, and certain reductions of revenue have been proposed; the Collector does not mention the causes which have rendered this necessary. In Fatehpur the Collector was given power to reduce the revenue in certain villages where kans was spreading, but a detailed inspection showed that action in this direction was unnecessary, except perhaps in one village. Doubtless the dry season contributed to this result, as it is well known that kans flourishes in wet years. There are certain tracts in Allahabad which require drainage. The Ramgarh Jhil has been drained and the Collector has urged the inclusion of other projects in the programme of famine works. There was acute distress in the trans-Jumna parganas of this district due to deficient rainfall.

Cawnpore. | Allahabad.
Fatehpur. |

39. In the South Eastern group the tracts liable to depression fall into two classes—(1) the extensive clay rice-lands which suffer when the rainfall is insufficient; (2) the tracts along rivers or surrounding swamps where injury is caused by flooding.

In the first class must be placed the tract known as Sonepur Kodon in Mirzapur; Zahurabad, Bahariabad, Khanpur, Mahaich and parts of Shadiabad, Pachotar and Zamaniah in Gházipur; and parganas Kopachit, east and west, with portions of parganas Ballia and Kharid in Ballia. In Azamgarh and Jaunpur the particular localities are not specified. Here, as in all rice-growing areas, it is impossible to suggest any practical remedy.

The tracts suffering from flood include the villages along the Ghogra and Tons in Azamgarh, and along the Ghogra in Ballia; and four localities in Benares, namely, a portion of pargana Badhawal, a portion of Narwan, parts of Majhawan and Dhus, and a part of Barrah. The villages lying along the Ghogra and Tons suffer from the floods caused by these rivers, and it is not possible to suggest an adequate remedy. The precarious tracts in Benares have received attention from the Collector, and certain remedies are proposed, chiefly drainage cuts and embankments, for the first three tracts. The injury in the fourth results from the Banganga river. It seems desirable that the suggestions made locally should be examined by a competent Engineer and if found practicable, should be undertaken as soon as possible.

40. Of the three districts forming this group, part of Gonda suffers from the ravages of wild animals. This has been the subject of correspondence during the year, and the Deputy Commissioner states that the Forest Department will probably make some experiments in trapping and driving. The central part of this district has no regular water-supply and the Deputy Commissioner recommends that a scheme for utilizing the rivers Koana and Bisin should be undertaken by Government. The Commissioner of Fyzabad thinks that the rainfall is sufficient and that artificial irrigation is not urgently needed. In Gorakhpur and Basti, villages lying along the Gogra, Rapti and Ami suffer from floods; and the rice tracts are liable to injury from drought. The rice tracts are not localised in the reports received. The Commissioner of Gorakhpur remarks that "no attempt seems to have been made in the Division to group the deteriorated villages or to collect reliable information for them from year to year, and the fact seems to be that with the excessive pressure of other work it is hopeless to expect this subject to receive the attention it merits unless a special officer is deputed for the purpose." The Commissioner therefore recommends the deputation of an officer for three months in the present and following year, who would bring together the available information and arrange for the compilation of statistics which he could examine in the following year. There can be no doubt that this course, if it can be carried out, will provide a record of permanent utility to the District Officers; the work will be facilitated in Gorakhpur and Basti by the new pargana books which have just been prepared for those districts.

41. The Commissioner of Allahabad classes the whole of Bundelkhand as a tract that has suffered from depression during the year. The depression was due to want of rain on which most of this tract is entirely dependent. The single bright feature in the district reports is the decrease in kans grass, which during previous wet seasons had spread widely and necessitated reduction of revenue in many villages. The drought has been favourable to the extirpation of this weed, but has prevented the cultivation of the land vacated by it; still it is understood that this land is now available for tillage as soon as the season permits.

42. From the foregoing summary it will be seen that with very few exceptions, all the dangers which have to be guarded against may be classed as due respectively to flood and to drought. Of late years the rainfall has been excessive and consequently the first danger has been generally realised. The question of flood prevention was fully dealt with in last year's note, and I need not repeat in detail what was there said. Along the principal rivers, floods are unavoidable; along streams and in natural depressions their effects can be minimised by opening out existing drainage lines and constructing drainage cuts. In the canal districts this work has in recent years received much attention, so much so that in some districts at least the people have realised that Government is willing to provide for the drainage of flooded land. This is a most important result, for which some applications for new cuts are unnecessarily presented: it becomes practically certain that no real need can be overlooked. But where officers of the Irrigation Department are not stationed, very little progress is made. The difficulties attending the execution of a private drainage scheme are certainly formidable, and it is probably better that such schemes should be taken up by Government; but it is worthy of consideration whether the Canals and Drainage Act (VIII of 1873) might not be so amended as to give District Boards some authority in this matter. Where the drainage is purely local, the District Board is the authority best adapted to deal with such questions as arise; it is able to secure the professional assistance of officers of the Public Works Department, and it has funds at its disposal for works of public improvement. These funds might be augmented by voluntary contributions towards the cost of the works undertaken, and also by the drainage rate which the Board should be empowered to levy under proper sanction; or loans might be obtained from Government for drainage works, the interest being met by a special rate on the lands benefited.

43. In the execution of drainage works, especially when not in charge of experienced Engineers, there is one danger which should be recognized. Natural depressions should not be absolutely emptied, but the cut should be at such a height as to carry off only the surplus water. This height is difficult to determine; in a dry year the whole depression may be cultivated while in a wet year it is several feet deep in water. In such cases it will be found that the opinion of practical agriculturists may in most cases safely be followed if care be taken to exclude from consideration the views of those who have some private object to gain; there must be a point somewhere in the scale where the advantage of storing more water becomes greater than the advantage of cultivating the additional reclaimed land, and it is of this point that practical men are the best judges.

44. I may here mention a suggestion made to me in conversation with some landowners in a canal district, that the flow of water in the drains should be regulated by sluices. Their idea was that, in some cases at least, the drains might be opened or closed at will, so that in the event, for instance, of the wind veering to the west in August or September, and an early cessation of the monsoon being expected, a certain amount of water might be retained in these depressions for use in irrigation. The suggestion seems to me of such importance as to justify its mention in this place. Its discussion must necessarily take place in the Irrigation Department, the Officers of which will be able to say whether any action in this direction is possible in practice.

45. So far as regards danger from floods. The course of the present season brings into prominence the greater danger from drought, a danger which in a series of wet years scarcely receives the continued attention which its gravity requires. I do not propose to say anything regarding the supply of water from existing canals or the undertaking of large and new schemes such as the Sardah Canal, the discussion on which has been lately reopened. I have referred to the suggestion made by the Collector of Bareilly to take charge of the small streams in the district and regulate the water-supply from them: this may be found possible elsewhere as well. But there are large tracts where canal or stream irrigation is impossible or inadequate, and if these tracts are to be protected from liability to distress, it must be done by masonry wells. The occasion is a convenient one for examining the position at present taken up in this matter.

46. Cultivators with some fixity of tenure are in general ready to construct wells for the land they till, and cultivating owners are in the aggregate the chief well-sinkers in the province. Some landowners, too, recognise their duties to their tenantry in this matter. But much of the land that requires protection is held in the North-Western Provinces by tenants-at-will, who are not in a position to construct wells, and in some districts the actual tillers of the soil hold not direct from the landlord, but from occupancy tenants who merely receive the highest rent that can be paid and do not concern themselves with the improvement of their holding. In Oudh, except for a few privileged classes, there is no theoretical fixity of tenure and where there is no guarantee that the tenancy will last longer than seven years, the investment of a large capital is inadvisable. Hence, for the provinces, as a whole, the landowner is the most important person: if he himself makes wells for the use of his tenants, or if he encourages them to do so by granting leases, or by permitting the acquisition of occupancy rights, as well as by liberal advances, it may be expected that wells will gradually be made wherever they are wanted. Landowners of this type are numerous but are still a minority, and it is unfortunately the case that over large tracts, landlords themselves refuse to build wells and at the same time prevent their tenants from supplying the defect. With such landowners, even occupancy tenants are deterred from investing capital in wells: they know that such an act of opposition to authority will bring down the landlord's displeasure, and that he will take the first opportunity of ejecting them, when the compensation to which the law gives them a claim will be obtainable only after bitter and expensive litigation. It would be superfluous to indicate in this place the tracts where landlords prevent their tenants from making wells: they are well known to District Officers, and it is a recognised fact that the principal obstacle to the protection of dry villages often comes from the very persons, who should be the first to give assistance.

47. Such being the position as regards landlords and tenants, it remains to state the attitude of Government, which may be described as benevolent, but not very active. Thus the law secures compensation for improvements in all cases where the landowner has given his consent, and in certain * cases even when constructed against the landowner's will. In practice, however, compensation is not easy to obtain, and these provisions do not afford the necessary encouragement to the cultivator. Again funds are supplied in the shape of takavi advances; such advances are generally unpopular, but it is believed that recent orders will simplify the required formalities and induce a more frequent resort to Government for the necessary funds. A limited amount of assistance in well construction is also given by the Agricultural Department, which lends boring tools and provides, on payment, the services of skilled well-sinkers. Finally, a concession is made at settlement to landlords, who have invested capital in well-making, the enhanced value of the land due to such investment being exempted temporarily from assessment. This is a valuable concession so far as it goes; but its existence is not widely known as settlement experience in Oudh clearly shows; and even where known, it is rather a retrospective recognition of what justice requires than an encouragement to investment in future.

* Improvements made by occupancy-tenants in the North-Western Provinces, and improvement under section 24 of the Oudh Rent Act.

48. Now if dry tracts are to be protected, either the landlords and tenants must be persuaded to sink wells or Government must do so for them. The latter alternative was contemplated after the famine of 1877, but lengthy enquiries led to the conclusion that the risk of loss was too great, and this conclusion is doubtless correct. It remains to see what can be done in the way of persuasion. Much could, doubtless, be effected by a district staff with a full knowledge of the character and position of the individual landowners; but the action of the staff must be guided by the District Officer, and while transfers continue to be so frequent as has lately been the case, effective action is possible in very few districts. In saying this, I do not mean to offer any protest against the number of transfers, which are unavoidable in existing circumstances; my object is merely to point out that in these circumstances no great advance can be secured by unsupported executive pressure. Where this is insufficient, either the dry villages must remain precarious or Government must bear some present pecuniary loss, which may be regarded as an insurance premium against the risk of famine in years of drought. Probably the most effective action would be the offer of a temporary remission of a certain amount of revenue conditional on the construction, by landlord or tenant, of a certain number of wells within a fixed period; this remission taking the place of the concession referred to in the preceding paragraph. In other words instead of remitting the assessment on the ascertained value of a completed improvement, a corresponding immediate remission might be offered to secure the improvement being made. There would then be loss to Government represented by the difference between the present and future value of the amount remitted, and this loss would be the premium paid for insuring the village against famine and the heavy direct and indirect expenditure entailed thereby.

The above is an outline only of a scheme which appears as practicable as any other that could be suggested; and my object in bringing it forward will have been secured, if it leads to the adoption of any method for the encouragement of the land-owning classes in the performance of a duty which is doubtless onerous and which has hitherto been too much neglected.

ORDERS OF GOVERNMENT.

No. $\frac{1803}{\frac{I-36B}{4}}$ OF 1897.

RESOLUTION.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT.

Dated Naini Tal, the 5th July 1897.

READ—

Letter from the Secretary to the Board of Revenue, North-Western Provinces and Oudh, No. $\frac{832}{XII-163}$, dated 13th March 1897 (received on 21st April), being the Board's Report on the Revenue Administration of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh for the year ending 30th September 1896.

OBSERVATIONS.—The Board's report should have reached the Secretariat on 15th March, and the delay in its submission this year was doubtless due to the late receipt in their office of the reports of four divisions. The Government accepts the explanation offered that press of work on the district and divisional authorities caused by the prevailing scarcity is a sufficient reason for the delay.

2. The revenue year (September 30th, 1895, to September 30th, 1896) was an abnormal one in respect to both its autumn and spring harvests. The autumn crops reaped towards the beginning of the year were unfavourably affected by the scantiness of the rains at the close of the preceding revenue year. The monsoon of 1895 had appeared early and had given heavy rain in June; but drier weather had ensued in July, and though the rain in the following August had been fairly well distributed, there had been a large defect in September, the rain having entirely ceased before the middle of that month except in the eastern districts and the tracts below the hills. Thus over the entire provinces the average rainfall of the monsoon of 1895 had been only 36·2 inches, or nearly 14 inches below the average of the five preceding years. In spite, however, of this deficiency, the autumn crops were, on the whole, better than those of the preceding two years, 1893 and 1894, which had owed their failure to excessive instead of to scanty rainfall. The total area cropped exceeded slightly that of the previous year, the area under the early crops—juár, cotton, indigo and till—showing a large decrease, while that under the later crops—rice, maize, bájra and pulses—considerably increased. Unfortunately, however, the best outturn was that of the early crops, which had been sown over a diminished area, while that of the more extensive late crops, especially late rice, was unusually poor. Thus the actual deficiency in the yield of the autumn harvest was probably very much greater than would appear from a mere perusal of the figures giving the average estimated outturn of the principal crops of the province. The winter rains of 1895-96 were also scanty, and consequently the spring crops on unirrigated lands were generally inferior, notably so in Bundelkhand and the submontane districts. The total area cropped showed the large decrease of 2,335,227 acres as compared with that of the previous year, the crops chiefly affected by this contraction being wheat (—1,156,427 acres), barley (—906,388 acres), and linseed (—350,292 acres). There was, on the other hand, a considerable increase in the area under sugarcane, opium, peas and arhar, and as the yield of these crops was, on the whole, good, the effect of the great failure in other crops was no doubt to some extent mitigated. The yield of linseed, which is a staple crop in Bundelkhand, was especially poor. A small weevil, identified as Tanymecus Indicus, which had hitherto caused damage only to poppy on germination, extended its ravages to other spring crops in several districts as well as to the poppy crop. While the year was, on the whole, less unfortunate than those that preceded it, the cumulative effect of the actual inferiority of its harvests taken together with those of the two previous years proved to have exhausted, to a large extent, the resources of the population; and it became necessary, not only to undertake relief works on an extensive scale in the Bundelkhand districts, and to a smaller extent in parts of the Allahabad, Hardoi, Pilibhít, Garhwál and Almora districts, but also to allow supensions of revenue and to grant liberal advances. Several hailstorms occurred in the provinces, but none were of any great severity, and it was only in the Saháranpur, Bulandshahr and Aligarh districts that remissions and suspensions of revenue had to be sanctioned on account of injury to crops by hail. The autumn rains of 1896 were still more irregular than those of 1895, and they ceased earlier. The rainfall in June was generally in excess of the normal; but in July it was everywhere deficient except in the Meerut division, and in August it barely sufficed over much of the provinces for agricultural operations. At the end of that month the rain suddenly ceased just at the time when it was most needed to bring the growing crops to maturity, and the month of September was practically rainless.

Health. Paragraphs 11 and 12.

3. The year was, generally speaking, an unhealthy one: and it was only in Oudh, the Allahabad (north of the Jumna), Benares and Gorakhpur divisions that the public health was fairly satisfactory. Cholera was more prevalent than in previous years, the mortality in the Basti district amounting to 10,460. Small-pox was generally prevalent. Malarial fever was responsible for the greatest number of deaths, and the disease was especially fatal in the Meerut division and in the distressed Bundelkhand districts. The experiment of selling quinine in five-grain packets at one pice each through postmasters and other officials was in operation in the Meerut division, four districts in the Rohilkhand division, and in the Naini Tal district. The results so far have not been encouraging, but the people require time to become acquainted with, and take advantage of, this system of supply.

4. There was a diminution in the general mortality from cattle disease as compared with the previous year. But rinderpest and foot-and-mouth disease were very rife in most of the Benares division and in the Rae Bareli district. A severe outbreak of surra occurred amongst the ponies on the Naini Tal-Káthgodám cart road.

Cattle disease. Paragraph 13.

5. Prices were exceptionally high in all districts, owing to deficient harvests. The failure of the winter rains caused a further rise in prices, and towards the close of the year the rates for all food grains had reached famine level. Owing to poor harvests in the Panjáb, the usual importations of grain from that province did not take place. But it is chiefly to the holding up of stocks in anticipation of the failure of the ensuing harvest that the great rise in prices which occurred during the latter half of 1896 is said to be attributable.

Prices. Paragraph 14.

6. The outstanding balance of arrears of land revenue on the roll at the beginning of the year amounted to Rs. 9,32,469, of which Rs. 5,16,861 were collected and Rs. 3,05,865 remitted. The net balance for recovery is shown as Rs. 1,07,440, more than two-thirds of which are due from the Allahabad division, but it is probable that a large part of this sum will not be realized. Due consideration will be given to any proposals which may be submitted by the Board for dealing with these arrears in the distressed districts.

Arrears of previous years. Paragraphs 16, 20, 25, 28, 34 and 36.

7. The current demand of revenue on the roll amounted to Rs. 6,03,07,924, of which Rs. 5,73,64,985, or 95 per cent., was collected. Of the balance uncollected, viz., Rs. 29,42,939, the statements in the Board's report show Rs. 23,34,646 as recoverable, Rs. 4,03,448 as doubtful, Rs. 63,455 as irrecoverable, and Rs. 1,41,390 as nominal. Of the recoverable balance, Rs. 1,31,415 were collected after the close of the year; Rs. 4,75,269 represents revenue the suspension of which, on account of failure of crops, had been sanctioned when the Board's report was written; Rs. 1,77,874 were due from estates under the Court of Wards, from estates under direct management, attachment and sale, and from defaulters residing in other districts and Rs. 15,50,088 were under recovery. Subsequent orders had been issued by Government, which have raised the total amount of the suspensions for the year under review to Rs. 17,48,023.

Current demand. Paragraphs 15 and 17 to 19.

The cause of this large balance, the largest, as noticed by the Board, since 1877-78, was not so much the inferiority of the harvests of the year under report as the number of poor harvests during the last five years. The western districts were exceptionally fortunate, but elsewhere throughout the provinces there had been a succession of unfortunate seasons. Measures of relief by means of remission and suspension of revenue have already been adopted in the Allahabad and Rohilkhand divisions, where the arrears were heaviest; and, in considering the prospects of recovery of the large arrears which have accrued, the still graver failure of the autumn crops and the accumulation of very much larger arrears in the year now current will doubtless call for consideration. As regards the balance of Rs. 4,03,448 classed as doubtful, no less than Rs. 3,84,197 is accounted for by the Allahabad division. The amount is chiefly due from the Bánda and Hamirpur districts, which have suffered from unfavourable seasons, and the Government had subsequently to the submission of the district reports sanctioned the remission of the whole of the sum (Rs. 2,12,647) outstanding in the former district, and the suspension of Rs. 1,50,000 in the latter district. Of the irrecoverable balance (Rs. 63,455), a remission of Rs. 61,398 has been sanctioned in the Jalaun district. The greater part of the nominal balance of Rs. 1,41,390 represents remissions of revenue on account of diluvion, and remissions due to reduction at regular settlement. The collections in the Agra division were the best in the provinces, and the Government concurs in the Board's approval of the revenue administration of that division. In the Benares and Gorakhpur divisions also the balances were small. In the Lucknow division the balance was large. The Commissioner's criticism on the failure to collect the revenue in Sítapur seems well founded. In Kheri the short collections were chiefly due to the recusancy of two large landholders. The large balance in Hardoi is not a matter of surprise. In the Fyzabad division Partábgarh was the only district in which the balance was important. In Saháranpur collections might, the Board are disposed to think, have been better.

Alterations in the demand for land revenue on the roll. Paragraph 23.

8. On 1st October 1895 the land revenue on the roll was Rs. 6,03,07,924; on 1st October 1896 it amounted to Rs. 6,08,91,991, being an increase of Rs. 5,84,067, chiefly due to the enhancement of revenue at the regular revision of settlement in certain districts. It has since been decided, in view of the present agricultural situation, to suspend the collection of the enhanced demand in the Oudh districts which fell due on 1st October last, while giving effect to the reductions resulting from the revision of the current demand.

Canal rates. Paragraphs 33—36.

9. The scarcity of the winter rains necessitated an extensive resort to artificial irrigation, and the demand for occupier's rate accordingly rose from Rs. 32,49,360 in the previous year to Rs. 58,51,775 in the year under report, or an increase of over 26 lakhs. The collections averaged nearly 99 per cent. of the demand, leaving some Rs. 51,736 as a recoverable balance. The Government agrees with the Board that more might, without undue pressure, have been collected in the Saháranpur district, against which a sum of Rs. 26,258 is shown as outstanding; and it fully concurs with the remarks of the Commissioner of Agra, which are endorsed by the Board, that "it is precisely in a season of drought that those who possess the great privilege of canal water should be required to pay promptly for it," and that "it is an injudicious and misdirected policy in these cases to show leniency in the collection of the demand."

Following the increase in the occupier's rate, the demand on account of owner's rate amounted to Rs. 3,18,028 as compared with Rs. 1,52,726 in the previous year, and all but Rs. 1,104 was collected.

10. There were 393 State properties in the provinces, or one more than in the previous year, and the total demand on them, including outstanding, was Rs. 7,81,005, of which Rs. 7,06,149, or 90·4 per cent., were collected. The current rental demand was, however, short of last year's figures by some Rs. 9,000, due to a falling off in the rent-roll of the Kumaun Bhábar Estate in Naini Tal, owing to numerous relinquishments of holdings in preceding years. The estates in the Bánda district, as was natural, are again responsible for the heavy arrears (Rs. 31,370 out of a total for the provinces of Rs. 74,856), and only 28 per cent. of the demand could be collected. The Collector has been requested to submit a further report with regard to these balances, which the Board anticipate will have to be written off ultimately, as, in consequence of successive bad harvests and the existing distress, the chances of recovery are small. In several other districts the outstanding balances were also large, and it is said that adverse seasons are more or less accountable for these arrears everywhere. After payment of land revenue and rates the income from State properties was Rs. 5,38,781; the total expenditure amounted to Rs. 3,49,479, leaving a net profit for Government of Rs. 1,89,302.

State properties. Paragraph 37.

11. The system of remitting revenue by money-orders has now been in force for six years. The figures given on page 22 of the Board's report indicate the slow, but steady and satisfactory, progress made in the number and value of money-orders issued year after year. In the first year (1890-91) of the experiment 125,200 money-orders were issued of the value of Rs. 26,75,553; four years later (1893-94) the figures were 150,303 and Rs. 32,78,485 respectively; in the year under review (1895-96) there were 170,806 and Rs. 36,54,412. Compared with the preceding year (1894-95), the district of Bareilly in Rohilkhand and the famine-stricken districts of Bánda and Jalaun in the Allahabad division are the chief exceptions to the general increase in the number and values of these money-orders. It is noticeable that the districts of the Gorakhpur division account for nearly half the number of remittances and nearly one-third of the total value. As regards miscellaneous revenue remittances, 24,036 money-orders of the value of Rs. 4,63,314 were issued against 20,004 and Rs. 3,70,456 in the previous year.

Revenue money-orders. Paragraphs 41 and 42.

12. In the North-Western Provinces the number of suits instituted has increased by 2,782, or 2·53 per cent., but the number of applications has fallen off by 20,264 or 13·90 per cent. The total of suits and applications has thus decreased from 255,604 to 238,122, the figures for the year 1893-94 being 271,592. The number of suits in the year under review (112,633) is again the highest on record since the Rent Act XII of 1881) was passed. Suits for arrears of rent exceeded the previous year by 3,092, and were 90·8 per cent. of the total number of suits instituted—a very slight increase as compared with preceding years. The table given in paragraph 45 of the Board's report shows that in the Rohilkhand, Allahabad and Gorakhpur divisions the number of suits had increased, while in Meerut, Agra and Benares they had declined. The explanation suggested for the decrease in Meerut and Agra is that they enjoyed comparatively good harvests in 1894-95, and the continued bad seasons in Rohilkhand and Allahabad are held to account for the further marked increase in those divisions. The variations in the figures for Benares call for no remark. In the Gorakhpur and Basti districts, where rent suits had for some years been falling off, it is said that there has been a reaction in the past two years. Considering the large number of suits for disposal, it is satisfactory to note that only 4,408 cases were pending as compared with 5,586 in the previous year, and that there were only 122 cases pending for more than three months against 184 in 1894-95. In Allahabad, notwithstanding the increase in the institutions, and the extra work thrown on the staff by the prevalence of scarcity, suits were disposed of with creditable promptitude, and there were no cases pending over three months.

Rent money-orders. Paragraph 48.

A slight increase took place in the amount of rent remitted by money-orders in the North-Western Provinces, but there was a very large decrease in Oudh, and one which was spread over nearly all its districts. The variations in the North-Western Provinces are remarkable, adjacent districts exhibiting contradictory results. The system appears to be most popular in the Agra division, but even there the district of Farukhabad forms a solitary and marked exception. These local variations cannot be readily accounted for.

Applications to eject tenants-at-will. Paragraphs 50 and 53 to 55.

There was a further falling off in the number of applications to eject tenants-at-will, the figures being 44,792 as compared with 54,614 in the previous year and 72,105 in 1893-94. The total number of notices issued on tenants-at-will fell short of the figures of 1894-95 by 9,816, and the decrease is said to be general in every division and to be distributed over every district but six. This diminution in such applications and notices is generally found to accompany bad harvests, and the year under report has formed no exception to the rule. The tenants contested 27 per cent. of the notices, the same percentage as in the preceding year, and the area affected fell from 281,251 acres in 1894-95 to 240,964 in the year under report. The proportion of success obtained by the tenants in resisting ejectment (in 54 per cent. of the applications) was a little higher than in the preceding year (52 per cent.). Rohilkhand and next to it Allahabad and Gorakhpur show a large number of attempted ejectments sucessfully defeated.

The system of sending to tenants intimation by post of the applications made by their landlords for the issue of notices of ejectment, which was tried in Rohilkhand, has been abandoned, because the addressees refused to take delivery, having gained from the notes on the outside of the envelope all the information they could have gained from its contents. It does not, however, follow that the plan of giving the tenants this information by post was without its advantages. It is at any rate noteworthy that there was a very marked decrease in the number of notices of ejectment issued in the Rohilkhand division. Sanction has been accorded to certain special measures recommended by the Board, the object of which is to ensure that tenants shall be informed of the notices of ejectment, and that the notices shall be actually served. It is to be hoped that these measures will result in a check being put on fraudulent practices in the service of these notices.

Applications affecting occupancy tenants. Paragraphs 50, 51, 52 and 59.

The decline in the number of applications to enhance the rent of occupancy tenants, the figures being 4,588 as compared with 5,937 in the previous year and 7,668 in 1893-94, is no doubt, as remarked by the Board, another concomitant of bad seasons, and was, as usual, accompanied by an increase in the number of applications under section 35, Act XII of 1881, to eject protected tenants for non-payment of rents. The increase in these applications in the year under report was most marked in Budaun, Meerut, Allahabad and Jaunpur. In the two former districts the desire to eject occupancy tenants before the commencement of settlement operations contributed to this result; while in Allahabad the landlords freely availed themselves of the opportunity afforded by the circumstances of the year to oust tenants whom they wished to get rid off. In Jaunpur the increase is said to be due to the strained relations between landlords and tenants. The proportion of instances in which ejectment actually takes place, viz., about 1 in 3, seems to vary but little from year to year. The steady rise in the area affected is noticeable, the figures for the past three years being noted in the margin. The Board have remarked on the progressive increase in the past five years in the area in the Benares division in which tenants have lost rights of occupancy by process of court. The number of resignations of occupancy holdings exceeded the figures of the previous year by 12,317: this excess was chiefly due to the large number of resignations in the Allahabad division, where nearly two-thirds of the whole number of notices were filed. Most of these resignations were, it is said, made by tenants holding inferior fields or fields which had gone out of cultivation, who, as a rule, left them without any intention of abandoning cultivation altogether, but could not afford to remain under a liability for their rent.

	Acres.
1893-94	... 40,502
1894-95	... 55,559
1895-96	... 61,561

Paragraph 56.

The tenant area has fallen off by 40,000 acres, due to the contraction in cultivation on account of unfavourable seasons. The area recorded as held under some kind of right fell by 40,000 acres; but as the area held for over twelve years increased by over 200,000 acres, tenants have, on the whole, gained during the year.

Oudh Rent Law litigation. Paragraphs 60—69.

13. In Oudh the number of suits instituted was 35,351 as compared with 33,909 in the previous year, but, as the whole of this increase can be accounted for by exceptional circumstances in the Sultánpur district only, rent litigation was practically stationary elsewhere in the province. As regards ejectment proceedings, eviction actually took place from 7,974 holdings, with an area of 60,235 acres, and about one-third of this area was relet to new tenants. The average rise in the rent of lands relet from which statutory tenants were ejected was 13 per cent., or more than double the percentage allowed by law in individual cases. Illegal enhancement of rents was comparatively rare, owing, it is said, to the unfavourable seasons. Instances are given of various devices to evade the law, such as the levy of a premium on the grant or renewal of a tenancy.

Litigation in Kumaun. Paragraph 70.

14. The total number of suits for disposal in Kumaun was 713 as compared with 899 in the previous year. The prevalence of scarcity and sickness, coupled with the fact that certain cases which used to be filed in the revenue courts are now instituted in the civil courts, accounts for the decrease. Most of the suits instituted were for arrears of rent and by málguzárs for arrears of revenue. Only 65 ejectment suits were pending at the close of the year. The average duration is shown as not having exceeded two months in any district.

Appeals to Judges. Paragraph 74.

15. There were 3,375 appeals for disposal by Judges, of which 2,152, or 64 per cent., were decided. The pending file is still heavy. It has increased, though but slightly, in the North-Western Provinces; but it is satisfactory to record that in Oudh it was reduced by nearly one-half, from 1,002 to 552 cases. The average duration in the North-Western Provinces was 6 months and 15 days, or four days longer than in 1894-95, but in Oudh it rose from 11 months 5 days to 13 months 24 days. It may be reasonably expected that as the old arrears in Oudh have been much reduced, the average duration in the current year will show a sensible improvement.

Appeals to Commissioners. Paragraph 75.

16. Appeals to Commissioners in rent cases diminished by nearly 1,000 cases. In spite of this, the number of pending cases was 970 as compared with 833 at the commencement of the year. On the other hand, the number of cases pending over three months fell from 85 to 35. The appeals decided were most numerous in Gorakhpur, Agra and Fyzabad. The number of appeals transferred by Commissioners to Collectors in the Meerut and Benares divisions diminished from 1,162 to 577, of which all but 64 were disposed of, and none of the latter were over three months old. Orders were issued during the year that appeals were not to be transferred to Officiating Collectors of less than ten years' service, and that the appeals made over to Collectors for disposal should include cases such as those of enhancement in which local inquiry was necessary which the Commissioner was unable himself to make.

Judicial work of the Board of Revenue. Paragraph 76.

17. The cases for disposal by the Board increased by 352, from 3,237 to 3,589. Of these, 2,514 were decided as compared with 2,205 in the previous year. The pending file is still large and in excess of that of 1894-95 by 43 cases.

Coercive processes. Paragraphs 79—86.

18. There was a decrease both in the total number of processes and in the arrears for the recovery of which they were issued. As regards writs of demand, the Board remark that the variations in the extent to which this process is employed in successive years and in similarly situated districts make it clear that the use of this process has not been systematized, and depends to a great extent on the individual inclinations of District Officers. The Board rightly observe that there is a want of uniformity evident throughout the provinces to a very marked degree; and that the number of writs, which are distributed broadcast through many districts, would be lessened by a truer appreciation of the value and limitations of this form of process. Their remarks on this subject are commended to the attention of District Officers, and the Lieutenant-Governor and Chief Commissioner trusts that the Board will take steps te ensure greater consistency in the application of this coercive process in future.

With respect to processes other than writs of demand, the figures show that in the North-Western Provinces the difficulties by which the landholders were confronted have been recognised by a decrease in the pressure applied, while in Oudh, where arrears are rarer, greater efforts were made to attain the usual standard of collection. The Government, however, agrees with the Board that, on the whole, the revenue demand was not collected with undue severity, and that in those districts in which the character of the seasons was most unfavourable, and the resources of the people most severely tried, coercive processes were more sparingly resorted to than usual. The system introduced by Mr. Wyer, by which lambardárs are supplied with a statement of the demand fifteen days before the revenue instalments fall due, is reported to have worked well in some districts, while in others practical effect could not be given to it, as the orders for its introduction were received too late in the year. The experiment is being continued this year, but, in judging of its results, allowance must be made for the abnormal character of the seasons.

Opinions are still divided as to the results of the experiment of utilizing the post for the service of writs, and it is generally considered that writs served through the post are not so effective as those served through peons. The Government, however, agrees with the Board that the system should have a further trial over a more extended area, and that, although its introduction will not dispense entirely with the employment of process servers, it will to some extent prevent the entertainment of a temporary staff, which is under less restraint than a permanent one. The post should therefore, as suggested by the Board, be more largely made use of for the service of writs, the more persistent defaulters being suitably dealt with.

Transfers. Paragraph 89.

19. The statistics of transfers show that the number of transfers by public sale has decreased in the North-Western Provinces, while it has increased in Oudh, and that the number of transfers by private sale and of mortgage cases has increased in both provinces. The effect of two unfavourable years on voluntary transfers is apparent on a comparison of the figures for the past five years. While in the North-Western Provinces sales of revenue-paying lands, which had fallen off in 1893-94 and 1894-95, exhibit an increase in the year under review, in Oudh such sales have been steadily becoming more numerous for the past four years.

Mortgages in both provinces show an increasing tendency; in Oudh, however, a large portion of the increase is said to be nominal, being due to better reporting.

Partitions. Paragraph 93.

20. Satisfactory progress was made in the disposal of partition work, only eight districts showing cases pending over three years and more. The number of applications was again largest in the Gorakhpur and Meerut divisions, but nearly one-third were disposed of. There has been a further increase of over 5,000 in the number of mahâls, in spite of the fact that in certain districts advantage was taken of the ruling discouraging the formation of minute and scattered properties which cause administrative inconvenience.

Advances under the Land Improvement Loans Act. Paragraphs 94 and 95.

21. The amount advanced under the Land Improvement Loans Act (Rs. 1,46,295) was nearly double that in the preceding year. The increase was most marked in the Allahabad division and in Rae Bareli, where, owing to the drought, the demand for loans was exceptionally great. Notwithstanding the character of the season, 86 per cent. of the demand on account of principal which fell due in the year under review was collected in all but five districts; in these latter the collections were less than half the demand owing to poor harvests.

Advances under the Agricultural Loans Act. Paragraph 96.

22. There was a falling off of nearly Rs. 40,000 in the advances under the Agricultural Loans Act. In the North-Western Provinces the advances show a net increase of Rs. 1,15,846, while in Oudh there is a decrease of Rs. 1,55,460. Very large sums were advanced in the distressed tracts of the Allahabad division for the purchase of seed and cattle; but no explanation is given of the falling off of the loans made in Oudh. There is no doubt that, as remarked by the Commissioner of Allahabad, the money advanced in the distressed districts materially helped the landlords and tenants at a time when such help was much needed, and that had not funds been liberally allotted under the Land Improvement and Agricultural Loans Acts, the amount spent by Government on relief works might have increased. Of the amount of advances on account of principal falling due in the year under review, 63·1 per cent. was collected. Pressure for payment was rightly deemed unadvisable in view of the adverse seasons.

Working of the Village Courts Act, III of 1892. Paragraph 111.

23. In the absence of complete statistics of the working of the Courts of Village Munsifs for the year 1896, Government will reserve its remarks on this subject till it can be dealt with on fuller information when reviewing the working of the Civil Courts.

Settlement. Paragraphs 114—129.

24. A full and interesting account is given of the progress made in settlement work. In seven districts the assessment of the revenue demand and the revision of records were undertaken in accordance with the system formerly in vogue as a part of settlement operations; and the work is now drawing to a close in Lucknow, Hardoi, Sítapur, Bara Banki and Fyzabad, where no revision of records was undertaken and the assessment was made on the existing papers. In Meerut, which has been under cadastral survey for the past two years, it has been decided that a complete record should be prepared by the Settlement Officer. Arrangements were also made to start settlement work in the Sháhjahánpur and Bahraich districts, and in the Lalitpur subdivision of the Jhánsi district, in which surveys by patwáris' agency are being made. The Board doubt whether the plan of resurveying districts without at the same time submitting the record prepared with reference to the new maps to the test of attestation is likely to be successful in the North-Western Provinces districts however well it may be suited to Oudh, where the sír area is limited and where occupancy rights exist only to a small extent and rarely accrue to new tenants; and they promise to submit a report on the subject for the orders of Government. This will be awaited.

Land Records Surveys. Paragraphs 131 and 132, and paragraphs 16 and 17 of the report of the Director of Land Records and Agriculture.

25. Satisfactory progress has been made in carrying out survey operations and revision of land records by the permanent agency of the Land Records Department, notwithstanding that in certain districts the work suffered from the continued absence of patwáris from their duties. It is pleasing to notice that the Deputy Surveyor-General, who inspected the work done, found it to be "but little below professional standard." Owing to the supply of men to be trained being limited, and to the inconvenience caused to district work by the withdrawal of patwáris from their circles for survey operations, the time for completing the survey in each patwári circle will, instead of being confined as now to a single year, be spread over two years. It has been found necessary to strengthen the department by two additional trained officers of the Survey Department for supervision and control of the patwáris employed on cadastral work; and the Government has under consideration certain proposals made by the Board with regard to increasing the present staff of survey officers and organizing a Provincial Survey Department.

Patwáris and kánúngos. Paragraphs 133—136 and paragraphs 1—10 of the report of the Director of Land Records and Agriculture.

26. The revision of patwáris' circles in the North-Western Provinces is nearing completion. In Muttra the Board have allowed a further extension of two years up to 1st April 1898 for the complete introduction of the revised scale of salaries, while in Agra and Etah, owing to the prevailing scarcity, the new scale has been postponed for a year. In Oudh the introduction of a system of personal pay for patwáris has been authorized by the Board, and the revisional schemes for certain districts are in abeyance pending sanction to general rules on the subject which are under preparation.

It is satisfactory to observe the advance that has been made in the educational qualifications of the patwáris in the North-Western Provinces. The number who had passed through the patwáris' schools has increased: the number of those who are exempted from or who have still to pass the examination has fallen. The proportion of resident patwáris has also increased. In regard to exemptions, that there should be an increase in their number in Mainpuri, Allahabad, and especially Benares, is remarkable in the face of the decrease elsewhere in the North-Western Provinces, but is unexplained. Oudh is in a transition state, owing partly to the pendency of settlement operations, and much remains to be done to bring its patwáris to the level of the educational standard of their brethren in the North-Western Provinces.

It is satisfactory to note a still further improvement in the punctuality with which the annual papers were filed. The results of testing by superior officers have, it is said, on the whole been good; but the Board have found it necessary to call the special attention of District Officers to the remarks of the Director of Land Records that too much attention is given to the minutiæ of the khasra, while the rent-roll, the map and the siyaha are comparatively neglected. The maintenance of the pargana books has made progress, and the rules have been modified with a view of securing that the information available in these books should be made practically useful in the district administration.

Agricultural depression.

Paragraph 141 and paragraphs 28—48 of the report by the Director of Land Records and Agriculture.

27. Appended to the Board's report is an interesting note drawn up by the Director of Land Records and Agriculture on agricultural depression during recent years. The scope of this note is said to be limited to the indication of the areas which have suffered from depression in recent "non-famine" years, to investigation of the causes of depression, and to the suggestion of remedies. The district reports furnished to the Director are stated to be in some instances defective, inasmuch as they do not in all cases give the required information, and show that the subject is as yet insufficiently understood by some District Officers. The Board very rightly observe that the object of the district reports is to secure that information which is embodied in detail in the pargana books should be collated and recorded in a readily accessible form for the district as a whole, and that deterioration which is important as regards extent or avoidable should not escape from notice.

It is desirable that steps should be taken to derive full advantage from the information that is contained in these reports or that should be found in them if they were properly compiled. They should, in the opinion of the Lieutenant-Governor and Chief Commissioner, embody the experiences of the individual districts during the years to which they refer. The history of past years shows that the climatic conditions of the province vary considerably from year to year, and yet that all these variations have been generally experienced at some time or other within a cycle (the length of which has been differently estimated by various authorities), after which they repeat themselves. In other words, an accurate account of the agricultural condition of the province and its individual districts for that cyclical period will afford instances of all the various forms of depression affecting a district, either as a whole or in part, to which that district is ever likely to be subject. If, then, these records of the annual history of a district for the whole period of such a cycle of years be compiled with accuracy and intelligence, and so collated as to form a connected and intelligent account of the agricultural history of the district for that period, we should have for all time a valuable and useful guide for Government and for the district officials to the weak points in the agricultural prosperity of each district, and more especially regarding the manner, the extent, and the precise localities in which it is affected by climatic variations. With this object in view it is not sufficient that these records of a district's vicissitudes should be found in annual reports. They should be carefully examined by the Director of Agriculture; where from any cause they are defective, the defect should be rectified at once; the significance of the records of one year compared with its predecessors should be noted; and after every five years all the reports should be collated and the inferences or results set forth in a clear light. Thus a manual of the agricultural conditions of each district might, in time, be compiled, which would be invaluable to Government and to all officers to whose charge the district is entrusted in future.

The two great dangers to which the agriculture of this country is exposed are undoubtedly flood and drought. The evils resulting from either one of these calamities have the effect of blinding the observer for the time being to the disastrous effects of the other. There are in most districts portions in which floods are the more serious evil, and to which a dry year brings relief; there are other portions in which drought has the more serious effect for evil; and yet again other parts, such as the bhur tracts, which suffer almost equally from excessive or from deficient rain. It is, on the other hand, fortunate that what is a serious evil in some portions of the province carries with it some compensating advantages in other parts. But with a careful and intelligent account of the effect of the climate on every district and its componnent parts, an account based on actual experience extending over a cycle of years, it is hardly possible that any climatic danger could overwhelm a district and take by surprise those who are responsible for its administration without their being prepared for the evils they would have to face and guided as to the measures they should take to counteract them.

As regards drainage operations, it is admitted that much has been done in this direction in the canal-irrigated districts, and that the people have realized that the Government is willing to provide for the drainage of flooded land, but very little progress has been made in other localities outside the area not commanded by canals. The Government has still under consideration the proposals made for amendment of the law to facilitate private drainage schemes.

The question of the utilization of drainage cuts as stores of water for irrigation in dry years will, as suggested by the Board, be commended to the notice of the Irrigation Department.

Certain measures have been suggested by the Director to increase the area protected by well irrigation in tracts in which canal irrigation does not exist. The Board's attention has already been drawn to the insufficiency of the existing rule by which compensation for improvements by extension of irrigation is permitted at settlement, and their proposals for amending this rule so as to allow of a more liberal scale of compensation will be awaited.

28. The Lieutenant-Governor desires to thank the Board of Revenue for their administration during this year and for their exhaustive report.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of the above resolution be forwarded to the Secretary to the Board of Revenue, North-Western Provinces and Oudh, for the information of the Board.

REPORT

ON THE

REVENUE ADMINISTRATION,

FOR THE REVENUE YEAR 1897-98.

No. $\frac{791}{XII-163}$ OF 1899.

FROM

F. W. BROWNRIGG, ESQ., I.C.S.,
SECRETARY TO THE BOARD OF REVENUE,
NORTH-WESTERN PROVINCES AND OUDH,

To

THE SECRETARY TO GOVERNMENT,
NORTH-WESTERN PROVINCES AND OUDH,
REVENUE DEPARTMENT.

Dated Allahabad, the 10th March 1899.

Present:
HON'BLE,
MR. H. F. EVANS,
AND
D. F. ROBERTS, ESQ.

SIR,

I AM directed to submit, with the usual enclosures, the Board's report on the Revenue Administration of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, for the Revenue year ending on the 30th September 1898.

2. The office of Senior Member was held by Mr. Cadell till the 9th October 1897, when he retired from the service and was succeeded by Mr. LaTouche ; Mr. Moule being appointed Junior Member in the place of the latter. On Mr. LaTouche joining the Governor-General's Council as Additional Member, Mr. Moule officiated as Senior Member and Mr. Evans as Junior Member, from the 9th December 1897 to the 8th April 1898, when Mr. LaTouche returned to the Board. Shortly afterwards Mr. Moule proceeded on two months' privilege leave, Mr. Rose acting for him as Junior Member. On Mr. LaTouche's appointment as Officiating Lieutenant-Governor, Mr. Evans officiated as Senior Member, from the 5th May 1898 until Mr. Moule's return from privilege leave, when Mr. Evans replaced Mr. Rose as Junior Member.

3. The divisional reports were received in good time except that for Kumaun, which did not reach the Board till the 14th January. The Commissioner attributes the delay to an unusual press of work in November and December and notices that some of the district returns were not received till the second week in December.

PART I.

Chapter I.—AGRICULTURAL.

SECTION I.—RAINFALL AND HARVESTS.
Appendix I.

4. The monsoon of 1897 set in about the middle of June, when there was a general but uneven fall of rain. Irregular and on the whole light rain continued to fall till the end of the third week of June, when there was a sudden break which lasted till the second week of July. During the break hot weather conditions again set in. A strong westerly breeze began to blow and the ground began to rapidly dry up, but just when the situation was becoming serious, a change occurred and general and heavy rain came down about the 12th of July and continued with timely intermissions till about the first week of October. The falls during the end of July and during August were in some places particularly heavy and caused damage by flood to the crops in the lowlying lands. November, December and January were dry months. The winter rains commenced about the middle of February and every district in the province was visited by showers. Over the entire province the rainfall of the year averaged 45·3 inches, or only about an inch in excess of the average of the preceding five years.

5. The rains were favourable and the autumn harvest was the best that has been reaped for some years. The kharíf sowings commenced in the third week of June, but were interrupted for a time by the sudden stoppage of the rains. Maize and bájrá did exceptionally well, though the break in the early part of the rains did some damage to the early rice. Cotton and indigo suffered first from insufficient rain and later on from the heavy rainfall. If the usual winter rains had come in time, the cold weather crop would have been a bumper one; but continued dry weather till February altered the prospects and irrigation had to be freely resorted to. The winter rains, though late, were especially beneficial to the crops which were sown late and were not irrigated. Some damage was caused by the rain followed by high winds later on in the month which injured the standing crops approaching maturity. The cold weather crops were, however, on the whole, excellent and better than have been gathered for a series of years.

6. To refer in more detail to the character of the crops in the different divisions. In the Meerut division peas, gram and arhar suffered some damage from insects and the late arrival of the winter rains. Cotton suffered at first from the delay in the burst of the monsoon and afterwards from excessive rain, but the outturn of all the other crops was good. In the Agra and Rohilkhand divisions the harvests were satisfactory. The Commissioner of the latter division notices that the rebound from the contraction of the area of cultivation induced by many years of indifferent seasons ending in scarcity has been to some extent artificially checked by the approach of settlement which has induced many proprietors to enforce a limitation of cultivation in their villages. In the Allahabad division the kharíf was good except in Fatehpur, where the rains in September and in the beginning of October failed. The rabí in Cawnpore and Allahabad was excellent and in Fatehpur fairly good, but owing to the lateness of the winter rains it was poor in the Bundelkhand districts. There the continued dry weather caused considerable injury to gram, an important crop in that tract. In the Benares and Gorakhpur divisions the harvests were above the average. Rice especially yielded a good outturn in the Benares division. The harvests in the Kumaun division were on the whole satisfactory. The kharíf outturn in Naini Tál, owing to the heavy rains at the end of the monsoon, was not up to expectations, but this was made up for by the richness of the rabí. In the Oudh divisions the harvests were good. Heavy rain in August caused some damage to the early crops and checked rice sowings, but the late winter rains on the other hand benefited the crops on unirrigated lands.

On the whole the year was one of favourable agricultural conditions and of good harvests, and the people have to a large extent been enabled to recover the ground they lost during the famine year and the years of indifferent harvests which preceded it.

7. The following figures given by the Director of Land Records and Agriculture, compare the average estimated outturn of the principal crops for the entire province with that of the previous year, sixteen annas denoting a normal crop:—

	1896-97.	1897-98.		1896-97.	1897-98.
Rice	5	15	Wheat	14	16
Maize	10	16	Barley	14	16
Juár	7	15	Gram and peas	9	14
Bájrá	7	16	Arhar	11	14
Mandua, kodon and other smaller millets.	9	15	Masúr	10	14
			Linseed	11	14
Urd, mung and moth ...		14	Rapeseed	12	16
Cotton	9	12	Sugarcane	12	15
Til	8	14	Poppy	11	15
Indigo	13	12	Tobacco	14	16

Cotton and indigo were the only crops which fell 4 annas short of the normal.

8. The following summary of the character of the rains in 1898 and the prospects of the current year is extracted from the half-yearly agricultural report of the Director of Land Records and Agriculture:—

"During the first week of June the rainfall was practically nil; but by the 10th or 11th falls in moderate amount were general except in parts of the Agra and Meerut divisions. After that, though fairly normal monsoon conditions declared themselves, rain was light and in some districts hot west winds blew till nearly the close of the month. The rainfall of the month was below the normal in the divisions of Meerut, Agra, Rohilkhand and Fyzabad; but the other divisions showed excesses. In the first week of July light rain fell in the Doáb, Rohilkhand and North Oudh; but in the second week it was general and abundant; and in the third week fairly general but light. Most districts had somewhat prolonged breaks of hot weather in the latter half of the month; but rain began again in the last few days of July and fell in reasonable sufficiency wherever it was needed. The rainfall of the month was in considerable excess in Benares and Fyzabad divisions; normal in Gorakhpur, Kumaun, Lucknow and Allahabad; and again deficient in Meerut, Agra and Rohilkhand. Throughout August rain was very irregular and in places extraordinarily heavy and continuous; and the total for the month was quite up to the normal in almost all districts owing to copious falls in the first and last weeks of the month. Good and well distributed rain fell during the first week of September over all the provinces, and lighter, though equally general, falls continued throughout the second week. The rain practically ceased on the 15th September in the western half of the province, although slight showers were received after that date in most districts. But in the eastern districts, including parts of Oudh, heavy falls again marked the third week. In the last week of the month the monsoon finally disappeared. Taken as a whole the rainfall of the month was slightly over the normal in the Upper Doáb and in Bundelkhand, and markedly so in the Benares and Gorakhpur divisions, with the Oudh districts nearest to Gorakhpur; while elsewhere it was just up to the normal or in slight defect. In October the rainfall was much less than usual. During the second week of the month there was an irregular, but on the whole slight fall of rain, in most districts, except those in the west. The rest of the month was dry.

"The rainfall of the season up to the end of October was in excess of the normal in all the divisions except Meerut and Rohilkhand, which show defects of over 3 and 4 inches, respectively. Agra received but little over the normal amount of rain.

"Excluding the tracts for which, owing to survey or settlement operations, crop returns were not received in both years, the total kharíf area of the province in 1898 amounted to 18,475,726 acres as compared with 18,438,501 acres in 1897, showing a small increase of 37,225 acres. An increase of 159,387 acres took place in Oudh; while in the North-Western Provinces there was a drop of 122,162 acres. The increase in Oudh is shared by all districts for which figures have been reported. In the North-Western Provinces small increases, which in no case exceed 5 per cent. occurred in Farukhabad, Etah, Bijnor, Budaun, Moradabad, Fatehpur, Jhánsi, Jaunpur and Azamgarh; in Hamírpur and Jalaun the increase was 6 and 13 per cent. respectively. In the remaining districts there was a falling off, which generally varied from 1 to 4 per cent. Taking the figures by divisions it would seem that an expansion in the kharíf area occurred in Lucknow (4 per cent.); Rohilkhand and Fyzabad (2 per cent. each); and Allahabad (0·2 per cent.); elsewhere there was a decline of 2 per cent.

"For the 37 districts for which complete figures are available the excess in 1898 over the normal amounted to 3 per cent. as compared with an excess of 2⅓ per cent. in 1897.

"As already remarked rain began rather late and was deficient in the divisions of Meerut and Rohilkhand. This led to a contraction of about half a lakh of acres in the area sown with rice in these two divisions; in the other divisions, where rain commenced in good time and was sufficient, there were increases: the net increase for the province being about 6½ lakhs of acres. These increases took place at the expense of arhar, maize, bájra and the smaller millets, the area sown with which fell off by 5¾ lakhs of acres in all in tracts where cultivation of rice was stimulated by the timely fall of rain. The large decline in the area placed under indigo was owing to the discouragement which its cultivation has received in consequence of the very low prices obtained on the preceding year's sales. Juár and cotton were sown on almost the same scale as last year; but the area under urd and mung recovered the fall which occurred last year. For reasons explained in the last year's report the area sown with moth has again risen this year. The area placed under sugarcane, which in 1896 and 1897 had declined apparently in consequence of dry seasons, shows a rise of 82,279 acres in 1898. The question whether the imports of foreign sugar have had any effect on the area sown with sugarcane is being reported on separately.

"Speaking generally rain began rather late and ended early; but its distribution was most suitable for the crops, and the frequent intervals of dry weather allowed careful weeding. The heavy aud continuous rainfall of August was not, however, without harmful effects. In lowlying lands the crops were laid by the rain or were flooded; but the damage done was local and not serious, except in Ballia and Gonda where the early kharíf crops on low lands and along the banks of rivers were considerably damaged. Notwithstanding these drawbacks, the kharíf harvest was everywhere well up to the normal or a little below it.

"For the province as a whole the condition of the principal kharíf crops is compared below for the past two years on the average of the figures furnished by district officers:—

Crop.	Condition in number of annas; 16 annas denoting a normal crop.
Rice	15	14
Maize	16	16
Juár	15	14
Bájrá	16	16
Mandua, kodon and other small millets	15	14
Urd, mung and moth	14	15
Cotton	12	13
Indigo	12	11

"It will be observed that all cereal crops did very evenly and gave a full normal yield or a little below it. Maize and bájrá like last year yielded a full 16 annas crop all round. Early rice suffered from the lateness of the monsoon, and late rice from its early cessation; while juár and the smaller millets were more or less damaged in places by the heavy rain. The average yield of these crops, therefore, amounted to 14 annas each for the province. The season was also fairly favourable for cotton and til crops, which on an average yielded a 13 annas crop each. The indigo crop was very seriously damaged by the heavy downpours of August, specially in the Benares division and did not yield more than 11 annas all round. On the whole, the kharíf of 1898 was very nearly, if not quite, as good as the exceptional crop of the preceding year, and a further fall in the prices of food-grains resulted."

SECTION II.—HAILSTORMS, FLOODS AND OTHER CALAMITIES.

9. The only districts in which it was found necessary to grant remissions and suspensions of revenue on account of damage done by hail were Bánda and Fatehpur, which were visited by severe hailstorms in February. Revenue had also to be remitted and suspended in the Aligarh, Sítapur and Almora districts owing to the damage caused to the crops by floods of the Jumna, Dhour and Ladhia rivers, respectively. Some slight injury was caused by floods of the rivers Gogra and Sarju in the riparian villages of two tahsíls of the Bahraich district, but relief was not necessary. The people attributed the floods in the Kaisarganj tahsíl to the new railway bridge over the Gogra at Bahramghát and those in the Nánpára tahsil to the Katarnian ghát extension of the Bengal and North-Western Railway. In the first case local enquiry by the Deputy Commissioner found the complaint to be groundless; but in the second there was some ground for complaint, which will be remedied by the opening of a new culvert. The extraordinarily heavy rain from the 9th to 17th August 1898 in the Naini Tál district caused serious damage. A landslip occurred at Kalakhan, partly wrecking the Naini Tál Brewery and causing the death of 27 persons including one European. In Lalitpur in the Jhánsi district the overflowing of the Biana Nálá destroyed between 60 and 70 houses.

Locusts appeared in several districts, but in Cawnpore, Bánda, and Jhánsi alone was the injury done by them so great as to require relief. Serious damage was caused by fires in the Bareilly and Hardoi districts.

SECTION III.—HEALTH.

10. The most noticeable feature of the statistics of the year is the comparative immunity of the provinces from cholera and small-pox. Malarial fever prevailed throughout the provinces in the early part of the year. The mortality from this disease in the greater part of the Meerut and Rohilkhand divisions—in the Agra division, and in the Naini Tál and Almora districts of the Kumaun division exceeded that of the previous year, but the health of the people during the remainder of the year was comparatively good. Quinine continued to be distributed gratis to the poorer classes and arrangements were made to sell it, as a rule through the agency of the post office, to those who were able to pay. There can be no doubt that the special measures taken to ensure the widespread distribution of this valuable medicine just at the critical autumn season did a great amount of good. Numbers of the labouring population were enabled to ward off attacks of malaria and so the measures proved of great economic value. There was an outbreak of plague in Kankhal, Jwalapur and the neighbouring villages in the Saháranpur district, but prompt measures were taken to suppress it. The disease never spread far afield and was finally stamped out in a remarkably short space of time.

SECTION IV.—CATTLE DISEASE.

11. The usual forms of cattle disease were more or less prevalent during the year, but with good harvests and sufficient food the mortality was less than in the previous year, the weaklings of the herds, as the Commissioner of Allahabad points out, having been reduced during the famine period. Rinderpest and foot and mouth disease caused the greatest number of deaths, though in Naini Tál dysentery was the chief cause. The Budaun and Benares districts and the Lister grant in Dehra Dún suffered severely from rinderpest. On the appearance of the disease in Budaun a Veterinary officer was deputed to enquire into its cause, but was prevented from doing so by the sudden illness of Dr. Lingard. It is satisfactory to learn that in Benares the people have now understood that segregation of diseased animals is the only means of saving their cattle not yet attacked from contracting the epidemic. The deaths from foot and mouth disease were small compared with the seizures and the disease seems to have appeared in a mild form during the year. In the Muzaffarnagar district, 'black quarter' (symptomatic anthrax) proved very fatal. The disease is reported to have come from the village of Basi in the Saháranpur district. From the Gorakhpur district what is said to be a new form of disease is reported. The Collector writes:—"In May a report was received from tahsíl Maháráj ganj of the outbreak in one village of a disease which commenced by the hair of the body suddenly standing on end. Water then came into the throat quickly followed by swelling. Death soon resulted." In Azamgarh a disease commonly known as haiza (purging of blood) appeared in epidemic form. In the Oudh divisions there was not much cattle disease. The services of the Veterinary assistants employed were much appreciated in the Agra division, and they did good service in the Meerut division also.

SECTION V.—PRICES.

12. Prices throughout the provinces commenced to fall as soon as the new grain from the autumn harvest came into the market. The cold weather crops gave an ample outturn, and a brisk export trade in wheat, barley and rice sprang up in April and May and caused the markets to tighten, but this was not for long. Exports rapidly fell off, owing to ample supplies being available abroad, a cause which led to the failure of the wheat corner in Chicago, and partly perhaps owing to the difficulties caused by plague in Bombay, and prices again fell in most districts and were at the close of the year lower than they were at harvesting time. Though in the Allahabad division prices ruled far lower than in 1895-96, the price of wheat and gram in the Bundelkhand districts was still above the normal. The prices of rice, gram and arhar in Bánda and wheat in Hamírpur were high owing to the poorness of the crops. The Commissioner of the Lucknow division writes:—"Short exports "kept the price down, and wheat is now far cheaper than it was at harvest, a curious "phenomenon and a proof how greatly the price of the commodity is dependent on "foreign demand. The interesting fact that, despite an acute famine, in which "stocks were to a great extent depleted, prices should in so short a time have dropped "to so low a pitch, has not been commented on by any of the district officers. Good "harvests only afford a partial explanation. Probably the check of export of wheat "is an important factor in the problem: less wheat is exported—its price falls, and its "larger local consumption eases the demand on the coarser grains. Such at all "events is the explanation which commends itself to intelligent native gentlemen "with whom I have discussed the matter." The subject of prices is further discussed in the Economic section in Chapter IV.

Chapter II.—FINANCIAL.

SECTION I.—INTRODUCTORY.

13. The total receipts from the several sources of income treated of in this report amounted to Rs. 8,54,26,011 as against Rs. 6,53,80,112 in the previous year showing a net increase of Rs. 2,00,45,899. The details are given in the following table:—

SECTION II.—LAND REVENUE ON THE ROLL.

Appendix A-I.—Collections on account of the current demand.

15. The demand, collections and balances of land revenue on the roll for the year under report were as follows:—

The aggregate demand exceeded that of the previous year by Rs. 5,67,859. The increase is composed chiefly of enhancements declared at the regular revision of settlement of the Bijnor and Budaun districts, all the districts of the Lucknow Division except Kheri, and Fyzabad and Bara Banki; and of enhancements due to progressive assessments in Jhánsi.

The collections amounted to Rs. 6,01,38,136 or 97 per cent. of the demand against 75 per cent. in the previous year, leaving a balance of Rs. 13,21,714. If the nominal balances are eliminated the percentage rises to over 98 per cent. The real balances and the percentages worked out after the omission of these nominal items are given in the following table for each division :—

16. The balance at the close of the year under report is very considerably less than that in either of the two preceding years, in which the disastrous seasons culminating in famine caused the accrual of abnormal arrears; and only slightly exceeds the balance at the end of 1894-95, which amounted to some nine lakhs. No better results, however, were to be expected. The seasons were favourable, but it was not possible that the districts most acutely distressed could recover in a single year from the effects of the calamities of 1896-97. In judging of the adequacy of the collections it must be remembered that the demands on the resources of the landholders apart from the current revenue were of a wholly exceptional nature. In several districts in Oudh where the effects of the famine had been severely felt, the enhanced demand due to revision which was to have been realized with effect from the 1st July 1897, was originally postponed and ultimately remitted for one year, and was accordingly realized for the first time in the year under review. In most districts also a portion of the heavy arrears of land revenue and cesses held over from the famine year, as well as of the advances taken for purposes of relief in that year, had to be paid off. In addition to the collections made on account of the current demand the following sums were realized in the provinces on these accounts:—

	Rs.
Arrears of land revenue	40,60,381
Ditto cesses and rates	6,63,347
Advances	23,75,120
Total ...	70,98,848

These payments represent a sum amounting to nearly 12 per cent. of the current land revenue demand. Further, in addition to the calls of Government landholders had to meet exceptional demands in other directions. In the famine year the money-lender had, of necessity, to wait for his money, and with the return of prosperous times the landlord as well as the tenant had to reckon with him. The stock of cattle reduced by the famine had moreover to be replenished, as well as that of clothes and household necessities. The difficulty in collecting the petty demands for takavi is reported in several districts to have added greatly to the work of the subordinate revenue staff. On a consideration of all these circumstances the collections cannot be regarded as otherwise than satisfactory. That they should have been possible affords strong and satisfactory evidence of the excellence of the harvests and of the rapidity with which the country has recovered from the depressing effect of the famine of the previous year.

The total balance on the 30th September 1898 is classified as follows:—

	Rs.
Recoverable	9,45,537
Doubtful	22,120
Irrecoverable	22,775
Nominal	3,31,282

The doubtful balance includes Rs. 18,877, the collection of which was postponed by the Collector in deteriorated villages in the Cawnpore district, pending orders on the proposals for reduction of revenue submitted by him. A reduction of revenue in 59 villages amounting to Rs. 19,067 was sanctioned after the close of the year in G. O. No. $\frac{3166}{I-18B-I}$, dated 12th October 1898, to take effect from 1306 Fasli, and the Collector will be asked to report whether any remissions of revenue on account of the year 1305 Fasli are required in consequence of the reductions now sanctioned. The sum of Rs. 2,994 classed as doubtful in the Moradabad district is due from the bhur villages of parganas Hasanpur and Sambhal and is part of the revenue proposed by the local officers for reduction, and Government has been addressed accordingly.

The irrecoverable balance consists principally of remissions in the Allahabad Division sanctioned by Government, as detailed below :—

	Rs.
Remissions for hail	7,890
Ditto injury by locusts	3,951
Ditto on account of restricted kharif sowings in Hamirpur	10,904

More than half the nominal balance is on account of remissions or reductions of revenue in deteriorated villages in the following districts :—

	Rs.
Pánda	46,138
Hamírpur	57,721
Jalaun	36,703
Hardoi	29,752

The remission of Rs. 46,303 in Bánda and Rs. 57,388 in Hamírpur was proposed by Mr. Fremantle, who was placed by G. O. No. $\frac{2245}{I-839B.}$, dated 9th August 1898, on special duty in connection with the revision of the revenue demand in those districts to enable the villages most distressed to tide over the effects of the year of famine. These remissions are in addition to the remissions allowed in these districts on account of the famine. The balance in Jalaun is on account of reduction of revenue in distressed villages in tahsíls Orai and Kálpi and in parganas Jalaun and Kunch, the assessments of which were revised by Mr. Fremantle. A reduction of Rs. 35,049 was sanctioned by Government in G. O. No. $\frac{1691}{I-61}$, dated 20th

June 1898, with effect from the kharíf of 1305 Fasli to the end of the current settlement. But apparently some further relief will be required, as the Commissioner remarks: "I fear from what the Collector tells me that Mr. Fremantle's reductions have by no means covered all the cases requiring attention in his district. The Collector promises to submit special reports and recommendations with regard to these cases as soon as he has inspected them in the ensuing camping season. The same remarks may apply to Hamírpur, though probably to a less extent." The nominal balance in Hardoi for the most part represents the remissions allowed on the authority of the instructions conveyed in the Board's No. $\frac{1383\text{N.}}{\text{I}-617}$, dated 11th July 1898; and forms part of the revenue proposed for reduction in the Board's No. $\frac{169}{\text{I}-617}$, dated 11th February 1899.

Of the recoverable balance of Rs. 9,45,537, a sum of Rs. 81,035 was recovered shortly after the close of the year under report. The details of the amount still outstanding are:—

	Rs.
Due from Court of Wards' estates	92,318
Due from estates under attachment	1,39,321
Due from defaulters residing in other districts ...	35,476
Under recovery	5,97,337

District details of the balances are given in Appendix A-I.

In the Meerut and Agra Divisions the collections were good, and the balance of Rs. 7,799 in the Etáwah district alone calls for remark. Of this sum Rs. 6,579 are due from the Bhareh estate, which is held under attachment under Section 154 of the Revenue Act. A part of the arrears will be recovered from the purchasers of two villages recently brought to sale, while for the liquidation of the remainder, the Board have, on the application of the proprietor, sanctioned the sale of one of his villages. The bulk of the balance is due from the Partapner estate, the minor proprietor of which is under the guardianship of the Collector. The greater part of the property is leased, and its future management is still the subject of consideration.

Of the balance of Rs. 1,42,900 outstanding in the Rohilkhand Division, Rs. 16,711 are accounted for by the Budaun district, where an enhanced demand had to be collected in addition to arrears on account of the famine, and Rs. 1,13,344 by Sháhjahánpur. In the latter district Rs. 25,800 were recovered after the close of the year. Still the balance is larger than it should be. The Collector is of opinion that the district is over-assessed and that rents are not realized by the zamíndárs in full. That demand, however, has been paid for 30 years and it is probably not excessive for the district as a whole, though it is badly distributed, at any rate on the present conditions of individual villages. Mr. Darrah writes that a special source of difficulty in realizing revenue exists in the Jalalabad tahsíl, where there is a large number of Thakur bhaiyachara communities holding land in minutely subdivided shares, and he notices a system of separate collection called chunga which a former Collector introduced for the benefit of these proprietors. This system results in the enforcing of responsibility only against individual co-sharers for sums due on their shares, and the neglecting of the joint liability of co-sharers in a mahál. The authority given in paragraph 2 of the Board's Circular I—III, to issue writs of demand and warrants of arrest against individual co-sharers, was intended to be exercised in exceptional cases only. It in no way inculcates the disuse of coercive proceedings against the recorded lambardár or against solvent co-sharers in the mahál when individual sharers abuse the privilege accorded to them. The Commissioner has been so informed and it has also been pointed out to him that the opportunity should be taken of the present settlement to remedy the existing evil if possible. On the information available the Board are disposed to think that in villages with very numerous co-sharers the remedy would lie in an appreciable, though not excessive, increase in the number of lambardárs, so that every important group of co-sharers with interests dividing them from other groups should have its lambardár; and that when this has been done the lambardári system should be strictly enforced. It is impossible to enforce it a present, as in many instances the lambardárs are merely nominal and not genuine representatives of the co-sharers they are supposed to represent, and their power to realize the rents from which the revenue should be paid is fettered by the daily increasing practice of co-sharers collecting their quota of the tenants' rents.

Nearly half the total balance is outstanding in the Allahabad Division, viz., Rs. 4,27,313, of which Rs. 36,502 were realized after the close of the year. In this division it may be noted that as much as 10 lakhs were collected on account of arrears of revenue, over 2½ lakhs on account of arrears of cesses and rates, and nearly 6 lakhs on account of advances. The collection of Rs. 90,48,456 out of a current demand of Rs. 96,92,716 or 95 per cent. after excluding nominal balances, is therefore not unsatisfactory, considering how severely the division suffered in the famine year. All districts except Cawnpore contribute a fair share towards the balance. In Fatehpur over 3 lakhs were collected on account of arrears and advances, but the Commissioner thinks the current collections might have been better, had it not been for slackness in the first half of the year for which the present Collector is not responsible. Efforts are being made to reduce the balance in Bánda. Rupees 8,594 were recommended for remission by Mr. Simpson owing to a restricted rabí area in tahsíl Bánda, but the proposal has been held in abeyance for reasons explained by Mr. Fremantle; who considers that little, if any, of this amount will ultimately require to be remitted, though no attempt should be made to realize it till the kharíf crops are ripe. The balance is explained to be due from a few large landowners who are either unable to manage their estates properly or are contumacious defaulters. Their estates have been attached and the proper remedies will be applied. The cultivating communities are said to have paid up well, except in Kamasin, where collections were poor owing to lax supervision on the part of the tahsíldár; suitable orders have been issued. In Hamírpur as much as Rs. 46,229 is due from estates under attachment and Court of Wards' estates and Rs. 11,811 are due from notorious defaulters of the Bánda district, and as the arrears could not be recovered in that district, it has been found necessary to attach their villages in Hamírpur. It is hoped that the arrears in many of the attached maháls will be collected in the present kharíf. The balance in the Allahabad district was the heaviest in the provinces, but here again large collections were made on account of arrears and advances amounting to over four lakhs. The Commissioner, however, considers the balance large in view of the fact that the kharíf outturn fell but little short of 16 annas and the rabí was even better than in Cawnpore. Owing to the annulment of settlement of the Gurserai estate in the Jhánsi district the arrears due from it have been transferred to the head of nominal balances, and the real balance in this district therefore amounts to Rs. 14,770 only. Of this sum Rs. 8,374 have been either suspended or postponed in villages which have deteriorated owing to the spread of kháns. These villages are being inspected in the present cold weather by a special officer deputed for the purpose. The balance in Jalaun is said to be due chiefly from proprietors who are hopelessly involved and in consequence habitual defaulters. Where the condition of the present kharíf crops admits, the arrears will be realized with the current demand.

In the Benares Division the balance was Rs. 1,26,633. The arrears are largest in the Jaunpur district (Rs. 1,05,560). Of this Rs. 63,474 are due from the Dube estate which has recently been taken under the management of the Court of Wards and has not yet been reduced to order. Rupees 20,000 of the arrears have already been paid and the Collector thinks it will be possible to pay off the balance shortly.

In the Gorakhpur Division the balance in Azamgarh alone calls for notice, but here as in other districts the demand was an extremely heavy one, and the indigo crop was a failure. It is also explained that the zamíndárs in this district are as a rule averse to paying their revenue without pressure and the success that their tactics met with last year has encouraged them to continue this course of action. The only remedy for this evil is firmness in adopting the severer measures allowed by law in cases in which default is due to recusancy, and not to any real inability to meet the revenue demand.

The balance in the Kumaun Division is small. It is due chiefly from Court of Wards' and other estates in the Jaspur tract of pargana Kashipur of the Naini Tál district. This tract has been the subject of special report, and the Board have directed the annulment of settlement of a number of villages which will be managed direct till the settlement of the pargana expires in 1904 A.D.

The current demand for land revenue in the Lucknow Division was Rs. 75,98,276. This includes the enhancements in the revenue which should have been collected with effect from 1896-97. Their collection in that year was suspended on account of the famine and the amounts due were subsequently remitted. Further enhancements due to the revision of settlement fell to be paid in 1897-98 amounting to Rs. 1,42,395 and the demand on the roll on the 1st October 1897 was 5¼ lakhs higher than on the 1st October 1895. The collections amounted to Rs. 73,76,212, leaving a balance of Rs. 2,22,064, of which Rs. 1,68,779 only are recoverable, the remainder being either nominal or irrecoverable. In addition to the above sum nearly 16 lakhs have been collected on account of arrears and advances, the equivalent of one-fifth of a year's demand for revenue. Hardoi accounts for the bulk of the balance, but arrears were heavy in Unao and Kheri also. The Commissioner remarks :— "Had there not been an abundant kharíf which commanded high prices, the arrears would have been far greater. Prices eased with the rabí, and difficulties were experienced in the collections of rent and consequently of the revenue. In the Hardoi district the trouble of collection was enhanced by the temper of the people. At the best of times irregular in payment, they became demoralized by the generosity shown by Government during the famine and inclined to be contumacious. They need a sharp lesson before they realize their position. Hardoi is the one district in the division whose revenue condition must for some time continue to give anxiety and with it must be included pargana Mohan in Unao, where the state of arrears is not satisfactory. They are engaging the special attention of the Deputy Commissioner. The Kheri arrears are higher than they should be. The district has not been firmly administered in the past and in the Muhamdi tahsíl—where the arrears accrued—earlier steps should have been taken to enforce the landlord's responsibility." The Board agree with the Commissioner that the arrears in Kheri are larger than they should be. As regards Hardoi it has been necessary to annul the settlement of several villages, while shares in others have been transferred to solvent co-sharers for a term of years. The Board hope that these measures rendered necessary by the tendency of the zamíndárs to presume on the leniency rightly shown to them under the pressure of famine will have a good effect on the district, which is being firmly and ably administered by Mr. Cox, the present Deputy Commissioner.

The collections in the Fyzabad Division were very satisfactory, Rs. 81,01,951 having been realized out of an enhanced demand of Rs. 81,31,964, in addition to arrears and advances. The real balance at the close of the year was only Rs. 4,322.

17. The measures determined on in connection with the treatment of the very large balances of land revenue outstanding when the year opened have been fully described in last year's report. Remission of some 60 lakhs was sanctioned and the collection of over 84 lakhs remained suspended. These arrears were to be recovered in four equal instalments, the first of which fell due in the past year. When the year opened the demand on account of outstanding balances of land revenue borne on the roll amounted to as much as Rs. 1,63,69,345. But of this large sum Rs. 50,70,499 were actually remitted and Rs. 60,10,992 represented suspensions which did not fall due till the current year or later. Excluding these amounts the amount which actually fell to be paid during the year was Rs. 52,87,854. Of this Rs. 40,60,381 were collected. Eliminating from the balance the nominal items amounting to Rs. 57,934 and the doubtful items amounting to Rs. 4,68,056, which will be dealt with later on, what may be termed the real balance on account of sums actually realizable in the year under report amounted to Rs. 7,01,483.

APPENDIX A-II.—Outstanding balance of previous year.

The distribution of this real balance over divisions is shown below :—

Division.						Rs.
Meerut	...	...	...	...	...	741
Agra	...	...	...	...	...	11,420
Rohilkhand	...	...	...	...	...	93,344
Allahabad	...	...	...	...	...	1,77,230
Benares	...	...	...	...	...	41,255
Gorakhpur	...	...	...	...	...	1,55,811
Lucknow	...	...	...	...	...	2,19,242
Fyzabad	...	...	...	...	...	2,440
				Total	...	7,01,483

As regards the arrear demand which might have been recovered during the year, but was not, the Meerut and Fyzabad Divisions show practically a clear balance sheet; while in the Agra Division the bulk of the arrears is due from the Bah tahsíl in the Agra district, a poor tract which requires considerate treatment. In the Rohilkhand Division, Sháhjahánpur (Rs. 64,905) and in a less degree Pilibhít (Rs. 11,279) are the districts which show worst: the reasons assigned for the indifferent collections in Sháhjahánpur have already been referred to in connection with the recovery of the current demand. Jaunpur accounts for two-thirds of the real arrears in the Benares Division, while in the Gorakhpur Division by far the heaviest arrears are in Gorakhpur and Azamgarh. In the Lucknow Division no less than Rs. 1,11,481 of the amount shown is contributed by Unao. Next follows Hardoi with Rs. 37,971 and Sítapur with Rs. 26,405. The Commissioner writes :—"The arrears are heavy, but except in the case of Unao do not call for criticism. The state of the recovery there is not satisfactory . . . . . Unao was one of the districts in which the proposals for remission were considerably cut down, and there will be some difficulty, I fear, in making full collections."

In the Allahabad Division the real arrears were largest in Allahabad (Rs. 63,899) Fatehpur (Rs. 51,368), Jhansi (Rs. 22,641), Bánda (Rs. 19,969) and Hamírpur (Rs. 11,074). Over ten lakhs of the outstanding arrears in this division have been collected, and in view of the heavy demands on the landholders during the year, this result must be regarded as on the whole satisfactory.

The remissions provisionally sanctioned by Government on account of the famine aggregated Rs. 60,05,691, but after the preparation of detailed statements showing the distribution of the remissions mahál by mahál, the amount authorized by the Board to be remitted on account of revenue borne on the roll was ascertained to amount to Rs. 57,11,019. The amounts removed from the accounts and those remaining unadjusted in each division of the Provinces is shown in the following statement. It deals with remissions on account of famine only and the sum shown in it as actually remitted is therefore less than the sum entered in Appendix A-II, which includes remissions granted on account of diluvion and other reasons :—

(a) In addition to this sum, Rs. 94,506 enhancement on account of the new settlement were remitted in the Fyzabad district. This sum does not appear in the accounts either as revenue on the roll or as revenue not on the roll.

These remissions were sanctioned on the condition that zamíndárs would on their part remit rent to their tenants equal to double the amount of the revenue remitted. In many instances, however, more especially in the Gorakhpur Division, zamíndárs preferred to forego the remissions and to take their chance of collecting arrears of rent from their tenants. As the Commissioner of Fyzabad points out, the evident unwillingness of many zamíndárs to accept the conditional remissions offered to them is a further proof of the recovery of agricultural prosperity. It is noticeable that in the Allahabad Division, where there was little hope of recovering arrear rents, the remissions of revenue were accepted practically in full. In some cases it was ascertained that landholders had already collected their rents in full, and district officers, therefore, exercised the authority vested in them by rule 17, Board's Circular 8-III, and cancelled the remissions given. The Commissioner of Lucknow writes:—"The landlords, as a rule, gladly accepted the remissions on the terms imposed. They were able to write off a lot of bad debts and get half the corresponding revenue remitted; and by a show of lenity they were able to keep many tenants in their villages who would otherwise have absconded."

The sum of Rs. 4,65,982, which represents remissions originally authorized, but not yet given effect to, and which is retained on the books as a doubtful balance, is distributed between the districts of Bijnor, Budaun, Sháhjahánpur, Rae Bareli, Partábgarh and Bara Banki. Owing to landlords not having filed lists of remissions of rent to their tenants, the amounts sanctioned for remission could not be adjusted before the close of the year. Zamíndárs have had ample time to make up their minds as to what rents are recoverable and what irrecoverable, and if they cannot indicate the rental remissions which they have made, the inference is that they have collected their rents in full, and are not entitled to remissions of revenue. District officers have therefore been instructed to notify to all zamíndárs who have not as yet filed schedules showing rental remissions, that if they do not file them within a reasonable time, the orders of remission will be cancelled and the revenue will be at once recovered from them. On the other hand, some district officers, namely, the Deputy Commissioners of Hardoi and Sultánpur, show amounts as remitted during the year, though they have not yet received complete lists of the corresponding remissions of rent. It would have been better to have shown such amounts, not as remissions, but as items of the doubtful balance: particulars could not however be obtained without unduly delaying this report. In the case of Hardoi the Board have postponed the date for submission of lists in talukdari and zamíndari mahals till the 30th June 1899. Government has been addressed with a view to the relaxation in the pattidári and bhaiyachara villages of this and probably of other districts, of the condition laid down that revenue shall be remitted only to the extent of double the rental remissions, and sanction has since been received to these proposals. In such villages a large area of sír and khudkasht was uncultivated in the famine year, the rental value of which was not realized by the pattidars, but which should have been brought into calculation as a remission of rent entitling the zamíndárs to a remission of revenue. This has been done elsewhere, where the land record machinery is not out of gear. Further there is ample evidence in the facts which the enquiry into the reductions of revenue to be made in Hardoi has elicited that the rents of the famine year cannot possibly be realized in full; and the condition precedent to remission of revenue which was intended to safeguard the tenants becomes in this case unnecessary.

Advance collections of land revenue on the roll.

18. Including the opening balance of Rs. 1,20,036, the total amount for adjustment was Rs. 6,30,128. Large collections were made in the districts of Budaun (Rs. 16,558), Mirzapur (Rs. 36,459), Gházipur (Rs. 52,896), Gorakhpur (Rs. 52,373), Basti (Rs. 17,505), Fyzabad (Rs. 56,496), Gonda (Rs. 22,809), Sultánpur (Rs. 31,110) and Bara Banki (Rs. 32,405). Rupees 4,73,468 were credited during the year and Rs. 832 were refunded, leaving Rs. 1,55,828 for future adjustment, an amount considerably larger than is ordinarily carried forward.

Appendix A—III. Demand, collections and balances of land revenue not on the roll.

19. The demand under this head fluctuates from year to year. Details are given in Appendix E-IV. Including the recoverable balance of the previous year it amounted to Rs. 2,07,250. Of this Rs. 93,715 are mainly on account of the enhanced land revenue assessed at the regular settlement of the Budaun, Rae Bareli and Bahraich districts. Rupees 51,106 are the increase in jamas assessed on alluvial mahâls, Rs. 9,805 on villages annually assessed in Pilibhît and Rs. 7,164 on fallow lands. The collections during the year amounted to Rs. 1,64,234 or 85 per cent. of the demand excluding nominal balances. In these are included Rs. 13,967 due from the Gurserai estate in Jhânsi, the settlement of which has been annulled. Of the actual balance Rs. 4,728 were suspended on account of the famine, and the remainder is in train of liquidation. The delay and the irregularities noticed by the Commissioner in the disposal of the work of assessment of alluvial mahâls in Allahabad are receiving the Board's attention.

SECTION III.—ALTERATIONS IN THE DEMAND FOR LAND REVENUE ON THE ROLL.

Appendix A—IV.

20. The demand for land revenue on the roll for the North-Western Provinces increased from Rs. 4,57,29,610 at the beginning of the year to Rs. 4,59,24,478 at its close, and that for Oudh from Rs. 1,57,30,240 to Rs. 1,60,24,696, the total increase being Rs. 4,89,324. It is composed chiefly of the enhancements declared at the regular revision of the settlement of the Meerut, Bijnor and Budaun districts, and of all the districts of Oudh, except Kheri and Gonda. The variations in the demand are detailed in Appendix E-VI.

SECTION IV.—TWELVE PER CENT. LOCAL RATES, NORTH-WESTERN PROVINCES.

Appendices V and VI. Local rates, current demand and collections.

21. The currrent demand for local rates in the temporarily settled districts rose from Rs. 50,53,944 in 1896-97 to Rs. 50,87,893 in the year under report. The increase occurs in the Bijnor and Budaun districts and follows the enhancements in the land revenue at the revision of settlement in those districts. The collections within the year reached the satisfactory amount of Rs. 50,30,615, leaving a balance of Rs. 57,278 at its close, of which Rs. 1,533 have since been collected, Rs. 18,575 are either doubtful or irrecoverable and the remainder, Rs. 37,170, is under collection. The largest balances are outstanding in the districts of Shâhjahâpur, Fatehpur, Bânda and Hamîrpur and the reasons for their existence are those already given in connection with the balances of land revenue.

Appendix A-VII. Outstandings of previous years.

22. The demand on account of arrears of local rates was Rs. 8,15,012. There is a difference between this figure and the balances shown in the returns for 1896-97, owing to a subsequent addition of Rs 211 in the accounts of certain districts. The collections amounted to Rs. 3,38,438 and the remissions to Rs. 6,625. The recoverable balance at the close of the year was Rs. 4,69,255 after excluding a sum of Rs. 694 which is either doubtful or irrecoverable. Of the balance classed as recoverable, Rs. 1,276 were realized after the close of the year, and Rs. 4,24,905 represent suspensions, chiefly in the Allahabad Division, which had not fallen due in the year of report. The remaining balance which might have been collected is composed of Rs. 7,691 on account of ordinary arrears and Rs. 35,383 on account of the instalment of suspended arrears which fell due for recovery in the rabî of the year under report, and most of it is owing from the districts mentioned in paragraph 21 above.

SECTION V.—CONSOLIDATED LOCAL RATE, OUDH.

Appendix A—X. Current demand on the roll.

23. The demand for the consolidated local rate in Oudh, which has risen from Rs. 11,30,939 to Rs. 11,57,401, follows the increase in the land revenue. The collections were Rs. 11,51,650, the doubtful and irrecoverable balances aggregate Rs. 2,308 and the real balance was Rs. 3,443. This amount was outstanding in the districts of the Lucknow Division, the recoverable demand in the Fyzabad Division having been realized in full.

Appendix A—XI. Not on the roll.

24. Rupees 6,369 were collected out of a demand of Rs. 7,273 on account of the consolidated local rate not on the roll. Of the real balance of Rs. 891, Rs. 131 are under suspension and the remainder is in train of liquidation.

Appendix A—XII. Outstandings of previous years.

25. Out of the demand of Rs. 1,26,578 on account of outstanding arrears, Rs. 68,158 were collected, and Rs. 3,763 remitted. The balance of Rs. 54,657 on the 30th September 1898 includes suspended instalments of arrears aggregating Rs. 44,465 not recoverable in the year of review.

SECTION VI.—ACREAGE RATE AND OTHER CESSES. Appendices A—VIII and IX.

26. The trifling decrease in the demand for acreage rate and other cesses in the permanently-settled districts compared with the previous year belongs chiefly to the Mirzapur district, where the collections made in previous years in pargana Agori contrary to the orders of Government were discontinued. The collections during the year amounted to Rs. 6,02,247 out of a demand of Rs. 6,06,086. Of the balance of Rs. 3,839 at the close of the year Rs. 2,384 were due in the Jaunpur district, but no explanation has been furnished.

The demand for arrears was Rs. 90,580. Of this Rs. 76,837 were collected, Rs. 678 remitted and the balance outstanding on the 30th September 1898 was Rs. 13,065. This sum includes Rs. 3,273 on account of suspended arrears not recoverable within the year reported on.

SECTION VII.—ACQUISITION OF LAND. Appendix A—XIII.

27. During the year 11,975 acres of land were appropriated, of which 8,017 acres were acquired permanently and 3,958 temporarily. Rupees 7,17,804 were paid as compensation, and revenue was reduced to the extent of Rs. 11,379 annually. The average rate of compensation per acre was Rs. 82-15-7 for permanent, and Rs. 13-4-7 for temporary acquisitions, as compared with Rs. 67-5-8 and Rs. 14-12-3 respectively, in the preceding year. The high rate of compensation for permanent land is due to the payment of Rs. 65,260 for 49 acres of valuable land taken up for railway purposes in the Cawnpore city and in its vicinity, and to the inclusion in the year's return of Rs. 48,100 and Rs. 20,082, compensation for lands acquired in the previous year in the Family Domains of the Mahárája of Benares in the Mirzapur and Benares districts. The area has already been accounted for in the previous year when the annual reduction of revenue was sanctioned. Excluding the above items, the average rate of compensation per acre is Rs. 66-11-10 which is less by Re. 0-9-10 than that of the preceding year. Special officers were deputed for the acquisition of land for canal purposes in the Cawnpore, Fatehpur and Allahabad districts and for railway purposes in the Dehra Dún, Saháranpur, Azamgarh, Ballia, Gházipur and Benares districts. In the Family Domains of the Mahárája of Benares also special arrangements were made for the assessment of compensation as stated in previous reports.

In 371 cases in which land was acquired compensation had not been paid up to the close of the year. The oldest pending cases are in the following districts:—

Dehra Dún, 5th July 1893.	Benares, 30th June 1896.
Agra, 2nd December 1896.	Ballia, 24th August 1896.
Bánda, 17th March 1896.

The oldest case which was in Dehra Dún has since been disposed of. In Agra and Ballia the delay is not explained. In the other cases the Board have examined the returns and are satisfied that the delay is unavoidable.

SECTION VIII.—RESUMPTION OF REVENUE-FREE HOLDINGS. Appendix A—XIV.

28. There were 98 cases of lapsed revenue free tenures with a total area of 12,995 acres. These were assessed to a revenue of Rs. 10,358. Thirty cases remained to be reported at the close of the year.

Two thousand seven hundred and eighty-one acres of grove land were resumed and assessed to a revenue of Rs. 6,146. The number of such cases pending at the end of the year was 321. The large number of cases in Budaun is due to the patwáris having been until lately engaged in settlement work, while the number shown against Pilibhít includes many cases in which the groves were cut down years ago, but which were not reported before. The officials in fault have been punished. The numerous reassessments of grove lands in Gorakhpur are consequent on the more rigorous enquiries which the Commissioner set on foot on observing that groves were being rapidly cut down to supply fuel for sugar refining factories.

SECTION IX. MISCELLANEOUS LAND REVENUE. Appendix A—XV.

29. Including outstandings, the total demand was Rs. 88,892. Of this sum Rs. 85,544 were collected, leaving Rs. 3,348 in the course of realization. Except Rs. 100, the whole of this balance is on account of the resumed Goraits' jágírs in the Basti district, which, under the orders of the Board, were assessed to land revenue with effect from the rabi of 1305 fasli. In accordance with ordinary procedure, the land revenue assessed on these jágírs would be credited to fixed collections, but as the total collections will be assigned to Provincial revenues, the Government of India having, it is understood, foregone their claim to the Imperial share of the revenue assessed, the receipts under this head have, in order to avoid confusion in the accounts, been shown in this appendix. The receipts from the Mirzapur stone quarries amounted to Rs. 47,056 as compared with Rs. 58,370 in 1896-97. The various causes which have led to this serious decline in the income of the Stone Mahal have been separately discussed in the report on the administration of the Stone Mahal for the financial year 1897-98, and under the orders of Government a thorough investigation into the causes affecting the trade and the means which should be adopted for restoring it is being carried out by the local officers with the aid of the Director of Land Records and Agriculture. The result of the enquiries now being instituted will be reported to Government in due course. The collections on account of the current demand for water-mill rents in the Kumaun division fell from Rs. 15,741 to Rs. 14,176, but this follows on a larger rise in the preceding year.

SECTION X. CANAL OCCUPIERS' AND OWNERS' RATES.

Appendix A—XVI. Occupiers' rate: current demand.

30. During the year under report the demand for occupiers' rate, which in the preceding year of drought had reached the unprecedented figure of Rs. 82,06,586, fell to Rs. 72,07,016, a decrease of Rs. 9,99,570. The decrease was general throughout the provinces and is due to the timely and sufficient rainfall. In Saháranpur and Dehra Dún, the only districts where an increase occurred, it is attributed chiefly to the unfavourable character of the rainfall. In Saháranpur the demand was the highest on record.

The districts of Meerut, Bulandshahr, Muttra, Mainpuri and Etáwah show each a deficiency of over a lakh, whilst Cawnpore, Aligarh, Agra, Farukhabad and Etah show a falling off of over Rs. 50,000 in the demand for canal water.

As regards collections, it is satisfactory to note that out of a total demand of Rs. 72,07,016, Rs. 71,78,873 or over 99 per cent. were realized. Of the balance of Rs. 28,143, Rs. 10,878 were remitted, leaving Rs. 17,265 outstanding at the close of the year, as against Rs. 62,255 in the preceding year. This amount has been further reduced by collections and remissions amounting to nearly Rs. 6,000 shortly after the year closed. The decrease in the outstanding balance is the natural result of the more favourable seasons. No special remarks are called for as to the balances outstanding at the close of the year, but it may be mentioned that Mainpuri heads the list with the largest balance, viz., Rs. 6,581. Most of this amount has, however, been collected since the close of the year under report and the remainder will, it is expected, be shortly recovered. This is the case generally in all districts which show outstanding balances.

Appendix A—XVII. Occupiers' rate: arrears of previous year.

31. The demand on account of arrears of occupiers' rate was Rs. 64,341 out of which Rs. 59,382 were collected and Rs. 1,300 remitted, leaving an outstanding balance of Rs. 3,659. These arrears are due almost entirely in Bareilly and Cawnpore, and are receiving the Collectors' attention.

Appendix A—XVIII. Owners' rate, current demand.

32. The demand for owners' rate for 1897-98 fell from Rs. 4,81,684 in 1896-97 to Rs. 4,15,478 in 1897-98. This decline corresponds with the decrease in occupiers' rate. The collections amounted to Rs. 4,13,369 or over 99 per cent. and Rs. 1,245 were remitted, leaving a balance of Rs. 864: of this Rs. 161 were realized and Rs. 79 remitted after the year closed, and suitable steps are being taken to recover the remainder (vide Appendix E.—IX).

Appendix A—XIX. Owners' rate, arrears of previous year.

33. All but Rs. 260 of the demand of Rs. 2,727 for arrears of owners' rate was either collected or remitted. This amount is outstanding in Bareilly and Cawnpore, and is under recovery.

SECTION XI. STATE PROPERTIES AND WASTE LANDS.

Appendices A-XX and E-X.

Appendix E-X.

34. At the commencement of the year there were 405 State properties in the provinces with a land revenue demand of Rs. 1,38,664. During the year two estates, with a revenue of Rs. 60, were acquired; while four with a revenue of Rs. 370 were removed from the accounts. There were thus 403 estates, paying a revenue of Rs. 1,38,354, in the possession of Government at the close of the year. The most important of these are the special State properties in the Kumaun division and the Dúdhi estate in the south of Mirzapur. The only other districts which contain properties with a rental demand of over Rs. 10,000 are Allahabad, Bánda, Jhánsi, and Lucknow. The total current rental demand amounted to Rs. 8,11,575 as compared with Rs. 7,47,389 in the preceding year. This large and satisfactory increase is mainly due to the rise of nearly Rs. 55,000 in the rent-roll of the special State properties in the Kumaun division, more especially in the Naini Tál Bhábar and Tarái estates. In these estates there was a considerable extension of cultivation. Including arrears, the total demand was Rs. 9,44,109 of which Rs. 8,04,610, or 85 per cent., were collected. Excluding the Kumaun estates, 63 per cent. of the demand was collected as contrasted with 45 per cent. in the preceding year. Of the balance (Rs. 1,39,499) Rs. 6,726 are doubtful and Rs. 12,544 irrecoverable. After payment of land revenue and rates the income was Rs. 6,05,859, of which Rs. 3,92,517 were spent in establishment, contingencies and improvements, leaving a net profit of Rs. 2,13,342 for Government as against Rs. 1,29,857 in the preceding year.

In the Bánda district 41 per cent. of the total demand was collected, a marked and satisfactory improvement compared with the collections of the previous year. With the advent of more favourable seasons the villages are rapidly recovering, and still better results may be looked for in the current year. A large measure of relief has been given in these villages, remissions amounting to Rs. 36,411 having been made. A further sum of Rs. 13,270 shown as nominal represents rent of fallow land included in holdings which it is not proposed to recover. The remainder of the balances will be tested on the spot and further remissions will, if necessary, be proposed. The agricultural conditions of the seven villages in the Bánda district which, under the orders conveyed in G. O. No. $\frac{390}{\text{XIV, 34}}$, dated 25th June 1896, are managed by the Collector, and were referred to in last year's report, have also improved, but cultivation in the tract will not, it is feared, increase to any appreciable extent owing to lack of fertility in the soil and to the surrounding dense jungle.

The management of the Holagarh and Khargapur escheated estates in the Allahabad district was on the whole satisfactory. In Holagarh 85 per cent. and in Khargapur 78 per cent. respectively, of the total demand was collected. Owing to the flooding of the Ramgarh jhíl which caused the tenants of the surrounding lands to relinquish their holdings, there was a decrease of 288 acres in the cultivated area in Khargapur. The waterway of the drain appears to be incapable of dealing with the extra volume of water discharged by the jhíl when the rainfall is excessive, and the matter is receiving the attention of the local authorities. The outstanding balances were also large in Hamírpur (Rs. 5,148), Jhánsi (Rs. 8,263), Mirzapur (Rs. 6,692), Lucknow (Rs. 4,787), and Hardoi (Rs. 3,254). Famine, however, was severe in all these districts, and considering the successive bad harvests which the tenants have had to encounter the results are as satisfactory as could be expected. In most of the districts in which there are large recoverable and doubtful balances outstanding, a considerable portion of the arrears will probably, after they have been tested, have ultimately to be remitted. In connection with the testing of these rental balances the Board have asked the Commissioner of Allahabad to inform the district officers of his division that, as a general rule, no tenant should have standing against him as arrears more than half a year's rent and that he should not be called on to pay in one year as arrears more than a sum equal to a quarter of his rent. These instructions were issued as a guide to district officers to prevent any undue severity in the collection of arrears.

The expenditure under the main heads was as follows:—

	Rs.
Establishment	69,933
Contingencies	1,09,949
Improvements	2,12,635
Total	3,92,517

Excluding the large estates in the Naini Tál district, which as usual account for the bulk of this amount, the cost of establishment was only 7 per cent. of the receipts.

Compared with the figures of the preceding year, there was a decrease of Rs. 6,908 in the expenditure on improvements. In Bánda, a sum of Rs. 3,092 including Rs. 1,792 the balance of the profits which accrued under the sliding scale system, was spent under this head, most of the larger improvements being useful works which will, it is hoped, promote to a marked extent the welfare of the villages concerned. In the Holagarh and Khargapur estates in the Allahabad district Rs. 4,403 were spent on the construction of masonry wells and other agricultural improvements. The question of enhancing rents in these two estates consequent on the improvements carried out in recent years has had to be postponed during the times of scarcity and depression. It will now be taken up by the management. In Holagarh some progress was made in the reclamation of usar land, but in Khargapur, owing to the soil being impregnated with reh, the experiment proved abortive. The Board have again to notice the low expenditure on improvements in the Oudh estates where, though Rs. 900 in excess of the previous year's figure were expended, considerably more might still be spent with advantage on works of utility.

Details of the advances made to tenants are also given in this appendix. The outstanding balances are heaviest in the districts of Bánda, Rs. 13,673; Mirzapur, Rs. 21,968; and Naini Tal, Rs. 16,107. These with the rental balances will be tested and remissions, if necessary, proposed.

APPENDIX A-XX.

35. Including arrears, the total demand for the price of confiscated, escheated, and waste lands was Rs. 32,016; but this, as mentioned in previous year's reports, includes a sum which is payable in instalments of Rs. 5,000 per annum. The demand actually recoverable within the year was Rs. 7,016 of which Rs. 7,004, were collected leaving a balance of Rs. 12 in course of realization.

SECTION XII. PATWARI RATE. Director's Appendices V-VII.

36. Figures showing the demand, collections, and balances of patwári rate are incorporated in the statements at the beginning of this chapter. Of the recoverable balance (Rs. 15,381) of the current demand, Rs. 553 have been realized since the close of the year, Rs. 834 are due from estates under attachment, and the remainder Rs. 13,994 is in course of recovery.

The outstanding balance at the close of the preceding year was Rs. 3,61,035. Of this sum Rs. 300 were realized during the year, Rs. 82 are due from attached estates and Rs. 322 from deteriorated villages. Rs. 1,51,566 represent suspended balances recoverable in subsequent instalments, and the rest is under recovery.

SECTION XIII. Revenue Deposits. Appendix XXI.

37. The total number of revenue deposits for adjustment, including the unadjusted items of the previous year, was 25 of the value of Rs. 695. Of these, nine items of the value of Rs. 400 were adjusted during the year, leaving 16, value Rs. 295, for future adjustment. The oldest item in deposit is in Almora and dates from 3rd October 1895. It has since lapsed to Government.

SECTION XIV. PAYMENT OF LAND REVENUE AND MISCELLANEOUS REVENUE BY MEANS OF MONEY-ORDERS. Land revenue remittances.

Both the number and value of money-orders issued in 1897-98 are the highest on record since the system was introduced there being an increase of nearly 25,000 in the number and of nearly seven lakhs in the value compared with any previous year. The figures reflect the enhanced demand for land revenue collected in many districts for the first time and the heavy arrears which fell due for payment. The divisional variations in the average sum remitted are of some interest. The average remittance varies from Rs. 14 in the Gorakhpur Division and Rs. 18 in the Benares Division, where proprietary rights are minutely subdivided, to Rs. 45 in the Meerut Division.

The Collector of Saháranpur again represents the difficulty experienced by him in getting volunteers for the post of lambardár, owing to the increased resort to the practice of sending land revenue through the post, and the Commissioner of Meerut in this connection writes :—" I need hardly repeat, however, that I myself personally look forward to the possible extinction of the lambardári system with regret for reasons already given more than once ; and I would suggest by way of compromise that payment of revenue by means of money-order might be limited with advantage to sums of, say, not less than Rs. 50. . . ."

It is not, in the opinion of the Board, by any limitation of the amount of revenue payable by money-order that the powers of the lambardár can be revived. If it should ever become possible and advisable to refuse the payment of revenue by co-sharers by means of money-orders, the result would be achieved by declaring that all such payments should be credited to the lambardár and not to the individual co-sharer. But for the present the Board are not prepared to go back from the system by which these payments are permitted ; nor must it be forgotten that it is not altogether a disadvantage to have 7 per cent. of the revenue throughout the Provinces paid in without any labour being thrown on the collecting staff.

Chapter III—Rent Law.

SECTION I, SUITS AND APPLICATIONS. Appendices B-I, II, IIA, IIB, III, IIIA, B, C and D.

40. The disastrous character of the preceding year over most of the Provinces was reflected in the statistics of rent litigation. Suits for arrears of rent fell off and applications to eject tenants with rights were less numerous, while applications to eject tenants-at-will increased chiefly in the districts less affected by famine. The past year has been on the whole a favourable one, and both suits and applications have largely increased. Taken all round, the decrease of the preceding year has been more than recovered. Suits in the North-Western Provinces increased by 16,236 or 16·13 per cent. and applications by 42,007, or 31·16 per cent. In Oudh the number of suits increased by 5,997, or 20·42 per cent. The number of suits and applications filed in each district are as follows :—

Suits—North-Western Provinces.

41. The following table shows the number of suits instituted in the North-Western Provinces since the Rent Act (XII of 1881) was passed. The number instituted this year is by far the highest on record, being nearly 4 per cent. more than in 1895-96, the year preceding the famine. In the last decade suits have increased by over 41 per cent., and the growth still continues. The temporary check received in 1896-97 has been more than recovered during the past year:—

42. The increase is distributed over almost all classes of suits, but the bulk of it is in suits for arrears of rent. The increase is also noteworthy in suits connected with distraint. As compared with the previous year, the variations in the several divisions in the number of arrears of rent suits, which form about 90 per cent. of the total number, are as follows. :—

Division.	Increase.	Decrease.
Meerut	...	1,263
Agra	743	...
Rohilkhand	1,323	...
Allahabad	5,760	...
Benares	6,628	...
Gorakhpur	1,871	...
Total	15,062	...

The increase has been general over all the divisions except Meerut, and is most marked in the Allahabad and Benares divisions. The decrease in the Meerut division follows on an increase of 1,360 in the preceding year. The increase of that year was due to the fortunate circumstances of the division, which secured good crops during a season of famine prices. The divisions of Allahabad aud Benares, in which the increase is largest, are those in which in the preceding year there was the largest decrease. In Rohilkhand and Gorakhpur also the increase represents a recovery from the decrease of the preceding year. Agra is the only division showing an increase in both the past and the preceding years.

The broad explanation of the general increase is undoubtedly the return of favourable seasons, and the consequent desire of the zamíndárs to realise some of the arrears which they had been unable to collect during the season of scarcity. A contributing cause was, as noted by the Commissioner of Agra that the suspensions and remissions of rent consequent on the liberal suspensions and remissions of revenue led tenants to hold up their rents in the hope that non-payment might eventually result in remission. In the Allahabad division the increase was common to every district save Cawnpore, but the bulk of it occurred in Allahabad. In Bánda the increase was small, owing to the poverty of the tenantry and the large remissions and suspensions allowed. The slight decrease in Cawnpore, as remarked by the Commissioner, points to the famine having been less severe there than in the other districts of the division. This was also indicated in the preceding year by the fact that a smaller decrease occurred there than elsewhere.

In the Benares division the rise was general in every district and in Jaunpur, which suffered most during the famine, was remarkable. In Ballia the increase is explained to be due to the activity of the Dumraon Estate which filed a total of 1,000 suits towards the close of the year. Some 3,000 more are expected to be filed by this Estate, and an extra Deputy Collector has been deputed to dispose of them. In the Gorakhpur division the increase was chiefly noticeable in Azamgarh.

Generally where there has been a rapid recovery from the effects of the famine the increase has been large; where resources were utterly exhausted the increase is less marked.

Disposal of suits.

43. The following table shows how the suits decided were disposed of—

Without trial	11,179
Compromised	8,020
Decreed on confession	19,511
Ditto ex-parte	45,550
Dismissed ex-parte	6,788
Decreed after reference to arbitration	127
Dismissed ditto ...	39
Decreed after contest	20,439
Dismissed after contest	4,482
Total ...	116,135

There were altogether 122,021 suits for disposal, out of which 11,179 were disposed of without trial against 9,597 out of 105,047 in the previous year; 79,869 against 67,769 last year, were decided without contest; while 24,921 were contested as compared with 22,360 in 1896-97. Ex-parte decisions rose from 42,691 to 52,338 and formed 45 per cent. of the total number of decisions as against 43 per cent. in the preceding year.

Five thousand eight hundred and eighty-six cases were pending at the close of the year against 5,146 in the previous year. In Budaun, Allahabad, Jaunpur, Ballia, Gorakhpur and Azamgarh the pending file is heavy, but the increased number of cases for disposal by the Courts is sufficient to account for this result.

44. The following table shows the percentage of contested and uncontested cases in each division. The proportion of uncontested cases continues to be highest in the Meerut and Allahabad divisions and lowest in the Gorakhpur division :—

The total number of cases decided rose from 99,901 to 116,135, and though more cases were decided, the year closed with a heavier pending file than when it opened. Of the cases pending, 228 had been on the file for more than three months. The divisional figures are given in the margin. Jaunpur contributes the largest number of these, 117, but this is due to the large number of institutions. The Commissioner considers it very creditable to the district staff that the pending file was no heavier.

The duration of suits has risen by one day in uncontested cases, while it is the same in contested cases, the figures being:—

	1896-97	1897-98.
	M. d.	M. d.

In the following districts the average duration exceeded two months in contested cases :—

	M.	d.
Benares ...	2	5
Mirzapur ...	2	6
Ballia ...	2	11

The average duration in the Benares district, which has been high for the past three years, has fallen from 94 days in contested and 41 days in uncontested cases to 65 and 34 days respectively. This improvement is due to the attention paid by the Collector, Mr. L. C. Porter, to the prompt and methodical disposal of cases by the subordinate courts. The high duration in Mirzapur was due to the exceptionally heavy work in the Court of the Tahsíldár of Mirzapur. Instructions have been issued by the Commissioner for a redistribution of the work by giving a larger share of the case work to the Deputy Collectors. The question of the inadequacy of the district staff of Ballia is now before Government, and if the proposal made by the Board for increasing it is sanctioned, rent cases which are peculiarly intricate and troublesome in this district will be disposed of more quickly. One reason, however, why the duration of cases must always be longer than in most other districts, is the fact that a large portion of the tenantry in the alluvial tracts live on the Bengal side of the Ganges and Gogra rivers, and the service of summonses is thereby delayed and the causes of adjournment are more numerous. The immediate stress of work owing to a large number of cases instituted by the Dumraon Estate has, as already explained, been met by the deputation of an extra Deputy Collector. It is satisfactory to notice the improvement in Dehra Dún, Fatehpur and Allahabad, where the average duration in contested cases has been reduced from 75, 62 and 93 days to 27, 45 and 51 days respectively.

When compared with the figures of the preceding year, there is a considerable increase in the value of these money orders, occurring chiefly in Meerut, Bijnor, Moradabad and Allahabad. Even when compared with the figures of 1895-96, there is an appreciable increase. The system is slowly gaining ground, while the prosperous seasons enabled tenants to pay more money by money-orders as well as by direct payments. In Saháranpur, Muzaffarnagar and Bulandshahr, where a decrease occurred, there was also a decrease in suits for arrears of rents. In Meerut the system is growing in favour with the sturdy tenantry, and is especially popular now during the currency of settlement, when patwáris are not present to register payments.

The enquiry which the Government in their review of last year's report requested should be made in the Muzaffarnagar district, could not be carried out in the past year for want of statistics from the Postal department. It will, however, be made in the current year.

The increase in Bijnor is largely attributed to commutation of grain rents by the Settlement department, and while the increase in the Allahabad division is principally the result of better seasons, it is also, as suggested by the Collector of Jhánsi, probably due in some measure to the tenants wishing to ensure payments being credited to the current demand. Arrears, they hoped, would be remitted.

Printed receipts for rent.

46. Some progress is noticeable in the use of printed receipts for rent, more particularly in the Meerut, Rohilkhand and Lucknow divisions. The Commissioner of Allahabad says: "In the Bundelkhand districts the system of printed receipts does not flourish, and is perhaps hardly likely to do so at present. The Bundelkhandi, whether tenant or zamíndár, is too easy-going and conservative to be likely to take up a new idea of the sort." The real extent to which printed receipts are used is not accurately shown by the record of sales of receipt books supplied by the Government Press, for in some districts books are in use which have been printed locally at a lower cost. The Commissioner of the Rohilkhand division reports that he has quarterly returns showing the progress made in each tahsíl submitted to him. In the opinion of the Board it is undesirable to burden Collectors with returns that are not required by standing orders, and the quarterly returns in question should be discontinued. The use of the printed "sarkhat" in which all the payments of rent made for one holding during the year are shown on one piece of paper was extended during the year.

North-Western Provinces Rent Act applications.

47. The number of applications under section 95 of the North-Western Provinces Rent Act filed in each year since the Act was passed is given below. The number filed this year, though the highest on record, is only 73 more than in 1893-94, a year of normal character:—

The total increase amounted to 42,007 or 31·16 per cent. following an increase of 7·44 per cent. in the preceding year. This increase, however, succeeded a decrease of over 31 per cent. in the years 1894-95, 1895-96. The statistics of the year are marked by a considerable rise in applications connected with eject ments of all classes of tenants and enhancement of rent cases.

The following table shows the comparative figures by divisions for the past five years :—

Division.	1893-94.	1894-95.	1895-96.	1896-97.	1897-98.	Increase or decrease in 1897-98 on the figures of 1896-97.

Total ...	176,754	145,753	125,489	134,820	176,827	+42,007

The increase is general in every division and in every district except Dehra Dún, Etáwah and Basti, where the decrease was trifling. There was an increase in applications for the ejectment of tenants with rights in every division except Meerut, while every division without exception shows a marked increase in applications for the ejectment of tenants-at-will. Enhancement cases also increased in every division except Agra and Gorakhpur.

48. Applications under classes VI, XVIII, XIX, XX and XXI formed the bulk of the litigation under section 95 of the Act and the percentages contributed by them to the total number of applications are noted in the margin.

	Percentage.
Class VI.—Enhancement of rent	5·17
Class XVIII.—Applications under section 35 ...	13·40
Class XIX.—Applications under section 36	39·33
Class XX.—Applications under section 39	9·37
Class XXI.—Applications under section 40	27·74

Class VI.—The increase in enhancement cases is again chiefly confined to the Budaun district where settlement operations have come to a close. The decline in Bareilly from 204 cases to one case is due to the impending settlement and the transfer of such cases to the Settlement department. The Commissioner of Agra is of opinion that the present system of obtaining an enhancement of rent is defective, and that it is almost impossible to decide these cases satisfactorily. His ideal is a state of things where every resident and respectable tenant should have a right of occupancy in his land and where there should be a simple and as nearly as possible an automatic system of enhancing rents.

Class XII. Crop appraisement.—The increase in Saháranpur in this class of applications from 59 to 182 is entirely due to quarrels between the Rája of Jasmaur and the farmer to whom most of his land was leased. The rise in Ballia from 28 in 1895-96 and 11 in 1896-97 to 401 cases in the year of report has not been explained and the Collector has been asked to explain it. These cases are seldom resorted to in the Agra, Allahabad and Gorakhpur divisions.

There is a noticeable increase in the number of applications for recovery of occupancy and for compensation for wrongful dispossession in the Gorakhpur division. The Commissioner remarks :—"During the late famine and in the poor "year preceding it many tenants refrained from cultivating their holdings and many "left their villages. In normal years such tenants usually put in shikmis, but they "could not get shikmis in these bad years and the zamíndárs entered upon the fields "and cultivated them. When distress disappeared such tenants returned and sought "to re-enter, but where they were right-of-occupancy tenants the zamindárs resisted "and the tenants lodged applications for recovery and possession."

49. Class XVIII.—Applications to eject tenants with rights increased in almost every district except in the Meerut division, where the variation was slight, the increase in every division corresponds to a decrease in the preceding year. In the Agra, Allahabad and Benares divisions the number increased in every district, except Ballia, where it was practically stationary. The largest increase was in Jaunpur and Gházípur, from 925 and 1,140, cases to 2,259 and 1,958, respectively, a natural sequence to the large number of decrees for arrears of rent. Two cases came to the notice of the Commmissioner of Benares in appeals from the Mirzapur district, in which the zamíndárs had treated tenants harshly and inequitably by endeavouring to procure their ejectment for arrears of the famine year, although the Government demand had been suspended to a considerable amount. After due enquiry, the Commissioner directed that the suspended revenue should be at once realized, and this had a salutary effect. In general however, no undue advantage was taken by the zamíndárs, as a body, of the distress of the tenants to destroy occupancy rights. The increase in Azamgarh of applications under classes XVIII to XXI is ascribed to the impending settlement. The number of notices actually issued under section 35 of the Act, including those pending from the previous year, was 23,781 (appendix B-III). Ejectment took place in 7,747 cases against 6,084 last year and 9,730 in 1895-96. The area affected was 40,932 acres against 33,100 acres last year, and 61,561 acres in 1895-96. The figures showing the results of the notices issued during the past two years are given below :—

50. Class XIX.—The total number of notices of ejectment issued on tenants-at-will was 69,510 against 52,317 in the previous year. The increase is distributed over every division, and over every district, except Etáwah and Jalaun, and is greatest in the Rohilkhand division. The statistics by divisions and the area affected are given below :—

The general explanation of the increase is the greater activity of landlords in using these notices as a means of securing enhanced rents and of preventing the accrual of occupancy rights. This activity is stimulated by the approach of settlement in districts where that is near. In the more prosperous districts the increase is further attributed to a wish on the part of the landlords to obtain enhanced rents which the prosperity of their tenants, who have benefited from the high prices prevailing in the two previous years of scarcity, induced them to expect. In Bundelkhand the Commissioner of Allahabad writes :—"With the disappearance of the famine the tenant naturally was less an object of solicitude to the landlord than he was at a time when any pressure might result in his leaving the village altogether. The landlord at once became again the master of the situation and could afford to apply pressure without much risk of losing his tenant." The increase in the Agra division is ascribed to the fact that landholders find increasing difficulty in the collection of their rents and in obtaining reasonable enhancement, but the increase in this division is much less than elsewhere. The Commissioner is of opinion that the relations between landlord and tenant are becoming more strained than they were, and criticises the conditions under which tenants now get fixity of tenure as limited and unsatisfactory. The Board have already in their No. $\frac{836}{II-438}$, dated 18th December 1896, indicated the principle on which the present law on the subject should be amended, and they can only repeat that the litigation resulting from the present state of the law is injurious to both landlord and tenant, and the ejectments prevent agricultural improvement. The bulk of the increase in the Rohilkhand division is in the Budaun and Moradabad districts. Now that assessments have been fixed in Budaun, the landlords are demanding higher rents, and in order to obtain them are ejecting their tenants in large numbers. The increase in Bareilly and Pilibhít is partly due to the impending re-settlements. In the Bundelkhand districts the number of notices is low, as land being plentiful and tenants few, ejectment proceedings are less resorted to. As regards the increase in the Benares division the Commissioner writes:—"For some years "after the revision of settlement, 1882—85, the number of cases under this section "tended largely to increase, because the entry in the settlement record compelled the "zamíndár to accept or challenge the status of tenants there recorded. After 12 "years from the year of revision it became as a rule impossible to challenge the occu- "pancy right of any tenant then recorded, and the number of cases fell off consider- "ably. They are now beginning to increase again and will probably continue to "increase, but are not likely to reach the figure of five or six years ago."

51. Classes XX and XXI.—Of the 69,510 notices issued under section 36, the tenants contested 16,572, or 24 per cent. against 25 per cent. in the preceding year. The percentage of contested notices to the total number issued in each division is given below:—

Sixteen thousand three hundred and forty-one applications under section 39 were tried during the year, of which 12,075 or 73·9 per cent. were disposed of after contest. The tenants were successful in 6,327 disposed of after contest being 52·4 per cent. of the number so decided. This percentage of success attained by tenants in each division is given below:—

This year the tenants of the Rohilkhand division were most successful. The results of the entire number of contested notices, in whatever way decided, were that the tenants were successful in 7,938 cases covering an area of 38,967 acres, out of a total area of 82,218 acres affected by the notices. The percentage of success and failure in each division, on the total number of notices, is given in the following table for the past three years:—

Applications under section 40 for assistance to eject were made in 49,046 cases out of 69,510 notices or 70·6 per cent. of the notices issued, against 68 per cent. in the previous year.

52. The following statistics of the area held by the different classes of tenants in 1895-96 and 1896-97 illustrate the result of the operations of the ejectment provisions of the Rent Act:—

53. There were altogether 189,673 applications for disposal against 144,404 in 1896-97; 172,904 or 91·16 per cent. were decided, as compared with 131,557 or 91·10 per cent. in the previous year, leaving 16,769 pending, of which 1,817 were pending for more than three months when the year closed. The pending file rose in every division, except Agra and Gorakhpur.

Of the total number pending the large majority, over 13,000 as in the preceding year, consisted of enhancement of rent cases, which had to be adjourned for local enquiry in the cold weather, and of applications for the ejectment of tenants with rights. The number of cases on the file at the close of the year in Budaun (4,963) was very large, almost all of these were enhancement cases. In Farukhabad the pending file is heavy (458 cases) and is not sufficiently explained. The results of the year in the districts of the Allahabad division are satisfactory. In Muzaffarnagar only one case had been pending for more than three months. In Aligarh the number so pending was high (524) and consisted chiefly of enhancement cases and cases which had to be left over owing to the press of criminal work. The three enhancement or determination of rent cases shown as pending for more than three months in the Mirzapur district have apparently been pending for more than a year, as no such case was instituted during the year. The Collector has been asked to explain the delay.

54. The average duration in contested and uncontested applications in the two years 1896-97 and 1897-98 increased slightly. The figures are.—

	Contested. M. d.	Uncontested. M. d.
1896-97	2 6	1 11
1897-98	2 13	1 12

The duration has increased to an appreciable degree in the following districts:—

	Contested.		Uncontested.
	1896-97. M. d.	1897-98. M. d.	1896-97. M. d.	1897-98. M. d.
Meerut ...	1 15	2 8	1 9	1 16

Allahabad ...	3 23	6 19	...	...
Ghazipur ...	1 21	2 10	1 7	1 14
Basti ...	1 11	2 10	...	...

The increase in duration is generally due to the increase in institutions. In Meerut the duration was increased by enhancement cases which the Settlement officer is unable under settlement rules to decide until rent rates have been fixed. In Bulandshahr the high duration is due to applications under classes II, VI, IX and X, which were filed after the end of the camping season and had to be held over till this year. In Allahabad the increase is explained to be in a great measure due to the constant changes of officers owing to those who had broken down in health during the famine, taking short leave or not being up to their work. In Basti the increase is explained as due to enhancement cases and want of officers with powers to dispose of them.

The preceding year was marked by a large decrease in the number of relinquishments occurring chiefly in the Allahabad division. In the year under report there has been a decrease in every division, except Rohilkhand, where a small increase occurred. The decrease is generally due to better times. In the Allahabad division relinquishments have decreased from 27,880 in 1895-96 and 12,576 in 1896-97 to 10,941 in the past year. The decrease in the past year has occurred in the three doab districts, Cawnpore, Fatehpur and Allahabad. In Bundelkhand, where the famine was most severe, there has been an increase. Although the number of notices in Muttra has declined, it is still large. The prevalence of these notices in the Muttra district was the subject of special enquiry during the year. It was found that they were specially frequent in estates belonging to temples or to powerful landlords. The custom prevails in such estates for the landlords to compel the tenants to file notices of relinquishment with a view to preventing the accrual of occupancy rights. This is considered simpler than resorting to ejectment. It was also found, as in the case of suits for arrears, that the increase in the preceding year occurred chiefly in the parts of the district not protected by canal irrigation. No satisfactory reason has been assigned for the increase in Moradabad, while in Pilibhít the increase is said to be the result of the pressure put on tenants by the landlords. Applications for the sale of distrained crops like other processes used by landlords for the recovery of rents increased, but not to any considerable extent, the increase being most marked in the Benares division. Meerut shows a decrease which is said to be a sign of the increasing prosperity of the agricultural classes. The increase in the Allahabad district is said to be due to the anxiety of the zamíndars to recover the rents as fast as possible after the close of the famine, and to the unwillingness of the tenants to pay in the hope that by holding out they would obtain complete or partial remissions. The Collector's explanation that the fall in Cawnpore is due to favourable seasons, giving landlords little opportunity to apply for sale of distrained property, is a good illustration of the way in which variations in seasons are used to explain exactly opposite results. The figures indicate, as stated elsewhere, that the pressure of famine was less felt in Cawnpore than in other districts of the division. Every district in the Benares division shows an increase, and, as stated by the Commissioner, advantage was taken of a bumper harvest to make up for the leniency of the previous year, when there were fewer crops to distrain. The number of applications in Jaunpur rose considerably and is nearly one-half of the whole number for the division. No satisfactory explanation is yet forthcoming; but an examination of the returns shows that the large landholders are responsible for half the total number of applications. It appears to be the custom to resort freely to this process.

Oudh Rent Law Litigation.
Appendix B—I. Suits.

56. The district and divisional totals of the different descriptions of suits under the Oudh Rent Act are given in the statement in paragraph 40 above. As was to be expected the return of prosperity has brought with it a substantial increase in litigation. In both the Lucknow and Fyzabad divisions there is a large increase in the number of suits instituted, though it is most pronounced in the former division. A classified list of the suits filed in the past two years is given below. With the exception of six classes which show a slight falling off, all classes show a rise, notably class II (arrears of rent) of 2,975, class VIII (suits to contest enhancement or ejectment) of 1,949, and class XIV (recovery of occupancy) of 310. Following the increase in suits for arrears of rent, those by lambardárs and pattidárs for arrears of revenue class XX have advanced by 182:—

57. Suits for rental arrears formed the bulk of the litigation. In the Lucknow division the Commissioner remarks:—"The districts exhibit curiously different "results. In Lucknow, Unao and Hardoi there has been a marked increase in litiga- "tion. In Rae Bareli and Sitapur the increase has been slight. In Kheri there has "been an actual decrease. Roughly speaking, the increase is greatest in those districts "which suffered most in the famine; least in those in which there was least distress." In the Fyzabad division the increase was general, but was not so marked as in Lucknow. Bahraich shows a decrease of 35 per cent. in suits for arrears, but this follows on and is explained by the marked increase noted in last year's report. The Deputy Commissioner observes that the fall in prices did away with the extravagant disproportion between the value of grain rents and cash rents, a fruitful source of litigation last year. In class VIII the increase is general, and more or less marked every where and corresponds to the increase in applications for ejectment. In class XIV excepting Sitapur, Kheri, Fyzabad and Bahraich, all the other districts exhibit a rise, the most noticeable being in Partábgarh. This is explained by the fact that zamíndárs in many cases took advantage of the famine to occupy land temporarily abandoned by tenants.

58. The following table compares the number of suits under the Oudh Rent Act for disposal in the past two years, and the manner in which they were decided:—

Considering the increase in litigation, the disposal of cases has on the whole been satisfactory. In the Lucknow division the pending file has risen by 150, while that in the Fyzabad division has decreased by 352. Lucknow, Rae Bareli and Hardoi are responsible for 452 of the pending cases and for 60 of those pending over three months. The undisposed of cases are somewhat numerous in Fyzabad, but the majority of these belong to the court of the tahsíldár of Fyzabad who was engaged in an important enquiry into the income-tax assessment. In Gonda the number of pending cases was 484 and of this number 178 had been pending for more than three months. A similar state of things occurred in the previous year, and on explanation being called for, the Deputy Commissioner stated that the arrears were due to the frequent changes in the district staff, and that most of the cases over three months old were filed in the month of June. He repeats this explanation in respect of the figures for the year under report, and the Commissioner suggests that apparently the staff of the district requires temporary strengthening. The matter will be further enquired into. As a contrast, Bahraich, which showed a large pending file in the preceding year, had only 25 arrear cases, and none of them more than three months old. The general percentage of cases decided without contest shows a decrease compared with that in 1896-97, while the average duration shows an improvement. In Gonda the average period (two months and two days) occupied in the disposal of contested cases, though considerably less than in the previous year, is still the highest in the province.

App B.—III, A, B. and C. Notices of ejectment.

GRAND TOTAL ...	7,694	89,689	17,577	177,644

Notices of every class, as well as applications to eject tenants for decreed arrears of rents, show a noticeable increase, due, as in the case of suits, chiefly to the advent of better times. In every class the figures have not only recovered from the large decrease of the preceding year, but have risen beyond the figures for 1895-96. The total area affected by the different ejectment proceedings rose by over 98 per cent. as against a decrease of 24 per cent. in the preceding year. Actual eviction took place from 11,030 holdings with an area of 85,670 acres, of which 46,490 acres were re-let to new tenants.

App B.—III, A. Notices of ejectment on statutory tenants.

60. Notices issued for the ejectment of statutory tenants on expiry of their tenancy, increased from 1,296 to 5,204, and the area covering them from 7,023 to 19,628 acres. The rise is general, but is most marked in Bara Banki (860 notices and 1,462 acres), where it is attributed to the desire of the landlords to throw on their tenants as much of the burden of the enhanced jamas of the new settlement as they possibly could. This explanation holds good generally. During the preceding year the landlords owing to bad harvests, had to hold their hands so that in the year under report they had to make up for lost time. As a result of the notices, ejectment actually occurred in respect to 3,476 holdings comprising 11,282 acres compared with 857 holdings containing 4,301 acres in 1896-97. The average rise in the rent of land re-let in the districts in which the rents are taken in cash only, was 21 per cent. This is below the percentage (25) of the previous year, but is still very much in excess of the percentage allowed by law in single cases. Bara Banki helped to raise the average in 1896-97, and it is owing mainly to its high percentage (26) that the average in the period under report stands at its present figure. The percentage in certain tahsíls in Fyzabad is also abnormally high, being in one tahsíl as much as 39. Of the total number of notices issued, 31 per cent. were contested; and of 1,638 suits brought to contest ejectment 635, proved successful or 39 against 36 per cent. in the preceding year. Bara Banki continues distinguished for its numerous illegal ejectments, and in the year of report these aggregated 355, or 218 more than in 1896-97, the total enhancements obtained in the rents of dispossessed tenants being 11 per cent. In Sitapur, in compliance with the orders issued on the subject last year by the Board, the Deputy Commissioner enquired into the so-called instances of illegal ejectment returned by the tahsíldárs, and found that the percentage of genuine cases was very small. In tahsíl Biswan, in this district, it is reported that a custom exists for the zamíndars to resume land for sugarcane cultivation and to return the land after the crop. There were 91 suits for compensation for illegal ejectment against 66 in the previous year.

App B.—III, B. Notices of ejectment in respect of which no court-fee was paid.

61. Of the notices in regard to which no court-fee is payable, those under section 48 on the heirs of statutory tenants, following the increase in notices above dealt with, rose from 755 to 2,282. The increase is shared by all the districts, except Gonda, which shows a trifling fall. Of the 11 districts which record a rise, the foremost are Bara Banki (298), Lucknow (238), Unao (221), and Partábgarh (218). Notices issued on tenants holding under long leases amounted to 1,232 against 433 in 1896-97. More than half of these are accounted for by Bara Banki, and their preponderance in this district is due to the same cause as that assigned for the large number of notices of ejectment on statutory tenants. Notices under other sections of the Act advanced from 1,916 to 4,514; Unao, Hardoi, Gonda and Bara Banki contributing nearly 53 per cent. of the total number issued. The area affected by the notices of every kind shown in this appendix was considerable, being 125,629, compared with 52,757 acres in the preceding year, Gonda, Bahraich and Sultánpur making up 103,415 acres thereof. Of the total notices 20 per cent. were contested, and 43 per cent. of the suits filed were successful. Tenants were ejected from 60, 71 acres or 49 per cent. of the total area to which the notices had reference. The average increase in the rent of the land re-let after ejectment, exclusive of the figures of the districts in which a part of the land was re-let on grain rents, and of Sultánpur, where the rent of certain tenants was not fixed during the year, was 8 per cent. as against 20 per cent. in the preceding year. In Hardoi, where the average enhancement obtained was 7 per cent. as against 12 per cent. in the preceding year, the Deputy Commissioner explains that owing to the abandonment of land during the famine, the competition among the landlords for tenants was greater during the year under report, and the tenants could secure more favourable terms for themselves. Generally, the large increase in the number of ejectments together with the fall in the enhancements obtained, indicate that the landlords were making up for lost time in applying for ejectments but met with a smaller amount of success.

App. B.—III, C. Applications for ejectment under section 61.

62. Applications under section 61 to eject tenants for failure to pay decreed arrears of rent aggregated 4,345 against 3,294 in 1896-97. The increase is distributed over all the districts, but is largest in the districts of the Fyzabad division. It is the natural result of the decrease in the preceding year, when landlords found it to their own interest to be lenient, and Deputy Commissioners also insisted on consideration being shown to tenants. Ejectment occurred in regard to 13,417 acres out of 32,387 acres in respect to which it was sought.

App. B.—III, D. Notices of enhancement.

63. There were 135 notices of enhancement affecting an area of 857 acres compared with 28 notices referring to 219 acres in 1896-97. These notices were issued in 6 out of the 12 districts. In Hardoi and Bara Banki they were very few, while in Unao, Sultánpur, Bahraich and Rae Bareli their number and the area affected by them were 64 and 242 acres, 29 and 219 acres, 23 and 286 acres, and 14 and 93 acres respectively. Of the total number of notices issued, 19 were contested, of which 7 proved successful. The increase of rent obtained by the enhancements was 6 per cent. Four cases of illegal enhancement occurred in Rae Bareli, and cases affecting 17 villages in Partábgarh, while large enhancements are said to have been made in the Ajudhia taluka in the Fyzabad district, where enhancements have been effected in nearly 700 cases without even the issue of notices of ejectment. The Commissioner says: "Most, if not all, of these enhancements are, I believe, in respect "of land hitherto held by the tenants without rent (locally known as bila faisala) be- "ing apparently encroachments made by the tenant at one time or another on the land "adjoining his holding. Under colour of assessing rent on this, the landlord practically "enhances the rent of the whole holding." A separate report is promised on the subject. Eighty-nine cases have also been reported from Unao, and cases referring to 74 villages from Bara Banki. No explanation has been offered by the former district, but the latter attributes the enhancements to the same cause which led to the increase in the number of notices for ejectment.

App. B.—II-A. Oudh. Miscellaneous applications and proceedings under the Oudh Rent Act.

64. In this appendix the only applications which call for remark are those under Class II (notices of relinquishment), Class VIII (applications for assistance to eject), and Class X (applications by distrainer for sale of distrained produce). Notices of relinquishment show a further decrease from 8,856 to 7,952. In the Lucknow division three districts show an increase and three a decrease. In Fyzabad the only district showing an increase is Partábgarh, where the number of notices rose from 290 to 1,337, and the Deputy Commissioner explains this rise to be due mainly (1) to the tenants who were still suffering from the effects of the past year's scarcity, giving up their lands willingly; and (2) in cases where the landlord wished to enhance the rent to the tenants preferring to relinquish their holdings rather than submit to the increased demand. These reasons are general ones, and do not account for the special rise in this district. Applications for assistance to eject amounted to 6,786 against 2,399 in 1896-97. The increase is general, and is the result of the large number of notices issued. Distraint applications exhibit a rise of 1,030, but of the total number 7,536, as many as 3,305 were issued in Hardoi alone. This is 467 more than in the year 1895-96, when the number was 2,838. In recent years, as has been noticed by the Board in their annual reports, this district has returned by far the largest number of these applications in the province, and in justification of this fact the Deputy Commissioner writes as follows:—"The reason appears to lie in the prevalence throughout the district of pattidári holdings, the proprietors of which cannot afford to wait for their rent, and recover it by suit, and do not possess sufficient influence to recover it without distraint; while the rentals recorded in such villages are often extortionately high and are not paid in full, the landlords exacting whatever they can by distraint or otherwise bringing pressure to bear on their tenants." The Deputy Commissioner furnishes statistics of applications filed in the talukdári and pattidári areas respectively, which bear out his conclusions. In Sultánpur the applications under notice fell from 1,071 to 251, consequent on the removal, during the year, of an impression hitherto existing in the district that such applications should be made five days after distraint, whereas they need not be made till five days after storing, where the crops are such as admit of storing. The postponement of the 'evil day' it is said, led to the majority of cases being compounded.

Appendix B—I Kumaun.

65. The following table gives the number of suits instituted, decided and pending in Kumaun in the past two years:—

District.	Pending.		Instituted.		Total.		Decided.		Pending.

In Almora and Garhwál there is a sensible decrease in the number of suits filed. This follows on the increase in both districts noticed in last year's report, and shows a return to more normal conditions. Naini Tal, on the other hand, exhibits a small rise. This has occurred after two years of steady decrease, and is pointed to as an indication that with the return of average harvests and prices litigation is again on the increase. The increase is, however, almost entirely due to a number of suits under class A-I. by landlords for counterparts of pattas and determination of rent having been filed. There were 58 of these suits as against none last year. Apart from these suits, the litigation shows a considerable decrease. The suits in question were filed by Káshipur landlords, who have found themselves with the return of better times in a stronger position. During the time of depression and scarcity they were at the mercy of their tenants. Of the 760 cases instituted, 501 were suits for arrears of rent and suits by málguzárs for arrears of revenue and rent (classes II and XII). In the latter class, however, there is a decrease of 214 cases, of which more than half occurred in Almora. To this district belong 53 of the 78 ejectment cases, (class III) for disposal before the different courts.

The number of pending cases is most noticeable in Almora (72), but is not explained. The average duration in the three districts generally is low. In contested cases it has fallen in Naini Tal from two months and nine days to one month and nine days—a satisfactory result.

SECTION II—APPEALS.
Apps. B.—IV to B.—VII and B.—IX.
App. B.—IV.
Appeals to Collectors from decisions in suits.

66. Including the figures for Kumaun, the number of appealable suits decided during the year of report was 24,707 against 21,342 in the previous year, and the number of appeals to Collectors and Deputy Commissioners accordingly rose from 3,844 to 4,052. In the North-Western Provinces the percentage of appeals to appealable cases declined from 18·28 to 17·48, in Oudh from 16·87 to 13·07; and in Kumaun from 21·67 to 20·95. The divisional figures are shown in the table below:—

The districts in which most appeals were filed were Ballia (290), Gorakhpur (240), Aligarh (218) and Budaun (216). The percentage of appeals (23·68) to appealable suits decided in the Meerut division is the highest in the provinces, due chiefly to the Aligarh district, in which the percentage was about 30. In the Benares division, Mirzapur and Jaunpur show considerable improvement, and were it not for Gházipur and Ballia, and, to a lesser extent, Benares, the percentage for the division would have been satisfactorily low. The Commissioner states that the people of Gházipur and Ballia are much given to litigiousness, and it is hopeless to expect better results there. Seeing that 63 and 74 per cent. respectively of the orders of the lower courts were undisturbed in appeal in these two districts, it is clear that the people themselves, and not the subordinate courts, are to blame for so high a percentage of appeals to appealable suits decided. Exclusive of 151 appeals, either summarily rejected or dismissed for default, there were altogether 4,334 for disposal: of these 3,872 were decided, leaving 462 pending at the close of the year, of which 41 were pending more than three months.

67. The percentages of appeals in which the decisions of the lower courts were undisturbed are shown in the margin. The best results were obtained in Kumaun and in the Rohilkhand and Benares divisions. In the Allahabad and Lucknow divisions there is a slight improvement. In the Agra, Gorakhpur and Fyzabad divisions the falling off occurred chiefly in the districts of Muttra, Mainpuri, Gorakhpur, Bara Banki and Sultánpur.

The following table shows for each division how the appeals were disposed of:—

The chief variations in the percentage of decisions reversed occur in the Rohilkhand and Benares divisions, which both show considerable improvement. In Rohilkhand reversals were specially few in Bijnor, Sháhjahánpur and Pilibhít, and in the Benares division in all districts except Mirzapur and Jaunpur. The average duration of appeals in the North-Western Provinces rose from one month and two days to one month and eight days; in Oudh from one month and three days to one month and fourteen days, and in Kumaun it declined from twenty-seven to twenty-two days. The increase is in general the natural result of the increase in the number of appeals disposed of. In Aligarh the average duration was as high as four months and fourteen days, and was due to pressure of work. In Partábgarh the duration has risen from three months and nine days to four months and twenty-three days. The reasons are the number of cases that were remanded for further enquiry, and, as the Deputy Commissioner explains, the fact that appeals had to stand over until his return from leave last year.

App. B.—V, N.-W. P. Appeals to Collectors from orders on applications.

68. The number of appealable applications decided by Assistant Collectors of the 2nd class rose from 1,394 to 1,472. Out of 116 appeals for disposal, only 13 were left pending at the close of the year; 62 out of the 116 appeals were in the Meerut division.

Including 1,327 cases pending from the previous year, there were 3,240 for disposal, of which 1,799 or 56 per cent. were decided, leaving 1,441 appeals undecided at the close of the year. The pending file in the North-Western Provinces rose from 756 to 1,009; but in Oudh it was slightly reduced. The Judgeships of the Benares division with 454 pending cases, and of Meerut and Lucknow with 237 and 267 cases, respectively, show the heaviest files. The average time occupied in the hearing of appeals was 6 months and 6 days in the North-Western Provinces, or 1 month and 6 days less than in 1896-97. In Oudh the duration declined from 14 months to 9 months and 2 days.

The number of appealable cases decided in the North-Western Provinces rose from 14,892 to 17,516, and in Oudh from 3,570 to 6,514, and as a natural consequence the number of appeals filed also rose. The proportion of appeals filed to the total number of appealable cases decided rose considerably in the Agra and Gorakhpur divisions, while the Benares and Lucknow divisions show a marked diminution. Excluding cases transferred to Collectors for disposal, Commissioners had 5,834 appeals to decide against 4,379 in 1896-97; 1,499 cases remained pending when the year closed, of which 205 were pending over 3 months, 142 being in the Fyzabad division.

All the 574 cases shown as transferred to Collectors, were transferred by the Commissioner of Meerut. The Commissioner himself decided 582 cases, leaving 421 pending; but the number of pending cases is amply accounted for by the interruption caused by the recrudesence of plague at Hardwár, which entailed the Commissioner's presence at the spot. There was, moreover, a sudden rush of appeals towards the close of the year. The appellate work in the Allahabad division is light. There were only 302 appeals for disposal, of which 211 were decided, and 91 left pending, 86 of which have since been decided. The results in the Gorakhpur division are satisfactory. More appeals were decided in this division than in any other in the provinces, while the number of appeals pending was only 63. Including 409 appeals pending from the previous year, and excluding one case, which was retransferred to the Commissioner of Meerut, the Collectors in the Meerut division had 983 appeals to dispose of during the year. They disposed of 815, and had 168 pending on their files, of which only 13 were pending over three months. The Collector of Bulandshahr had 61, and the Collector of Aligarh had 88 appeals pending when the year closed, a considerable reduction of the pending file having been effected in both districts.

The following table shows the number of appeals rejected under rules 5 and 13, Board's Extant Circular 18-II. The number of appeals rejected after perusal of record increased from 355 to 615, the increase chiefly occurring in the Agra and the Gorakhpur divisions. The number of appeals disposed of in this way fell in the Meerut division from 242 to 81. Summary rejections rose from 171 to 350 :—

There is a noticeable improvement in the percentage of decisions entirely upheld in the North-Western Provinces and Kumaun. In Oudh the percentage was practically the same. The Allahabad division shows the most marked increase in reversals; but it also shows an increase in the percentage upheld. There were fewer cases remanded for further enquiry, the percentage falling from 35 to 12.

71. The judicial work of the Board of Revenue for the North-Western Provinces for 1897-98 was as follows :—

Orders of lower courts were disturbed in 6 cases.

The total number of cases disposed of by the Board of Revenue in the North-Western Provinces amounted to 3,165 against 2,781 in the previous year, the total number pending at the close of 1897-98 being 604.

The Board examined records of lower courts in 1,283 cases and in 18 cases parties were heard. The orders of lower courts were disturbed in 397 cases, being 12·54 per cent. of the total number of cases disposed of.

The judicial work for Oudh was as follows:—

(a) Appeals under the Oudh Rent Act—

For disposal	158
Disposed of	114
Pending	44
	M. d.
Average duration	2 21

Orders of lower courts were disturbed in 22 cases.

APP. B—IX, N.-W. P.,

Action taken to avert sale of land in execution of decree of Revenue Courts.

72. Including cases pending from the previous year, there were altogether 446 applications for sale of land under decrees of revenue courts, of which 284 were filed during the year against 345 in 1896-97. The distribution by divisions is shown in the margin. The largest number of such cases belong to the Agra division. Three hundred and five cases were disposed of, in 106 of which sale was averted through the Collector's intervention or otherwise, and 199 cases were reported to the Board for sanction to sale. Out of 174 cases in which sanction to sale was accorded, sale was carried out in 69, and the remaining 105 were disposed of as follows:—

(1) Cases in which decree was satisfied	34
(2) Cases in which sale was postponed either for want of bidders or at the decree-holder's request, or suspended at the request of the Civil Court	29
(3) Cases struck off at decree-holder's request	15
(4) Cases in which sale did not take place during the year owing to sanction not having been received before the end of the year ...	27
Total ...	105

APP. B—IX-OUDH.

Decrees were taken out in 890 cases in Oudh against 528 in the preceding year. Sale was averted in 168 cases, and sanctioned in 206 out of 258 cases reported to the Chief Commissioner or Commissioner for sanction. In 70 of these sale took place, the remaining 136 cases being disposed of as follows:—

(1) Cases in which decree was satisfied	43
(2) Sale postponed	17
(3) Struck off	9
(4) Cases in which sale did not take place during the year ...	67
Total ...	136

The most noticeable feature of the statistics is the rise in the Gonda district where 260 applications were made against 13 in the previous year, and in the Fyzabad district where the number of cases for execution rose from 125 to 168. Many of the under-proprietors in certain estates in Gonda have been, for years in the habit of withholding the rents due from them to the superior proprietors. In one estate alone the arrears now exceed a lakh of rupees. As the Commissioner observes, the only result of such mismanagement is that sooner or later the superior proprietor is bound to apply to the courts for redress, and where the arrears are large, the defaulter has to be sold up. The pending file rose from 378 to 462 cases, and was heaviest in the above two districts.

SECTION III—DEPOSITS OF RENT. App. B.—VIII.

73. The difference between the opening figures in the return and the closing balance shown in that for last year is caused by the correction of a mistake in the treasury accounts of the Saháranpur district. The adjustments included Rs. 405, which lapsed to Government.

(a) Minor processes (writs of demand, arrests and detention, distress and sale of moveable property).

The number of coercive processes employed in the preceding year had decreased very considerably owing to the large amount of revenue which remained uncollected; and any detailed comparison of the present figures with those for that year would be useless. In the year under report with an exceptionally large amount of revenue to be realized a return to at least average figures was to be expected; and that the number of processes issued did not, either in the North-Western Provinces or in Oudh, attain the figures of 1894-95 or 1895-96, must be regarded as indicative of the favourable harvests which were reaped. The arrears for the recovery of which the processes issued were, however, some 10 lakhs more than in either of these two years.

In the Meerut division, which was but little affected by famine, the total number of writs issued has remained practically stationary for the past three years: attachments of moveable property were fewer than in the two preceding years, and though owing to a free resort to this process in Saháranpur arrests were more numerous, only 40 arrests were followed by detention. In the Agra division twice as many writs were issued as in Meerut, though the number of writs, as well as of arrests and of attachments of moveables, was considerably less than in the previous year. An explanation of these results is perhaps to be found in the inaccuracy of the returns which the Commissioner suspects. He notices that the return by no means corresponds with the actual difficulty there is in the various districts of his division in the realization of revenue. The total number of writs issued in the Rohilkhand division shows a reversion to the figures of 1895-96, and the number of arrests and of attachments of moveables followed by sale was higher in the year under comment than in either of the two previous years. In Sháhjahánpur, where difficulty was felt in collecting the revenue, there were 193 attachments of moveable property, followed in no less than 16 cases by sale. The returns, however, show only 99 writs issued in this district and if these figures are accurate they indicate a condition of things in which it was felt that the issue of such notices would be ordinarily useless.

As regards the Allahabad division, where the writs issued as well as the arrests made and the sales of moveable property attached, were in excess of the figures in either of the two preceding years, the Commissioner writes:—"That there should be a large increase in coercive processes generally is a matter of no surprise. The demand to be collected was about 50 per cent. larger than in the previous year, and a year of lenient treatment and of large suspensions and remissions had naturally disorganised, temporarily, the districts and induced the revenue payers to hold out to the last moment in the hopes of still further concessions. The total of processes was not so very largely in excess of the total of 1895-96, and, taken all round, I can hardly feel much surprise that it reached the figure it did." In Fatehpur the number of writs issued (1895) was far too many, nearly 1,200 having been issued in the first part of the year for the recovery of less than a lakh and a half of revenue. In Bánda and Hamírpur also sufficient discrimination in the use of this process was not exercised; the necessary instructions have since been issued. Sales of moveable property attached (105) were more numerous in Hamírpur than in any other district of the provinces, and the Collector's action seems to have been in many cases injudicious.

Generally speaking the statistics of the minor coercive processes in the Benares and Gorakhpur divisions show a reversion to the figures of 1895-96. Attachment of moveables was very freely resorted to in Ghazipur, but not one in twenty of the attachments made ended in sale. In the matter of the issue of dastaks, Gorakhpur and Azamgarh head the list of districts in the provinces: but, except in the case of arrests in Azamgarh, the number of other minor processes employed is not correspondingly large. In Basti an extremely large number of warrants of arrest (338) was issued, and apparently without sufficient justification. In Kumaun coercive processes were very sparingly employed. In the Lucknow division, where, with the exception of Allahabad, the largest arrears fell to be collected, the minor processes resorted to were generally more numerous than in either of the two preceding years; while in the Fyzabad division, where the collections both of the current and of the arrear demand were excellent, they fell considerably short of the figures of 1895-96. Hardoi heads the list in Oudh of arrests (154), and Sitapur and Unao that of sales of moveable property attached (35 each only). The reports disclose that in many cases the principles which should govern the issue of writs of demand are still not yet fully understood. It rests with District Officers to see that they are made clear to Tahsíldárs. If it were generally borne in mind that writs should not be served when they are certain to be ineffective as a reminder, and that it is not absolutely necessary that a writ should issue before resort is had to severer measures, there would be a diminution in the number of writs issued without effect.

75. The system inaugurated by Mr. Wyer of issuing to lambardárs, through the agency of patwáris, slips showing the revenue instalments payable a fortnight before they fall due, was continued in all divisions except Kumaun and Benares, which are unsuitable for the experiment. In the districts of the Meerut and Agra divisions, in which the system was tried, it has proved of considerable utility. The Collector of Muttra observes that it has greatly minimised difficulties regarding questions as to the amounts of revenue due from co-sharers in imperfect pattidári villages. Settlement operations in the Meerut district obliged its discontinuance there; while in Aligarh owing, the Collector explains, to the steady realization of the revenue, it was not given a trial. This is to be regretted, as the issue of statements of demand would doubtless have tended to lessen the noticeably large number of writs. In Sháhjahánpur and Bareilly the system could not be tried owing to the absence of the patwáris on survey operations, and in Bijnor for the same reason it received only a partial trial. The Collectors of Fatehpur and Allahabad are not yet prepared to pass a final opinion on the working of the experiment in their districts: but its utility, especially in the case of pattidári and bháiyachára villages, is recognized by the Collectors of Cawnpore, Jhánsi, and Jalaun. In the Gorakhpur division the experiment was attended with little or no success, and it is a question for consideration whether it should not be discontinued in this division, in which, as in the Benares division, the lambardár has to a great extent ceased to represent the co-sharers. The system was tried in most of the Oudh districts, and is, as a rule, favourably reported on. The issue of the slips should be found particularly useful in newly settled districts, where co-sharers have not become familiar with the details of the Government demand payable by them.

District Officers are generally alive to the necessity of limiting the functions of patwáris to the issue of slips of demand, and not employing them in any way as agents for recovery of revenue.

76. The post continues to be employed for the service of writs of demand, and almost all that has to be said on the subject has been said in previous reports. The experiment appears, on the whole, to have been successful in districts where it was given a fair trial; and where it failed, the reason was ordinarily to be found in the want of discrimination with which writs were issued. The Collector of Etáwah, where all the writs issued were served through the post, and the Collectors of Muttra and Agra, where a large proportion of writs were so served, speak of the system in, on the whole, favourable terms. It is not understood, therefore, why the Commissioner of Agra remarks that the Collectors of his division are unanimous in the opinion that the issue of writs by the post is not an effective means of inducing payment of the Government demand. In the Benares division the system is receiving a fair trial, and is being extended. The Gorakhpur division is the only one in which the working of the experiment is unfavourably reported on by all the District Officers and the Commissioner, who consider it impracticable until the lambardári system is restored.

Process fees.

The demand on account of process fees amounted to Rs. 35,778, out of which Rs. 33,736 were realized. The establishment charges were Rs. 20,755, and a net surplus of Rs. 12,981 accrued at the close of the year.

(b) Attachments of landed property.

77. There was a large further increase in the number of attachments of immoveable property, which, however, was practically confined to the Allahabad division. If the figures for that division be eliminated, the figures show somewhat fewer attachments in the rest of the provinces than in the preceding year, in which, however, such attachments were twice as numerous as they have been in recent years. Only three cases occurred in the Meerut division. The number of attachments in the Agra division fell from 134 to 94. Etáwah is again responsible for the largest number (56), of which 51 related to maháls belonging to the Rája of Bhareh, whose affairs have already been alluded to in that portion of this report which deals with the recovery of revenue. The estates attached in Muttra, Farukhabad and Mainpuri were released before the year closed, the arrears having been collected. Next to the Allahabad division, attachments were most numerous in Rohilkhand (254). A large number of maháls belonging to the Rája of Powayan (whose estate is now being managed by the Court of Wards) and other indebted proprietors, helped to bring the number of attachments up to 159 in Sháhjahánpur. Both in this district and in Budaun zamíndárs are reported to have been under the impression that they would be treated as leniently as in the preceding year, and thus escape payment; and to disabuse them of this impression it was found necessary to attach their estates. This process was resorted to in the Allahabad division in no less than 943 cases against 252 in the preceding year, and more than half of these were in the Allahabad district. The Collector's attention has been drawn to the subject, and the number of maháls or portions of maháls still remaining under attachment in February 1899 has been reduced to 194. The fact of so many maháls, pattis or shares being comprised within only 41 estates, and the fact that the arrears for the recovery of which this process was used amounted to over two lakhs, show that the zamíndárs concerned were well-to-do. The Board agree with the Commissioner that defaulters of this class, who are able to pay, deserve little consideration, and that the severer processes allowed by law should be employed against them. In Fatehpur (80) and Hamírpur (197) the number of attachments was also excessive. This form of process is, apparently, not regarded in the light of a punitive measure in Fatehpur, as it is reported that in several cases it was resorted to at the request of the zamíndárs themselves, who found difficulty in collecting from petty co-sharers. As remarked by the Commissioner, there seems to be no reason why Government should burden itself with the management of estates in such cases. The attachments in Hamírpur were due to the indiscreet action of the Collector, whose procedure in regard to the employment of the severer processes of coercion without reference to higher authority has formed the subject of a separate report to Government. In the Benares division, Mirzapur, Jaunpur and Ballia alone show any considerable resort to this method of recovering arrears; attachments in Jaunpur fell from 88 to 29. In Azamgarh ten estates, comprising 155 maháls, were attached. The Commissioner thinks that, by a mistake, each mauza in a complex mahál has been treated as a separate mahál, and that this may possibly account for the large number of maháls concerned. The Collector refers to the belief prevalent among zamíndárs in this district that they will benefit in the coming settlement if they can show that their present assessment is collected with difficulty. It would appear that several estates were attached on the application of defaulters, who expressed their inability to realize rents. The undesirability of this practice has already been commented on, and it should be discontinued. Last year the Board noticed that Almora showed the largest number (165) of attachments of any district in the provinces, and quoted the Deputy Commissioner's explanatory remarks on the subject. It now appears that by an error perpetuated for some years, the figures of attachments of moveable, have been reported as those of immoveable, property. The Deputy Commissioner has himself drawn attention to the mistake, which would have been detected before by the Board had not the figures been insignificant in previous years.

Attachments of landed property in Oudh (145) were almost twice as numerous as in the preceding year. It is noticeable that the average arrears for which an estate was attached in Oudh were almost ten times the amount of the average arrears for which attachments were made in the North-Western Provinces. The districts in which this method of recovering arrears was most freely made use of were Unao and Hardoi in the Lucknow division, and Sultánpur and Partábgarh in the Fyzabad division. Special measures were necessary in Hardoi to enable the Deputy Commissioner to deal effectively with contumacious default on the part of a body of landlords. The Deputy Commissioner thinks that zamíndárs have learnt a salutary lesson, and he expects more punctual payments in future. In Sultánpur the attachments were mostly nominal, resulting in immediate payment of the demand.

(c) Transfers of shares or pattis; and (d) annulment of settlement.

78. The rights and interests of defaulting co-sharers were transferred in only seven cases for arrears, amounting to Rs. 1,599, as compared with 17 cases representing an arrear demand of Rs. 1,690 in the preceding year. This process is a specially equitable method of securing the payment of the revenue demand, and the Board would be glad to see it more frequently employed than it is.

The settlement of 11 maháls or pattis was annulled. Two of these were taken under direct management and nine farmed.

(e) Sales.

79. Only two sales of landed property took place in the North-Western Provinces. In one case in the Bánda district the defaulters were speculative purchasers, and the Board had no hesitation in sanctioning sale as the only course open for realizing the arrears due. The property was heavily encumbered, and intending purchasers would not offer anything like a suitable price. The Collector, therefore, bought in the village on behalf of Government. In the other case a patti in a village of the Mainpuri district was sold for default in respect of arrears of water-rate, which the defaulter had collected from his tenants and misappropriated to his own use.

There were no sales in Oudh.

APP. E.-XI. Estates managed direct after annulment of settlement.

80. During the year under report there were 46 estates, the settlement of which had been annulled, under direct management, compared with 56 estates so managed in the previous year. Out of a total rental demand, including arrears, of Rs. 52,935, only Rs. 25,202, or less than half, were realized. If, however, the estates in Bánda and Farukhabad, whose circumstances a large amount of practically irrecoverable arrears render exceptional, be omitted from the calculations, the total collections amount to the more satisfactory percentage of 76 per cent. of the demand. The districts showing the largest outstanding balances are Farukhabad (5,924), Cawnpore (1,951), Bánda (15,535) and Hamírpur (1,898). In Farukhabad almost the whole sum mentioned is irrecoverable, being composed of arrears accruing prior to management which are now to a considerable extent time-barred. Only a small sum is actually irrecoverable in Cawnpore. The greater part of the outstanding balance is either under suspension or nominal. Bánda shows a very heavy arrear balance, double the demand for the current year. It is doubtful, however, whether the amount reported is correct, and the Collector has been asked to explain certain discrepancies in the figures. There was only one mahal under direct management in Hamírpur, and the rental arrears due from it are spread over several years. A small sum has been remitted by Government, and the remainder of the balance the Collector hoped to collect with the last kharíf instalments. The expenditure on account of management was very moderate, amounting to only Rs. 682. It was found necessary to advance only a small sum to tenants, and the advances outstanding were reduced from Rs. 3,656 at the beginning of the year to Rs. 1,607 at its close.

APP. E.—XII. Estates attached by order of Civil or Rent Courts.

81. Including two estates in the Sitapur district, the accounts of which for 1896-97 were not furnished, the number of estates at the commencement of the year of which District Officers actually held charge as managers or receivers was 61. Sixty more were taken charge of during the year under report, mostly under section 326 of Act XIV of 1882, making a total of 121. Of these 17 were released, leaving 105 under management at the close of the year. The rental demand including outstanding arrears, was Rs. 1,47,974, and of this Rs. 1,04,042 or 70 per cent. were recovered as compared with 58 per cent. in the preceding year. Of the districts in which the rental demand is over Rs. 1,000, less than half the demand was collected in Mainpuri, Jalaun, Ballia, Unao, and Rae Bareli. In these districts, many of the estates were under management for a portion of the year only, while, generally, the estates are only just recovering from the effects of famine. With the return of agricultural prosperity better results may be looked for in future. The total funds available for expenditure including the opening cash balance and miscellaneous receipts were Rs 1,30,595. Of this sum, Rs. 77,262 were disbursed for charges, including revenue and proprietors' allowances, and Rs. 29,700 were paid into court towards the liquidation of debts. More than Rs. 21,000 of this sum represents profits from the Rámpur Kalan estate in the Sitapur district. The proprietor of this estate is practically insane, and the question of taking the estate under Court of Wards' management is under consideration. The debts still undischarged amount to Rs. 6,25,387. The bulk of this sum is due from the estate of Aziz-ud-din Ahmad and Hafiz-ud-din Ahmad in Bareilly who were during the year declared insolvents under section 351 of Act XIV of 1882, the Muhi-ud-dinpur estate in Meerut and the Rámpur Kalan estate in Sitapur. The unpaid balances of revenue at the close of the year amounted to Rs. 4,639. They were largest in Rae Bareli (Rs. 1,523) and Bánda (Rs. 604). The cost of management of the several estates falls on an average at 8 per cent. on the collections, a not excessive rate.

82. The comparative statistics of transfers are exhibited in the following statement:—

There is a considerable decline in the total number of transfers which is generally due to a return of agricultural prosperity. The principal variations from the figures of the previous year are a decrease of nearly 6 per cent. in succession cases, and one of nearly 22 per cent. in the number of "other cases." The decrease in succession cases was to be expected in a year of low mortality. Allahabad is the only division in which succession cases increased to any extent. Much of the increase represents the successions which ought to have been reported in the two previous years, the Collector of Bánda points out some of the petty zamíndárs could not during the year of famine present themselves at tahsíls to apply for mutation of names for fear of losing the famine wages on which they subsisted.

The rise is accordingly the result of better registration and represents a clearing up of arrears of the preceding year. There has been a progressive increase in cases of sales by order of court, the following being the figures for the last three years:—

1897-98	5,836

The largest rise was in the Gorakhpur division, from 566 in 1896-97 to 885 in 1897-98.

The following figures show the course taken by voluntary transfers of land during the last five years:—

Year.	Sale of revenue-paying lands.		Mortgages.
	North-Western Provinces.	Oudh.	North-Western Provinces.	Oudh.
1893-94	17,107	2,539	7,655	6,483
1894-95	17,052	2,717	8,256	7,144
1895-96	20,030	3,070	9,486	8,255
1896-97	22,599	3,487	13,388	8,205
1897-98	21,329	4,085	12,077	8,606

Sales in the Meerut and Agra divisions fell slightly, and in Rohilkhand considerably. Allahabad shows a decrease from 3,222 to 2,947, which is attributed to a return of normal conditions, but the Commissioner notes that in Bánda especially land is very difficult to sell at present owing to the generally impoverished state of the landholders. In the Benares division there is little variation, while in Gorakhpur there is a rise from 3,662 to 4,244, accompanied by a rise in price from 44 to 48 years' purchase. The rise in the number of cases is due to the fact that a large number of transfers by sale which were effected in the preceding year were recorded in the year under report, while the rise in price is due to some exceptionally high prices realized in Basti. The price of land is high throughout this division. In the Lucknow division there is a slight decrease but Hardoi shows an increase which is attributed to the reduced circumstances of proprietors. In Fyzabad there is an increase of over 500. Mortgages show a slight falling off in the North-Western Provinces, but the statistics are still affected by the figures for Gorakhpur. Last year they rose suddenly from 646 to 4,077 but it was explained that 3,809 were old cases in the Bansgaon tahsíl in Gorakhpur recently brought under disposal. This year, however, the number has only fallen to 3,600 and the fact that this is still far above the normal number is not explained. Mortgages in Oudh in contrast to the North-Western Provinces show a slight increase, but the Commissioner of Lucknow expresses a doubt as to whether such cases are fully reported by the patwáris.

The number of years' purchase of revenue-paying lands sold by order of court, as well as by private transfer, rose in the North-Western Provinces but fell in Oudh.

Both the number of cases and the amount levied were larger than in the preceding year. The penalty levied in each individual case averaged nearly 13 annas. The question of securing greater uniformity in the levying of penalties is engaging the attention of the Board.

JHÁNSI ENCUMBERED ESTATES ACT (XVI OF 1882).

85. No fresh advance was made under the Jhánsi Encumbered Estates Act and 48 accounts were closed during the past year as follows :—

By regular payments of instalments ...	45
By payment of whole debt in a lump sum	2
Remitted	1

The number of accounts which remained open at the close of the year was 75. Collections have progressed favourably except in one estate in the Jhánsi tahsíl.

SECTION III. PARTITIONS. Appendix C.—IV (N.-W. P. and Oudh).

86. The number of applications for partition for disposal in the North-Western Provinces, which for the last four years has continued to decrease, rose from 2,937 to 3,201. In Oudh it rose from 667 to 919. The pending file in both provinces rose from 1,628 to 1,853. The following table shows the distribution of the cases by divisions and the progress made in disposing of them:—

The case of 8th October 1892 in Jaunpur was the oldest pending. The papers in this case, after decision of appeal by the High Court, were received back on 15th September 1897, and partition work is now in progress. The next oldest case is in Meerut where all partition work is in abeyance owing to settlement. The increase in the pending file in Rohilkhand occurs chiefly in the Moradabad and Budaun districts. In the Allahabad and Fyzabad divisions, the pending file has increased by 53 and 64 respectively. In the former division there is a noticeable increase in the number of applications filed, being most marked in the Cawnpore district. The increase is attributed to the cessation of the strain caused by scarcity and high prices, leaving the villagers leisure and means to resort again to litigation.

In Allahabad which shows the largest proportionate increase in the pending file the increase is attributed partly to the frequent unavoidable changes of jurisdiction among pargana officers and partly to the number of objections filed. In the Fyzabad division the increase occurred chiefly in the Sultánpur district and is due to the fact that partition work, which was held in abeyance owing to settlement, has recommenced owing to settlement operations having closed. In Farukhabad measures were taken to temporarily strengthen the staff of amíns which was found to be unequal to cope with the work. The result of partition operations during the year was a further increase of nearly 3,000 mahâls.

SECTION IV.—ADVANCES UNDER THE LAND IMPROVEMENT LOANS ACT. Appendices C.—V and C.—VI.

The figures show a reversion to those of normal years, and any detailed comparison with those of the previous year, in which famine advances were given on an exceptional scale, or even with those of 1895-96 when unfavourable seasons were the cause of large disbursements, would be infructuous. During the year seasons were favourable, and as the Commissioner of Allahabad remarks: "Zamíndárs and tenants were naturally unwilling to add to their liabilities for takávi, and it was equally necessary for Government officers to see that they were not allowed to do so at the risk of loss to Government." The improvement in the water-supply consequent on the extensive works which were undertaken and completed last year may also have contributed to a reduced demand for advances under the Act.

No advances free of interest were made during the year; the petty sums shown in the appendices as so advanced represent excess collections since refunded. In certain cases instalments of advances sanctioned in the previous year for the construction of masonry wells at the reduced rate of interest were under G. O. No. $\frac{540}{S-117}$, dated 14th June 1898, disbursed in the year of report and met from the ordinary grant for advances under the Act at the disposal of the Board.

Details of the partly recoverable advances for the construction of village relief works without interest, the recovery and control of which were by G. O. No. 2590, dated 20th December 1897, placed in the hands of the Board, are given below:—

		Total sum recoverable. Rs.	Demand during the year. Rs.	Collections. Rs.
Agra	Division ...	11,798	4,538	4,187
Rohilkhand	„ ...	5,317	980	980

Fyzabad	„ ...	1,11,920	45,571	33,099
	Total ...	2,66,257	98,591	77,648

The recoverable portion of the sums advanced is repayable ordinarily within a period of two years running from the first rabi kist of 1898, so that the collections shown above were made only in the second half of the year under report.

App. C.—VII.

88. Including Rs. 18,83,510, the balance outstanding at the close of 1896-97, the demand on account of principal advanced was Rs. 19,55,648, of which Rs. 10,22,927 fell due during the year, and Rs. 7,90,287, or 77 per cent. were collected. Out of the collections, Rs. 5,17,766 were received on account of the special advances without interest given in the famine year for the construction of kachcha wells and other temporary irrigation works, and of the total sum of nearly 8 lakhs advanced for this purpose, only about $1\frac{3}{4}$ lakhs remained outstanding when the year closed. The bulk of this amount is due from the Allahabad and Lucknow divisions, where it was inexpedient to press for larger payments. Over three quarters of a lakh was paid on account of the special advances at $4\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. interest made during the famine year for the construction of masonry wells: the repayment of these advances, which are of permanent advantage, is spread over a term of years. The remainder of the collections went towards the instalments due on account of the loans taken under the Act at the full rate of interest.

The balances in the Agra, Allahabad, Lucknow and Fyzabad divisions in which at the beginning of the year the outstandings were largest, have been very sensibly reduced, but the amounts to be recovered are still large. The question of the realization of the balances under all heads of takávi in those tracts in which famine was severe, more especially in the Bundelkhand districts, requires careful treatment. Though with the advent of favourable seasons the provinces generally are rapidly recovering from the effects of famine, the resources of the affected districts have been seriously impaired, and the adoption of vigorous measures for the repayment of takávi loans would, in these districts, be inexpedient. In the Allahabad division proposals for the remission, suspension and postponement of takávi balances due for years up to and including the revenue year 1896-97 have been received and sanctioned, (vide the correspondence ending with the Board's letter No. $\frac{3}{IV-302}$, dated 4th January 1899 to the address of Government). The Board feel confident that the leniency shown in the matter of postponement of the demand will in the end result in larger collections than if the people had been pressed to pay up at once. It is probable, however, that further large remissions will be found necessary in the Bundelkhand districts when the results of the enquiries are known which have been directed to be made in the present cold weather. Takávi is not the only exceptional demand which has fallen to be paid during the last year, and considering the very large recoveries on account of arrears of land revenue and cesses during the year the realizations on account of advances cannot be regarded as unsatisfactory. In the Allahabad division, for example, nearly 118½ lakhs were collected on account of land revenue and rates, current and arrear, and in addition to this amount nearly six lakhs on account of takávi balances were got in. The total realizations from the division were thus very considerably in excess of the demand under all heads in an ordinary year. Similarly in the Lucknow division, in addition to over 90 lakhs collected on account of revenue, more than 7 lakhs were received in the shape of repayments of takávi.

To deal with collections in more detail, the demand was collected practically in full in the Meerut and Agra divisions, in the Benares and Rohilkhand divisions over 80 per cent. was realized and in both the Oudh divisions over 75 per cent. The Gorakhpur (55 per cent.) and Allahabad (64 per cent.) divisions were most backward. Among individual districts less than half the demand was collected in Fatehpur, Jalaun, Gorakhpur, Azamgarh, Hardoi and Kheri. In Fatehpur nearly 17 lakhs were collected on account of land revenue or nearly four lakhs more than an ordinary year's demand, a fact to which the Collector attributes the smallness of the takávi collections. In Gorakhpur the very large realizations of advances under Act XII probably affected those under Act XIX. Recoveries in Kheri should have been better and an explanation has been asked for. In Hardoi the poor collections are ascribed to the recusancy of the tenants who during the famine formed the idea that the takávi then given was only nominally a loan, and that what could not be recovered without difficulty would be remitted. An exactly opposite feeling is reported by the Deputy Commissioner of Lucknow who speaks of the good faith displayed by the people of his district and the ready way in which they have repaid the advances which the Government so liberally made them in their time of dire need. The demand for interest was Rs. 1,04,976, of which Rs. 53,454 were collected.

89. The amounts advanced under the Agriculturists' Loans Act during the past two years are compared below :—

ADVANCES UNDER THE AGRICULTURISTS' LOANS ACT. App. C.—VIII.

Division.	1896-97.	1897-98.	Increase.	Decrease.
	Rs	Rs.		Rs.
Meerut	50,341	3,060	...	47,281
Agra	1,66,301	7,020	...	1,59,281
Rohilkhand	2,08,386	18,015	...	1,90,371
Allahabad	6,88,623	2,65,660	...	4,22,963
Benares	1,03,212	5,288	...	97,924
Gorakhpur	2,68,392	225	...	2,68,167
Kumaun	1,916	1,185	...	731
Total, N.-W. P. ...	14,87,171	3,00,453	...	11,86,718
Lucknow	4,74,300	37,314	...	4,36,986
Fyzabad	2,85,955	16,333	...	2,69,622
Total, Oudh ...	7,60,255	53,647	...	7,06,608
GRAND TOTAL ...	22,47,426	3,54,100	...	18,93,326

The total sum advanced was less than in any of the three preceding years and outside the Allahabad division amounted to under a lakh. Good harvests gave the people the seed they required, and they had received considerable assistance in the matter of replenishing their stock of cattle from the Indian Charitable Relief Fund. Rs. 2,65,660 out of the Rs, 3,54,100 advanced in all were disbursed in the Allahabad division, where the sowing of the rabi was encouraged by advances made on an extensive scale. Bánda and Jalaun between them account for more than half of the loans taken in the division.

Including Rs. 26,84,727, the outstanding balances of previous years, the demand amounted to Rs. 30,38,828. Of this sum Rs. 24,34,727 fell due during the year, and the large sum of nearly 16 lakhs or in exact figures Rs. 15,84,833, representing 65 per cent. were collected. The balance at the close of the year was Rs. 14,53,994, of which the Allahabad division accounted for over 7¼ lakhs and the two Oudh divisions for 4¼ lakhs. Of the total collections Rs. 1,12,552 were received on account of the special advances amounting to over 3 lakhs which were made without interest for subsistence in the famine year in the districts of the Allahabad division and in Mirzapur.

The collections were worst in the Allahabad (53 per cent.), Lucknow (64 per cent.) and Fyzabad (63 per cent.) divisions. In Sháhjahánpur, Fatehpur, Jalaun, Hardoi and Kheri less than half of the demand was realized. The remarks already made with regard to the balances under the Land Improvement Loans Act apply with equal force to those now under consideration. It is hoped that with the return of prosperous seasons the bulk of the arrears will be recovered in the current year, except in cases where further enquiry shows that remission or a longer term of suspension is necessary. The demand for interest, including the arrears of previous years (Rs. 1,03,551), amounted to Rs. 2,18,851, of which Rs. 1,27,230 were collected, leaving an outstanding balance of Rs. 91,621.

SECTION V.—LAND REVENUE ADMINISTRATION. App. C.—IX.

90. This appendix shows that there has been a further increase in the number of mahâls and the gross land revenue of the provinces. The number of cases for disposal, the number disposed of and issues and receipts in the Revenue Department decreased, yet there were more cases pending at the end of the year than in 1896-97. The issues and receipts in the Board's Office amounted to 27,153 and 25,905 respectively.

SECTION VI.—ARRANGEMENT, INSPECTION AND WEEDING OF REVENUE RECORDS. App. C.—X.

91. The number of files to be sent into the record-room increased from 1,372,268 in 1896-97 to 1,401,849 in the year under report. Of these, 1,332,684 were actually deposited, leaving a balance of 69,165 compared with one of 80,880 at the close of the preceding year. The work done was better than in the previous year, for, notwithstanding an increase of 29,581 in the total number of cases to be deposited, the balance remaining was less by 11,715. The heavy arrears in certain districts noticed in last year's report have been reduced except in Fyzabad. This district shows a still further increase of cases in arrears, but these are said to consist chiefly of mutation cases which are not consigned to the record-room until the fees and penalties due have been realized. A few other districts show larger balances than in the previous year, but in none of them, save Sháhjahánpur and Rae Bareli, do they exceed 10 per cent. of the number of files to be consigned to the record-room. In Sháhjahánpur, the arrears consist mainly of the records of the Settlement Department, while, in Rae Bareli, more than three-fourths were notices of relinquishment and ejectment which could not be deposited before October. In Agra, the number of undeposited files, though considerably reduced, is still over 10 per cent. and requires continued attention by the Collector.

General improvement is also noticeable in the work of registering and arranging the files, the number dealt with having risen from 1,277,115 in 1896-97 to 1,326,720 in the year under report, while the number remaining fell from 14,273 to 5,964. It is satisfactory that the heavy arrears noticed last year in Allahabad have been considerably reduced and those in Almora and Fyzabad entirely cleared off.

92. The work of inspecting and weeding records was also more promptly disposed of. The number of bundles to be dealt with was very nearly the same as in the preceding year, while 58,519 more bundles were inspected and properly weeded, according to the rules, in the year under report. The balance remaining was 33,447 at the end of 1897-98 as compared with 92,040 at the close of 1896-97. Except in Muzaffarnagar, Bareilly, Budaun, Allahabad, Hardoi and Bara Banki the arrears are not very great in any district. The large reduction in the number of pending bundles indicates that the work of special weeding, to which allusion was made in the reports of the preceding two years, is approaching completion. The Board were able to allot some money, though not all that was asked for, for the work from their reserve, and they hope to be able to allot the remainder required in the ensuing financial year. In the Meerut district, where the weeding of records according to the revised rules was completed during the year, out of 214,870 files examined, 115,118 or more than half were completely weeded out, with the result that there is now ample accommodation in the record-room. This is a satisfactory instance of the results of the working of the new rules. In Moradabad also the special weeding was completed shortly after the close of the year. In the Allahabad Division, the weeding was delayed owing to difficulty in finding the requisite funds.

SECTION VII.—APPEALS UNDER ACT XIX OF 1873 (N.-W. P. REVENUE ACT) AND ACT XVII OF 1876 (OUDH REVENUE ACT). App. C.—XI.

93. The number of appeals filed under the Revenue Acts fell in the North-Western Provinces from 4,652 to 4,553 and rose in Oudh from 735 to 872. The largest number of appeals in Collector's Court for disposal were in Aligarh (258), Saháranpur (218) and Gorakhpur (176) and in Commissioner's Court in the Meerut division, where also the largest number of appeals were disposed of. The total number of cases pending when the year closed was 736 or 24 less than when it commenced, but those pending over three months rose from 73 to 89. The oldest case for decision in Collectors' Courts is one of January 1898 in Partábgarh. In this case the respondent died and fresh summons had to be served on the heir of the deceased who resides out of the province

SECTION VIII.—ACTION TAKEN BY DEPUTY COMMISSIONERS UNDER SECTION 158, ACT XVII OF 1876. App. C.—XII and C.—XIII (Oudh.)

94. Applications to recover the rent of mahals held in sub-settlement in Oudh fell from 1,203 to 967 and the amount of arrears claimed from Rs. 2,40,335 to Rs. 2,30,127. The decline was chiefly in the Fyzabad district where the number fell from 698 to 350. With the exception of 124 all the applications were filed in the Fyzabad division. The provisions of section 158 were most extensively resorted to in the Fyzabad, Gonda and Bara Banki districts.

SEC. IX.—APPLICATIONS FOR THE GUARDIANSHIP OF MINORS.

95. No expenditure was incurred during the year by District Officers in respect of applications under section 8, Act VIII of 1890, for the guardianship of minors succeeding to landed estates.

SEC. X.—MISCELLANEOUS.

Tours by Members of the Board.

96. The Members visited the following districts during the year:—

Mr. LaTouche—Bareilly, Lucknow, Hardoi and Sháhjahánpur.

Mr. Moule—Bareilly, Moradabad, Bulandshahr, Meerut, Aligarh, Agra, Cawnpore, Sháhjahánpur, Sitapur, Naini Tal, Almora, Lucknow, Jhánsi, Kheri and Pilibhít.

Mr. Evans—Lucknow, Moradabad, Bijnor, Meerut, Aligarh, Jhánsi, Jalaun, Bánda, Bulandshahr, Sháhjahánpur and Bareilly.

Record Fund Rules.

97. The record fund rules are generally reported to have worked satisfactorily. The Collector of Mirzapur remarks that the work in the record room has increased considerably since the introduction of the revised rules, which has led to the entertainment of an extra staff of weeders, and that the necessity for this extra staff is not occasional but will continue. The Board cannot accept this view. The extra staff was allowed to weed the old records according to the revised rules, and once this weeding is brought up to date, the necessity for the extra staff should disappear. The rules for the system of fixed fees for copies have been approved by Government and will be introduced shortly.

Territorial changes.

98. The only change that took place during the year was the retransfer of the alluvial mahál of Khandeli from the Etah to the Budaun district (G. O. No. $\frac{1941}{I-157A.}$, dated the 12th July 1898).

Boundary pillars.

99. The boundary pillars and survey-stations were duly inspected during the year and steps were taken to carry out the necessary repairs and renewals. The revised khasras showing the boundary between Nepál and the districts of Pilibhít and Naini Tal, referred to in last year's report, were returned by Government for correction of certain defects found in them by the Resident in Nepál. The Board have directed the preparation of a separate khasra for those pillars which, owing to the transfer of the Bhábar Talla Des (Tanakpur) from the Naini Tal to the Almora district, now lie in the latter district. The Pilibhít Nepál khasra has, since the close of the year been resubmitted to Government, with the necessary corrections duly made. Those for the boundary between Nepál and the districts of Naini Tal and Almora will be submitted at the end of the cold weather.

Hamírpur Forests.

100. All save four of the protected forests were inspected during the year by the Joint Magistrate in charge of the Mahoba sub-division and the Tahsíldárs visited nine out of the 14 plots.

Boundary pillars exist now in all the forests, and in those visited by the Joint Magistrate they were found in repair. No infringement of the conditions imposed for the preservation of the forest plots was brought to notice during the year and the administration of the forests appears to have been satisfactory.

Service and character books.

101. Service and character books were duly maintained. In the Kumaun division, service books were found by the Commissioner to be in a very incomplete state. They have, however, now been brought up to date, and there is no reason why they should not in future be properly maintained.

Touring of Tahsíldárs.

102. The rules regarding the touring of Tahsíldárs and the submission of tour diaries were generally complied with.

In addition to the 28 tents used by famine employés which were taken over from the Public Works Department 33 tents were purchased during the year for the use of Tahsíldárs, the grant of Rs. 5,000 made by Government being fully utilized. There are still 76 Tahsíldárs unprovided with tents. The Board will be able to supply most of them with tents before next cold weather from the grant of Rs. 10,000 which has been sanctioned by Government for the ensuing financial year.

SECTION XI.—MAPS.

103. It addition to the 11 tahsíli maps referred to in paragraph 110 of the last report, the revised maps of the 10 other tahsíls noted in the margin have been forwarded by the Board to the Rurki College Press for proofs, the other two tahsíli maps of the Ballia district were received, but had to be returned to the Collector for correction.

(1) Budaun, (2) Dataganj of the Budaun district, (3) Benares, (4) Chandauli, (5) Gangapur, of the Benares district, (6) Gházipur, (7) Zamania, (8) Muhammadabad, (9) Saiyidpur of the Gházipur district, and (10) Rasra of the Ballia adistrict.

The press has received in all the revised maps of 21 tahsíls but so far those of three tahsíls only, Orai, Jalaun and Kúnch are being finally printed. The standard of work originally proposed to be got through has not been maintained, but arrangements have recently been made to effect an improvement in this respect. To ensure economy and rapidity of work the Board have, at the request of the Principal of the College, placed at his disposal the services of one of their draftsmen.

SECTION XII.—Economic History.

As regards district maps on the scale of four miles to the inch, in addition to those of Rae Bareli, Garhwál and Hamírpur referred to in the last report, those of Agra, Bijnor, Mirzapur and Gorakhpur have been forwarded to the College Press at Rurki. Of these seven maps, those of Bijnor and Hamírpur have been printed. The press has to reduce these maps from the scale of two miles to the inch to that of four miles to the inch, omitting from the maps on the former scale superfluous detail: the work therefore requires care and time.

104. As the agricultural interest is by far the preponderating interest in these provinces the economic history of the provinces is the history of harvests and prices. The chief feature in this portion of the district and divisional reports, which, as usual, are submitted for the perusal of Government, is the rapid recovery of the Provinces from the effects of the famine of 1896-97. Another feature of the year which is not given such prominence in the reports, but is equally noticeable, is the very great fall in prices of food grains towards the close of the year, a fall which has since been continued. The year was one of good harvests. Except for the wide prevalence of fever in October and November of 1897 the health of the people was good and there was no severe epidemic disease among cattle. As to the transient nature of the evils of the famine there is a consensus of opinion. In districts like Bánda, Jalaun and Jhánsi where famine was most severe, its effects have not yet passed away but generally recovery has been complete. Indeed the opinion is even hazarded that the famine was a blessing in disguise. The Collector of Cawnpore says:—"In fact the drought of 1896 if considered as the culminating point of a series of dry years may have done good to the district as a whole, it counterbalanced the excessive rainfall of the preceding period. The rise in prices gave a stimulus to agriculture. Cultivators who could use canal irrigation, a large number, made exceptional profits. Labourers suffered a great deal for a few months, but eventually found plenty of employment." It might also have been said that the drought caused a large area to be left fallow and thus afforded it a much needed rest. This view, however, treats the undoubted severe sufferings of the labourers, artizans and less fortunate agriculturists with too great complacency. The Commissioner of Meerut writes:—"It is fortunately sufficient to say under this head that the year was, in spite of the recrudescence of plague successfully combated at Hardwár, one of perhaps unexampled prosperity, a point illustrated by the fact that the attendance at the recent Garhmukhtesar fair actually doubled." It is noteworthy that the prosperous times have even induced Gujars to neglect their traditional profession of cattle-theft for the pursuit of agriculture. The Commissioner of Agra says:—"The effects of the late scarcity have disappeared. The excellent harvests during the past year and the present prospects of their continuance have placed the agriculturists, whether land-lords or tenants in their normal position and the Government demands are realized without any special difficulty." The Commissioner of Rohilkhand says:—"The year taken by itself may be called a fairly prosperous one and it is noteworthy how rapidly the people have recovered from the effects of the late scarcity." The Commissioner of Allahabad says:—"Taking the division as a whole, I think that its rapid recovery after the famine has been most remarkable, though I remember that the years succeeding the famine of 1877-78 showed an equally rapid recovery." The districts which he considers have recovered least completely from the effects of the famine are Jalaun and Jhánsi. The Collectors of Bánda and Jhánsi note one unfortunate result of the famine, viz., that a great deal of rabi land has been sown with kharíf. This is due to the necessity that existed for the speedy growing of food grains, to the difficulty of getting gram and wheat for sowing, and to much land being available for kharíf sowing which ordinarily would be too wet to sow.

In the Benares division, though the famine has passed away, the Commissioner is of opinion that the next failure of the harvests will be followed by the same extremity of distress. "The congestion" he writes "of the population continues; there is no appearance of improved conditions of life or of a higher standard of comfort among the labouring and the poorer agricultural classes, nor was this to be expected in a year after famine. The very success with which the famine was combated, and the very small loss of life which is attributable to it only serves to increase the pressure upon the soil and render existence more precarious, and the poorer classes less able to withstand the vicissitudes of the seasons and tide over a bad harvest." The Commissioner of Gorakhpur says:—"The effects of the late famine have almost wholly disappeared and the present population is peaceful and prosperous."

In Oudh the Commissioner of Lucknow writes "Wonderful however as the recovery from famine has been, the best native opinion holds that three more good harvests are needed to enable ordinary households to refit themselves with clothing, ornaments and necessary utensils. The poorest classes who at the best of times command little or no luxuries are now in statu quo; but the ordinary tenant is only on the way to recovery and the smaller landowner carries reminiscences of famine in the shape of a load of debt——light indeed compared with what it might have been, but heavy enough to need kindly seasons and in some cases the continued forbearance of Government."

The second great feature of the year is the remarkable fall of prices towards its close, which fall has since continued. At the beginning of the year prices were still at a very high level, wheat being 9 seers 9 chittacks for the rupee. With the return of prosperous seasons prices not only fell, but fell to a remarkable extent. At the close of the year wheat was selling at 16 seers and 9 chittacks and other grains were proportionately cheap. For this great fall various reasons have been alleged but there is no doubt that the chief causes are the abundant harvests and the small demand for export to foreign markets. The question has naturally arisen whether the fall of prices is not in part due to contraction of the currency consequent on the closing of the mints. On this point there is little or no evidence to show that there has been any such contraction of the currency as could affect prices. The Commissioner of Lucknow, it is true, notes the increase in the number of hoarded rupees, now in circulation. He says:—"The extraordinary phenomenon of a rapid fall of prices within a year of the conclusion of a famine of extreme severity is not commented on by any of the district officers. It is the more remarkable, as the tenantry are loth to put their grain stocks on to the market. Fine harvests throughout the country are of course the chief cause; the lowered export of wheat, due to good harvests in other parts of the world and to the higher exchange value of the rupee is a secondary cause. Possibly the contraction of currency is beginning to affect prices. It is difficult to procure evidence on this subject, but when inspecting treasuries it is almost invariably noted that the number of rupees which from their appearance have been previously buried in the ground is much larger than was formerly the case. Whether this is due to stringency caused by currency legislation or to natives beginning to realize that it is more profitable to circulate money than to hoard it, I cannot say. Probably both causes combine to the result." This is however little evidence of a contraction of the currency as the appearance of buried rupees is more probably the result of the pressure of scarcity which forced people to draw upon their hoards. It is true that there was a contraction of credit during the early part of the year which caused a dearness of money and it was thought in the bazárs that this was due to the mints being closed. The stringency, however, passed away while the mints remained closed so that fallacy has been disposed of.

The effects of the abundant harvests upon prices has been accentuated by the action of grain dealers who acquired and held large stocks in anticipation of the continuance of high prices. With a falling market and excellent prospects for the kharif of 1898 the speculators had to unload at a loss and so hastened the fall. The low range of prices has caused some difficulty in the collection of the revenue. Tenants would not, until compelled, part with their stocks at such prices and zamíndárs found it hard to recover their rents and to pay their revenue. The low price of sugar also affected the cane growing districts. The labouring classes on the other hand have profited largely, and are even in some places in more favourable circumstances than many of the small cultivators who are hampered by debts incurred in the famine. The Commissioner of Lucknow says:—"The first half of the year was an ideal one for landlords and tenants; crops were good and prices high. The latter half has been an easy one for the labourer, complaints are rife of the difficulty of getting work done: 'men work for two days and idle the third' a zamíndár recently complained to me."

The Commissioners of the Rohilkhand, Benares and Gorakhpur divisions notice the increasing imports of foreign sugar. In the Meerut and Agra divisions a crusade was started chiefly by Hindus against the use of foreign sugar on the ground that bones were used in the process of refining. This crusade may have been connected with a commercial jealousy of the competition of the cheaper imported or factory made sugar. The Board understand that the question whether the imports of foreign sugar have had any effect on the area sown with sugarcane has been engaging the attention of the Director of Land Records and Agriculture and that he will submit a report on the subject to Government. In his report on the kharíf season for 1898 he says :—"the area placed under sugarcane, which in 1896 and 1897 had declined apparently in consequence of dry seasons shows a rise of 82,279 acres in 1898."

The opening up of the Benares and Gorakhpur divisions by railways, deserves notice. The Rae Bareli-Benares Railway was opened during the year. The Mogul Sarai-Gya extension of the East Indian Railway will open up a portion of the Benares district. The Bengal and North-Western Railway have under construction quite a network of railways to serve Ballia, Gházipur, Jaunpur and Benares. When these are completed Benares will be a great railway centre. In the Gorakhpur division the extension of the Bengal and North-Western Railway through Azamgarh has given an impetus to industries and manufacture. The alignment of the Hardwár-Dehra Railway was finally settled during the year. Work has also been started on the cross-line from Ghaziabad on the East Indian Railway through Garhmuktesar to Moradabad on the Oudh and Rohilkhand Railway.

There are few projects for extension of irrigation. The chief is that for a canal from the Ken river in Bánda. Mr. C. E. Dupuis has surveyed the country and submitted a report which is at present under consideration. The Fatehpur branch of the Lower Ganges Canal is being constructed and affords employment to a large number of labourers. The Commissioner of Kumaun recommends for consideration the question of a canal from the Rámganga for Jaspur and some other minor projects. The late famine has caused an increased appreciation of the necessity for irrigation with the result that an unusually large number of wells have been sunk. In Rae Bareli alone 500 have been built. The Deputy Commissioner of Lucknow reports that the raising of kachcha roads by famine labour has not been attended with useful results. In many cases natural drainage lines have been interfered with, and the surfaces have been spoilt by the deposit of loose earth which has made cart traffic difficult. He says "considerable expenditure must be incurred for several years to come in constructing metal dips or culverts on these roads and unless the District Boards allotment for communications is made on a liberal scale for some years to come, the state of the roads will go from bad to worse." The Commissioner, however, does not altogether agree and says he believes it is the intention of Government to provide culverts for the additional waterway necessitated by the raising of the earthwork : and when these are completed the raised roads should prove a great advantage. The necessity for providing additional waterway is evident and the Board hope that funds will be available for the necessary work. The Commissioner of Allahabad says of the famine roads in his division that as soon as they are bridged they will make a vast improvement in communications. As Colonel Grigg will now be making over charge of the Kumaun division on retirement, he makes a last appeal for the construction of the Tanakpur-Champáwat road. The road is said to be in a bad state of repair, and in some places is so narrow that two laden camels could not pass one another. It is along this road the entire trade between Thibet and the plains is carried.

The Commissioner of Lucknow notes signs of a revival of trade especially in cattle and cloth. The reports from Cawnpore and Aligarh in which district the important town of Háthras is situated are silent on the subject.

The indigo industry suffered severely during the year from the low prices. The chemical dye which has been the nightmare of indigo planters for years appears to have at last attained success. It can now be produced at a price which enables it to compete favourably with the product of the plant even in the best years. The result is that many factories have had to close down and much capital embarked in the industry has been lost.

A new industry, that of haymaking has been started in the Jhánsi district. Large tracts of grass land are preserved and it is reported that one contractor alone sent away over 1,00,000 maunds of baled hay to the front. The hay was baled by the aid of a cotton press at a time when cotton pressing was not in progress.

Chapter V.—SETTLEMENT.

REVISION OF SETTLEMENT IN TEMPORARILY SETTLED DISTRICTS.

105. This chapter deals briefly with the progress made in the revision of the land revenue demand and in the correction of the land records as part of the operations in districts which have come under regular settlement. The final settlement reports of the districts of Garhwál, Lucknow, Unao and Partábgarh have been submitted to Government with the Board's reviews. In Bijnor, Budaun, Rae Bareli, Sitapur, Fyzabad, Sultánpur and Bara Banki, settlement operations have practically come to an end, and the final settlement reports are awaited. In Hardoi, where settlement work has also been completed, it was found necessary to enquire into the condition of certain villages, the cultivated area of which had diminished since the recent revision of settlement. The enquiry, which is for the sake of convenience referred to here, though not made in the course of regular settlement, extended to 601 villages and resulted in the submission of proposals for a reduction of revenue in 444 villages which are now under the consideration of Government. The reductions proposed amount on the average to Rs. 70,346 a year for five years, with effect from 1897-98.

106. Meerut.—Attestation work was finished in tahsíls Gháziabad and Bághpat, and Sardhana and Mowána were taken in hand during the year and completed. The records of one tahsíl only, Meerut, remain to be verified. The fairing work of the six parganas first assessed, has been brought to a close, and that of the next batch is progressing rapidly. The rent rate reports of parganas Sarawa, Baraut, Kotana, Chhaprauli and Hapur were received and sanctioned during the year, and of parganas Sardhana and Dasna shortly after its close. The total area inspected during the year was 648 square miles. The Settlement Officer inspected parganas Hapur and Dasna, and the Assistant Settlement Officer, parganas Jalálabad and Sardhana. The assessment of these parganas was not finished by the close of the year. Sanction was received to the revised assessments of parganas Puth, Garhmuktesar and Sarawa of tahsíl Hapur, and parganas Baraut, Chhaprauli and Kotana of tahsíl Bághpat, towards the close of the year. The revised revenue of these six parganas has been declared and will yield an increase of Rs. 1,69,428 or 36·77 per cent. on the expiring demand. The expenditure during the year amounted to Rs. 69,657, and the total cost from the time operations started to Rs. 1,12,482 or Rs. 49-2-3 per square mile.

107. Bareilly.—The district was brought under settlement and the Collector placed in charge of operations by Notification No. $\frac{2608}{I-561B}$, dated 27th September 1897. A Settlement Deputy Collector was posted to the district on the 1st January 1898. The work during the year was confined to the verification of records and to the preparation of settlement statistics. Mr. Fremantle was selected for the office of Settlement Officer, and joined the district in December 1898 on the completion of his special work in the trans-Jumna parganas of the Allahabad district. During the year the records of 403 square miles were attested, the tahsíls taken in hand being Faridpur and Bareilly. Attestation work was completed in tahsíl Faridpur, the first tahsíl to come under settlement, and in about half of tahsíl Bareilly. Mr. Fremantle has obtained the services of another Deputy Collector in order that the work of attestation in tahsíls Mírganj and Aonla may be completed before he inspects those tahsíls in the cold weather of 1899-1900. The total expenditure during the year was Rs. 9,995 or Rs. 24-12-10 per square mile.

108. Sháhjahánpur.—The Settlement Officer inspected an area of 596 square miles during the year, thus completing the inspection of tahsíls Sháhjahánpur and Jalálabad. The rent rate reports of both tahsíls were received and sanctioned during the year. The assessment of 566 square miles, or the greater portion of these two tahsíls, was also completed; the remaining portion has since been assessed. The verification of records by the Settlement Department was started in February 1898. The records of 280 maháls in tahsíl Sháhjahánpur and the records of tahsíl Tilhar, with the exception of those of 30 mahâls, have been attested. This work has been delayed in tahsîls Shâhjahânpur and Jalâlabad, as the survey maps and khasras, which had been prepared sometime before the verification of records by the Settlement Department was decided on, had to be revised and brought up to date. The expenditure during the year amounted to Rs. 39,667, making a total of Rs. 55,986 or Rs. 32-4-11 per square mile, from the commencement of operations.

109. Lalitpur.—The remaining tahsîl, Mahroni, of the Lalitpur sub-division, was inspected during the year. Of its three parganas, the Settlement Officer inspected one—Maraura, and the Assistant Settlement Officer two—Mahroni and Banpur. The total area inspected was 819 square miles. Besides parganas Talbehat and Lalitpur, of the Lalitpur tahsîl, the assessment of which was completed in the beginning of the year, the three parganas of tahsîl Mahroni (except a few villages in pargana Banpur which were assessed in October 1898) were assessed during the year, completing the assessment of the sub-division. The assessment reports of parganas Bansi, Balabehat, Talbehat and Lalitpur were received during the year. The revised assessments of the first three parganas were also sanctioned. For Lalitpur they were sanctioned after the close of the year. The assessment reports of parganas Mahroni and Maraura have since been received and sanctioned. The revised assessments of parganas Bansi and Balabehat were declared during the year, the increase amounting to Rs. 2,282 only, or 8·92 per cent. in excess of the former demand. The records of parganas Bansi, Balabehat, Talbehat and Lalitpur have been faired, and this work is in progress in pargana Banpur. The expenditure during the year was Rs. 41,073, the total cost up to date being Rs. 75,399 or Rs. 41-9-9 per square mile.

110. Gursarai and Kakarbai Estates.—The fairing of the records of these two estates was completed during the year. Kakarbai continues to be held as an ubâri and is not liable to assessment.

The Gursarai estate was assessed by the Settlement Officer during the year, after the rent rate reports had been sanctioned by the Board. The assessment report was submitted in September 1898, and orders have since the close of the year been passed on it; though, owing to the existing settlement having been annulled under section 158 of Act XIX of 1873, the revision of assessment remains in abeyance. The work done, however, will be of great value when the estate is again settled. As the Collector remarks :—" The District authorities have now a trained staff of patwâris on the estate with good maps and records, and the position of the under-proprietors has been put on a clearer basis. " The total cost of the operations amounted to Rs. 7,633 or Rs. 49-3-11 per square mile. This is, as explained last year, exclusive of Mr. Fremantle's pay.

111. Kheri.—The Settlement Officer inspected and assessed parganas Aurangabad, Pasgawan and Kasta, comprising an area of 325 square miles. The programme for the year has been worked up to, and the Board are confident that with the help of an Assistant Settlement Officer, who has been appointed since the close of the year, Mr. Butler will find no difficulty in carrying out the programme laid down for 1898-99 and 1899-1900. The revision of the proprietary and under-proprietary registers, which has been sanctioned by Government, is well advanced. Out of a total of 1,669 khewats 1,221 have been revised, and of these 1,129 have been verified. The expenditure up to the end of the year was Rs. 22,388 or Rs. 18-15-10 per square mile.

112. Bahraich.—Pargana Bahraich (327 square miles) had been inspected and noted on at length by the late Mr. Norrie. It was, with the exception of a few villages which had been inspected in September 1897, re-inspected during the year by his successor, Mr. Harrison. In addition to Bahraich the Settlement Officer inspected pargana Ikauna (254 square miles) and the temporarily settled villages of pargana Fakhrpur (156 square miles). The assessment of these parganas was also completed during the year. The assessment reports of parganas Bahraich and Ikauna were submitted, and the orders of Government regarding them received during the year. The revised assessments of parganas Hisampur and Bahraich were declared, the former in time for collection from the first kharîf instalment of 1897-98, and the latter in time for the rabi instalment of the same year. The result of the revision of assessment in these two parganas is an increase of Rs. 1,46,079 on the expiring demand or 56·77 per cent. The total expenditure up to the end of the year, including Rs. 31,182 incurred during the year, amounted to Rs. 59,890 or Rs. 25-10-9 per square mile.

113. The revision of settlement of the Dudhi Government estate was carried out during the year. The Settlement report and the Commissioner's review, which have recently been received, will shortly be submitted for the orders of Government.

114. The usual abstract statements are appended.

The figures against Bareilly are for two parganas, against Bijnor for 11 parganas, and against Kheri for 10 parganas.
The area remaining in Bijnor will not be assessed till 1901 A.D. It includes 97,804 acres of pargana Najíbabad.

PART II.

PATWARIS AND KANUNGOS.

115. A detailed account of the working of the Land Records and Agriculture Department is given in the appended report of the Director, and the remarks which follow will be confined to the more important matters with which it deals.

116. Survey and record writing operations were continued in Bareilly, Kheri and Naini Tal, and commenced in Gonda. They were completed in Sháhjahánpur, Bahraich and four parganas of Bijnor. The records of the district of Meerut and of the Lalitpur sub-division of Jhánsi, which were in progress in October 1897, were also completed, and a small portion of the Nepál and Bahraich boundary redemarcated by officials deputed for this duty, was surveyed. The total area of the districts and tracts for which survey and record writing have been completed is 8,971 square miles. Of these 1,085 square miles were surveyed during the year under report. In the districts not yet completed an area of 2,355 square miles was surveyed, and records of an area of 2,080 square miles were written. The average cost per square mile, including supervision and other charges, was Rs. 59-4-0, or Rs. 5-14-7 more than last year. The increase is small and requires no comment. The results of the experiment noticed last year of allowing patwáris to prepare their records at their houses were unsatisfactory. Twenty junior civilians were instructed in the method of surveying villages cadastrally and were subsequently attached for two months to survey parties. Mr. Scott and his subordinates deserve credit for the good work done by them during the year.

Establishment.

117. The alterations in the ordinary establishment under the Director's control have been slight, and call for no special notice. The number of officiating appointments to Naib Tahsíldárships given to kanúngos was 29 against 35 in the preceding year, while only two were permanently appointed to that post. The decrease was due to the fact that in 1896-97 a large number of permanent Naib Tahsíldárs had to be deputed on famine work. The question of giving due effect to the rule which secures to the passed students of the Cawnpore Agricultural School preference in appointment as kanúngos engaged the attention of the Board. It was found that cases had occurred in which the claims of passed students had been disregarded without sufficient justification. The attention of all district officers was called to the orders on the subject, and it was laid down that no departure from the rule was to be allowed except with the previous sanction of the Director.

Revision of patwáris' circle.

118. The rules referred to in the concluding portion of paragraph 133 of the Board's Report for 1895-96, regarding the reorganization of patwáris' circles and salaries in certain districts in Oudh, where the system of personal allowances was authorized by the Board on the Director's recommendation, have since been prepared and approved by the Board. The matter will be referred to Government for orders on receipt of a further report on the subject from the Director. In Kheri, Bahraich and Gonda the revision of patwáris' circles will be taken up on the completion of survey operations. The final scale of pay sanctioned several years ago for patwáris in the Agra, Muttra and Etah districts has been introduced during the year under review. Undeserved hardship has been avoided by the grant of personal allowances to such patwáris as would have otherwise suffered from a reduction in pay in consequence of this revision of salaries. The scale of patwáris' pay in Garhwál was also revised during the year, and patwáris' circles in the Gursarai estate in Jhánsi, as well as in the eleven recently assessed parganas of Bijnor, were reorganized. Proposals for the final rearrangement of patwáris' circles and salaries in Basti have been sanctioned by Government since the close of the year.

Education of patwáris and Kanúngos.

119. The percentage of patwáris and assistants (excluding those in Sháhjahánpur, Almora and Garhwál), who have passed through the School course has risen from 83·99 to 84·92, while the percentage of men who have still to qualify has fallen from 5 to 4. The largest number of untrained patwáris is still found in Allahabad (198) and Basti (145), though there is an improvement as compared with last year.

In Jhánsi the number of unpassed patwáris increased by 11. The number of patwáris exempted from examination fell from 3,631 to 3,093 during the year. In Allahabad, Basti and Meerut the number of exemptions has greatly increased, and the Collectors will be asked to state the reasons for the large increases in those districts. The Director's report appended will show that steady progress has been made during the last five years in reducing the number of exemptions. The standard of education among patwáris was raised during the year by the introduction of the system of simultaneous examinations under the new rules issued last year. The first examination was held in April 1898, and the results as reported by Mr. Meston, who conducted the examination as Director, are contained in the concluding portion of paragraph 5 of the Director's report. The educational qualifications of patwáris vary very much from one part of the provinces to another. This will probably account for the indifferent results obtained on that occasion.

Out of 263 persons who appeared at the examination of kanúngos, 77 passed in all the subjects, and 184 in parts. There were only two complete failures.

Residence of patwáris.

120. The subject of the residence of patwáris within their circles continued to receive attention, and further progress has been made during the year, the percentage of resident patwáris having risen from 72 to 73. The variations in districts, where the greatest changes have taken place, have been fully explained by the Director. The improved results in Jaunpur, Gházipur and Basti are specially creditable to the Collectors. The increase in the number of absentees in Bijnor, Kheri and Meerut, where it is said to have been due to the deputation of patwáris to the settlement or Survey Department, was nominal as in such cases the patwári does not usually change his place of residence. The experiment of granting advances to non-resident patwáris in the Basti district for house building purposes, appears to have been attended with success.

Filing and testing of patwáris' papers.

121. Excluding the districts which were wholly or partially under settlement or survey, 92 per cent. of area and crop statements and 85 per cent. of jamabandis were filed in time during the year, and nearly 8 per cent. of the former and 14 per cent of the latter were submitted within one month after the prescribed date. The punctuality with which the village papers were filed was most marked in Basti, Fatehpur, Mirzapur, Muzaffarnagar and Jalaun. The result may be considered satisfactory, while in Basti, where all the papers have been filed in time in each of the past three years, it is specially creditable to the administration. The percentage of fields tested by kanúngos has risen from 7·21 to 7·77. The prescribed minimum of 7 per cent. was more than reached in the aggregate, and it was much in excess in Aligarh and Naini Tal, where over 10 per cent of the fields were tested. The districts where the testing was below 7 per cent are Bareilly, Jhánsi, Bahraich and Kheri, where survey and settlement work interfered; Basti, Farukhabad and Mainpuri for which no explanation has been offered; Bánda, where the incompetency of a kanúngo caused the falling off; and Hardoi, where the kanúngos were engaged in other important duties. The work of testing done by superior officers is noticed at length in the Director's report, and the results have on the whole been satisfactory, but it is very desirable that more attention should be paid in future to the checking of rent-rolls. These officers found a higher percentage of error than kanúngos in Aligarh, Mirzapur, Naini Tal, Mainpuri, Gorakhpur, Unao and Pilibhít, while judging by the different results of first testing by kanúngos and superior officers, the kanúngos were found somewhat negligent in Etah, Pilibhít, Hamírpur, Allahabad, Jhánsi, Gorakhpur, Basti and Azamgarh. Some cases of concealment of rent came to light in 11 districts during the year, the number being great only in the case of the Allahabad district, where one tahsíl official has been dismissed, another has been directed to retire, and several zamíndárs and patwáris are being prosecuted. In each of the districts of Bánda, Hamírpur, Azamgarh, Farukhabad, Saháranpur and Unao one case of concealment of rent was detected. The matter is receiving attention also in Basti, Gorakhpur and Aligarh. The Board agree with the Director in thinking that "hasty public action will make discovery impossible, where intelligent private enquiries will bring the facts to light."

Map corrections in Oudh.

122. Good progress has been made in the work of map correction in Bara Banki, Partábgarh, Unao and Fyzabad, while in Rae Bareli, where no more than 80 maps could be corrected, orders have been issued to finish the work within the current year. The work of map correction has been taken up also in Sitapur and Hardoi: but in the latter district progress was retarded owing to the patwáris being occupied in clearing off their arrears of past years. In Gonda, Kheri and Bahraich new maps are under preparation by the Survey Department.

Tahsíl registers.

123. The progress made during the year as regards the use and maintenance of pargana books is summarized in paragraph 14 of the Director's report. Village register and pargana books in the revised form have been completed in no less than 16 districts, where the settlement has recently been revised. Pargana hand-books have also been printed in eleven of these districts. They are being drawn up in Partábgarh, Basti and Gorakhpur by the special staff, who will soon take up the preparation of hand-books in Jhánsi, and of the revised registers and pargana books for the Gursárai estate in that district. Instructions were issued by the Board for the simplification of the form of the hand-books which had grown so elaborate as to defeat the object for which they were intended.

Survey and boundary marks.

124. Lists of boundary and survey marks have been prepared in all districts except a few of those under settlement or survey, and much progress has been made in repairing or re-erecting those marks where necessary. The necessity for replacing clay cylinders by stone pillars for traverse stations is, in the Board's opinion, not established.

Amendment of rules.

125. All the important changes in the rules made during the year have been noticed in paragraph 20 of the Director's report. The draft rules for the guidance of patwáris and kanúngos in the Bhábar and hill tracts of the Kumaun division drawn up by the Director have been forwarded to the Commissioner of that division for opinion, and the matter will be referred in due course to Government for orders.

Patwáris' funds.

126. The questions regarding the patwári fund accounts form the subject of a separate correspondence with Government whom the Board have recently addressed, recommending the steps which should be taken to maintain both the North-Western Provinces and Oudh funds in a solvent condition.

Director's note on agricultural depression.

127. A note by the Director on agricultural depression is appended to his report. The year has been particularly favourable in the tracts with which the note deals, and there is little calling for special notice. The proposal to bring the streams in the Bareilly district under the Canal Department has, after full enquiry, been found impracticable, and a report has accordingly been submitted to Government.

128. The spread of káns in the Jhánsi district is at present the subject of special investigation, and reductions in the revenue demand will be submitted for approval in due course in regard to those villages where relief of this nature is found to be needed.

129. Mr. Moule, who was a member of the Board during the whole of the year under report, desired to place on record his cordial appreciation of the services of the Secretaries Messrs. Baillie and Holms, but wished more especially to acknowledge the valuable assistance which Mr. Holms' care and industry and his familiarity with the complicated affairs of the most embarrassed estates enabled him at all times to render to the member in charge of the Court of Wards, and the Board as at present constituted gladly endorse his remarks.

I have the honour to be,

SIR,

Your most obedient servant.

F. W. BROWNRIGG,

Secretary.

DIRECTOR'S REPORT.

Part I.—LAND RECORDS ADMINISTRATION.

Strength of Establishment.—The following figures show the establishment under the control of this department during the year under report and the year preceding it :—

14	Inspectors' peons ...	...	4	...	2	...	6

The changes in the staff during the year under report are few. A supervisor kanúngo, together with a chainman, was sanctioned for the Moth tahsíl in the Jhánsi district. Four teachers were removed from the patwári school establishment consequent on the closure of schools no longer required in Ballia and Lalitpur; and a peon came under reduction in the Unao patwári school. The increase in the number of patwáris and assistants is due chiefly to 82 assistant patwáris having been sanctioned temporarily to relieve the over-worked patwáris in the Kheri district.

2. Prospects of the kanúngo staff.—During the past year 29 kanúngos received promotions to naib-tahsíldárships, but only two were permanently appointed to that post; two more were provided with miscellaneous superior appointments. Seven kanúngos were nominated for naib-tahsíldárships on account of meritorious services in famine relief work. The number of permanent promotions is disappointingly small: amidst the rush of capable and well educated candidates for the post of naib-tahsíldár it is not unnatural that the claims of the kanúngo staff should often be overlooked. But the only immediate way to improve the efficiency and integrity of our land record supervising staff is a reasonable prospect of promotion to the superior revenue appointments; and the executive capacity and experience of a good kanúngo are not always recognised at their true value.

3. During the year an attempt was made, in furtherance of the wishes of the Government of India, to employ some members of the land records staff on special agricultural enquiries. A number of kanúngos who had passed through the agricultural school were, with the permission of their district officers, called on for information in connection with an enquiry which is being conducted by the Assistant Director into the methods of cultivating the sugarcane. The reports were of some value, and as the number of kanúngos trained in the school increases, it may be possible to utilize their acquirements so as to add materially to our knowledge of indigenous agriculture.

4. Revision of patwaris' circles and salaries.—The draft rules for the reorganization of patwáris' circles and the gradation of patwáris in Oudh, which were submitted last year, received the approval of the Board of Revenue; and as soon as the estimates called for from Commissioners as to the required number of circles have been received from all districts, the grades of pay will be finally fixed, and Government moved to sanction such increased expenditure as is needed to improve the position of the patwáris, and as is warranted by the increased income from the patwári rate due to the re-assessment of the land revenue. The revision of patwáris' circles in Kheri, Bahraich and Gonda has been deferred till the survey operations are over. In the meantime the cost of the patwári establishment in Kheri has, as a temporary measure, been increased from Rs. 3,942 to Rs. 4,582 per mensem to relieve a number of over-worked and under-paid patwáris.

In the North-Western Provinces the final scale of revised pay and circles has at last been completely introduced in Muttra, Agra and Etah, resulting in a saving of Rs. 249 per mensem and Rs. 328 per mensem, respectively, in the first two districts. Undeserved hardship to patwáris whose pay has been permanently reduced by the introduction of the revised scale is avoided by the grant of personal allowances to the extent of Rs. 108 per mensem in Agra, Rs. 53 in Muttra and Rs. 93 in Etah.

The scale of pay has been revised in Garhwál, and patwáris' circles have been reorganized in the Gursarai estate of Jhánsi, as well as in the eleven recently assessed parganas of Bijnor; while a proposal to ameliorate the position of the Basti patwáris by substituting, for the present intermediate scale, the final scale fixed in 1890, has been submitted to the Board of Revenue.

By G.O. No. $\frac{2239}{I-932B}$, dated 9th August 1898, the Director has been given larger powers in dealing with the gradual introduction of revised schemes of allocation.

5. Patwári schools.—The number of schools continues to fluctuate according to local requirements. The Fatehpur, Bánda, Allahabad, Unao and Partábgarh schools which had been closed last year on account of the famine, have now been re-opened; likewise the Meerut school, survey operations having now closed in that district. On the other hand, the scarcity of unpassed patwáris and the abundance of passed candidates have led to the closing of the schools in Ballia, Muzaffarnagar and Lalitpur, any stray pupils being now sent to Gházipur, Saháranpur and Jhánsi, respectively. The question of the establishment of one or more schools for the hill tract of the Kumaun division is before the Board of Revenue. Under G. O. No. $\frac{2239}{I-932B}$, dated 9th August 1898, the Director has been authorized to sanction the closing of patwári schools where necessary.

The total number of patwáris and assistants in the United Provinces (exclusive of Sháhjahánpur, Garhwál and Almora) was 28,805, of whom 24,460 or 84·92 per cent. have now passed through the school course. The number of patwáris exempted from examination fell from 3,326 to 3,093, and the number of those who had still to pass from 1,288 to 1,252. The annexed statement shows for each district the number of patwáris passed, exempted and neither passed nor exempted.

Last year the Board noticed that orders relating to exemptions had not yet had their maximum effect in certain districts, and remarked that exemptions should steadily fall towards zero as the exempted men die off or are replaced. It is desirable therefore to review briefly the progress made since the establishment of the school in 1883. In 1885 orders were issued that patwáris over the age of 50 should be

Muzaffarnagar ...	26·24	24·06	22·06	21·22	20·28
Aligarh	24·32	19·68	18·39	15·16	14·37
Etah	28·87	25·61	20·59	19·02	14·56
Cawnpore	41·79	17·86	17·50	17·13	16·16
Hamírpur	18·92	12·45	11·37	9·39	8·48
Jaunpur	29·46	23·51	19·40	18·27	16·71
Azamgarh	23·39	19·29	18·08	15·56	12·77
Pilibhít	15·92	14·29	9·43	8·08	7·81
Bareilly	26·72	22·61	22·61	16·45	15·27
Mainpuri	22·35	11·98	12·77	10·98	11·18
Benares	36·66	5·05	14·76	12·86	12·38

It will be seen that the progress made is steady, and about as fast as can be expected. The exceptional rise in the case of Mainpuri this year is due to the exemption of a competent assistant patwári who was fifty years of age.

During the year under report the number of exempted patwáris remained stationary in 12 districts, fell in 27, and rose in the following four—1896-97.	1897-98.

Allahabad	141	196
Basti	44	89
Meerut	65	131
Mainpuri	55	56

No explanations are forthcoming in the reports received from the first three districts, and the Collectors will be asked to state the reasons for these large increases. The increase in Mainpuri has just been explained. In Oudh the number of exemptions, though still high, has fallen from 132 to 63 in Unao, 196 to 190 in Rae Bareli, 205 to 127 in Hardoi, 190 to 175 in Fyzabad and 137 to 131 in Sultánpur.

The reduction effected in the number of exemptions has in some cases resulted in a corresponding increase in the number of unpassed patwáris. Partly from this cause and partly because unpassed men have been kept on from previous years, or because vacancies have been filled up by patwáris' heirs on condition of passing the examination, the number of unpassed men is high in the following districts:—

	Number unpassed.
	1896-97.	1897-98.
Fatehpur	26	42
Allahabad	277	198
Jhánsi	98	109
Gorakhpur	75	76
Basti	243	145
Lucknow	36	48
Hardoi	14	81

In Jhánsi most of the unpassed men belong to the Lalitpur sub-division and the Gursarai estate.

Of the 45 districts from which returns have been received, the percentage of qualified patwáris exceeds 90 in 15, and falls below 70 in two only.

Six hundred and forty patwáris and assistants attended the school during the year, of whom 155 or 24·22 per cent. passed as against 43·10 per cent. in the previous year. In addition to patwáris and assistants, 2,601 candidates were instructed in the school, of whom 662 passed the examination. The following table shows by divisions the number of pupils who attended the schools, the number passed and the financial results :—

The most important step taken during the year in raising the standard of education among patwáris was the introduction of the system of simultaneous examinations referred to in last year's report. The first examination under the new rules was held in 26 districts in April 1898, printed papers in patwári rules and duties bieng set by the Director, and in arithmetic and mensuration by the Superintendent of Land Record Surveys. Mr. Meston, who conducted the examination as Director, speaks of the results as follows:—"The results which are tabulated below can hardly be called satisfactory:—

	Number examined.	Number passed.
(1) Rules and duties of patwáris	929	257
(2) Arithmetic	960	170
(3) Mensuration	945	392

"As the papers were probably a shade too stiff, they will be made a little easier in future. But they were well within the scope of an intelligent patwári's knowledge, and there are now good reasons to believe that the standard of efficiency in past years has been, by the mistaken leniency of local examining committees, allowed in many districts to drop unduly. The new system of examination ought to prevent this from occurring in future."

6. Annual examination of kanúngos.—The annual divisional examinations of kanúngos were, as usual, conducted by the Director and Assistant Director during the rainy season. Out of 263 candidates who appeared for examination, 218 were not in Government service, and there were three kanúngos, one patwári teacher and 41 patwáris. Seventy-seven passed in all subjects, 184 passed in part, and two failed entirely. No improvement is noticeable in the result of examinations throughout the Provinces, the Fyzabad division again sending up a particularly weak set of candidates. Of the 77 successful candidates, 13 have not yet received practical training in surveying, and will be required to join a survey party; but on the other hand 170 candidates, who were sent by District Officer specially for survey training, have qualified and received certificates from survey officers.

Fifty-three candidates for amínships were examined, of whom 9 passed in all subjects, and 44 in part.

7. Residence of patwáris.—The following table gives details as to the residence or non-residence of patwáris for each district of the United Provinces:—

The subject of the residence of patwáris has received continued attention during the last few years. The percentage of residents has risen from 69·98 in 1894-95 to 73·03 in 1897-98. The percentage of those exempted from residence has, as compared with last year, fallen from 15·93 to 14·67; while that of absentees without permission has, chiefly owing to new appointments, slightly risen from 11·42 to 12·30. The large number of exemptions from residence in several districts attracted attention last year, and enquiries were made from 24 districts where the percentage was high. From the replies received it appears that exemptions have for the most part been given to patwáris whose home was within easy reach of their circle, the distance that came within this description varying from one to six miles. The question of securing some degree of uniformity in the principles on which this privilege is granted will be reported separately to the Board, and it is unnecessary at present to enter into the historical reasons for the existing practice. During the past year, all exemptions have been withdrawn in Basti, while the number has been reduced in Gházipur from 171 to 137, and in Jaunpur from 130 to 115. A slight improvement is also noticeable in 21 other districts.

The number of exemptions has, on the other hand increased in the 8 districts noted on the margin, chiefly on the ground that the patwáris live close to their circles. The excess in Unao is due to fresh exemptions having been permitted in view of probable changes in the constitution of the circles in the coming revision. Temporary exemptions are not open to objection in such cases; but it will be necessary to see that the privilege is withdrawn when the reallocation has been introduced.

In the following districts, on the other hand, the number of absentees has increased:—

The increase in Bijnor, Kheri and Meerut is said to be due to the deputation of patwáris to the Settlement or Survey Department. If this means that the patwáris are shown as absentees merely because they have been called in to headquarters, the figures are probably incorrect, as the patwári does not usually move his residence in such circumstances. In Dehra Dún, 19 patwáris were, on special enquiry, found actually non-residents. The enforcement of rules has been suspended in Bara Banki till the question of revision of circles is decided. The increase in other districts is mainly due to temporary causes, such as the grant of grace to newly appointed patwáris.

A sum of Rs. 2,000 was, as an experimental measure, sanctioned for the purpose of granting advances to the absentee patwáris of Basti to assist them in building houses within their circles.

Fifty patwáris accordingly received advances aggregating Rs. 1,496. Of these 41 have now become resident: of the remainder 6 have for various reasons been accorded an extension of time, and three who made no attempt to build, have been dismissed. In the 6 outstanding cases the Collector hopes that the men will become resident; and he considers that the experiment has been attended with success.

8. Filing of patwáris' papers.—Appendix I shows in district detail the dates on which the patwáris filed the more important papers. The districts of Meerut and Sháhjahánpur and certain parganas of districts Bareilly, Bijnor Jhánsi, Kheri, Gonda, Bahraich and Sultánpur have been excluded from the statement as the patwáris were employed on settlement or survey work. Out of 2,618 papers which remained unfiled at the close of the year under report, 1,349 were delayed by settlement or survey operations. The delay in the filing of 1,168 jamábandis in Hardoi has been attributed to the fact that patwáris have had during the year to complete and file their papers for the years 1301 fasli to 1304 fasli, which had fallen into arrears owing to famine and settlement work, and have also had to assist in the compilation of statistics relating to deteriorated villages. Destruction of papers by fire and loss by theft account for delay in submitting six area statements and eleven jamábandis in Sitapur and Etáwah. The small balance is due to the default of particular patwáris, who have been properly punished. The districts which exhibited the greatest punctuality were Basti., Fatehpur, Mirzapur, Muzaffarnagar, and Jalaun. The result is very creditable to the administration in Basti, where all the papers have been filed in time in each of the past three years. To the total number of 6,678 crop and area statements and jamábandis which were deposited within one month after due date, Farukhabad contributed 1,476, Budaun 1,366, Bahraich 1,276, Hardoi 826, Gorakhpur 705, and 19 other districts 1,029. If the districts of Farukhabad, Budaun, Bahraich, Hardoi and Sitapur, which were wholly or partially under settlement or survey, be excluded, then 92·07 per cent. of area and crop statements, and 85·11 per cent. of jamábandis were filed in time, and 7·83 per cent of the former and 13·93 per cent. of the latter were submitted within one month after the prescribed date. Thus at the end of the first month the outstanding area and crop statements were only 0·1 per cent. of the whole, and the corresponding figure for jamábandis was 0·96. These results may be considered satisfactory on the whole; but there is no reason why the achievements of the Basti patwáris should not be copied in the majority of districts.

9. Result of testing papers.—The testing done during the year under report is shown in appendix II. This statement, from which the districts of Meerut and Sháhjahánpur, and certain parganas of districts Bareilly, Bijnor, Jhánsi, Kheri, Gonda Bahraich, and Sultánpur under settlement and survey have been excluded, deals with 94,261 villages, comprising 7,46,91,611 fields as against 95,804 villages, containing 7,24,25,006 fields in 1896-97. The decrease in the number of villages is due to the exclusion of the parganas under settlement, Kanúngos tested 58,02,267 fields or 7·77 per cent. against 7·21 per cent. in 1896-97; superior officers tested in all 6,02,419 fields, of which 1,71,773 had been previously tested by kanúngos. The corresponding numbers last year were 570,014 and 146,913 respectively. The increase in the amount done is greater than it looks, for testing done by sadar kanúngos was erroneously included in the returns of 9 districts for 1896-97, but has been entirely excluded from the statements for the year under report. With a view to examining the work of patwáris, kanúngos and superior officers in each district, the most importtant figures relating to khasra testing are reproduced below :—

Patwáris' work.—For the whole province the kanúngos found three errors in 100 fields which superior officers detected, five in papers which had not previously been tested. The work of the patwáris was therefore on the whole satisfactory. The largest proportion of errors was found in the following districts:—

	Percentage of errors found by kanúngos.	Percentage of errors found in untested khasras by superior officers.

Kanúngos' work.—Looking at the amount of work done by kanúngos it appears that kanúngos of Naini Tal, Aligarh, Bulandshahr, Benares, Rae Bareli and Hamírpur tested more than 9 per cent. of the field entries. Twenty-six other districts have also shown some increase as compared with last year. The work fell below the prescribed minimum of 7 per cent. in Bareilly, Jhánsi, Bahraich, and Kheri owing to interference caused by survey and settlement work; in Bánda owing to the incompetency of a kanúngo, who has been reduced; and in Hardoi on account of the kanúngos being engaged in other important duties. No explanation is offered of the short work in Basti, Farukhabad and Mainpuri. More important than the amount of work done is its quality. The result of re-testing by superior officer shows that supervisor kanúngos did not work with sufficient care in the following districts, where the percentage of mistakes in the entries already tested by them is higher than it should be: Aligarh (7·95), Mirzapur (5·89), Naini Tal (5·07), Mainpuri (3·80), Gorakhpur (3·19), Unao (3·15), and Pilibhít (3·08). To judge by the different results of first testing by kanúngos and superior officers, the kanúngos were somewhat negligent in the districts of Etah, Pilibhít, Hamírpur, Allahabad, Jhánsi, Benares, Gorakhpur, Basti, and Azamgarh.

Superior officers' testing.—An increase in the number of entries tested by kanúngos, and re-tested by superior officers, is noticeable in 22 districts: those in which the improvement or falling off is greatest compared with last year, are shown in the margin. Re-testing was insufficient also in Bulandshahr, Saháranpur, Etáwah, Sultánpur, Gházipur, Dehra Dún, Sitapur, Benares, Bareilly, Kheri, Gonda and Bijnor. The percentage in these districts ranged from 0·17 to 1·4 only. Settlement and survey operations interfered with the work in Bareilly, Kheri, Gonda, and Bijnor. The fall in Muzaffarnagar, Aligarh, Jhánsi and Sultánpur is due to the exclusion of testing done by sadar kanúngos. The decrease in Bulandshahr and Sitapur is attributed to pargana officers being engaged mainly in inspecting the alluvial mahálls. In Dehra Dún and Saháranpur operations for the prevention of plague had a disturbing effect on ordinary work; while in Azamgarh, Cawnpore and Muttra the small amount of work is attributed to changes in the staff. In Gházipur, Etáwah and Benares the poor outturn of work has drawn the attention of district officers, and better results are expected in future. It is apparent that the necessity of re-testing the work, already examined by kanúngos was not generally recognized up to last year; but it is hoped that the observations recorded by Government and by the Board on last year's report may result in a great advance during the current season.

The following districts show the largest and smallest total numbers of field entries tested by superior officers during the year under report:—

Over 20,000.		Under 8,500.
Gorakhpur	44,235	(1) Gonda	6,632
Jaunpur	29,792	(2) Benares	5,388

No material improvement is noticeable in the checking of rent-rolls. The total number of entries (khatas) tested rose from 1,35,015 in 1896-97 to 1,49,023 in 1897-98. The only districts in which more than 7,500 entries were checked are Gorakhpur (16,170), Mirzapur (12,111), and Basti (11,878). In Muzaffarnagar 11,819 entries were tested last year, whereas nothing whatever was done in the year under report. The Collector writes that he has issued stringent orders to his subordinate officers to pay special attention to this branch of their duties. No entries were tested in Dehra Dún, Naini Tal and Kheri, while a very small amount of work was again performed in Benares (61 entries), Bareilly (94), Bijnor, (182), Sultánpur (298) and Bahraich (419). A large reduction is further noticeable in the following districts:—

District.	1896-97.	1897-98.
Azamgarh	19,641	7,470
Cawnpore	7,920	4,800
Muttra	7,409	4,260
Saháranpur	5,376	2,981
Aligarh	5,560	2,944
Gházipur	2,969	939
Moradabad	14,009	763

The number of entries tested was for the most part so insignificant that I would draw no inference from the low percentage of error. How insignificant the work is may be instanced by the figures of the Meerut Division, which give an average of not more than 150 entries tested by each superior officer, say, an average of one morning's work during the season.

10. Concealment of rents.—All District Officers have this year reported on this important subject. Cases of serious or fraudulent concealment of rents came to light in eleven districts, and the number was not great in the case of any district except Allahabad. The Commissioner of Rohilkhand remarks that the unremunerative result of concealing rents at attestation, which followed in some districts where the practice was attempted, seems to be generally recognised in his Division; while the Commissioner of Benares notes that there is no object to be gained in concealing the rent of occupancy tenants in a permanently settled division. There was only one case of concealment discovered in Farukhabad, and the Board, to whom the matter was referred, did not think a prosecution desirable. In Bánda and Hamírpur too only one case came to light in each district. In Allahabad cases of concealment were detected in eleven villages of tahsíl Phulpur, while in Chail some zamíndárs were found to have maintained private rentrolls in excess of those kept by the patwári. In this instance the matter came to light in the course of litigation, and it was discovered that patwáris' rentrolls deposited in the tahsíl had been fraudulently tampered with. One tahsíl official has been dismissed, another has been directed to retire, and the zamindárs and patwáris are being prosecuted. The Collector of Basti admits that jamábandis do not show the correct rental realized by zamindárs, and some progress is reported to have been made towards correcting these records during the year under report. The practice of concealing rents also prevails in Gorakhpur, and the Collector has taken up the matter. Each of the Azamgarh, Saháranpur and Unao reports mentions one case of concealment of rent. In Aligarh there are several estates where concealment is suspected, and the Collector remarks as follows: "It is better to verify suspicions as far as possible quietly, and call the Settlement Officer's attention to the matter, as otherwise the offenders are put on their guard and take precautions accordingly. It will be found as a general rule that these estates in which occupancy rights are not allowed to occur, and in which occupancy tenants are harassed in every way, are the ones in which rentals have been concealed. Indigo cultivation also has the effect of concealing the true rent, because the tenants give plant at anything from 0 to Rs. 25 per 100 maunds to the landlords, who sell it to the lessee of his factory at from Rs. 25 to Rs. 35 per 100 maunds. This profit of course does not appear in the patwáris' papers. Further more I suspect that the greater part of the canal owners' rate is taken from the tenants instead of the enhancement that would have been taken, had not this convenient method of mis-stating assets been handy." The Commissioner agrees with the Collector in thinking that inquisitorial investigation under this head should be avoided. It is perhaps more important to emphasise the need for discretion in such enquiries. Hasty public action will make discovery impossible, where intelligent private enquiries will bring the facts to light.

11. Settlement and survey operations interfered with the tours of the sadar kanúngos in Meerut and Sháhjahánpur. The sadar kanúngo of Farukhabad was on tour for 174 days, of Saháranpur 162 days, and of Agra and Naini Tal 155 days each. The sadar kanúngos of Aligarh, Gorakhpur, Gházipur, Muzaffarnagar, Jaunpur, Moradabad, Allahabad, Gonda, Ballia and Azamgarh were on tour from 100 to 150 days. The sadar kanúngos of the remaining districts spent le ss than 100 days on tour, the lowest figures being in Sultánpur (30) and Bara Banki (10). The largest amount of testing done by sadar kanúngos was in Muzaffarnagar (30,922 fields), (Basti 19,638), Fatehpur (17,544), and Gonda (15,283). The first mentioned district has headed the list for the last five years. The testing ranges from 10,000 to 15,000 entries in Bijnor, Azamgarh, Saháranpur and Allahabad.

12. Methodical inspection of patwaris' records.—The system of bringing all circles under inspection in a cycle of three years is now working satisfactorily in most of the districts of the United Provinces. Instructions have been in force for six years on this subject, and some districts have now been inspected twice; while in others the work has fallen somewhat behind owing to delays in introducing the system or to accidental interruptions. During the year under report the amount of inspection has fallen short in a few districts. In Hardoi the omission is said to be due to the dilatoriness of the patwáris in completing their kharíf tour, and to the sub-divisional officers being occupied in distributing seed advances. The first reason advanced is apparently insufficient to account for the defect.

In Lucknow the settlement, and then the famine have hindered the introduction of the system.

The reports received from Unao, Sitapur, Benares, Jaunpur and Etáwah are silent on the subject. In Pilibhít two-thirds of the circles are inspected by tahsíldárs and the remaining one-third by pargana officers.

The ambiguity in the rules as to the amount of testing to be done by Deputy Collectors and tahsíldárs has been noticed in previous reports, and the matter is under consideration along with the question of the simplification of patwáris duties to which it has given rise.

13. Map correction in Oudh.—The work of map correction was last year reported to have been completed in Lucknow, Sultánpur and Bara Banki.

Annual corrections are now made in the first district. No further corrections were made in Sultánpur, where the settlement ended only in March 1898. In Bara Banki 2,048 village maps out of 2,091 were corrected during the year, the uncorrected maps being those of alluvial villages bordering on large rivers. The work is in progress in Partábgaah where the results of the inspecting officer's examination are reported to be satisfactory. In Unao out of 1,779 villages, corrections relating to riparian and non-fluvial mahâls were made in 1587: 192 maps still remain to be corrected. Eighty maps have been corrected in Rae Bareli, and orders have been issued to finish the remainder within the current year. Out of 1,992 villages in the Hardoi district, the maps of 352 have been corrected, while those of 112 are said to be in hand; more work could not be done, the patwáris being occupied in clearing off their arrears of past years. Correction work has been taken up in Sitapur, and detailed instructions have been issued to kanúngos and patwáris. In Fyzabad, out of 2,571 maps, 2,413 were corrected; the greater number of those remaining belong to pargana Khandausa, where the patwáris were very busy with settlement and special work in connection with the revision of khewats. New maps are under preparation by the Survey Department in Gonda, Kheri and Bahraich.

14. Tahsíl registers.: Preparation of registers in the revised form.—Village registers and pargana books in the new form have been completed in the 16 marginally noted districts, where the settlement has recently been revised. Pargana hand-books have also been printed in the first eleven of these districts, and are being drawn up in the Partábgarh, Basti and Gorakhpur districts. The preparation of hand-books in Jhánsi, and of the revised registers and pargana books for the Gursarai estate of that district will soon be taken up by the special establishment at present employed in Gorakhpur and Basti. The work in Bijnor, Meerut, Lalitpur sub-division, Sháhjahánpur and Bahraich is in progress along with settlement operations. Instructions for the preparation of hand-books are now being issued after approval by the Board of Revenue.

Use of pargana books.—Out of the districts mentioned above, the new pargana books were properly maintained and annotated in Muzaffarnagar, Bulandshahr, Rae Bareli, Bara Banki, Gorakhpur and Basti. In Saháranpur they were not utilized to any great extent. In the remaining districts too, the books could not be annotated, partly because they were only lately received from the Settlement Department and partly because the entries for the years subsequent to settlement were incomplete. The revised form of pargana book has been found most valuable in localizing the deteriorated parts of a district, and in showing the direction in which enquiries as to the causes of deterioration are needed. The old pargana books also were widely used and carefully kept up in several districts. Proper attention was given to the matter in Dehra Dún and Aligarh, while in Meerut the progress of settlement operations interfered with their maintenance. The Commissioner of Agra remarks that the pargana books were examined by the sub-divisional officers but that, as in some districts sufficient care was not taken to enter notes therein, a more intelligent use of the books is being insisted upon. In the Benares Division the Collectors of Ballia and Benares alone report that pargana books were kept up; it is disappointing to find that no entries were made by any officer in these books in Jaunpur and Gházipur, and by one officer only in Mirzapur. The Commissioner of Gorakhpur remarks that notes were made in pargana books by the sub-divisional officers in each district, the number of entries being apparently the largest in Basti. In Pilibhít and Bareilly pargana books are reported to be written up after detailed careful enquiry by pargana officers and under the supervision of the Collectors, while in Moradabad it is simply stated that the books are in use. In Cawnpore entries for 82 villages were examined, of which the Collector himself tested 60, while in Fatehpur and Bánda the books are reported to be examined by officers on tour. There appears to have been no systematic inspection in Hamírpur. In Allahabad the pargana books were examined except for one tahsíl, an omission which the Collector has now rectified. The Collector of Jalaun has not reported the extent to which these books were examined. On the whole it may be said with confidence that the use of these records is becoming more widely appreciated, and that their value is steadily increasing.

15. Maintenance of survey and boundary marks.—The annual lists of survey and boundary marks prescribed in the rules were prepared in all districts except a few of those under settlement or survey. The instructions issued for the inspection of the marks in the cold weather have also been carefully observed in almost all districts and much progress has been made in their repair or re-erection wherever necessary. All the marks have been repaired or reconstructed in Aligarh and Benares, while only a few remain to be dealt with in Fatehpur (21), Benares (23), Azamgarh (297), Saháranpur (56), Pilibhít (60) and Cawnpore (259). In Bareilly many of the marks being under water for a considerable portion of the year the progress of the work was to a great extent retarded. Little improvement is noticeable in Gorakhpur. Owing to the embarassed condition of the zamíndárs, repairs and re-erection could not be effected on a large scale in Hardoi and Unao. The Board of Revenue have decided on a standard pattern of stone trijunction mark to be erected wherever the former pillar has for any reason to be replaced, and arrangements have been made for the supply of such stones at a uniform rate. No orders have yet been received on the proposal to use stone pillars for traverse stations instead of clay cylinders.

16. Inpection of districts.—During the year the Director made inspections connected with Survey or Settlement work in Bareilly, Kheri, Pilibhít, Sháhjahánpur and Budaun. The map depôt at the Government Press, Allahabad, was also inspected, as well as the work of the special office for preparing tahsíl registers at Basti and Gorakhpur. General land record work was inspected in Benares and Bara Banki. The kanúngo inspectors attached to the Department were employed in inspecting the work of patwáris and kanúngos in the districts noted in the margin with a view to correcting errors of procedure and bringing defects to the notice of the district authorities. Their inpection reports were forwarded to the district officers for information and necessary action. An Inspector was also deputed to the Governmemt Press, Allahabad, to examine the stock of maps reported as obsolete and unserviceable, and another to Cawnpore to teach survey to the candidates of the Agricultural School there.

17. Preparation of districts for settlement.—Mr. Meston examined the districts of Gonda and Aligarh and submitted the usual preliminary reports on the condition of village maps and records and the probable financial results of a revision of settlement. He also submitted forecasts of the probable results and cost of re-settling the Almora and Naini Tal districts. A considerable portion of the kanungo inspectors' time was taken up in collecting statistics and obtaining information required for the forecasts, as well as in assisting the Superintendent of Land Records Surveys and his subordinates at their inspections of the Cawnpore, Fatehpur and Allahabad districts.

18. Mr. G. B. Scott, the Superintendent of Land Record Surveys, submits the following report on the work of the year :—

"The records of district Meerut and the Lalitpur Sub-division of Jhánsi which were progress in October 1897, were completed by December and made over to Settlement Officers. The original field maps were despatched to the drawing branch of numbers 2 and 8 Traverse Party, Mussoorie.

"2. The survey and records of Sháhjahánpur were completed; the maps of all but one tahsíl, and where disputed boundaries are unsettled, have been sent to drawing office. All records have been made over to Settlement Officer.

"3. The field survey and record writing of four parganas, Chándpur, Bashta, Burhpur and Nagina in district Bijnor were completed; the records prepared in office are nearing completion and will be made over to Settlement officer in December.

"4. The field survey and record writing of the Bahraich district have been completed. The office records will probably be ready for Settlement Officer by December.

"5. A small portion of the Nepál and Bahraich boundary re-demarcated by officials deputed for this duty, was surveyed under the Survey Officer's orders and a map made over to Deputy Commissioner. Certain points were still pending approval.

"6. Survey and record writing were continued in Bareilly and Kheri and commenced in Gonda: in the last two districts on the two years' system.

"7. The total area of the districts and tracts of which survey and record writing have been completed since 1894 (including the small tracts of Kakarbai and Gursarai in Jhánsi, and the alluvial mahâls in Sitapur) covers 8,971 square miles, and the average cost per square mile taken all round Rs. 49-5-7, or with superintendence and all other charges including cost of instruments, Rs. 58-13-7 per square mile. Of the above area 1,085 square miles were surveyed during the past season (1897-98).

"8. In the districts not yet completed an area of 2,355 square miles was surveyed and khasra written of 2,080 square miles at an average cost of Rs. 49-12-0 per square mile, or with superintendence and all other contingencies Rs. 59-4-0 per square mile. Portion of the enhanced cost is due to the completion of records previous year where this had fallen into arrears, and partly that on the two years' system, where the operations are extended over a much larger area Assistant Survey officers and more Inspectors and mirdahas (or chainmen) are required.

"9. In the several districts under survey 1,533 patwáris were attached to survey training classes, 1,295 qualified and surveyed villages, 164 provided heirs as substitutes, and for 74 more incapables substitutes were provided, chiefly umedwar kanúngos sent from other districts for training of whom there were 222 in all, most of whom qualified. Twenty-five kanúngos and seven naib registrar kanúngos joined the surveys. Four of the former were transferred before passing. Thirteen students of the Agricultural School, Cawnpore, were trained in Bareilly, only one failed. Eighty-two patwáris of four districts were selected to prepare their records without supervision in their homes. A detailed report of results which were unsatisfactory is given in the annual reports of Survey Officers and a summary in the report of Superintendent.

"10. Twenty Junior Civilians were instructed in the method of surveying villages cadastrally, and were attached subsequently to the several survey parties for two months.

"11. The survey of cultivated lands in the Naini Tal district on the scale of 64" to the mile and the preparation of 4 "index maps was continued. Sixty-four square miles were completed. It is believed there are still 20 square miles of cultivation to survey, the total cultivation according to the previous district records being a little over 50 square miles. The cost for survey and khasra writing has been Rs. 360-11-0 per square mile, or if the cost of preliminary test surveys and cost of instruments is added, the total is Rs. 466-11-0 per square mile. That of the Garhwál survey on the 32" scale and based on traverse survey was about Rs. 800 per square mile. The survey is being made entirely by the Garhwáli amíns trained in the Garhwál Survey, as there are no patwáris in the ordinary sense of the term.

"12. The accuracy of the old settlement village maps of Cawnpore, Fatehpur and Allahabad districts was checked by numerous lines run across them by the Superintendent and Mr. Johnson. Those of the first two were fairly accurate; those of Allahabad less so, especially on the outskirts of large villages.

"13. The programme for the coming season is the completion of the Bareilly and Kheri districts and of the Naini Tal cultivated tracts; continuation of survey in Gonda, commencement of survey in Farukhabad, Azamgarh and Pilibhít, all on the two years' system, except one tahsíl of Farukhabad; the testing of the old village maps of districts Agra and Muttra, the redemarcation of some pillars on the Nepal Almora boundary, and the extension of the contour survey of Naini Tal Municipality for the Public Works Department as far as the shaken hill slopes above the Brewery.

"14. During the season three of the seven Survey Officers were compelled to go on leave from ill health and in consequence the paucity of Survey Officers employed was seriously felt.

The scheme of placing traverse survey under Local Governments lately proposed, if carried out with the proviso that all the assistants are to be interchangeable between traverse and cadastral sections, will to a great extent remedy this defect.

"In conclusion I would again call attention to the hard and good work done by the several survey officers."

19. I have nothing to add to the above report except to express my opinion of the excellent work done by Mr. Scott and his subordinates during the year.

20. Amendment to rules.—Of the amendments to rules sanctioned during the year the following may be noticed. The Director has been authorized by G. O. No. $\frac{2239}{I-932(B)}$, dated 9th August 1898, to deal with applications for the exemption of patwáris from passing the middle class examination. With a view to secure uniformity of practice, it has been ruled that the term of cultivation shown in column 8 of the khatauni should include the year for which it is prepared. Instructions have been issued regarding the record in the registrar kanúngos' registers of changes in the office of lambardár. Instructions have also been issued directing a record to be kept in khatauni of each step by which cash-rented and grain-rented areas are obtained separately for entry in the máhal register. The question of the record of mortgagees of tenants' holdings has been under consideration for some time past; the Board have now decided that mortgagees in possession of occupancy holdings should be recorded as sub-tenants, while those not in possession should not be shown in the khasra at all. With regard to the record of individual fractional interests of the partners in a joint unpartitioned tenant holding, the Board have directed that (a) except for fixed rate tenants in North-Western Provinces and occupancy tenants in Oudh, no specification of the interests of joint tenants should for the future be made in the patwáris' papers; but in cases in which such specification has in past years been made it may be continued, and (b) no such specification should be made in the districts in which revised records are now prepared by the Survey Department except for tenants at fixed rates in North-Western Provinces and occupancy tenants in Oudh. In districts where the new mauza and pargana registers are brought into use the patwáris have been directed to convert the bigha totals of jinswárs, milan khasras and jamabandi appendices I and II, into acres before filing them. A simple set of rules for patwáris applicable to the whole Bhábar tract has been drawn up and submitted to the Board of Revenue for circulation and criticism by a few officers possessing some experience in Bhábar administration. A set of rules has also been drafted for the guidance of patwáris and kanúngos in the hill tracts of the Kumaun Division and submitted for the orders of the Board. Rules of procedure for the revision of village maps and records have been framed for North-Western Provinces and for Gonda and Kheri in Oudh and issued after the Board's approval.

21. Supply of patwáris' and kanúngos' forms.—The grant under this head was Rs. 70,000, out of which Rs. 68,463-4-3 were spent in the year under report against Rs. 72,711-11-11 in 1896-97. The expenditure was therefore less than in the preceding year. The difference was due mainly to a change in the dates of payment.

22. Patwáris' Funds.—The following figures show the revenue and expenditure of these funds for the year under report:—

	North-Western Provinces.	Oudh.	Total.
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
Proceeds of the patwári rate ...	... 18,59,579	4,82,141	23,41,720
Contribution from Provincial revenues	... 6,36,956	3,63,044	10,00,000
Total	... 24,96,535	8,45,185	33,41,720
Expenditure	... 26,56,184	9,36,180	35,92,364
Net deficit	... 1,59,649	90,995	2,50,644

The decrease of close on two and a quarter lakhs in the receipts of the patwári funds in 1896-97 was in a measure compensated for to the extent of Rs. 1,33,11 by increased receipts in 1897-98. This improvement was, however, partially counter balanced by additional charges amounting to Rs. 70,162. The net deficit amounted to Rs. 2,50,644, against Rs. 3,13,598 in the previous year. Rs. 90,995 of the deficit occurred in the Oudh Fund. As this fund showed at the close of the previous year a debit balance of Rs. 22,053, the result of the 1897-98 transactions was to raise its indebtedness to Rs. 1,13,048. The rate of annual expenditure of the North-Western Provinces Fund also threatens to bring about the insolvency of that fund in the near future. The Board of Revenue have been addressed as to the steps which should be taken to maintain both the North-Western Provinces and Oudh Funds in a solvent condition. The balances of the two funds at the commencement and close of the year stood as under :—

	North-Western Provinces Fund.	Oudh Fund.

PART II.—AGRICULTURAL STATISTICS.

23. Crop and area returns.—These returns, which are for 1897-98 or 1305 fasli, have been received this year from all districts except Meerut, Sháhjahánpur and Kheri and portions of the districts of Bareilly, Bijnor, Budaun, Jhánsi, (Lalitpur sub-division), Gonda, Bahraich, Sultánpur and Farukhabad, where the patwáris were engaged in operations connected with survey or settlement. Figures for these tracts have been taken as usual from previous year's returns to complete the provincial statement.

24. The steady decline since 1894-95 in the cultivated area of the province, which reached its climax in the famine year of 1896-97, at last received a check during 1897-98, when the total cultivated area rose from 30,263,707 to 32,332,621 acres showing an increase of about 7 per cent., by which figure it had declined last year. The only districts which show decreases in their cultivated area are Hamírpur (3 per cent.), Hardoi (11 per cent.) and Bahraich (1 per cent.). The decrease in Hamírpur is trifling and is accompanied by a corresponding increase under "old fallow"; while in the last two districts it is not real and is explained by the fact that while figures have this year been received for the whole district of Hardoi and for a portion of Bahraich, the statistics of the last year with which comparison is made were taken from the returns of the previous years. Elsewhere there has been an increase, which is largest in districts which showed heavy decreases last year, viz, Jalaun (77 per cent.), Fatehpur (65 per cent.), Mirzapur (31 per cent.) and Azamgarh (26 per cent.). In Saháranpur, Agra division (except Muttra and Farukhabad,) Naini Tal, Lucknow, Unao and Rae Bareli, the increase in the cultivated area varied from 10 to 20 per cent. In other districts it was below 10 per cent. The present year's area closely approximates to the figures of 1895-96; and though 2,068,914 acres more than that in the preceding year, is still 1,614,250 acres less than the area in 1892-93, which was a year of normal prosperity.

25. The total crop area too, rose materially from 36,906,717 in 1896-97 to 40,141,759 acres in 1897-98 and is almost exactly what it was in 1895-96. The kharíf area of 1897-98, advanced by 604,635 acres, and the rabí area by 2,703,046 acres; but the zaid area, which was unusually large in the year of drought, dropped by 72,639 acres. The kharíf area was well above the normal; but the rabí area was about 7 per cent. less than the normal. The rabí sowings were hampered partly by the want of rain in the months of October and November 1897 and partly by the very high price of gram then ruling; hence this slight defect from the normal area. The figures for the different harvests are shown below:—

	1896-97. Acres.	1897-98. Acres.	Difference. Acres.
Kharíf	21,105,477	21,710,112	+604,635

The increase from last year in the total crop area of the province amounts to 3,235,042 acres or to 8 per cent, by which figure it had dropped in that year. Compared with 1892-93 it is still short by 1,091,086 acres. Decreases are noticeable, for reasons already explained, in Hardoi (12 per cent.), Bahraich (3 per cent.) and Hamírpur (2 per cent.). Aligarh too shows a decrease of less than one per cent. Elsewhere increases occurred which are greatest in Fatehpur (73 per cent.), Jalaun (74 per cent.), Mirzapur (45 per cent.), Jaunpur (31 per cent.), Azamgarh (30 per cent.) and Naini Tal (22 per cent.). In Dehra Dún, Saháranpur, Muzaffarnagar; Agra Division (except Muttra and Farukhabad), Pilibhít, Bándá, Allahabad, Gházipur, Gorakhpur, Lucknow, Unao, Rae Bareli and Fyzabad the rise varied from 10 to 20 per cent. and in the remaining districts it was below 10 per cent.

26. The area of the principal autumn and spring crops is compared below for the past three years:—

The scanty rainfall in the beginning of the season and the break which followed kept the rice area slightly below the figures for 1896; while maize, juar, bájra and the smaller millets were sown on a large scale at the expense of cotton, til and other non-food crops. This change in cultivation was caused by the need of replenishing the food stocks of the province. The area under sugarcane again declined; this crop was sown in the spring of 1897, when the famine was as its height; and it is natural to suppose that the decrease in area is due to the cultivators using their best land for food crops. The question whether the large imports of foreign sugar had any effect on the area sown with sugar is being reported on separately. The decline in the area under opium and miscellaneous crops was natural after the year of famine. In that year the poppy area was stimulated by the large advances granted by the Opium Department, while miscellaneous crops were extensively sown to supplement the scanty food stocks of the province. Some shrinkage in their area was therefore inevitable when normal conditions were re-established. For the other rabí staples the figures indicate how rapidly cultivation recovered after the famine. The cultivation of wheat and barly advanced by 21 per cent. each; of gram by 15 per cent. and of linseed by 121 per cent.

27. The favourable character of the seasons is further indicated by the returns of irrigation, which show that, while in 1897-98 a reduction of over twelve lakhs of acres took place in the area irrigated from canals and wells, a corresponding increase occurred in the area irrigated from tanks and other sources. The cold weather rains were unusually late, and irrigation from all available sources was fully resorted to. This led to a slight increase in the total irrigated area of the province, which rose from 9,649,898 in 1896-97 to 9,711,586 acres during the year under report, and is the largest during the past six years. The irrigated area dropped by 8 per cent. in the Division of Meerut; by 18 per cent. in Agra, and by 2 per cent. in Allahabad. In the other Divisions there have been increases ranging from 6 to 17 per cent. The variations which took place in the different sources of irrigation are given below. The area irrigated from wells decreased by 14 per cent., and that from canals by 13 per cent., while irrigation from tanks rose by 107 per cent. and that from other sources by 58 per cent.:—

	1896-97. Acres.	1897-98. Acres.	Difference. Acres.
Irrigated from wells	6,315,866	5,412,820	—903,046
„ „ canals	2,037,965	1,780,053	—257,912
„ „ tanks	953,087	1,975,863	+1,022,776

Total, irrigated area ...	9,649,898	9,711,586	+61,688

The total number of masonry wells returned for 1896-97 was 301,745, of which 2,014 fell in during 1897-98; while 7,012 new wells were constructed: thus there has been a net increase of 4,998 wells in the present year. If the area irrigable from wells is estimated at the rates adopted in past years, the increased number of masonry wells raises the area protected by well irrigation from 2,761,839 to 2,806,249 acres. The area actually irrigated from wells in 1897-98 amounts to 54 lakhs of acres, so that the balance of 26 lakhs of acres or about a half may be assumed to have been irrigated from earthen and half masonry wells.

28. Classification of holdings and rental demand and collections.—This return, which is a year behind the area and crop returns commented on above, is for the famine year 1896-97. It has been received from all districts except Meerut, Sháhjahánpur, Hardoi and Bahraich and certain parganas of Bareilly, Bijnor, Budaun, Jhánsi, (Lalitpur Sub-division), Kheri and Sultánpur, which were under survey or settlement operations. The area of holdings differs both from the total cultivated area and the crop area of the year, as the holdings area always includes a good deal of land which, though forming part of the holdings of proprietors and tenants, was for some reason or other not under the plough during the year. It is for this reason that while in 1896-97 the decrease in the cultivated and crop areas was as large as 7 and 8 per cent. respectively, the drop in the holdings area amounted to only one per cent. The following table compares the areas under each class of holdings in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh separately during the year 1896-97 with those of 1895-96:—

Nature of holdings.	North-Western Provinces.			Oudh.

29. The total holdings area of the North-Western Provinces fell off by 197,975 acres, of which the Meerut and Agra Divisions contributed about 6,000 acres each; Rohilkhand 70,766; Allahabad 86,911; Benares 23,761, and Gorakhpur 25,380 acres. The decrease took place chiefly in the area held without declared rights, which dropped by 221,754 acres in consequence of contraction in cultivation. The area under "sír" declined by 12,192 acres, of which 5,995 acres have been contributed by Pilibhít for reasons which do not clearly appear; while an increase of 2,616 and 4,856 acres respectively took place in Bijnor and Budaun owing to correction of records in connection with settlement operations. Most of the other districts exhibit trifling decreases since last year. The area under "khudkásht" fell off by 7,408 acres. The Benares and Gorakhpur divisions show a slight increase of 1,506 and 5,389 acres respectively; but in the other Divisions there was a decline, which in Rohilkhand amounts to 9,838 acres; Pilibhít showing an increase of 6,643 acres and Bijnor and Budaun decreases of 3,426 and 14,117 acres respectively. An advance of 6,598 acres took place in the area held with ex-proprietary or privileged rights, and is shared by all divisions except Allahabad. The occupancy area, which of late years has been steadily declining, dropped largely during 1896-97. It fell off by 53,283 acres in the much distressed Allahabad division; by 8,216 acres in Meerut; by 9,299 acres in Agra, and by 9,646 acres in Gorakhpur division. The Benares Division shows an increase of 809 acres owing to an unexplained rise of 3,493 acres in Gházipur; but in the Rohilkhand division a very large increase of 59,579 acres took place in consequence of correction of records in Budaun and Bijnor; the net decrease in the province in the holding in question being 21,136 acres. The area held by tenants without declared rights dropped by 221,754 acres from the effects of the famine. The Meerut division shows an increase of 10,535 acres and Naini Tal district of 15,925. In the other divisions there has been a decline which is most marked in the Rohilkhand, Allahabad and Benares divisions. The large decrease of 140,984 acres in Rohilkhand is partly due to the transfer of land to other heads, as explained above, and partly to actual decline in cultivation; the cultivated area of this division having dropped by 78,320 acres in 1896-97, to which year the return of holdings relates. Land held without rent rose by 57,917 acres, of which Etáwah contributed 11,959, acres; Bijnor 18,761 and Mirzapur 25,538 acres. These increases are nominal, and are due to the transfer to this head of the rent free area which was formerly attached to rented holdings and shown under them.

30. The drop in the total holdings' area of Oudh amounted to 191,112 acres. The khudkasht area declined by 16,221 acres; Gonda showing a rise of 4,978 acres and Kheri of 336 acres; elsewhere there were decreases. Land held without declared rights fell off by 155,731 acres, the decreases being greatest in Rae Bareli (40,402) acres); Sitapur (86,812 acres); Kheri (18,687 acres) and Gonda (33,653 acres). The whole of these decreases is not, however, real as the districts were under settlement and complete statistics actually compiled by the patwáris are not available for the past two years for purposes of comparison. Area held without rent declined by 35,924 acres, of which Lucknow contributed 12,728 and Fyzabad 10,255 acres. These decreases too are not real, and are due to correct compilation of figures this year. On the other hand small increases took place in the area held as "sír" and in that held with sub-proprietary and occupancy rights; the districts where settlement has been revised showing some variations in the figures as compared with those of the preceding year.

The rent paying area of the united provinces had declined by 362,411 acres in 1895-96. In 1896-97 it further fell from 28,302,432 acres to 27,879,271 or by 423,161 acres. In Kumaun division (Tarai parganas) a slight increase of 17,821 acres took place; in the other divisions there was a decrease, which in Lucknow amounts to 155,854 acres; in Allahabad to 85,595; in Rohilkhand to 80,816; in Benares to 48,756; and in Gorakhpur to 31,128. In each of the other divisions the drop was less than 20,000 acres. The total rental demand was Rs. 12,17,24,203 as compared with Rs. 12,10,87,438 in 1895-96. The cash rental declined by Rs. 3,43,943 and Sewai by Rs. 3,38,924; but the cash value of crop rental rose by Rs. 13,19,632, owing to the very high prices of grains which ruled during the year. The net increase was Rs. 6,36,765. In the Meerut, Agra and Rohilkhand and Lucknow divisions the rental demand of the year was more than in the preceding year; in the other divisions it was less. The total collections made in the year were Rs. 9,58,44,668 of which Rs. 8,23,01,283 were on account of current year's demand and Rs. 1,35,43,385 on account of arrears of previous years. The percentage of total recorded collections on total demand of the province fell from 88 to 79. The highest percentage of collection was in Naini Tal (103), the districts of the Meerut Division (where it varied from 91 to 102); Sitapur (96), Kheri (92), Gonda and Bara Banki (91). It was lowest in Jalaun (28); Fatehpur and Allahabad (42), Hamírpur (46), Jaunpur (54) and Agra (58). Elsewhere the percentage of collections varied from 60 to 90. These variations reflect generally the varying pressure of distress during the year. The following figures show the percentage of total recorded collections on the total demand in each division of the province for the past three years:—

Chapter III.—NOTE ON AGRICULTURAL DEPRESSION DURING RECENT YEARS.

31. The year under report, which has been so prosperous in the Provinces taken as a whole, has been particularly favourable in the tracts to which this note refers. The unirrigated uplands received sufficient rain; the river valleys suffered from no abnormal floods; the rice lands of the eastern districts were neither parched nor flooded; the area covered by the kans weed generally contracted, and no new source of danger came prominently to notice. A summary of the district reports is given below; in some cases the information is incomplete, and further enquiries are being made to supply the defects.

Meerut Division.

Dehra Dún.—The only area subject to agricultural depression for want of rain is the Southern Khatts of the Chakráta Tashíl; last year the rains were favourable, and a fair harvest was obtained.

Saháranpur.—The Collector was prevented by plague work from taking up the question of water-logged tracts. The condition of the Jumna and Ganges khádirs is improving.

Muzaffarnagar.—The report is blank.

Meerut.—The only tracts that have been found specially subject to flooding and water-logging in wet years are north of Baraut and near Shahdra in the Bághpat and Ghaziabad Tashíls respectively. Steps are being taken by the Canal Department to remedy these tracts by means of drainage cuts.

Bulandshahr.—The report from this district states that no deterioration was observed during the year except in a few isolated villages where steps were taken for the adjustment of the revenue. The deteriorated villages of the Jumna khádir come under inspection this year.

Aligarh.—The Jumna khádir was found by the Collector during the last cold weather to be in a deteriorated condition. Proposals for remission of arrears and reduction of revenue were accordingly submitted and sanctioned by Government. The Ganges khádir is beginning to improve in consequence of embankments made by the Canal Department. A part of the Khair Tashíl is reported to have also suffered from water-logging from the Mát branch of the Ganges Canal. A project is in hand to drain this tract.

AGRA DIVISION.

Muttra.—No part of the district suffered during the year under report.

Agra.—Mr. J. McC. Wright, the Collector has prepared an interesting note enumerating the portions of the district liable to depression, and describing their condition during the past year. The season was particularly favourable, and all the precarious tracts were prosperous.

Farukhabad.—The cultivated area has increased in the majority of deteriorated villages, which are mostly on the banks of the Káli Nadi. The exceptions are the villages in which the soil is so much interspersed with sand that it is doubtful whether they will ever recover.

Mainpuri.—No cases of specially deteriorated villages were brought to notice. The question of drainage has received attention, and enquiries have been made into the few complaints received about water-logging.

Etáwah.—There was no agricultural depression during the year.

Etah.—Every part of the district was prosperous during the year.

ROHILKHAND DIVISION.

Bareilly.—There was no depression during the year. The proposal to bring all streams of the district under the Canal Department has been separately submitted to the Board of Revenue for orders.

Bijnor.—The tracts which have suffered most during the year are pargana Bashta and Chándpur, and there are one or two villages in the former which require immediate attention; the Collector intends to inspect them at once.

Budaun.—Some villages in Dataganj and some in Ujhani suffered from the overflooding of the Ganges; but the damage done has been slight; and on the whole both the bhúr tract and the Ganges Khádir have been prosperous.

Moradabad.—There is no defined tract or special portion of the district which has suffered from agricultural depression excepting the bhur tracts of parganas Hasanpur and Sambhal. Proposals have been sent up for modifying the assessment of the villages affected.

Sháhjahánpur.—The most precarious part of this district is the south-west corner of the Jalálabad tahsíl, locally known as the Bankatti area. This was the tract in which the greatest suffering occurred during the recent famine. It is not said to have suffered last year. The Commissioner thinks that some deterioration has occurred in the north of Tahsíl Pawayan.

Pilibhít.—The year was favourable, and no tract suffered from depression.

ALLAHABAD DIVISION.

Cawnpore.—The condition of the deteriorated villages which had suffered much from a series of wet seasons and the spread of kans was enquired into, and proposals submitted for revision of assessment of 64 villages which seemed to call for relief. The recent dry seasons have been beneficial to the tracts in which the deterioration was due to saturation of the soil.

Fatehpur.—There are a few villages in which the existence of káns is reported. They are to be inspected this year.

Bánda.—Káns has entirely disappeared in the Karwi Sub-division and is fast doing the same in Bánda and Pailáni.

Hamírpur.—Decreased cultivation is reported from the north-east part of the district, especially in Sumerpur, north Muskara and Maudha parganas. The spread of káns is by no means coincident with this decrease in cultivation, and local opinion attributes the depression to initial over-assessment. The Collector promises to make further enquiries during the present season.

Allahabad.—Some 300 villages in the trans-Jumna tahsíls appear to require relief, and Mr. Fremantle has been placed on special duty to inquire into their condition with a view to revision of assessment.

Jhánsi.—The district is liable to suffer from káns and drought, to which all black cotton soils are subject.

Last year saw a serious accession of káns, which the Collector regards as the natural after-effect of the famine. Special efforts have been made by grants of takávi to induce increased sowings of wheat in selected villages.

Jalaun.—Large reductions of revenue have been sanctioned; but the Collector considers the revenue still excessive, and his report is entirely directed to this matter.

BENARES DIVISION.

Benares.—Some villages on the banks of the Gorai and Karamnasa in the Chandauli tahsíl suffered to some extent during the year under report from excessive rains and floods.

Mirzapur.—The year under report has been prosperous. The upland tracts are liable to damage from drought; and the remedy suggested for such tracts is more tanks and embankments.

Jaunpur.—The precarious tracts in this district are the rice-lands. They do not appear to have suffered in the year under report.

Gházipur.—The rice growing tracts are the only ones in which there is uncertainty as to the crop. They do not appear to have suffered materially this year.

Ballia.—The kharíf crops in parganas Gorha, Duaba and Kharid were damaged to a great extent by floods on the Ganges and Gogra. In these tracts the rabi is of much more importance than the kharíf.

GORAKHPUR DIVISION.

Gorakhpur.—No part of the district appears to have suffered during the year.

Basti.—The Collector reports the results so far of a systematic enquiry into the condition of the district. The following points may be mentioned. In Harraya tahsíl a large number of villages are liable to injury from inroads of wild animals that inhabit the jungle tract near Tikhi in the Gonda district. Fencing is suggested as a remedy. This matter is before the Board of Revenue. In the Domariaganj tahsíl a number of villages were injured during the year by the floods of the Burhi Rapti. The construction of protective works was suggested some years ago by Mr. Hooper; but the Board of Revenue declined to sanction the proposal. The annual inundations of the Kuano river in the Khalílabad tahsíl cause severe loss to a number of villages lying about Jigna. A proposal for construction of a bund by private enterprise is on foot.

Azamgarh.—The precarious tracts in the district consist of the stiff clay land in tahsíls Deogaon, Muhammadabad and Mohul. These tracts did not suffer in the year under report. The floods of the Gogra caused a certain amount of damage to the fields lying in the west of Dohri in the Sagri tahsíl. A project for the construction of an embankment for protecting these low-lying fertile lands is under the consideration of the Commissioner.

KUMAUN DIVISION.

Almora.—There is nothing to add to what was said last year.

Garhwál.—There was no agricultural depression in any part of the district.

Naini Tal.—Parts of the Káshipur pargana, Jaspur, etc., have suffered from agricultural depression for years past. During the current year the annulment of settlement of some villages was sanctioned, and they have been taken under direct management. The cause of deterioration is not clearly known, and it is hoped that the experience gained in managing the villages will supply the necessary information.

LUCKNOW DIVISION.

Lucknow.—All precarious villages or portions thereof have been clearly demarcated and fully noted on in the pargana Hand-Books.

Unao.—During the year under report the kharíf crop failed in a small tract comprising half a dozen villages near Ajgain owing to a local deficiency of rainfall over the area. The loss was partially made up by a good rabi crop.

Rae Bareli.—There are no tracts liable to agricultural failure.

Sitapur.—The bhúr and the lowlying tracts are liable to agricultural depression. They both had fairly good harvests during the year under report.

Hardoi.—The district as a whole is beginning to recover from the acute distress with which it was affected.

The greater portion of the uplands is liable to suffer from want of moisture and of means of irrigation during years of drought ; the large number of wells which were constructed during the famine year constitute most effective insurance against this form of agricultural disaster. The lowlying tracts especially Ganges khádir and a tract on the west of the Shahabad and Bilgram road, are liable to floods and to the accompanying danger of water-logging. Serious damage was done to the kharíf crops by floods in July 1897, chiefly in parganas Barwan and Saromannagar, the injury affecting 206 villages in the district. The sufferers were assisted by the distribution of small sums from the Charitable Relief Funds.

Kheri.—The only portions of the district that can come under the designation of precarious tracts are portions of Mohamdi tahsíl, where the soil is light, and the land adjoining the rivers in Nighasan tahsíl, which are liable to floods. During the year under report the rains were favourable to the former tract, and there were only slight floods in the latter, which caused little damage.

FYZABAD DIVISION.

Fyzabad.—There are no precarious tracts in the district.

Gonda.—Owing to a heavy rainfall 135 villages along the Gogra, Sarju and Rapti have suffered somewhat from floods.

Bahraich.—The general question of the dependence of Tarai villages on a single rice crop is of particular interest in the district. Owing to the existence of a large number of such villages in the Bhinga estate efforts are being made to meet the difficulty by sinking wells and excavating tanks to encourage irrigation generally.

Sultánpur.—Nothing to report.

Partábgarh.—Nothing to report.

Bara Banki.—Seasons being generally favourable, no special cases of material loss or damage from floods or natural causes were brought to light.

32. It will be seen that the only disquieting feature in these reports is the spread of kans in the Jhánsi district, which is the more remarkable that in other parts of Bundelkhand the area affected by the weed has contracted.

33. The work of compiling the information collected in past years is not yet complete but is well advanced, and I hope that the necessary materials will soon be available for preparing the required instructions for the guidance of District Officers.

ORDERS OF GOVERNMENT.

No. $\frac{1670}{\text{I}-\frac{36\text{B}}{4}}$ OF 1899.

RESOLUTION.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT.

Dated Naini Tal, the 12th May 1899.

READ—

Letter from the Secretary to the Board of Revenue, North-Western Provinces and Oudh, No. $\frac{791}{\text{XII}-163}$, dated 10th March 1899 (received on 18th April 1899), being the Board's Report on the Revenue Administration of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh for the year ending 30th September 1898.

OBSERVATIONS.—The report of the Board under review marks the first stage in the recovery of the Provinces from the disastrous effects of a series of unfavourable seasons, culminating in the famines of 1896 and 1897. In the spring and hot weather of 1897 relief works on a large scale were still open in many tracts of the Provinces, but the rains of that year, notwithstanding a break towards the end of June, which gave rise to temporary apprehension, were decidedly favourable. The pressure on the relief works was at once reduced, and a largely increased area was cultivated for the autumn harvest. The outturn of almost all the autumn crops was exceptionally good. The early rice suffered somewhat from a break in the beginning of the rains, and the yield of cotton and indigo was reduced by insufficient rain in the early part of the season and by excessive rain at a later date; but, on the whole, the autumn crops gave a yield which was in no case much below a full normal outturn, and in the case of a few crops was quite up to the normal. In the spring of 1898 another excellent harvest was secured, which would have been altogether an exceptional one, but for the continuance of dry weather in the cold season till the month of February. The outturn of wheat and barley was estimated as equal to a full normal yield, while the damage done to other spring crops was slight. These two prosperous harvests have done much to accelerate the recovery of the agricultural population from the effects of the previous bad seasons; but it is to be regretted that the one tract in the Provinces in which the spring crops were comparatively poor was Bundelkhand, which has suffered more severely in the past than any other part, and which would, even with good harvests, require a longer period for its complete recovery. The year closed with another favourable monsoon, which secured a second satisfactory autumn harvest, though the outturn of the crops in 1898 has not proved to be quite up to the high level of 1897.

Rainfall and harvests. (Paragraphs 4 to 8.)

2. The satisfactory record of the year was not interrupted by many serious minor calamities. In a few instances injury was caused by hail storms and floods, and much damage was done by heavy rain in the Naini Tal district in the beginning of August.

Hailstorms, floods, &c. (Paragraph 9.)

Health. (Paragraph 10.)

3. In the early part of the year—the autumn of 1897—fever was very prevalent, but in 1898 the general health was satisfactory, and the Board notice the comparative immunity of the Provinces from epidemics of cholera and small-pox. The arrangements for the supply of quinine, which have been developed in recent years, and have been gradually working their way into favour, were found to be of distinct advantage. Plague re-appeared in the Saháranpur district, but the measures taken to stamp it out and to prevent its spread were fortunately successful.

Cattle disease. (Paragraph 11.)

4. Cattle disease caused less mortality than in the previous year, but the annual loss to the agricultural population from this cause is still unfortunately very great. The smallness of the staff available for veterinary work as compared with the area to be dealt with, the difficulty of supervising the operations of subordinates, the customs and prejudices of the people, and the consequent impossibility of enforcing the severe measures that have elsewhere been regarded as essential to stamping out epidemics amongst cattle, have hitherto prevented as much progress being made in coping with the evil as would be desirable. Experiments are now, however, being made to test the value of inoculation as a preventive against rinderpest; and steady progress is being made towards securing a more correct record and diagnosis of outbreaks of disease, and in some districts towards affording skilled advice and treatment. The question of opening veterinary dispensaries has recently been before the Government, and the Lieutenant-Governor trusts that some of the District Boards may find themselves in a position to take action in this direction.

Prices. (Paragraph 12.)

5. During 1897 prices were exceptionally high, and the variations between the rates of superior and inferior grain were small—a sure indication of severe famine. Gram was dearer in many districts than wheat. As prospects improved prices fell in the early part of 1898, and, continuing to fall after the spring harvest, rapidly reached the level of normal times. In September wheat was selling at from 17 to 18 sérs per rupee, while barley was as low as 30 sérs and in one district 38 sérs per rupee. The prices of other grains fell in a similar manner.

Arrears of previous years. (Paragraph 17.)

6. With the return of agricultural prosperity, satisfactory progress has been made in dealing with the large arrears of land revenue left outstanding. At the beginning of the year these arrears exceeded 163 lakhs of rupees, of which 147 lakhs were uncollected balances of the previous year and 16 lakhs were left over from an earlier period. The collection of the whole amount, in addition to the present demand, would have been impossible; and, with the approval of the Government of India, it was decided to remit the famine arrears up to the extent of 60 lakhs of rupees, and to spread the recovery of the balance over two years, so as to ease the pressure on the revenue payers, and give them time for recovery. Remissions were allowed on conditions designed to secure the extension of the concession to tenants; but not unfrequently landlords have preferred to forego the offered remissions, and to take their chance of recovering the arrears due by the tenantry. The total remissions actually given up to date amount to over 50 lakhs of rupees, and further remissions are still under consideration. In cases where cultivating communities are concerned, some relaxation in the conditions is necessary and has been allowed. The total remissions granted during recent years are shown as follows in Appendix II(A) of the Board's Annual Reports :—

	Rs.
1893-94...	3,90,667
1894-95...	1,65,586
1895-96...	3,05,865
1896-97...	4,77,158
1897-98...	50,70,499
Total ...	64,09,775

and the accounts are not yet by any means closed, as in the most seriously distressed districts it has been found necessary not only to strike off outstanding arrears, but to grant temporary reductions in the land revenue demand, which pressed too heavily on deteriorated estates. During the year 40 lakhs of rupees on account of outstanding arrears were collected.

Current demand.
Land revenue on the roll.
(Paragraphs 15, 16, and 20.)

7. The demand for land revenue on the roll rose from 614½ lakhs of rupees at the commencement of the year to 619½ lakhs at the end. Revisions of assessments at regular settlement in the Meerut and Rohilkhand Divisions, and in the majority of the districts of Oudh, caused an increase of over six lakhs. On the other hand, there were reductions of over a lakh of rupees owing to revisions of assessments, called for by the depressed condition of many villages, chiefly in Bundelkhand and the Hardoi district of Oudh. Of the total demand of 614½ lakhs, over 601¼ lakhs were collected and 13 lakhs left outstanding. In the Meerut, Agra, Kumaun, and Fyzabad Divisions the balances were not in any case considerable. In Bundelkhand, which had not fully recovered from the effects of the famine, great consideration had to be shown in the collection of land revenue, and a similar cause accounts for the high outstandings in parts of the Lucknow Division. Elsewhere the most noticeable balances are in Sháhjahánpur, Jaunpur, and, to a less extent, in Azamgarh. The state of collections in Sháhjahánpur is not satisfactory. The unequally distributed assessment of this district does not appear by itself sufficient to account for the large arrears, and the revenue administration calls for the attention of the Commissioner and the Board. More than half of the outstanding demand in Jaunpur is owing to an estate which has since been taken under the Court of Wards, but both here and in Azamgarh the outstandings appear to be unnecessarily large. At the end of the year the total uncollected arrears amounted to 13 lakhs on account of the current demand, and 72 lakhs on account of the revenue of previous years.

8. The actual collections made on account of all the various heads of revenue dealt with in the Board's report amounted to 806 lakhs as compared with 643 lakhs in the previous year on account of the receipts of the year itself, and 48 lakhs as compared with 11 lakhs on account of arrears—a total increase of 200 lakhs, or 2 crores of rupees.

Collections under all heads of revenue. (Paragraph 14.)

9. The demand on account of occupier's rates fell, owing to the more favourable character of the seasons, from 82 to 72 lakhs, and was collected practically in full. There was a corresponding decrease in owner's rates from Rs. 4,81,684 to Rs. 4,15,478.

Canal rates. (Paragraphs 30 to 33.)

10. The increase of rents in State properties, from Rs. 7,47,389 to Rs. 8,11,575, affords further satisfactory evidence of the recovery from the period of depression. In the large estates in Kumaun there was a substantial increase in cultivation. Outside of Kumaun the collections in the previous year had been less than half the demand; in the year under report about two-thirds of the demand were collected. Steps are being taken to write off arrears where necessary, so as to give the tenants a fresh start, unburdened with old debts.

State properties. (Paragraph 34.)

11. The payment of revenue by means of money-orders shows, as was to be expected, a large increase, the number of money-orders having risen from 128,725 to 195,531 and the amount remitted from 30 to 43½ lakhs. This system of payment is most freely resorted to in the Gorakhpur Division, which accounts for about one-third of the total amount remitted in the North-Western Provinces. The effect of the system in weakening the position of lambardárs has been discussed in previous reports, but the Board adhere to their opinion that the advantages outweigh the disadvantages. Elsewhere in the Board's report a suggestion is made that the practice of payment of revenue direct by co-sharers might be met by an increase in the number of lambardárs, and this suggestion is worthy of consideration, as it would, the Lieutenant-Governor understands, be in the direction of a return to old practice. It was at one time the policy of Government to reduce the number of lambardárs, and that policy may have been carried too far. It would be better to recognise a reasonable number of representatives than to encourage the practice of separate payments.

Revenue money-orders. (Paragraphs 38 and 39.)

It is hoped that the provisions regarding lambardárs in the amended Land Revenue Bill for the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, which the Lieutenant-Governor is now submitting for the approval of the Government of India, will be effective in maintaining and improving this most important portion of the fiscal and administrative agency of the Provinces.

12. A considerable increase in litigation accompanied the improved conditions of the year. The falling off in the previous year in the number of suits under the North-Western Provinces Rent Act was more than recovered, the number filed being the largest on record. Over 90 per cent. of the suits were for arrears of rent, and under this head there was an increase in all divisions, except Meerut, the increase being largest in Allahabad and Benares. The landlords resorted freely to the courts in tracts where, owing to recovery from the effects of the famine, there was a reasonable prospect of securing payment of the arrears that had accrued in the scarcity period. It is noticeable that scarcely more than one-fifth of the cases were contested, and nearly one-half of them were decided ex parte. The pending file rose from 5,146 to 5,886 cases, but the number of cases pending over three months was insignificant, except in the district of Jaunpur. In view of the large increase in the number of institutions, the results are creditable to the courts. The possibility of securing greater promptitude in the disposal of rent law litigation is shown by the successful results which followed the attention given to the matter by the Collector of Benares, where the delay was unfavourably commented on in the previous year.

Rent money-orders, &c. (Paragraphs 45 and 46.)

13. The amount of rent remitted by money-order increased from Rs. 7,13,501 to Rs. 9,13,858, or by 28 per cent., but in the previous year such remittances had been unusually low. Nearly one-eighth of the total amount remitted in the North-Western Provinces is accounted for by the single district of Bijnor, and the causes that make resort to this system specially popular in that district deserve examination. It is satisfactory to find that the practice of giving printed receipts for rents is on the increase.

Applications affecting occupancy tenants and tenants-at-will. (Paragraphs 47 to 52.)

14. The number of applications increased from 134,820 to 176,827, or by 31 per cent. Applications to eject tenants with rights increased from 19,307 to 23,701, but were less numerous than in 1895-96—a fact which may be taken in support of the Board's conclusion that no undue advantage was taken by the zamíndárs, as a body, of the distress of the tenants to destroy occupancy rights. Ejectment actually took place in only 7,747 cases, the area from which the tenants were ejected being 40,932 acres, or about one-third less than in 1895-96.

The Board call attention to the strained relations which this misuse by landlords of the power of ejectment produces, and " repeat that the litigation resulting from the present state of the law is injurious to both landlord and tenant and the ejectments prevent agricultural improvement." The Lieutenant-Governor entirely agrees with the Board in this matter. He considers that the existing state of things whereby ejectment is used as a means to defeat the operation of the law permitting the gradual accrual of occupancy rights is indefensible ; and he has now prepared, and will shortly place before the Board for their criticisms and opinion, the draft of a Bill to amend the Rent Law of the North-Western Provinces in this and other particulars. It is the old difficulty which has been entailed on every Province to which Act X of 1859 had been extended.

16. Out of 9,134 applications for enhancement of rent, 4,185 were instituted in the district of Budaun, where settlement operations have recently come to a close, and the number was also large in Muzaffarnagar (531) and Bulandshahr (948). The Commissioner of Agra remarks on the difficulty of deciding such cases satisfactorily, and certainly the ordinary procedure is at once cumbrous and liable to lead to very unequal results in the hands of Deputy Collectors, who have often only a limited acquaintance with the district they are posted to. To dispose of such cases promptly and equitably requires an intimate knowledge of the prevailing rates of rent over large tracts of country, and it is a waste of power, when settlements are in progress, not to have the work carried out, as far as possible, by the Settlement Officer, who can dispose of it with a promptness and efficiency that cannot be expected from the ordinary rent courts. It is understood that in the Meerut district the fixation of occupancy rents is proceeding along with the assessment of the revenue.

Into the question of the policy of fixing occupancy rents at settlement the Lieutenant-Governor need not here enter. But he may briefly express his opinion that it is desirable to fix occupancy rents at settlement, at fair and equitable rates, alike in the interests of the Government revenue, which should be assessed on a fair and equitable rental ; in the interests of the landowners, who, if called on to pay an enhanced revenue, ought to be secured a reasonable enhancement of their rents ; and in the interests of the cultivating tenants, who suffer if occupancy rents become stereotyped and sub-infeudation encouraged, as always happens when the margin between the rents paid and the profits of the land becomes excessive.

17. Out of 189,673 applications of all kinds for disposal, 172,904 were actually decided. The percentage of contested applications was little over 10 per cent. of the whole. At the close of the year 16,769 cases were still pending, nearly half of these being applications for enhancement, which had to be left over for local enquiry. The number of applications pending over three months (1,817) was large. The duration of contested cases in Allahabad—over six months on an average —was exceptionally long, and the working of the courts in this district appears to require special attention.

Oudh Rent Law litigation. (Paragraphs 56 to 64.)

18. In Oudh, as in the North-Western Provinces, there was a large increase in rent litigation, the number of suits rising from 29,366 to 35,363. The increase was most marked in suits by landlords for arrears or by tenants to contest notices of ejectment and enhancement. Notwithstanding the increase in suits, the pending file fell from 2,195 to 1,993 cases, which is satisfactory.

19. Notices of ejectment of all kinds increased, in a remarkable manner, from 4,400 affecting 59,779 acres to 13,232 affecting 145,257 acres. During the hard times the landlords were obliged to refrain to some extent from ejecting tenants or enhancing rents, but the restriction on their action is now no longer felt. Illegal ejectments are reported to have been few, and the enhancement of rent obtained on lands re-let, though in individual instances often excessive, does not, on the whole, substantially exceed the proportion allowed by law. Special enquiry is being made as to the large enhancements said to have been effected without even the issue of notices in the Fyzabad district.

Litigation in Kumaun. (Paragraph 65.)

20. In Kumaun, unlike the rest of the divisions of the Provinces, there was a slight decrease in litigation.

Appeals to Collectors, Judges, and Commissioners. (Paragraphs 66 to 70.)

21. There was an increase from 3,844 to 4,052 in the number of appeals to Collectors; from 1,780 to 1,913 in appeals to Judges; and from 4,104 to 5,344 in appeals to Commissioners. The number of appeals pending before Judges at the end of the year rose from 1,327 to 1,441, about one-third of the total number being in the Judgeships of the Benares Division. In Commissioners' Courts 1,499 cases were pending at the close of the year. The only Commissionership in which the power of transferring appeals to Collectors was exercised was Meerut, where 574 cases were so disposed of. The number of appeals rejected summarily by Commissioners rose from 171 to 350, no fewer than 226 being disposed of in this way in Meerut. The power of summary rejection of appeals requires to be cautiously exercised, and the free resort to it in Meerut should have been explained. There was some improvement in the percentage of decisions upheld on appeal.

Judicial work of the Board of Revenue. (Paragraph 71.)

22. The number of cases for disposal by the Board of Revenue rose from 4,109 to 4,602, of which 3,922 were actually decided, the number pending being reduced from 841 to 680. The percentage of cases in which the orders of the lower courts were disturbed was not large.

Coercive processes. (Paragraphs 74 to 79.)

23. The collection of the very large amount of revenue realized during the year was accomplished without any excessive resort to coercive processes. The total number of such processes rose from 47,726 to 60,236, but the latter figure is still below that of 1895-96 or 1894-95. Of the 60,236 processes, mere writs or notices to pay account for 43,990, leaving 16,246 as the number of true coercive processes. The details of these are shown in the following statement:—

		1896-97.		1897-98.

The variations in the number of writs issued still show that sufficient discrimination is not observed in the use of this process, and the attention of District Officers requires to be called to the remarks made by the Board on the subject in the reports of the two preceding years.

24. The practice of issuing to lambardárs slips showing the amount of revenue due has proved of considerable value in some districts, and should, as the Board observe, be specially useful where new settlements have been made. The issue of writs through the post has also been found to be of use where carefully supervised, and generally it may be said of such methods of simplifying the work of revenue collection that their value depends on the attention given by the Collector to seeing that they are used with intelligence and discrimination. Attachments of immovable property increased by 597, or by about 50 per cent., the increase being in the Allahabad Division, and chiefly in the Allahabad district. The Board do not appear to consider that this process was needlessly resorted to in that district, but in other districts of the division the process was not always judiciously applied. The Lieutenant-Governor agrees with the Board that more frequent use might with advantage be made of the process of transferring to co-sharers the rights and interests of defaulters. In only two cases was land sold on account of default in payment of revenue.

Partitions. (Paragraph 86.)

25. There was some increase, both in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, in the number of applications for partition, and over 4,000 cases were before the courts for disposal. In 1,418 cases partitions were actually carried out, resulting in an increase of nearly 3,000 mahúls. The pending file at the close of the year had risen from 1,628 to 1,853 cases, the number being largest in the Meerut and Rohilkhand Divisions.

Advances under the Land Improvement Loans and Agriculturists' Loans Acts. (Paragraphs 87 to 89.)

26. With the passing away of the exceptional conditions of the famine period, the advances given under the Land Improvement and Agriculturists' Loans Acts fell to a normal figure. Under the former Act the amount advanced decreased from nearly 17 lakhs of rupees to Rs. 72,138: under the latter, advances amounted to only Rs. 3,54,100, in place of about 22½ lakhs. The large outstandings for which they were liable made landlords and tenants unwilling to add to their indebtedness, and at the same time, in view of the large sums already advanced by Government and still outstanding, Collectors were obliged to exercise caution in granting further advances. At the commencement of the year the total amount outstanding under the two Acts exceeded 19 lakhs and 30 lakhs respectively, nearly seven lakhs of the amount being on account of loans without interest granted during the famine under the Land Improvement Loans Act. The collections on account of principal were Rs. 7,90,287 under that Act, and Rs. 15,84,833 under the Agriculturists' Loans Act, the balances outstanding at the end of the year, including advances made during the year itself, falling to Rs. 11,65,361 and Rs. 14,53,994 respectively. The reduction of the total principal outstanding from 49 to 26 lakhs is satisfactory and shows as much progress as could reasonably be expected. The amount of interest outstanding at the commencement of the year or falling due within it amounted to Rs. 1,04,976 and Rs. 2,18,851, and the collections to Rs. 53,454 and Rs. 1,27,230 respectively.

The large loans made during the famine period to provide improvements, such as the construction of masonry or earthen wells, and to provide the cultivators with seed and cattle, were of the greatest advantage in encouraging the people in the struggle against famine, in teaching them to rely on their own resources where possible, and in thus diminishing the direct expenditure that fell on the Government for relief. When account is taken of the large sums collected on account of revenue, current and in arrears, the progress in the repayment of loans is satisfactory, and affords proof of the good faith of the people, as a whole, to whom the advances were made. It is hoped that the bulk of the outstandings will be recovered if seasons continue favourable; but in some of the tracts which were most severely afflicted by famine, and notably in Bundelkhand, special consideration in the collection of these advances must be shown.

Weeding and arrangement of revenue records. (Paragraphs 91 and 92.)

27. The Lieutenant-Governor is glad to observe the general improvement that has taken place in the work of weeding and arranging the district record rooms, regarding which the Board were obliged to report somewhat unfavourably in the previous year. With the completion of the work of special weeding, complaints of want of accommodation should become less frequent and less serious.

Settlement. (Paragraphs 105 to 114.)

28. The final settlement reports of four districts were received during the year, but those for eight others are still due, and should be forwarded at as early a date as possible. In the North-Western Provinces, the settlements of Meerut, Sháhjahánpur, and Lalitpur were in full operation, and work was commenced in Bareilly, to which a Settlement Officer has since been appointed. In Meerut a large increase is expected as the result of the revised operations; in Lalitpur the revised revenue is slightly in excess of the previous demand, but there and in Sháhjahánpur no great increase was to be expected, the revision being, however, necessary for the re-distribution of an unequal assessment. In Oudh, good progress has been made in the districts of Bahraich and Kheri, and the re-settlement of that Province is drawing to a close, Gonda being the only district in which the work of assessment has not yet commenced. The Lieutenant-Governor observed during his last tour that patwáris were kept employed on settlement work for an excessively long time to the detriment of their ordinary duties. The administrative inconvenience caused by the failure of patwáris to file their annual papers is commented on by the Collector of Meerut, and steps are now being taken to prevent in future the drawbacks which have accompanied the employment of patwáris on Survey and Settlement work in that district.

Land Record Surveys. (Paragraph 116, and paragraph 18 of Director of Land Records and Agriculture's report.)

29. Survey and record writing operations were completed in Sháhjahánpur, Bahraich, Bijnor, Meerut, and Lalitpur, and were continued or commenced in Bareilly, Kheri, Naini Tal, and Gonda. Altogether some 3,400 square miles were surveyed, and 1,533 patwáris were trained in survey work, of whom 1,295 were found qualified to survey villages themselves. No definite information is given as to the character of their work, but it appears to have been satisfactory and creditable to the Superintendent and his Assistants. As the records and maps are made over to the Settlement Officers, it would be advisable that their opinion should be taken as to the value of the work, with suggestions for remedying any imperfections which may have attracted their notice.

Patwáris. (Paragraphs 118 to 120, and paragraphs 4 and 5 of Director of Land Records and Agriculture's report.)

30. Steps have been taken during the year to raise the standard of qualifications of patwáris and make it more uniform throughout the Provinces. The percentage of passed men has also increased, and the large number of exemptions from examination allowed in some districts is being greatly reduced. The low qualifications of the patwáris in the Allahabad district continue to be noticeable, 196 of the total number having been exempted from examination, and 198 more having as yet failed to pass. The training of the patwáris in this district requires the special attention of the Collector.

31. The pay of the patwáris in Basti, and in parts of Oudh, where it was exceptionally low, has been improved. On the other hand, the re-organization of patwári circles in Agra and Muttra has been accompanied by a reduction in the cost of the establishment; and, while measures have been taken, by the grant of personal allowances, to prevent hardship to individuals, the working of the revised scale requires to be carefully watched, in order that there may be some assurance that the reductions effected are not such as to diminish the efficiency of the staff.

Kánúngos.
(Paragraphs 117 and 118, and paragraphs 2, 3, and 6 of Director of Land Records and Agriculture's report.)

32. It has been necessary to issue special orders to secure attention to the rule giving passed students of the Kánúngo School, Cawnpore, a preferential claim to kánúngo-ships. The educational qualifications of these students are much superior to those of the men from whom up to recent date kánúngos were chiefly recruited, and the time has come when it should be considered whether some restriction might not be placed upon the admission of candidates by examination without passing through the School. At present the Director examines between 200 and 300 candidates a year, of whom some 80 or so pass completely. The supply of such men, in addition to those who pass through the School, must apparently be in excess of the demand, and numbers who pass can have no hope of getting appointments. It should be considered whether the admission of candidates to the annual examination should not be restricted either by raising the educational qualifications necessary before admission, or by authorizing the Director to reject candidates sent up from districts which have already a sufficient number of passed men on the list.

Testing of records.
(Paragraph 121, and paragraphs 8 and 9 of Director of Land Records and Agriculture's report.)

33. The testing of patwáris' records has been satisfactory as far as the field-books are concerned, but insufficient attention has hitherto been paid to the checking of rent-rolls. The remarks made last year will, it is hoped, have the effect of directing the attention of District Officers to this part of their duty. The arrangements for the regular inspection of all circles within three years have now been systematized in most districts.

Pargana books.
(Paragraph 123, and paragraph 14 of Director of Land Records and Agriculture's report.)

34. It is satisfactory to learn that the value of the pargana book, in enabling District Officers to localize deterioration of soils and in indicating the direction which enquiries should take, is now recognised, and that these books are being brought into more general and practical use than was formerly the case. The occurrences of recent years have emphasized the necessity for placing at the disposal of every District Officer the best information available regarding the agricultural condition of every village of his district, and with the pargana books, properly kept up to date and annotated where necessary, this information will be available in as convenient a form as it has yet been found possible to devise.

Agricultural depression.
(Paragraph 127, and note by Director of Land Records and Agriculture.)

35. The Director's summary of the district reports on agricultural depression shows that, as a rule, the seasons proved favourable in almost all the tracts classed as "precarious":—

"The unirrigated uplands received sufficient rain; the river valleys suffered from no abnormal floods; the rice lands of the eastern districts were neither parched nor flooded; the area covered by the káns weed generally contracted, and no new source of danger came prominently to notice."

In reviewing the Board's report for 1895-96, the Lieutenant-Governor expressed at length his views as to the use to be made of the information that is, or should be, contained in these annual reports on precarious tracts. The tendency in a time of prosperity is to make light of or to forget the possibilities of deterioration, and it is only by the compilation of the information available as to the calamities of the past that the tendency can be corrected, and attention directed to the localities where distress may be anticipated in the next cycle of bad seasons. The Lieutenant-Governor is glad to learn that the work of compiling the information collected in past years is now well advanced.

36. The reports of almost all the District Officers indicate some degree of surprise at the rapid recovery from the famine and the complete disappearance of its effects. At the beginning of the year good crops and high prices benefited the landowning and cultivating classes. The subsequent fall of prices, though resulting from excellent harvests, and though of great benefit to the labouring and urban classes, produced some dissatisfaction among the rent and revenue paying classes, but the fall was, all things considered, not severe, though doubtless it may have militated against the easy collection of the arrears in addition to the current demands in some districts. In some of the western districts serious losses were caused by the fall in the price of indigo. Allusion is also made in some reports to the effect of low prices on the cultivation of sugar and on the trade in that article—a subject which has been separately examined and discussed. In the southern tracts of the Allahabad Division, and in some parts of Oudh, the recovery from agricultural depression is less complete than elsewhere, but special measures for the relief of the people from assessments which are now excessive have been taken; and, after allowing for all such considerations, the year has undoubtedly been one of much material prosperity at a time when it was sorely wanted. The revenue and other demands of Government have been collected with comparative ease; the demand for labour has been good; and the condition of all classes has improved.

37. The Lieutenant-Governor, in conclusion, desires to thank the Board for their supervision of the Revenue Administration during the year and for their excellent report.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of this Resolution be forwarded to the Secretary to the Board of Revenue, North-Western Provinces and Oudh, for the information of the Board.

REPORT

ON THE

North-Western Provinces and Oudh,

FOR THE REVENUE YEAR 1898-99.

No. $\frac{1212}{XII-163}$ of 1900.

FROM

H. F. HOUSE, ESQ., I. C. S.,
SECRETARY TO THE BOARD OF REVENUE,
NORTH-WESTERN PROVINCES AND OUDH,

To

THE SECRETARY TO GOVERNMENT,
NORTH-WESTERN PROVINCES AND OUDH,
REVENUE DEPARTMENT.

Dated Allahabad, the 4th April 1900.

SIR,

Present:
HON'BLE MR. D. T. ROBERTS AND E. ROSE, ESQ.

I AM directed to submit, with the usual appendices, the Board's report on the Revenue Administration of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh for the year which ended on the 30th September 1899.

2. The office of Senior Member was held by Mr. Moule up to the 14th November 1898, when he retired from the service, making over charge to the Hon'ble Mr. LaTouche, who had returned to the Board from the appointment of Officiating Lieutenant-Governor. Mr. LaTouche continued as Senior Member up to 30th December, when he joined the Governor-General's Council as Additional Member. Mr. Evans, who was then Junior Member, officiated for him, his place being taken by Mr. D. T. Roberts. On Mr. LaTouche's return to the Board, on the 29th March 1899, Mr. Evans was placed on special duty with the Local Government, on the completion of which he proceeded on furlough. Mr. Roberts accordingly continued to officiate as Junior Member. These arrangements remained undisturbed up to the close of the year.

3. The divisional reports were all received before the close of the calendar year. The last to arrive was that of the Benares division, where the delay was due to the tardy submission of the Mirzapur report. Similar unpunctuality in the Bánda district, coupled with incomplete returns, accounts for the delay which took place in the receipt of the Allahabad report. In the case of Agra, it is attributed to the suspension of ordinary work which the visit of His Excellency the Viceroy of India entailed. There was also slight delay in the case of Lucknow, which is unexplained, but it was probably due to the same cause.

PART I.

Chapter I.—AGRICULTURAL.

SECTION I.—RAINFALL AND HARVESTS. Appendix I.

4. The monsoon of 1898 opened with light showers about the middle of June. In the Meerut, Agra, Rohilkhand and Fyzabad divisions the fall of the month was below the normal. In the first week of July rain again fell in the Doáb, Rohilkhand and North Oudh, but it was not till the second week that it became general and adequate, ceasing gradually in the third week. Then followed in most districts a somewhat prolonged break of hot weather, relieved by a timely fall of rain in the last few days of the month. During August the rainfall was very irregular. In some districts it was unusually heavy and continuous. Good and well-distributed rain fell during the first and second weeks of September, after which, in the western half of the Provinces, only a few slight showers were received. In the eastern districts, however, including parts of Oudh, heavy falls again marked the third week of the month, ushering in the close of the monsoon. The winter rains, although somewhat insufficient in some districts, proved everywhere most beneficial. There was a fairly general fall at the end of December, and good rain again fell in the first week of January in most districts of the Provinces. The severe frost, however, by which it was followed caused no little damage, more particularly to the arhar crop. Light showers again fell in the first-half of February. Over the Provinces, as a whole, the rainfall of the year averaged 47·5 inches, as compared with 44·4 inches, the average of the preceding five years.

5. Although the rains may be said to have set in rather late, the delay was compensated by the excellence of their distribution, and the periodical breaks which afforded opportunity for careful weeding. At one time, however, in August it looked as if the heavy and continuous rain in some districts would cause considerable injury. Local damage was done to the rice crop in lowlying lands, which were temporarily flooded, but it was nowhere serious or extensive except in Ballia and Gonda, where the autumn crops along the banks of rivers suffered severely. Speaking generally, the early rice felt the effects of want of sufficient rain at the beginning of the monsoon, while the later transplanted crop would have been a still better crop had more copious falls been received at the close of the rains. The heavy downpour in August did serious injury to indigo. The spring crops were sown in good time, and the outturn, taken all round, almost up to normal. Gram suffered at first from frost, but, thanks to the rain in February, was eventually a much better crop than had been expected. Barley and wheat in places suffered from the depredations of field rats, and from the strong westerly March winds; but the injury so experienced was local, and not of such a nature as to affect the general outturn.

6. The character of the harvests in each of the divisions may be briefly noticed.

Meerut.—The autumn harvest was good. In Aligarh it is reported to have been the best gathered for years. Rice suffered a little for want of sufficient rain at first, and cotton was damaged to some extent by insects. The outturn of the spring crops was satisfactory on the whole, although gram, peas, and sugarcane were in places attacked by insects, and arhar and oilseeds generally suffered a good deal from frost.

Agra.—The outturn of all the main autumn crops, except indigo, was fairly well up to the average, and the spring harvest, save for the injury done to the arhar by frost, was but little below the normal.

Rohilkhand.—The autumn harvest was everywhere a very good one. The spring crops, however, did not do so well as in 1898. The frosts in January, and high winds in March, materially affected the produce.

Allahabad.—The autumn harvest was good in the Doáb and slightly below normal in Bundelkhand. The outturn of the spring crops was fair on the whole, but unequal. Frost and want of enough rain adversely affected them. The red soil tracts in Jhánsi, where irrigated, did well, but in the black soil the prevalence of kâns helped to account for a very moderate crop.

Benares.—In several districts the autumn harvest suffered from flooding. The spring crops were generally fair, but not so good as those of the previous year. Arhar and gram were injured by frost.

Gorakhpur.—The outturn of nearly all the autumn crops was below the normal, owing to excessive rain. The spring crops were fairly good.

Kumaun.—Except in Garhwál, which felt the adverse effects of too much rain, the crops of both harvests in this division were very fair.

Lucknow.—The autumn harvest was up to the normal. There was a little injury done by excessive rain, and field rats, which also did some damage to the spring crops. But even allowing for the harm done by frost to the gram, peas and arhar, the yield was equal to or above the average.

Fyzabad.—Both harvests were, on the whole, good, although not quite up to the mark of the preceding year.

7. The following figures given by the Director of Land Records and Agriculture contrast the average estimated outturn of the principal crops for the entire Province with that of 1897-98, 100 being taken to denote a normal crop :—

8. The following summary of the character of the rains in 1899, and the prospects of the current year, is excerpted from the half-yearly agricultural report of the Director of Land Records and Agriculture :—

The month of May was much rainier than usual, particularly in Oudh and the eastern districts of these Provinces. The first week was dry over nearly the whole area : light falls were reported from some western districts during the second week, while during the third and fourth weeks rain fell almost everywhere. The rain was of great use to the cane and indigo crops and facilitated ploughing for the kharíf. The regular rains commenced in the second week of June and continued uninterruptedly up till the end of the third week of July. The rainfall of June was above the normal in every district in the Provinces, and the excesses were generally great. During July, too, the rainfall was above the normal, except in some districts of the Meerut, Rohilkhand and Agra divisions and in parts of Bundelkhand. The excess was on the whole greatest in the eastern and north-eastern districts, in some of which the fall for the month was about two feet. The continuous and heavy rainfall of June and July retarded all agricultural operations considerably. Some fields had to be resown ; in others the seed which was put in the ground was severely damaged by the excessive moisture. A general break, however, ensued in the last week of July and continued with slight interruptions during the first and part of the second week in August. In the first week of August there was no rain whatever in the Meerut division, and only scanty falls in Agra, Benares, and the greater part of Oudh. The weather changed again towards the end of the second week and there was good rain everywhere except in parts of the Meerut and Agra divisions. In the third week there was again rain in every district. It was ample or excessive in Benares, Gorakhpur, Lucknow and Fyzabad ; but in Meerut, Agra, and Rohilkhand the amount was in places insufficient. The last week of August gave heavy rain to Allahabad, Benares, Gorakhpur and Oudh ; but the Meerut and Agra divisions and parts of Rohilkhand again showed a deficiency, which was most marked in the whole of the Meerut division and in Muttra Agra, Bijnor, and Moradabad. The rainfall of the month was generally below the normal ; but it was sufficient in the whole of Allahabad (except Jhánsi), Benares, Gorakhpur, and both divisions of Oudh . It was generally insufficient in Meerut and Agra, specially in the districts of Aligarh, Muttra, and Agra, in each of which the total fall was only about half an inch. On the other hand the fall in the Gorakhpur district was double the average, and there was excessive rain in Fyzabad. In the first week of September there was practically no rain ; but in the second there was good rain in Oudh, the eastern divisions, Allahabad, the eastern districts of Agra, and in parts of the districts of Bareilly and Pilibhít. In Meerut and Kumaun and in the rest of Agra and Rohilkhand the fall was less and was generally insufficient. The rainfall in this week was very opportune and saved the Province from what would have been a most serious calamity. The third week was marked by good rain in Benares, Ballia, and Gorakhpur, and by slight showers in other localities; but in Meerut and Rohilkhand the period was practically rainless. After September 25th no rain fell, and dry westerly winds set in. The month of October was exceptionally dry: the only falls of importance in the third week were in Bijnor and Muzaffarngar, and in the last week, when general rain fell in most tahsíls of the Benares and Gorakhpur divisions and in parts of Fyzabad, Gonda and Sultánpur.

Owing to survey or settlement operations crop returns have not this year been received from certain tracts. The total kharíf area of the rest of the Province amounts to 17,271,860 acres. The area of the same tracts worked out for the last year comes to 17,825,443 acres: so that the present year's area shows a decrease of 553,583 acres, or 3 per cent. The decrease is due to the heavy and continuous rains of June and July, which hampered sowings and in low lands destroyed the seed altogether. The district of Muttra shows, since last year, an increase of 5 per cent; Muzaffarnagar and Rae Bareli of 4 per cent each; Allahabad of 3 per cent; Sultánpur, Partábgarh and Bara Banki of two per cent each; Lucknow of one per cent; and Bulandshahr, Aligarh and Moradabad of less than one per cent. Elsewhere there has been a decrease, which is greatest in Jalaun (22 per cent), Ballia (13 per cent), Hamírpur (12 per cent.), Farukhabad, Mainpuri and Cawnpore (11 per cent each), Jhánsi (10 per cent), and Etáwah (8 per cent). This decrease, it may be remarked, occurred in the area sown; the area harvested being apparently still less in consequence of the utter destruction of crops in places owing to drought at the end of the season.

The abnormal nature of the season's rainfall has already been described. The unusually heavy falls of rain in June and July were far in excess of requirements. Not only were all agricultural operations seriously retarded, but much of the crop on low lands was practically lost; while elsewhere it suffered more or less from excess of moisture. This period of excessive rainfall was followed by deficient rain in August and September and by westerly winds. The crops which were irrigated were, however, saved and were in good condition; but those which had no means of artificial irrigation suffered greatly. In the Meerut division, in parts of the Agra and Rohilkhand divisions, and in Jhánsi, where the rainfall in the latter half of the season was in considerable defect, the crop has hardly been more than half the normal. For the rest of the Province taken as a whole it may be put at about 75 per cent.

Early rice generally escaped destruction from drought, but the late rice was practically a failure except where irrigation was possible. Maize suffered heavily from excessive rain in the beginning, and juár from drought at the end of the season. The bájra crop has been comparatively better, and til (which requires little rain) excellent. For the Province as a whole the condition of the principal kharíf crops is given in the following table in parts of 100; 100 denoting a normal crop :—

Maize	50
Juár	62
Bájra	75

SECTION II—HAILSTORMS, FLOODS AND OTHER CALAMITIES.

9. The occurrence of hailstorms, more or less serious, is reported from most divisions. In Muzaffarnagar, Pilibhít, Sháhjahánpur and Garhwál they appear to have been severe, but the injury done was nowhere so great as to call for suspension of the revenue demand. In the last-named district the storm was accompanied by a regrettable loss of human life, no less than 27 persons having been killed in it. Some deaths were also caused by a storm in the Kheri district in May. Floods occurred in the Budaun, Sháhjahánpur, Azamgarh and Gorakhpur districts, the autumn crops of many villages being temporarily submerged, but the loss entailed was not such as to necessitate revenue suspensions. The damage done by field rats has already been alluded to. It was ascertained, that it was much less than had been expected. The rice crop in Ballia is said to have been attacked by a new kind of insect, but its ravages do not appear to have been extensive, and the information regarding it supplied by the Collector is scanty.

In regard to locusts, which are reported from the Meerut, Rohilkhand, Benares and Lucknow divisions, the Commissioner of the first-named, alluding to the Muzaffarnagar district, writes as follows :—

The method of exterminating locusts by means of a fungus disease was tried, but with little success. A certain number of locusts, says Mr. Gracey, appeared to die through coming into contact with the corpses of those that had died through being actually dipped in or sprinkled with the fungus, but the number of deaths from this cause was not sufficient to have any very marked effect on the swarms. Thousands of small birds put in their appearance after a while, and the eventual destruction or dispersal of the locusts must be mainly ascribed to their attacks. The partial failure of the experiment is attributed by the Collector to the character of the swarms. The locusts, he explains, were not huddled in almost solid masses as they ordinarily are when the insects are full grown, but were sattered somewhat sparsely in various stages of development over a large area. A contagious disease was thus unlikely to have a fair chance among them.

SECTION III.—HEALTH.

10. Taken on the whole, the year under review was a fairly healthy one, and compared not unfavourably with 1897-98. The death-rate in the eastern districts generally was higher than in the preceding year, while in the western half of the Province, including the Allahabad division, where the year was a very healthy one, the number of deaths was lower. The mortality from epidemic disease remained appreciably insignificant. True, there were outbreaks of cholera in Dehra Dún, all three districts of Kumaun, Bijnor, Benares and Gorakhpur, responsible for a considerable number of deaths, but the attacks, though sharp while they lasted, as in the case of mauza Dhámpur in Bijnor, soon succumbed to the measures taken to meet them. Small-pox was again but little in evidence. The Commissioner of Lucknow thinks the intense cold weather in the earlier months of the year accounts for some of the increased mortality in his division. Malarial fever, as usual, has most to answer for, particularly in Oudh, where its effects were unusually fatal. In many districts quinine and other febrifuges were distributed free of charge to those who could not afford to pay for them, while the sale of pice packets was also kept up, though without any marked degree of success. The Board notice with regret that in Lucknow the experiment has been discontinued. What Mr. Hooper, Commissioner of the Fyzabad division says, is no doubt true, that as a rule the quantity sold or distributed—does not appear to have been large enough to have had any appreciable effect in staying the mortality from fever; and it will probably take time for the use of quinine as a medicine to become general and popular among the rural population.

The Provinces happily remained free from plague throughout the year. The result of the investigations made during the spring by the two officers of the Indian Medical Service deputed by the Plague Commission to inquire into and report on the disease known as hill plague or mahámari, the great sickness which breaks out from time to time in epidemic form in the northern parganas of Garhwál, will be awaited with interest.

SECTION IV.—CATTLE DISEASE.

11. The subject of cattle disease is an interesting one, and its importance has been fully recognised in the divisional reports. The year under review was a bad one for cattle. Gorakhpur is the only division where the mortality is reported to have been less than in the preceding twelve months. Everywhere else an increase, more or less considerable, is noted. To what extent this may be attributable to more careful registration it is not easy to say, but the fact appears probable that the loss which occurred was greater than usual. Foot-and-mouth disease and rinderpest were responsible for most of the deaths. The latter appeared in epidemic form in several districts. The endeavours made to encourage a more general resort to inoculation as a preventive measure have been frequently referred to by Commissioners. From Meerut Mr. Williams writes:—

In Bulandshahr the enormous increase in mortality, as compared with the previous year, is attributed to the efforts made to secure accurate registration. Rinderpest is said to have been imported into this district by cattle dealers coming from the Punjáb, and the Collector writes that until some measures are taken to prevent the importation of infected animals, little can be done to check the ravages of the disease. Efforts were also made to get the skins of diseased animals destroyed and to segregate the animals attacked from those that were sound; but Mr. Radice reports that no great measure of success was obtained, nor will it ever be obtained so long as the remedy is not compulsory. But I do not agree with him. The inoculations carried out by Captain Rogers gave excellent results, and it is satisfactory to notice that the people were willing enough, where the disease was virulent, to have their cattle inoculated. This disproves Mr. Radice's theory that the people are not open to conviction.

In Aligarh about 224 cattle were inoculated and not one of them contracted the disease. Considering that over 90 per cent. were out of infected herds, the result is, as observed by the Collector, conclusive proof of the value of the method. Mr. Molony has no doubt that if inoculation is carried out with tact and perseverence and without any show of compulsion, it will in time become well established, especially as the process is so simple that a District Veterinary Assistant could easily operate after a little training.

Interesting experiments were also made in Bareilly and Bijnor. Captain Rogers, I.M.S., the Imperial Bacteriologist, visited two villages in the Aonla tahsíl of the former district, and experienced no difficulty in obtaining the consent of the villagers to the inoculation of their cattle. The Collector, Mr. Boas, writes:—

It is a significant fact that as soon as it was explained to them that their cattle were to be treated in exactly a similar way as they themselves are when vaccinated, the villagers at once expressed their willingness to have their cattle experimented on.

The operations then undertaken formed the subject of a Government Resolution, No. $\frac{2067}{I-446C}$, dated 16th June 1899, and the results obtained were summed up as follows:—

The experience gained in Bareilly is important as indicating that with judicious explanation the villagers can be induced to consent to the experiments: and the Lieutenant-Governor desires that District Officers will in a similar way arrange to give assistance to the Bacteriologist when similar outbreaks occur. In this way inoculation against rinderpest may become in time so popular that the ordinary District Veterinary staff may be able to practise it to the great benefit of the people and the country.

A similar readiness on the part of the owners of uninfected cattle is reported from Bijnor, where the District Board have shown their sympathy with the movement in a tangible form, by allotting Rs. 1,000 in their next year's budget to meet the cost of a veterinary hospital, the working of which will be watched with interest. The Imperial Bacteriologist also visited the Jalaun district with a view to carrying out similar inoculations for rinderpest there, but arrived too late, when the severity of the outbreak had abated. From inquiries made by the Deputy Commissioner of Almora it appeared at first that the villagers, whose cattle were affected, were not disposed to agree to inoculation, but he has since reported that their disinclination has disappeared. Many District Boards now maintain Veterinary Assistants, and their services have been found most useful, where the people have been ready to accept them; but as the Commissioner of Agra says, they usually prefer their own remedies to a more scientific treatment, and the system has not been long enough in force to become properly appreciated. The Collector of Benares believes that they have succeeded in teaching agriculturists the value of segregating diseased animals. Mr. Cox, in Hardoi, distributed printed instructions in the vernacular, which ought to prove useful. Both Bara Banki and Fyzabad report prejudice on the part of the cultivators against the measures proposed for preventing infection. In the latter district Mr. Dampier has endeavoured to overcome such objections by enlisting the co-operation and interest of the taluqdárs, landowners and members of the District Boards, which, as the Commissioner notes, is a step in the right direction.

A curious case is mentioned by the Collector of Azamgarh, Mr. Rogers, who writes as follows:—

In village Usargawan, of tahsíl Deogaon, it was found that certain chamár women had spread the rinderpest epidemic artificially by the burying of infected meat brought from a village named Bargahan. They were prosecuted and committed to the Sessions by Mr. W. B. Cotton, C.S., Joint Magistrate, one under section $\frac{429}{109}$, Indian Penal Code, and two under section 429, Indian Penal Code, but the learned Sessions Judge acquitted them on the ground that the evidence was not sufficiently reliable to prove that the act was done by these very accused. Inquiries made subsequently showed that there was no other similar instance in any other place.

He adds that further inquiries are being made. In a thickly-populated district like this, which has, in days gone by, earned an unenviable notoriety for cattle theft and poisoning, special vigilance is called for in these circumstances.

SECTION V—PRICES.

12. The remarkable fall in prices which took place towards the close of 1897-98 was noticed by the Board in their last report. In most districts grain was then selling at lower rates even than at harvesting time. Everywhere through the Provinces up to the end of July 1899 similar conditions obtained. Export was slack, and stocks accumulated in the hands both of producers and dealers. Before the sudden drop which took place in August wheat was being sold for from 18 to 21 seers the rupee in some districts. But the abrupt failure of the monsoon rapidly changed the aspect of the market. Exports to Bombay, Rajputána and the Panjáb soon ran up prices, and though they eased off again as the cold weather set in, the rise to a great extent remained permanent. Low prices, however, are by no means an unmixed blessing. From more than one division it is reported that the cheapness of produce very unfavourably affected the collection of rents. Mr. Hardy, Commissioner of Lucknow, observes :—

> The very low prices prevailing throughout the agricultural year made the collection of rent extremely difficult. In one estate—Oel—in the Kheri district, which is under the Court of Wards, and which is largely grain-rented, the low prices resulted in a loss, as compared with the estimate of a sum not far short of a lakh of rupees.

Another interesting factor in the sudden rise in prices, which took place in the autumn, was the speculation induced, no doubt, by the low rates then prevailing, and the unusually full stocks for which, in association with a plentiful harvest, they were responsible. Alluding to this feature, Mr. Gracey writes from Muzaffarnagar :—

> Grain speculation, or rather gambling pure and simple, has been rife during the last few months to a pernicious extent and has undoubtedly affected market prices largely. The same stock of grain, without ever being really moved, changes ownership a dozen times a week under the speculative transactions known as "galti" and "badni," and fictitious prices, not honestly brought about by the laws of demand and supply, result. Pits of buried grain, too, have been kept until the grain became unfit for consumption, rather than let it get on the market at cheap rates. Recognising the above facts, but viewing them through the magnifying glass of personal loss and discomfort, the poorer classes whose wages are paid in cash, not kind, are cherishing at the present time feelings of no small bitterness against the grain-dealers. Such feelings cannot, I think, be said to constitute a political danger; at the same time those who cherish them have looked towards Government for help, and although they can get no other answer than that it is not the policy of Government to interfere with the rights of trade, they are hardly satisfied with such a reply.

Chapter II.—FINANCIAL.

SECTION I.—INTRODUCTORY.

13. The total receipts from the several sources of income treated of in this report amounted to Rs. 8,53,75,740 as against Rs. 8,54,26,011 in the previous year, showing a net decrease of Rs. 50,271. The details are given in the following table :—

SECTION II.—LAND REVENUE ON THE ROLL.

Appendix A-I.—Collections on account of the current demand.

15. The following statement contains information in regard to the land revenue demand and collections during the year under review:—

As compared with 1897-98 there was an increase in the demand of Rs. 4,89,324. It is accounted for in the usual way by the revenue enhancements which fell due for the first time during the year. Meerut, Bijnor, Budaun and all the districts of Oudh, except Kheri and Gonda, contributed to this total. For the combined provinces the percentage of demand collected was 97·8, the same as in the preceding year. When nominal balances, however, are excluded there is a slight improvement from 98·39 to 98·58 in the year under report.

16. The balance as shown in column 4 is made up as follows:—

	Rs.
Doubtful	3,632
Irrecoverable	2,522
Nominal	4,45,755
Recoverable	8,75,999

Doubtful. The doubtful balance represents arrears due for the year 1306 fasli from deteriorated villages in the Cawnpore district in which reductions of revenue have already been sanctioned by Government with effect from 1307 fasli. The Collector held the collection of this sum in suspense, and intends to apply for its remission during the current year.

Irrecoverable. The amount classed as irrecoverable is chiefly on account of reductions sanctioned in the Muzaffarnagar district by G. O. No. $\frac{473}{I.—326C}$, dated 1st February 1899, in consequence of injury caused to the lands in the Ganges khadir by the Gohna lake flood.

Nominal. The greater part of the balances shown as nominal falls under one or other of the following heads :—

		Rs.
(a)	Remissions of revenue on account of deterioration, sanctioned during the year	2,72,625
(b)	Reduction of revenue at the regular revision of settlement, which took effect during the year	30,961
(c)	Revenue due from estates the settlement of which was annulled during the year	61,546

For the sum shown against (a) the following districts are responsible :—

		Rs.
Allahabad Division ...	Cawnpore	18,915
	Bánda	73,091
	Hamírpur	66,516
	Allahabad	22,602
	Jhánsi	43,580
Lucknow Division ...	Unao	8,775
	Hardoi	31,376

The balance in Cawnpore is the sequel to reductions sanctioned by G. O. No. $\frac{3166}{I—18B—1}$, dated 12th October 1898. These orders were not received in time for the arrears to be removed from the accounts before the commencement of the revenue year. The remissions in Bánda, Hamírpur and Allahabad are the result of the reductions sanctioned in connection with the revision of assessments undertaken by Mr. Fremantle in depressed tracts in those districts. The remission of Rs. 43,580 in the Jhánsi district follows on reductions granted in kâns infected villages. The balance in Unao is a consequence of the reductions provisionally sanctioned in G. O. No. $\frac{3531}{I—902C}$, dated 16th October 1899, and in Hardoi of the relief which was approved by Government in G. O. No. $\frac{1411}{I—814A}$, dated 1st May 1899. It seems unnecessary to refer here in any further detail to these proceedings, on all of which separate reports have been submitted and independent orders passed.

(b) The reductions effected at the regular revision of settlement are practically confined to the Lalitpur Subdivision of the Jhánsi district, and to Hardoi.

(c) The larger portion of the balance exhibited under this head is accounted for by three districts—

	Rs.
Bánda	14,442
Hamírpur	4,471
Jhánsi	39,988

In Jhánsi the Gursarai Estate is liable for the whole of the balance shown against that district. In Bánda and Hamírpur it is the fruit of the policy which it has now been decided to adopt. In their No. 377, dated 25th April 1899, the Board reported to Government the action it was proposed to take in villages where, notwithstanding the reductions of revenue sanctioned in accordance with Mr. Fremantle's recommendations, arrears still continued to accumulate. The wishes of Government in this connection were conveyed in G. O. No. 1805, dated 26th May 1899, and in accordance with the directions then issued the settlements of numerous estates have since been annulled. A large extension of the system of direct management has been the immediate result of this policy, from which the Board trust that much ultimate good will come.

Recoverable.

The balance classed as recoverable amounts to Rs. 8,75,999, of which it may be noted that Rs. 88,862 have been realised since the close of the year under report. The amount left outstanding may be classified as under :—

	Rs.
Due from Court of Wards and Government estates ...	24,251
Due from estates held under attachment for recovery of arrears of Government revenue ...	1,32,636
Due from defaulters residing in other districts ...	8,242
Suspended by order of Government	27,108
In train of recovery	5,94,900

Following the divisional sequence adopted throughout, the balances entered in column 7 of the statement given in paragraph 15 may now be briefly reviewed.

Meerut Division.—All the districts in this division show a clear balance sheet except Aligarh. The small arrear in this district, the consequence of short rainfall, lies chiefly in tahsíls Khair and Iglas, and its recovery has been postponed till the next harvest comes in. The Collector is not sanguine that he will even then be able to realise it in full.

Agra Division.—The entire demand for the year was realised in the districts of Farukhabad and Etah. The balances in Muttra and Agra are covered by suspensions sanctioned in distressed tracts, where the autumn crops have suffered severely from the early cessation of the rains. The trifling arrears in other districts of this division do not call for any special notice.

Rohilkhand Division.—The arrears in this division aggregate Rs. 1,05,694, and are chiefly due in Bareilly, Budaun and Sháhjahánpur. The balance in Bareilly is almost altogether due from estates held under direct management after attachment. The Board regret to notice that so little attention was paid to this important sphere of work during the year under report. The matter will be again referred to later on in Chapter IV. The collections in Budaun were better than in the previous year, and might have shewn still further improvement but for slackness on the part of the tahsíldárs of Dataganj and Gunnaur. Sháhjahánpur is responsible for no less than three-fourths of the entire balance outstanding in the division. The Collector (Mr. Wild) explains that, apart from the difficulties due to over-assessment, the last spring harvest was not good; while, but for the unfavourable outlook towards the close of the year, the collections would have been better than they were. Granting all this, the Board are not satisfied that as much attention has been bestowed on the revenue administration of this district as the extreme importance of the subject demanded.

Allahabad Division.—It will be seen that two-thirds of the real balance in the United Provinces are due from the various districts comprised in the Allahabad division. The Allahabad district alone answers for Rs. 1,67,106. Discussing the situation in his report the Collector (Mr. Ferard) writes :—

"Our land revenue arrears are in fact due to a combination of hardship and recusancy the direct result of the famine followed by a period of low prices. The paramount necessity of setting things straight is obvious, especially with the settlement coming on the district within five years. Steps have already been taken to effect this in the only way which I consider possible without undue hardship, viz., to face the necessity of direct management of a number of villages under a special staff."

The Board have confidence in Mr. Ferard's energy and judgment, and in the effective control of the Commissioner, Mr. Alexander, and they feel sure that no effort will be spared to make this procedure successful.

The arrears in Fatehpur represent about 8 per cent. of the yearly demand, and are attributed by the Collector (Mr. D. L. Johnston) more to recusancy than to actual inability to pay. The recovery of over Rs. 21,000 after the close of the year, and before his report was submitted, would seem to give some colour to this explanation, which, it may be observed, is not an altogether creditable one to have to make. The Commissioner, Mr. Alexander, on the other hand, thinks the root of the evil lies deeper. After noticing the Collector's remarks, he goes on to say :—

"From information given me by the Director of Land Records and from my own enquiries I am, however, inclined to believe that in spite of an equitable settlement there are many villages in this district in which the land revenue demand now presses severely, and that it is very advisable to give such villages special attention. Takavi well distributed may do a good deal, but I fancy it will be found advisable to follow the Collector of Allahabad's lead, and take over a certain number under direct management. The reason of the deterioration seems to be chiefly want of either ability or of will on the part of the zamíndárs to supply their tenants with seed and cattle, and a general feeling of mistrust regarding the repayment of loans for agricultural purposes on the part of local money lenders."

Rupees 6,426 were collected in Banda after the close of the year, and Rs. 44,450 are due from estates under direct management. The arrears in Hamírpur are heavy and are explained by the Collector to be due to a great extent from people who can but who do not pay, while others have not the means of meeting the demands against them. Although liberal reductions of revenue have been sanctioned in recent years, the Collector believes that a number of villages are still over-assessed. The arrears in Jhánsi are attributable to deterioration owing to the spread of káns. A special officer was deputed to revise the assessments of villages in which this weed had spread, and as a result large reductions of revenue were granted in the previous year. The Collector believes that there are still a large number of villages in which the demand presses heavily though the deterioration was not sufficient to bring them within the scope of the proposals for reduction of revenue, and the Commissioner fears that in the current year arrears in this district are likely to increase appreciably. The Collector of Jalaun states that the balance in this district is due from impoverished proprietors. Owing to a succession of bad years and consequent accumulation of arrears it was found impossible to realize the balance within the year. Mr. Alexander is inclined to think that inability to pay has as much as dishonest recusancy to do with the large arrears, and the Collector has been asked to consider the advisability of resorting to direct management as in the other districts of this division. The Revenue Administration of this division requires careful attention and control: there are some districts in which recusancy does not receive the strenuous treatment it requires: there are tracts, and they are unfortunately extensive, in which the inability of the proprietors to meet the demands of Government is due to causes for which they are not responsible and in these tracts the question of adjusting the demand has for some time past received careful attention. There is more, however, to be done, and the constant watchfulness of the local authorities will be required for the recovery of the just demands of the State, on the one hand, and to prevent over-pressure and undue coercion on the other.

Benares Division.—In the Benares division the Commissioner notes that most of the balance in the Benares district was due in the Chandauli tahsíl and the collections would have been far more satisfactory if the tahsíldár had exerted himself earlier in the year and had a better control over his subordinates. With regard to the Mirzapur district, the Commissioner remarks:—

"The Collector complains of the difficulty of collecting the revenue in the Mirzapur tahsíl, owing to the number of petty impoverished and recalcitrant zamindárs in that tahsíl. He also remarks that the Raja of Kantit shows a bad example by not paying until his property is attached."

Of the very large balance outstanding in Jaunpur (Rs. 55,717) nearly Rs. 19,000 are due from the Dube Estate under the management of the Court of Wards. The Collector attributes the short collections to low prices and to the almost entire failure of the maize crop which is the principal staple of the district, while the Commissioner is inclined to think that the results are due to the fact 'that a number of tenants and zamíndárs have been allowed to get out of hand and to think that they might pay or not just as they liked.' He adds that measures are being taken to disabuse the people of this idea, but that it will take some years of firm administration to get the district into proper order. The fact that Rs. 12,659 were collected shortly after the close of the year, shows that had an effort been made in time the arrears might have been very much less than they were on the 30th September. In Gházipur the collections have been good. In the accounts of the Ballia district the whole of the demand is shown as having been recovered: but it appears that this desirable result has been attained by crediting sums in anticipation of payment. The matter is under inquiry.

Gorakhpur Division.—Of the revenue demand in the Gorakhpur district all but Rs. 8,100 was collected. The major portion of this balance is due from the Gorakhpur tahsíl. In Basti collections have been very good, the outstanding balance of about Rs. 1,000 being nominal. In Azamgarh the arrears are chiefly due in the two tahsíls of Muhammadabad and Sagri. The tahsíldar of the former tahsíl was unequal to the task and had to be replaced, while the tahsíldar of Sagri was suspended on account of serious charges against him which are under enquiry. In both of these tahsíls work is exceptionally heavy, but the Board are of opinion that the poor results shown are due in some measure to the lack of sufficient supervision on the part of the Collector.

Kumaun Division.—The arrears in the Kumaun Division do not call for special notice. The balance in Almora though larger than usual, is unexplained.

Lucknow Division.—In the Lucknow Division collections have been good in the Lucknow, Rae Bareli, Sítapur and Kheri districts. Of the balance of Rs. 22,563, shown as in train of liquidation in Unao, the collection of a sum of Rs. 18,916 has been suspended in accordance with the orders conveyed in G. O. No. $\frac{3766A}{I-499B}$, dated 3rd November 1899. The real balance was only Rs. 3,647, and it was further reduced shortly after the close of the year. The existence of arrears in Sitapur is due to peculiar circumstances. The rural police rate was introduced in certain parganas by G. O. No. $\frac{793}{VIII-5}$, dated 28th September 1898. The Rája of Muhammadabad objected to the payment of the rate for the whole year on the ground that he only became aware of the orders imposing its collection during the latter half of the year, and that he was therefore at the utmost liable only to payment of one half the annual demand. Payments made by the Rája on account of land revenue were credited by the tahsíldar to the rural police rate, and on a representation being made to him, the Deputy Commissioner deferred the collection of a sum of land revenue equivalent to the kharíf instalment of the rate. The Board have in their No. $\frac{124}{IV-372}$, dated 20th January 1900, recommended the refund of Rs. 3,216, and the accounts will be adjusted as soon as the orders of Government are received. The collections in Hardoi were satisfactory. Half the balance outstanding or Rs. 3,102 is due from attached estates.

Fyzabad Division.—The realizable balance in this division was Rs. 25,346. The balances in Fyzabad (Rs. 201) and Gonda (Rs. 12,011) have been realised since the close of the year. The small sum outstanding in Sultánpur represents the aggregate amount of revenue money orders misappropriated by a Branch Post Master and will be recovered from the Postal Department. The arrears in Partábgarh are due from the Bahlolpur Taluqa, the settlement of which has been annulled by G. O. No. $\frac{4026}{I-939C}$, dated 18th November 1899. The whole of the demand was realised in Bara Banki.

It is satisfactory to find, as the Commissioner notes, that the revised assessments in this Division have been collected without any serious difficulty.

APPENDIX A.—II
Outstanding balance of previous years.

17. The arrears of revenue outstanding at the close of the year ending 30th September 1898 aggregated Rs. 85,60,179. To this have been added from time to time items amounting to Rs. 53,407, the consequence of failure to comply with the conditions on which famine remissions were originally sanctioned. The total demand on account of outstanding balances was accordingly Rs. 86,13,586. Of this sum Rs. 49,05,224 were collected, and Rs. 8,38,463 were remitted, leaving a balance of Rs. 28,69,899 still outstanding when the year closed. From this total, however, should be deducted the instalment of suspended revenue, amounting to Rs. 18,37,438 not recoverable till the kharíf of 1307 fasli, as well as the nominal, doubtful and irrecoverable items detailed in Appendix E.-III, aggregating Rs. 1,00,952. The balance which remains, viz., Rs. 9,31,509 represents the unrecovered portion of the realizable demand. It is distributed between divisions as follows :—

Division.	Rs.
Meerut	196
Agra	712
Rohilkhand	1,87,180
Allahabad	5,79,992
Benares	49,915
Gorakhpur	74,446
Kumaun	2,653
Lucknow	27,400
Fyzabad	9,015
Total ...	9,31,509

Two-thirds of these arrears are due from the following three districts alone:—

						Rs.
Sháhjahánpur	...	...	...	...	...	1,75,768
Fatehpur	...	...	...	...	...	1,34 767
Allahabad	...	...	...	...	...	3,35,129
				Total	...	6,45,664

In their No. $\frac{3529N}{III-796}$, dated 20th October 1897, the Board expressed the hope that the entire amount of the balances suspended on account of the famine would be collected by the end of the kharíf season of 1307 fasli, i.e., by the end of March 1900. In the course of the past year it became unhappily too clear that this estimate was an unduly sanguine one. From a reference to the arrears outstanding in the five districts of Allahabad, Fatehpur, Sháhjahánpur, Hardoi and Unao it was plain that it would be altogether impossible to recover what was due from them within the period originally contemplated. Accordingly in their No. $\frac{155N}{III-122A}$, dated 14th May 1899, the Board pointed out that the time seemed to have come when some definite orders should be passed as to the amount of outstanding arrears due to famine which should be classed as recoverable, and as to the period over which the recovery of such arrears should be spread. The principles on which the Board proposed to deal with the outstanding balances were detailed in this letter, and involved remissions of revenue to a considerable extent. In reply it was stated that Government were not prepared, on the statements submitted, to sanction any further remissions, but would be willing to extend the period for recovery of such balances if proposals to this effect were submitted in due form. In accordance with these instructions, the Board sent up fresh recommendations. In the districts of Allahabad and Fatehpur it was suggested that arrears should be realised up to the amount of half the revenue demand of a single year, within four years, in the case of those villages whose depressed condition was proved to be directly due to famine, and that any balance which was shown to be irrecoverable within that period should, if the Collector so recommended, be remitted. In G. O. No. $\frac{3339}{I-499B}$, dated 25th September 1899, Government approved of the proposal to spread the recovery of arrears over four years, but was not prepared to hold out any promise to remit any part of the balance which might be due at the end of that period. The Board were asked meanwhile to enquire how much of the amount still due in these districts was likely to be outstanding at the end of that term. On this point the Commissioner (Mr. Alexander) has since reported that in all probability Rs. 2½ lakhs in Allahabad and Rs. 60,000 in Fatehpur will still remain uncollected when the four years are over. He is doubtful, moreover, whether it will be possible to realize more than half of the arrears in these two districts without bringing excessive pressure to bear on the defaulters. He adds —

"At the same time I am by no means disposed to recommend an all-round remission of half the amount . . The matter is one in which the district officer should be allowed a very wide discretion . . . . . The Collectors might well be trusted to select the cases in which remission is really required, and those in which attachment, farm or even sale should be resorted to, to check fraudulent recusancy."

Proposals regarding the Sháhjahánpur district were submitted on the 5th August 1899. The arrears outstanding on the 31st March 1899 were reported to be Rs. 3,34,841, and the Board were of opinion that the sums capable of realization up to and during 1308 and 1309 fasli, should be classed as recoverable in the tahsíls of Sháhjahánpur, Jalalabad and Tilhar, and the balance remitted. They thought that it would be necessary to deal more liberally with the Powayan tahsíl, which is in a particularly depressed condition. For it accordingly they recommended that all sums not recoverable within the two years 1306 and 1307 fasli, from assets ascertained and assumed, should be remitted. These proposals involved the remission of Rs. 69,814, and the extension for four years of the period within which the balance could be realized. In G. O. No. $\frac{4560}{I-499B}$, dated 28th December 1899, Government have sanctioned remissions to the extent of Rs. 35,000. The extension of the period for the recovery of arrears in the Unao and Hardoi districts, as proposed by the Board, was duly approved in G. O. No. $\frac{3766A}{I-499B}$, dated 3rd November 1899.

18. The following statement shows the progress made in the disposal of famine remissions :—

The remissions sanctioned on account of the famine, and not given effect to before the close of the year ending September 1898, amounted to Rs. 4,65,982. To this has been added a sum of Rs. 43,120, representing remissions which had been cancelled in previous years, when the conditions on which they had been granted were not fulfilled, but were once more brought on the books during the year under review, on the grantees consenting to comply with the terms on which they were given. Out of this Rs. 42,825 pertain to the Unao district alone. Further remissions to the extent of Rs. 50,578 were also sanctioned, of which Rs. 34,197 appertain to the Sháhjahánpur district, and Rs. 9,214 to Unao. In submitting his proposals in September 1897 for the remission of revenue on account of the famine, the Collector of Sháhjahánpur stated that Rs. 35,276 had been suspended on account of 1303 fasli and previous years, and he proposed the remission of Rs. 21,004 on account of those years. The Board, however, asked Government to remit the entire arrears for 1303 fasli and previous years, understanding them to amount to Rs. 35,276. It was subsequently pointed out by the Collector that his proposals had not included all the arrears for 1303 fasli, but only those due from villages in which some remission had been recommended, and that to clear off all the arrears, as the Board intended, would involve a further remission of Rs. 34,197. This was sanctioned in G. O. No. $\frac{975}{\text{I—414C}}$, dated 13th March 1899. The remission of Rs. 9,214 in the Unao district is explained as follows :—It represented balances in villages largely owned by village communities in whose cultivation much of the land lay. For this reason it was impossible to expect that rent equal to double the amount of revenue remitted could be written off tenants' arrears. An exception was accordingly made in their favour, as had already been done in similar instances in Hardoi and Sháhjahánpur, and the remission of the whole amount sanctioned in G. O. No. $\frac{3766A}{\text{I—499B}}$, dated 3rd November 1899. Out of total remissions aggregating Rs. 5,59,680, as shown in column 5, Rs. 3,66,660 were removed from the accounts during the year. Rs. 1,41,194 were realized from landlords who had failed to comply with the conditions on which remission had been promised, and Rs. 51,826 was the amount left pending for subsequent adjustment at the close of the year. The sum of Rs. 41,949, due in the Sháhjahánpur district, in regard to which arrangements could not be carried out for the remission of proportionate rents, has been remitted unconditionally since the close of the year, and will now be removed from the books. The sum of Rs. 9,208 unrealized in Unao, will similarly be written off in the course of the current year.

The doubtful balance includes remissions sanctioned after the close of the year in the districts of Sháhjahánpur, Unao, Hamírpur, Jalaun and Allahabad, which could not be given effect to in the accounts for the year under review. Sháhjahánpur and Unao have been dealt with above. With regard to the other districts mentioned, it was recommended by Mr. Fremantle, the special officer on duty in connection with them, that all outstanding arrears up to end of 1305 fasli in deteriorated villages should be remitted. The Board were of opinion that the demand on account of current revenue and arrears combined should not exceed 75 per cent. of the assets so long as the management remained with the original proprietors, and that the collection of arrears should not be extended over more than two years. The sums found to be irrecoverable on this basis, amounting to Rs. 50,210, were remitted in G. O. No. $\frac{3338}{1-844C}$, dated 25th September 1899.

Advance collections of land revenue on the roll.

19. The year opened with a balance of Rs. 1,55,828, and Rs. 5,05,194 were collected during the year under report. In the following districts large collections were made :—

Benares (Rs. 46,344), Mirzapur (Rs. 1,02,746), Jaunpur (Rs. 20,028), Gházipur (Rs. 22,306), Gorakhpur (Rs. 48,744), Azamgarh (Rs. 19,864), Fyzábad (Rs. 30,083), Bahraich (Rs. 35,714) and Sultánpur (Rs. 22,457). The total amount for adjustment was Rs. 6,61,022, of which Rs. 5,40,223 were credited and Rs. 260 refunded, leaving Rs. 1,20,539 for future adjustment.

Appendix A.—III.

Demand, collections and balances of land revenue not on the roll.

20. Details of this fluctuating head of account are given in appendix E-IV. Including the recoverable balance of the previous year, the demand amounted to Rs. 1,37,942. Of this, Rs. 46,288 is on account of the enhanced land revenue assessed at the regular settlement of the Bijnor, Jhánsi, Rae Bareli and Kheri districts. Rs. 33,935 represents the revenue assessed on alluvial maháls and Rs. 10,208 the revenue of villages annually assessed in Pilibhít. The collections amounted to Rs. 1,01,205 or 73 per cent., and the recoverable balance at the close of the year was Rs. 36,734. Of this a sum of Rs. 20,590 is outstanding in the Bijnor district and is said to be due to the sanction of Government to the long term settlement of alluvial maháls owned by Chaudhri Ranjit Singh not having been received till late in September 1899. The orders were communicated to the Commissioner on the 9th of that month. Collections have been unsatisfactory in Fatehpur and Azamgarh, particularly in the latter district, where only Rs. 118 were realized out of a demand of Rs. 2,687.

SECTION III.—ALTERATIONS IN THE DEMAND FOR LAND REVENUE ON THE ROLL.

Appendix A.—IV.

21. The demand for land revenue on the roll on the 1st October 1899 in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh stood at Rs. 6,18,82,442. The variations in the demand are detailed in appendix E.-VI. The increase of Rs. 3,08,319 is chiefly due to enhancements at the regular revision of the settlement of the Bijnor, Jhánsi, Sitapur, Kheri, Fyzabad and Bahraich districts, and to progressive assessments in Bulandshahr, Gorakhpur, Basti, Unao and Partábgarh. The enhancement in Meerut was not reported in time to allow of the amount being brought on the roll, and will be credited in the current year as revenue not borne on the roll. On the other hand there was a decrease in the demand in other districts amounting to Rs. 3,75,051, of which Rs. 2,18,193 are on account of reductions granted in deteriorated villages in the districts of Cawnpore, Bánda, Hamírpur, Allahabad and Jhánsi; and Rs. 73,340 on account of annulment of settlement of villages in Bánda, Hamírpur, Jhánsi and Hardoi. The net decrease in the demand was Rs. 66,732 compared with the demand on the roll on the 1st October 1898.

SECTION IV—TWELVE PER CENT. LOCAL RATES, N.-W. P.

Appendices V and VI.

Current demand and balances.

22. The demand for local rates in the temporarily settled districts has risen from Rs. 50,87,893 in the previous year to Rs. 51,19,659 in the year under report. The increase is due to the enhancement of the revenue demand in the districts of Meerut, Bijnor and Budaun. The collections during the year amounted to Rs. 50,49,760, and the balance outstanding at its close was Rs. 69,899. Particulars of the balance are given in appendix E.-VII. It includes a sum of Rs. 2,454 since realized, and doubtful and irrecoverable items aggregating Rs. 34,656. The actual recoverable balance was Rs. 32,789. The largest balances are outstanding in the districts of Sháhjahánpur, Fatehpur, Bánda, Allahabad and Azamgarh. The explanation of the balances in these districts are similar to those already given under the head of land revenue.

23. Deducting the remission of Rs. 25,953, the demand on account of outstanding balances of previous years amounted to Rs. 5,05,471, and the collections were Rs. 3,01,372. The recoverable balance at the close of the year was Rs. 2,03,645. From this should, however, be deducted the last instalment of suspensions granted on account of the previous famine amounting to Rs. 1,07,384. The balance uncollected at the close of the year out of the actual realizable demand was therefore Rs. 96,261, of which Rs. 83,844 represents the uncollected arrears on account of the instalment of suspensions which fell due in the rabi of 1306 fasli. The districts of Sháhjáhanpur, Fatehpur and Allahabad account principally for these arrears.

Appendix A.-VII. Outstandings of previous years.

24. The demand on account of consolidated local rate on the roll in Oudh has risen from Rs. 11,57,401 to Rs. 11,78,678 owing to enhancements in the land revenue demand. The collections amounted to Rs. 11,74,729, and Rs. 3,609 are classed as irrecoverable. The actual recoverable balance at the close of the year was Rs. 340 only, which does not call for notice.

SECTION V—CONSOLIDATED LOCAL RATE, OUDH. Appendix A-X. Current demand on the roll.

25. Rupees 2,433 were collected out of a demand of Rs. 2,569 on account of consolidated local rate not on the roll. The balance outstanding was Rs. 136.

Appendix A-XI. Not on the roll.

26. The demand on account of outstanding balances amounted to Rs. 60,408, of which Rs. 47,614 were collected and Rs. 2,487 remitted. The balance at the close of the year was Rs. 10,307, of which Rs. 10,016 represents suspensions not recoverable within the year.

Appendix A-XII. Outstandings of previous years.

27. The demand for acreage rate and other cesses in the permanently settled districts amounted to Rs. 6,05,633. The collections amounted to Rs. 6,00,241 and the balance outstanding when the year closed was Rs. 5,392, and includes an irrecoverable item of Rs. 1,357. The net recoverable balance was Rs. 4,035, of which Rs. 2,953 are due in the Jaunpur district.

SECTION VI—ACREAGE RATE AND OTHER CESSES. Appendices A-VIII and IX.

The demand on account of outstanding balances was Rs. 16,932, of which Rs. 13,570 were either collected or remitted, leaving a balance of Rs. 3,362 which is almost entirely due in the Jaunpur district.

28. The accounts of the rural police rate and the village watch cess appear for the first time in this report.

Appendices XA-B to XII A. B. Rural Police Rate and Village Watch Cess, Oudh.

The total demand for rural police rate on the roll and not on the roll amounted to Rs. 4,54,231—Rs. 4,48,981 were collected during the year, leaving a balance of Rs 5,250. Of this a sum of Rs. 158 is irrecoverable, and the remainder is in train of liquidation.

Excluding the remissions, the demand on account of outstanding balances of rural police rate was Rs. 7,594. The collections aggregated Rs. 7,590. The balance Rs. 4 is under recovery.

The current demand on account of the Village Watch Cess was Rs. 1,86,757. The collections aggregated Rs. 1,84,224, and Rs. 411 are irrecoverable. The balance is under recovery.

The demand on account of outstanding balances was Rs. 14,293, of which Rs. 13,263 have been collected. The balance Rs. 1,024 includes an irrecoverable sum of Rs. 480.

29. During the year under review 11,523 acres of land were appropriated, 9,309 permanently and the rest temporarily. The compensation paid amounted to Rs. 10,98,199, representing an average rate per acre of Rs. 114-2-0 for permanent, and Rs. 16-2-8 for temporary acquisitions. The corresponding figures in the preceding year were Rs. 82-15-7 and Rs. 13-4-7 respectively. These acquisitions involved a reduction in the revenue demand of the provinces to the extent of Rs. 14,433. In addition to the areas included in the figures given above, 395 acres were taken up by private negotiation on account of which the Board have duly sanctioned a reduction of Rs. 592 in the revenue demand. The rate of compensation paid for permanent appropriation exhibits a still further increase on the average reached in 1897-98. In a large number of instances the land acquired was valuable suburban ground. In all such cases the special sanction of the Commissioner or the Board was obtained to the payment of enhanced rates of compensation under the rules contained in the Board's Circulars on this subject.

At the close of the year there were 77 cases pending in which land had been appropriated, but compensation had not been paid. The following are the dates of the oldest cases :—

Budaun	...	...	24th June 1898.
Muzaffarnagar	...	...	7th July 1898.
Bulandshahr	...	...	7th July 1898.
Gonda	...	...	13th September 1898.

The delay in the disposal of these cases has in every instance been satisfactorily explained by the district officer concerned.

Two additional officers were deputed during the year for special work in connection with the acquisition of land for railway purposes in the Meerut and Azamgarh districts.

The three already engaged on this work in the districts of Ballia, Benares, Dehra Dún and Saháranpur continued so employed during the year under review. Similarly the two special officers appointed in connection with the extension of the Fatehpur Branch, Lower Ganges Canal, in the Cawnpore, Fatehpur and Allahabad districts continued on this duty throughout the year.

SECTION VIII—RESUMPTION OF REVENUE FREE HOLDINGS.
Appendix A-XIV.

30. There were 98 cases in which revenue free tenures lapsed to Government during the year. Of these 57 with an area of 2,723 acres were settled and assessed to a revenue of Rs. 3,536; 39 acres remained unsettled and two cases though settled were not reported before the year closed. The grove area assessed to revenue was 5,341 acres: the revenue assessed being Rs. 10,502. The number of cases settled and reported was 1,902, and 191 cases were pending at the end of the year.

SECTION IX.
Miscellaneous Land Revenue.
Appendix A-XV.

31. Inclusive of outstanding arrears, the total demand came to Rs. 1,17,378, of which all but Rs. 305 was collected. The receipts from the Mirzapur stone quarries amounted to Rs. 57,378, as compared with Rs. 47,056 in 1897-98, being an increase of over Rs. 10,000. The report regarding the decline in the income of the Stone Mahal, and the means by which the trade could be restored to which allusion was made last year, has been submitted separately for the information and orders of Government. The collections on account of the current demand for water-mill rents in the Kumaun division aggregated Rs. 14,256 as compared with Rs. 14,176 in the preceding year. The difference is small and calls for no comment.

SECTION X—CANAL OCCUPIERS, AND OWNERS' RATES.
Appendix A-XVI.
Occupiers' rate; current demand.

32. The demand on account of occupiers' rates experienced a still further fall in the year under review, aggregating only 67·63 lakhs as against 72·07 lakhs in the previous year. Meerut is the only district which exhibits an increase over the corresponding figure for 1897-98. The excess of Rs. 61,566, which is relatively small, being not more than 5 per cent., is attributed mainly to the break in the rains in 1898, when the cultivators had recourse to canal irrigation to save their crops. In Fatehpur the demand is shown for the first time and is due to the recent introduction of canal irrigation into that district. The decline is most noticeable in Cawnpore where it amounted to 1·46 lakhs, or 19 per cent. It is also marked in Dehra Dún, Muzaffarnagar and Saháranpur, and in most districts of the Agra Division. It is attributed everywhere to opportune rainfall which obviated resort to artificial irrigation. As usual the realizations came to over 99 per cent. of the demand. The balance uncollected was Rs. 26,310, but this includes Rs. 8,696, which were remitted. The actual amount outstanding for recovery at the close of the year was Rs. 17,614, which is slightly in excess of the preceding year's arrear. Much of this has already been collected, and the remainder is in train of liquidation. The balance is largest in Fatehpur. In that district canal irrigation is only just being introduced, and out of a demand of Rs. 12,842, not more than Rs. 4,328 were realized during the year. The Commissioner notices the Collector's explanation that the novelty of the call is responsible for these poor results, but at the same time considers that undue leniency was shown in collection.

33. The demand on account of arrears of occupiers' rate was Rs. 20,964. Out of this, Rs. 1,765 were remitted, and Rs. 17,155 realized, leaving a balance of Rs. 2,044 still outstanding at the close of the year. It is mostly due from estates held under attachment in the Cawnpore and Jalaun districts, and is receiving the attention of the Collectors concerned.

Appendix A-XVII. Occupiers' rate: arrears of previous years.

34. The demand for owners' rate was 3·44 lakhs as compared with 4·15 lakhs in the previous year. Collections aggregated more than 96 per cent. Of the balance Rs. 11,383 were remitted, leaving a small arrear of Rs. 558 to be realized after the close of the year.

Appendix A-XVIII. Owners' rate: current demand.

35. The demand on account of arrears of owners' rate recoverable during the year was Rs. 1,132. Out of this Rs. 826 were collected, and Rs. 87 remitted, leaving Rs. 219 still outstanding. It is owing by estates held under attachment in the Cawnpore district.

Appendix A-XIX. Owners' rate: arrears of previous years.

SECTION XI. STATE PROPERTIES AND WASTE LANDS.

36. There were 403 estates, paying a revenue of Rs. 1,38,354, in the possession of Government at the commencement of the year. During the year 14 estates, with a revenue of Rs. 2,706 were acquired, which brought up the total number of State properties to 417 with a revenue of Rs. 1,41,060. As stated in previous reports, the most important of these are the special State properties in the Kumaun division and the Dudhi estate in the south of Mirzapur. The other districts in which Government owns properties with a rental demand of over Rs. 10,000, are Allahabad, Bánda, Jhánsi, Lucknow and Kheri. The total current rental demand amounted to Rs. 8,39,191 as compared with Rs. 8,11,575 in the preceding year, being an increase of nearly Rs. 28,000. This increase is mainly due to the rise, under sanction of the Board, of some Rs. 34,000 in the rent-roll of the Tarai Government estates. Including arrears, the total demand came to Rs. 9,32,101, of which Rs. 8,22,135 (or 88 per cent.) were collected. If, however, the Kumaun estates, in which the rental was collected practically in full, are excluded, 69 per cent. of the demand was realized as against 63 per cent. in the previous year. The bulk of the demand had to be collected in the Allahabad and Lucknow divisions, where the famine of 1896-97 was worst: and considering the condition of these tracts, the results were on the whole as satisfactory as could be expected. The outstanding balance at the close of the year was Rs. 1,09,966, of which Rs. 13,053 are classed as doubtful, Rs. 5,198 as nominal, and Rs. 13,392 as irrecoverable. Of the amount classed as nominal, Rs. 2,421 are on account of rent of fallow lands in Bánda, and Rs. 2,547 relate to the property of the late Nawab Anisuddaula in the Lucknow district, which, in accordance with the orders of Government, was released during the year. After payment of land revenue and rates, the income was Rs. 6,25,242, of which Rs. 3,72,550 were spent on establishment, contingencies and improvements, leaving a net profit to Government of Rs. 2,52,692 as compared with Rs. 2,13,342 in the preceding year.

Appendices A–XX and E–X.

Appendix E–X.

In the Bánda district only 57 per cent. of the total demand could be collected. This is an improvement on the 41 per cent. collected in the previous year, but was not so good as might have been anticipated, considering the relief which was given in the shape of remissions to the extent of Rs. 29,550. The Commissioner is of opinion that the management has not been sufficiently energetic, and has called the attention of the Collector to the matter. The Collector will also have the balances finally tested on the spot, and will submit a further report regarding them.

The management of the Holagarh and Khargapur escheated estates in the Allahabad district was, on the whole, fairly satisfactory. In Holagarh 72 per cent. of the total demand was collected, while in Khargapur, where the outstanding balances were large, not more than 66 per cent. could be recovered. The percentage of collections to the current demand was indeed over 90, but nearly a third was credited to arrears. The outstanding balances are still very large, and a detailed examination of them has been ordered with a view to determining what items should be kept on the books as really recoverable. The estate generally appears to be very sensitive to the vicissitudes of the seasons, more particularly the villages bordering on the Ramgarh jhil, which suffer from flooding in years of excessive rainfall. A scheme to protect these lands from inundation is under consideration. The expenditure under the main heads was as follows:—

	Rs.
Establishment	68,331
Contingencies	1,01,157
Improvements	2,03,061
Total ...	3,72,549

The bulk of this amount was, as usual, spent in the large estates in the Naini Tal district, excluding which the cost of establishment was only 8 per cent. of the receipts. The expenditure on improvements shows a decrease of Rs. 9,574 as compared with the figures of the preceding year. As usual most of the expenditure under this head was in the Kumaun estates, full particulars of which are given in the separate reports submitted to Government. The Board have again to notice the small expenditure on improvements in the Oudh estates.

The appendix also gives details of the advances made to tenants. In the Holagarh and Khargapur estates no advances were made to tenants. The Board agree with the Commissioner, that it should be made the duty of the Special Manager to represent the needs of the tenants of these estates as regards takavi advances, and he has been asked to issue instructions to this effect. The Board also consider that liberal advances might have been made with advantage in Jhánsi and in many of the Oudh districts.

The outstanding balances are again heaviest in the districts of Bánda (Rs. 12,673), Mirzapur (Rs. 17,167), and Naini Tal (Rs. 19,771). Efforts will be made to reduce them, but it is feared that a considerable sum will ultimately have to be written off as irrecoverable.

Appendix A-XX.

37. The total demand, inclusive of outstandings, for the price of confiscated, escheated and waste lands was Rs. 26,360; but this, as mentioned in previous reports, includes a sum which is payable in instalments of Rs. 5,000 per annum. The demand actually recoverable within the year was Rs. 6,360, of which Rs. 6,276 were collected.

SECTION XII. PATWARI RATE. Director's Appendices V-VII.

38. Figures showing the demand, collections and balances of patwari rate are incorporated in the statements placed at the beginning of this chapter. Of the recoverable balance (Rs. 11,964) of the current demand, Rs. 810 have been realized since the close of the year; Rs. 674 are due from attached estates, and Rs. 195 have been suspended. The remainder (Rs. 10,285) is in course of recovery.

The outstanding balance at the close of the preceding year was Rs. 2,01,431, inclusive of Rs. 575 subsequently added. Of this sum, Rs. 1,24,142 were collected during the year under review, Rs. 10,421 were remitted, and of the remainder Rs. 37,414 represent suspended balances recoverable in subsequent instalments. Rs. 4 have been realized since the close of the year, Rs. 1,968 are due from attached estates, and Rs. 134 from deteriorated villages. The balance (Rs. 27,348) is under recovery. The large amount due on account of suspensions explains itself and calls for no special comment.

SECTION XIII. REVENUE DEPOSITS—Appendix XXI.

39. The total number of revenue deposits for adjustment, including the unadjusted items of the previous year, was 29 of the value of Rs. 4,237. Of these, 14 items of the value of Rs. 3,495, were adjusted during the year, leaving 15, value Rs. 742, for future adjustment. The oldest item pending adjustment is one of Rs. 1-9-9, deposited on 7th August 1896, in Garhwál, which if not claimed by the payee within the current financial year, will lapse to Government.

The figures continue to show a steady increase both in the number and value of money-orders. This increase may be taken as indicative of the growing popularity of the system, and the fact that the average value of money-orders remitted is only Rs. 23 shows that it is chiefly employed for the remittance of small sums. Mr. Gracey (Collector of Muzaffarnagar) doubts, however, whether this growing popularity is a gain to the administration. If the money-orders represented sums remitted by lambardars themselves he would have nothing to say against the system. "But there can be no doubt that a considerable portion of the total sum has been sent by co-sharers entirely independently of the lambardar, partly through distrust and partly through personal animosity: but whatever the motive, with the result that a few more bricks have been knocked away from the dwindling edifice of the lambardar's authority and influence. I certainly consider that the payment of revenue direct through money-order by a co-sharer should be stopped." The Collector of Etah also considers that it undermines the authority of lambardars, but that the system has advantages. On the other hand the Commissioner of Meerut (Mr. Williams) who has always been opposed to the system, states that the only thing to be said in favour of it is that "it increases the Imperial revenue in the Postal Department." The question of restoring and maintaining the position of lambardárs has of late received much consideration, and in the Land Revenue Bill now before the Legislative Council certain changes in the law have been introduced with the object of strengthening the lambardár's position. If the Bill is passed, it will be advisable to reconsider the question whether co-sharers should be permitted to pay their shares of the land revenue direct to the Tahsíldár.

The only division which shows a falling off * in 1898-99 compared with the previous year is the Gorakhpur Division owing to the decrease †in the Basti district, which the Collector explains to be due to co-sharers having remitted their revenue through the post in 1897-98, through fear that if they went to the tahsil they would be made to pay arrears for the famine year due from defaulting co-sharers. The Collector directed that co-sharers coming to the tahsil were not to be harassed, with the result that money-order remittances decreased considerably during the year under report.

Chapter III.—Rent Law.

SECTION I, SUITS AND APPLICATIONS. Appendices B-I II, IIA, IIB, III, IIIA, B, C and D.

42. The year 1897-98 was responsible for a large increase in rent litigation both in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh. Under the heads both of suits and applications the development was remarkable. The year now under review exhibits a still further rise in suits of 6·29 per cent. The figure reached is the highest yet touched in the province, and shows an advance of over 50 per cent. in the last twelve years. Full crops, with their natural concomitant, low prices, encouraged the desire to collect arrears wherever possible, and enhanced the difficulty of doing so, thus combining to materially swell the claims lodged for arrears of rent, which constituted, as they always do, about nine-tenths of the total of suits filed. The number of applications in the North-Western Provinces exhibits a perceptible falling off. The figures under both heads are contrasted for the past two years in the following table :—

Suits, North-Western Provinces.

43. Since the passing of the present Rent Act in 1881, the number of suits filed in the North-Western Provinces year by year has been as under :—

Year.	Nnmber of suits instituted.	Percentage of increase or decrease in each year as compared with the preceding year.

1897-98 ...	116,875	+16·13
1898-99 ...	124,221	+6·29

These figures tell their own tale and call for no comment.

Appended is a table showing separately for each principal kind of suit the variations observable during the past two years :—

Class of suit.	Section.	Suits instituted. 1897-98.	Suits instituted. 1898-99.	Percentage of increase or decrease.
1	2	3	4	5
I.—Arrears of rent	(93*a*)	105,876	113,200	+6 92
VII.—Connected with distraint	(93*f*)	3,968	3,497	—11·87
VIII.—By lambardars for arrears of revenue	(93*g*)	3,182	3,302	+3·77
IX.—By co-sharers for share of profits or settlement of accounts,	(93*h*)	2,456	2,516	+2·44
XII.—By co-sharers for arrears of revenue from a defaulting co-sharer.	(93*k*)	507	817	+61·14
Other suits	...	886	889	+0·34
		116,875	124,221	+6·29

The net increase during the year is 7,346 and practically corresponds with the rise in the number of arrears of rent cases filed. The fluctuations under other headings are more or less unimportant. Spread over each division the number of arrears of rent suits works out as follows:—

Division.	Increase.	Decrease.
Meerut	884	...
Agra	151	...
Rohilkhand	...	57
Allahabad	4,697	...
Benares	423	...
Gorakhpur	1,226	...
Total ...	7,324	...

The causes which contributed to the rather general tendency towards increased rent litigation which these figures reveal are common to most parts of the province. The great fall in prices in the early part of the year made tenants reluctant to sell their grain, while towards its close the sudden rise which then took place produced a similar effect, though in a different way. The desire also to secure decrees for arrears of the famine period (1896-97) which would otherwise have become time-barred, doubtless prompted many institutions. The rise is most prominent in the Allahabad division, the Allahabad district itself being responsible for 44 per cent. of the increase, to which Cawnpore, Fatehpur and Bánda also contributed a fair share. In Jhánsi the Commissioner attributes the absence of rent claims to the depressed state of agriculture in that district the land owners being afraid to press for their rent lest the tenant should leave the village altogether. In Allahabad the Collector considers that the break down of the lambardári system has a good deal to answer for the practice of individual co-sharers suing for their share of rent having grown much more common in recent years. Reference has already been made in paragraph 40 of this report to the steps which are in contemplation for maintaining the authority of lambardárs. The rise in the Gorakhpur division is also considerable, but for this the Azamgarh returns, with an increase of 24 per cent. on the previous year, are mainly responsible. It is noteworthy that the bulk of the increased litigation here was disposed of without contest.

Disposal of suits.

44. The disposal of suits during the year under review is indicated in the following figures:—

How disposed of	Number.	Percentage to total disposed of.
Without trial	11,963	9·64
Compromised	9,098	7·33
Decreed on confession	19,977	16·10
Ditto exparte	49,386	39·81
Dismissed exparte	6,943	5·60
Decreed after reference to arbitration	105	0·09
Dismissed ditto	48	0·04
Decreed after contest	21,933	17·68
Dismissed after contest	4,599	3·71
Total ...	124,052	...

78·40 per cent. in the previous year. Contested cases rose to 26,685 or 21·51 per cent. as compared with 25,087 in 1897-98.

It is satisfactory to note that although there were 8,086 more suits for disposal than in the preceding year, the increase in the pending file at the close of the twelve months was trifling. A considerable portion of the cases remaining undecided belongs to the Rohilkhand and Benares divisions, in which Ballia, Jaunpur and Budaun are the most conspicuous districts. Better results might have been shewn in Ballia, as apart from the sepcial Deputy Collector stationed there for the hearing of the Dumraon cases the district enjoyed the services of another Deputy Collector for ordinary work. Both in Azamgarh and Allahabad the year set on heavy files. In the former district the absence of patwáris on survey work is pleaded with some reason for the arrears in Tahsíldars' courts, while in Allahabad the balance is fairly attributable to the precedence which the district takes over all others in the provinces for cases filed during the year.

45. The returns for contested and uncontested cases during the past two years in each division are placed side by side in the subjoined table:—

Division.	Total for disposal.		Total decided.		Without contest.		With contest.		Percentage to total disposed of—				Pending at the close of—		Average duration.

Taken in the lump these figures have but little tendency to vary from year to year, and are a fair index of the varying degrees of litigiousness over different portions of the province. Of the cases pending at the close of the year, as many as 586 had been before the courts for more than three months. Ballia with 319 and Azamgarh with 145 account for nearly four-fifths of this total. The unavoidable delay in the disposal of suits in the former district was explained last year. The Commissioner's attention has been specially directed to the procrastination indicated by the Azamgarh returns.

The duration of suits in contested and uncontested cases respectively is compared in the following figures:—

	1897-98.	1898-99.
	M. d.	M. d.
Contested	1 17	1 18
Uncontested	0 26	0 27

The improvement observed in the Benares district last year has been more than sustained during the year under review. The average duration of contested cases has fallen from 65 to 44 days. In Mirzapur it is still very high, and the drop from 66 to 65 days is a very small one, and indicates that there is still much room left for better despatch. It is regrettable to note that in Ballia there has been retrogression, from 71 to 88 days in contested cases, and in uncontested from 44 days to 54.

Taken as a whole there is a small increase in the North-Western Provinces, and a trifling decrease in Oudh. The decline observed last year in the Muzaffarnagar district is still further borne out in the returns for 1898-99. In the Government review, two years ago, attention was invited to the figures for this district, and an explanation asked for. The enquiry instituted by the Board has now been carried out. The practice of paying rent by money order is found to be fairly uniform throughout the district. The only person to whom the amount remitted seems to be abnormally large is S. Ewaz Ali of Tissa, in whose village what is known as the "Saháranpur cow-killing suit" had its origin. The Muhammadans, it appears, were directed to obtain a declaration of their right to sacrifice kine during the Baqra Id festival. Mr. Gracey, the Collector, writes:—

"The suit was pending for some years and consequently during that time kept ill-feeling alive between the Hindu tenants and their Muhammadan land-lord, and it is this ill-feeling that has induced them to send their rent by money order. As a matter of fact the dispute has no really religious origin at all, but was started by a dismissed karindah of Ewaz Ali who, after growing fat in Ewaz Ali's service, is now doing his best to set his tenants against him"

Elsewhere the ordinary causes are assigned for the popularity of the custom, i.e., distrust of or ill-feeling towards his landlord on the part of the tenant, and disagreement between them as to the amount of rent really due. In Bijnor the increase is again most marked. Indeed the amount of rent remitted by money order in this district during the past year is nearly 15 per cent. of the entire sum so paid throughout the whole of the North-Western Provinces. The Collector has explained that the tenants find the Post office a safe and convenient channel for the discharge of their dues. He is also of opinion that the commutation of rents from grain to cash contributes in no small measure to the same end. So long as the custom of changing kind into cash rents and vice versâ prevails as it does in this district, rent disputes are bound to be numerous, and the money order system, affording as it does certain proof of payment, is sure to remain popular. The large increase during the past two years is probably due in the main to the extensive commutations from grain to money rents recently effected by the Settlement Officer, and is evidence no less of the anxiety of the tenants to abide by them than of the desire on the part of the landlords to revert to the former equivalents in kind. In Mirzapur also the increase is not only considerable in itself, but follows in the wake of an equally conspicuous rise in 1897-98. The Commissioner says that it is impossible to account satisfactorily for such fluctuations. The Collector accounts for it by the excellence of the rabi crop, and the desire of the landlords to credit payments of rent to arrears, which the tenants attempted to forestall by remitting what was due from them by money order.

None of the remaining figures call for special mention.

47. In most parts of the Provinces the value of printed receipts for rent is being gradually appreciated. In Bijnor, for instance, it is reported that there are now only 38 patwáris' circles into which their use has not been introduced, yet it is here, as just noticed that the tension between landlord and tenant seems more than ordinarily marked. In Moradabad there are only 23 circles so unprovided. The Collector of this district points out that in many villages rents are paid in kind, and that in such cases receipts are superfluous. The Collector of Budaun, Mr. Cooke, notices an interesting incident in connection with the use of these books. He writes:— Printed receipts for rent.

"In an appeal recently decided it was possible to detect a forged rent receipt owing to the use of these books. No book bearing the book number on the receipt produced had been issued to the zamíndár in question, but one of this number had been issued to another zamíndár. When this was called for it was discovered that the foil bearing the same number as the one produced in court had been surreptitiously removed from it."

The culprit was duly prosecuted.

The Commissioner of Allahabad (Mr. Alexander) on this subject remarks as follows:—

"The use of printed forms of receipts is now very nearly universal in the Cawnpore district, which is very different from the state of things in the rest. In Fatehpur, where Mr. Bell endeavoured to encourage their use, some progress is noticed. In Allahabad there has been a falling off, and in connection with Mr. Ferard's remarks on the subject, I have only to say that the sale of these receipt books depends not on any real spontaneous demand for them but on the extent to which Government officials press them on the landholders. There appears to be no reason why if a real interest is evinced in the matter, they should not gradually come into general use in Allahabad and Fatehpur as they have already done in Cawnpore.

"In the Bundelkhand districts the conditions are somewhat different, the easy going and conservative character of both the zamíndár and tenantry being a real obstacle. But as remarked by Mr. Crawford, with the small amount of litigation in Jhánsi the point is not very material."

The practice of granting printed receipts for rent grows less and less common, the more east we go. In the Benares and Gorakhpur divisions it is by no means customary, and scraps of paper are still largely preferred in these parts.

The use of the printed "Sarkhatt," which was alluded to last year, has not been found to work satisfactorily, and in those Court of Wards estates, into which it had been introduced, it has now been discontinued.

North-Western Provinces Rent Act Applications.

The returns evidence a large falling off on the number of applications filed in 1897-98, shared in, as will be seen hereafter, by all divisions except Benares and Gorakhpur.

The institutions during the past two years for the most important classes of applications are placed side by side in the following table:—

The figures tell their own tale, and it is superfluous to discuss them. The fluctuations of the year under review will be alluded to in detail later on.

The following table shows at a glance the divisional totals over the past five years :—

Total ...	145,753	125,489	134,820	176,827	158,360	—18,467

Gorakhpur, with only three districts, has a higher aggregate to its credit than Allahabad with seven. Benares, though in the matter of applications seemingly less litigious than the western divisions as already seen, makes up for any such welcome deficiency by its excessive tale of suits, standing facile princeps in the provinces in respect to its resort to section 93 of the Rent Act.

49. Applications under section 35, to eject tenants with occupancy rights against whom decrees for arrears of rent have been obtained; under section 36, to serve a notice to quit on tenants-at-will; and under section 40, for assistance to evict such tenants are, as usual, responsible for the greater part of the total, no less than 80·50 per cent. falling to their share. These are classes if cases in which according to the present practice the presiding officer of the Court relies very much and frequently far too much upon the reports of subordinate agency. They do not therefore add materially to his official labours. Applications to enhance or determine rent with 4·33 per cent., and by tenants-at-will under section 39 showing cause why they should not be turned out of their holdings with 9·65 per cent., are the only other classes of cases which contribute materially to the net aggregate. These, for the most part, represent real solid hard work.

50. Class VI. Enhancement of rent.—In 1897-98 the district of Budaun alone accounted for 45 per cent. of the total institutions under this class. Despite a marked falling off in the year under review, 2,730 is still a goodly number and much in excess of any other single district figure. It seems that the landlords preferred to wait until the new revenue demands had been fixed, before enhancing rents on their occupancy tenants. This fully explains the abnormal activity in that direction during the past two years. There is nothing in any of the other district returns calling for special notice.

51. Class XII. Crop appraisement.—There is a noticeable decline of nearly 29 per cent. in the institution of cases under this head, as compared with the previous year. But Bijnor with 144, and Ballia with 228, account for almost the whole of this decrease. The variations in other districts are not such as to require explanation. In Bijnor the cessation of settlement proceedings, during which crop payments were largely converted into cash rents, is responsible for the fall. The total in 1895-96 was 944, but has dwindled down gradually since then, and was only 337 in the year under review, or one-third of the entire aggregate for the province. In Ballia the number of such applications has fallen from 401 to 173. The high figure still maintained here is due to the activity shown in this direction by the Dumraon Estate.

52. Class XIII. Deposit of rent.—The sudden rise of nearly 50 per cent. in this comparatively unusual form of application deserves a passing notice. The village of Kakore, in the Bulandshahr district, has recently changed hands and come into the possession of Ghafur Ali Khan, the raís of Danpur. The tenants have shown their appreciation of this transfer by depositing the rents which they consider due from them in the local treasury. The applications which were only 6 in the previous year mounted up to 140 in 1898-99. The existing relations between landlord and tenant in this district are not inaptly illustrated in this little incident.

53. Class XVI. Invalidation of notices of relinquishment.—Most remarkable of all the fluctuations during the year, from the mere statistical point of view, is the rise of over 100 per cent. in the institutions under this head. The chief share, as usual, is contributed by the Allahabad division. Last year it accounted for 283 out of the 367 cases filed. In the year under report 578 out of 765 fall to its lot, an increase of 295, or nearly three-fourths of the whole rise for the province. In other divisions there is nothing sufficiently remarkable to deserve attention. Renewed activity in the Allahabad district, where the figure exhibits a return to the 1896-97 standard, and the sudden jump from 23 to 254 in Jalaun more than explain the net variation in the head-quarters division. Writing of the latter district, the Commissioner (Mr. Alexander) says:—

"The Collector's explanation of this is that it is a common practice with tenants to endeavour to relinquish kans-infected portions of holdings, especially if no abatement of rent is allowed, and that landlords invariably contest such notices of relinquishment. It is not clear why the Jalaun landlords take more trouble to contest these notices of relinquishments than other Bundelkhand landlords do but probably there is still a keener demand for land and the landlords are not so much restrained by the fear of losing their tenants altogether. One reason why these notices are not contested to the same extent in other districts, may perhaps be that before they are issued they are subjected to a closer scrutiny at the tahsíls. I find, for instance, that in the Cawnpore district such notices are not accepted for issue if they are tendered for only part of a holding and that the patwári is required to certify that this is not the case before the notice is accepted. Perhaps if a similar procedure were adopted in Jalaun it would really be to the advantage of the tenants."

The Board have however pointed out to the Commissioner that this procedure is of doubtful legality and is inexpedient.

Further on, in his interesting report when touching on the subject of the ejectment of tenants with and without rights by the ordinary legal processes, he observes:—

"Some zamíndárs have become alive to the fact that it is simpler to get a tenant to put in a relinquishment himself than to take steps to eject him under sections 36 and 40. Where therefore the tenant is in the zamíndár's power I think it likely that notices under section 36 are likely to decrease, whilst relinquishments will increase and I notice that there was a very large increase, viz., 4,992 notices of relinquishment in the division during the year under report, every district showing an increase. I do not mean that this increase was wholly or even mostly due to this one cause, but I think this cause did operate to produce it. Applications under sections 35 and 36 in Bundelkhand are few, and a comparatively large number of relinquishments goes to show that tenants are more easy to get rid of than to replace, and that though a zamíndár brings a suit to prevent his arrears from lapsing, he does not do so to the same extent as is done in the Doab districts with a view to ejectment."

The marked extent to which the nature of litigation varies from one part of the province to another, is appropriately exemplified by the returns under this head.

54. Class XVIII. Ejectment of tenants with rights.—The annexed table exhibits by divisions for the past two years, the necessary information in regard to applications of this kind, and helps to illustrate once more the remarks just made:—

As usual the Benares division, with its monopoly of tenants at fixed rates under the permanent settlement, enjoys the distinction of first place. More than one-third of the notices issued under section 35 in the whole province belongs to this division. Such, too, was the incidence in 1897-98. The figures for Meerut, Agra and Rohilkhand call for no particular comment. The bulk of the provincial increase, which amounts to nearly 10 per cent. over the previous year, is contributed by the Allahabad and Benares divisions, Gorakhpur also being responsible, but in a much lesser degree. Fatehpur and Allahabad are the two principal district factors in the Allahabad division, while every district in the Benares division, though more notably than the rest Benares, Jaunpur and Ballia, aids in the advance there. In the Gorakhpur division it is, as might be expected, Azamgarh, with revision of settlement impending, that has the largest rise to its credit. The causes of this exceptional activity are not far to seek. As the Collector of Allahabad (Mr. Ferard) says, "it is the result of the large number of suits for arrears of rent which were instituted in 1897-98 and 1898-99," or, in the terms used by the Commissioner of Benares (Mr. Porter) 'the natural outcome of the recent period of distress.'

Although, as the latter officer says, 'it is disappointing to find that so many of these favoured tenants failed to stand the strain to which they were subjected," it must not be overlooked that in the Benares division the actual area, from which such tenants are really evicted, as shown by columns 9 and 10, is ordinarily in the aggregate less than it is in some other divisions, and that the percentage of cases in which ejectment actually takes place is the lowest in the whole province.

The decline of 15 per cent. in the year under review, although less conspicuous than the rise in the year before, is nevertheless noteworthy. It has, as column 4 shows, been distributed over all the divisions of the province, except Gorakhpur, which has placed an increase of 10 per cent. to its account. The area covered by the notices served on tenants is, relatively to the number issued, much the same as in 1897-98. It is interesting to observe the results exhibited in columns 7 and 8, reflecting as they do the varying economic conditions of different districts.

Speaking in reference to his own division the Commissioner (Mr. Impey) remarks:—

"The decline in ejectment litigation appears to be due to a return to a more normal state of affairs: in the previous year there was an unusual activity on the part of the land-holders whose minds were unsettled partly in consequence of the famine that has passed, and the arrears that had accrued, and partly, it is suggested in some districts of the division, owing to the nearer approach of settlement."

The abnormal number of relinquishments filed in the Allahabad division had probably a good deal to say to the falling off there. The Commissioner (Mr. Alexander) writes:—

"The decrease is general, except as regards the area affected in Bánda, and there seems no doubt, but that under the pressure of heavy arrears, and to some extent under pressure by zamíndárs, tenants-at-will have been more prone to relinquish their holdings; whilst landlords have either been saved the trouble of issuing notices under section 36 in cases in which they would otherwise have done so or have thought it more prudent to risk the accrual of occupancy rights and to avoid worrying their tenants for fear lest they should leave when they were not really wanted to do so."

In the Benares division there is a decline, greater or less in every district, except Ballia, where the figures for 1897-98 have been exceeded by more than 22 per cent. In reference to this district the Commissioner (Mr. Porter) observes:—

"The increase in Ballia has not been explained, but is probably due to the litigation in the Dumraon estate. During the year I made certain proposals to the Manager of this estate with a view of bringing about an amicable settlement of the disputes pending between the estate and its tenants. My proposals were not accepted, as the owners of the estate fortified by counsel's opinion preferred to carry their claims to the High Court—the estate having been unsuccessful both in the court of the special officer and in the district court."

The increase in the Gorakhpur division, strange to say, does not come from Azamgarh, where the approach of settlement might have led us to look for it, but from both the other districts, Basti and Gorakhpur. The Commissioner (Mr. Vincent Smith) notes as follows in regard to it:—

"Collectors have attempted to explain the variations by the usual stock explanations. Considering the vast population of these districts the number of notices issued to tenants-at-will seems to me very moderate, and not sufficient to justify any alarm."

In this conclusion the Board entirely agree. Despite the enormous demand for land in that part of the country the area affected by the notices issued in the Gorakhpur division remains only about 3 per cent. of the whole provincial area so imperilled from year to year. The mere issue of a notice to quit does not of course in itself predicate eviction. Should the tenant have any cause to show why he should not be turned out of the field or fields referred to in it, he proceeds to do so under section 39. Moreover, it by no means follows that because a landlord serves a notice to leave on his tenant, he necessarily goes to the extreme step of evicting him. Assistance to eject under section 40, without which the mere notice to quit remains abortive, is frequently not claimed and where it is claimed and where a formal ejectment follows this does not necessarily imply that the tenant is deprived of his holding. All that the landholder wishes to do by the issue of a notice of ejectment is to prevent the acquisition of occupancy rights and when this end has been served by a formal ejectment of the tenant, the latter is not infrequently permitted to continue in quiet possession of the land. The extent to which these considerations have affected the action taken through the courts in regard to the ejectment of tenants-at-will during the past two years is compared in the following table:—

Division.	Area in acres affected by contested cases.		Percentage of notices contested.		Percentage of cases under section 39 decided after contest.		Area in acres affected by contested cases in which tenants were successful.		Percentage of contested cases decided in favour of the tenants. There was a keener desire than in the previous year to resort to the courts; most conspicuous, as it always is, in the eastern districts, and tempered, taken all round, by a slightly lesser degree of success, so far as the number of cases decided is concerned. In regard to actual area, however, it will be seen that tenants were both really and relatively more successful in 1898-99 than they were in the preceding year. Of the cases which so came under adjudication as many as 74 per cent. were fought out to the end and decided after contest. In regard to 28·57 per cent. of the notices issued, there was no attempt made to follow them up under section 40 by actual ejectment. The corresponding figure in 1897-98 was 29·4 per cent. It may, of course, happen that a landlord obtains possession of the land he wants without seeking any legal assistance to this end from the courts. At the same time it is probably true that the threat to evict is often not carried into actual effect.

56. The following statistics of the area held by the different classes of tenants in the North-Western Provinces in 1896-97 and 1897-98 illustrate the result of the operations of the ejectment provisions of the Rent Act:—

* Exclusive of 198 cases transferred to the Settlement Department.

Speaking generally, there seems to have been somewhat less work to do during the year under review, though column 9, showing to what extent cases were contested, the only true test of the amount of work done, does not bear out this assumption. With a decline in the number of institutions it was to be expected that the pending file would be somewhat reduced, and this desirable consummation has been effected. In 1897-98 only 91·16 of the cases for disposal were decided, while in the year under report the corresponding figure is 92·51 per cent. At the same time it is scarcely satisfactory to note that of 13,099 cases still pending when the year closed, no less than 1,452 had been before the courts for over three months. Benares and Gorakhpur are the only two divisions which do not show an improvement in their file of pending cases. But it is notorious that the applications which have to be dealt with in the eastern districts are often unusually intricate and complex. No less than 10,393 of the cases undecided at the close of the year were connected with enhancement or determination of rent, or the ejectment of tenants with rights. Allowing for these the balance is not great. Budaun, for the second time takes the highest place with no less than 3,067, almost all of which are enhancement cases. Although relatively to this, very much smaller balances in Bulandshahr (953), Bijnor (638), Moradabad (861), Gorakhpur (684), Jaunpur (816) and Ballia (664) are larger than they ought to be. The last named district also had the unenviable distinction of having no less than 392 cases on its file, which had been pending for over three months when the year closed. It is no doubt true enough that where the number of contested cases is so high as it is here, viz., 18·33 per cent. of the whole number decided, there is bound to be delay in decision, to which special causes also contribute, as already observed (vide paragraph (45), supra). The following figures are of interest as illustrating the degrees of litigiousness in different parts of the province. They indicate the percentage of contested cases to the total number disposed of:—

Bijnor	28·16	Budaun	6·59
Ballia	18·34	Allahabad	6·48
Bulandshahr	18·06	Cawnpore	5·94
Basti	17·75	Fatehpur	5·56
Jhánsi	17·14	Etáwah	5·17
Hamírpur	16·39	Jalaun	4·30

The return for Bijnor is nearly three times as high as that for any other district in the Rohilkhand division. The difference is remarkable, and if correct, forms a striking commentary on the existing relations between landlord and tenant in that district. The Commissioner has been addressed on this point. It is possible that the statistics from which the above figures have been deduced are not compiled on a uniform system in all districts. This is a matter which will be further enquired into during the course of the current year.

The Board observe with satisfaction that, except in rare instances, section 39 cases seem to be promptly heard. Out of 15,752 for disposal during the year, 11,625 were decided after contest, and only 111 were pending when the year closed. It should be possible to dispose of all cases of this nature within the year. The five months now available from May to September ought to be enough for the purpose. When the date for the serving of notices has been changed, as proposed in the Rent legislation now contemplated, there will of course be no excuse for such delay. Aligarh, with 48 cases still undecided, Mirzapur with 15, and Ballia with 14 are the chief contributors to this pending list. It is creditable to Meerut, Bijnor and Azamgarh where the totals of contested section 39 cases are higher than anywhere else in the province, that between them they are responsible for only six at the close of the year.

58. It will be observed that the average duration of both classes of cases throughout the province works out at exactly the same figures as last year, viz., two months and 13 days for contested, and one month and 12 days for uncontested cases. The variation from district to district, however, is quite as marked as it was then.

In regard to contested cases, the following districts exhibit improvement: —

	1897-98.	1898-99.
	M. d.	M. d.
Allahabad	6 19	3 3
Benares	3 21	2 4
Ballia	3 8	2 8

On the other hand, procrastination is equally conspicuous in these :—

	1897-98. M.	d.	1898-99. M.	d.
Dehra Dún	1	14	3	15
Aligarh	2	21	3	26
Bijnor	1	13	2	15
Moradabad	1	15	3	1
Pilibhít	2	4	4	10
Mirzapur	2	1	3	3

The adjournment of enhancement cases for local enquiry during the cold weather, pressure of criminal work, and frequent changes of the district staff are the causes most commonly assigned for the delay. In Mirzapur it is attributed to the time of one officer having been taken up with the Dudhi Settlement. In the disposal of uncontested cases there was extraordinary delay in Budaun, where the average is said to have reached two months and 24 days, thus exceeding by three days the time spent on a contested case. The Collector of Budaun (Mr. Cooke) has since submitted an explanation of this phenomenon, which in some respects, mutatis mutandis, probably accounts for similar delay in other districts also. This is what he says :—

"The delay in disposing of uncontested cases occurred chiefly in classes I, VI and X, and the reasons appear to be changes of jurisdiction and delay by parties in attending or filing proof. Several cases were on this last ground dismissed in default and were hence shown as uncontested. One record appears to have been mislaid in a bundle of enhancement cases and not found for some months which caused a duration of 336 days. The high average, however, is chiefly due to the very large number of enhancement cases (over 4,000) filed in August and earlier which had to be postponed till the cold weather, and were then often settled by compromise. It will be seen that out of the large total of enhancement applications filed only 71 were disposed of with contest, while 3,843 were compromised, generally after several adjournments had been granted to admit of parties coming to terms. It is these cases that have raised the average duration of uncontested cases."

Allahabad, Fatehpur and Ballia also show badly in this respect.

Notices of relinquishment show a return to the figures for 1896-97. The rise in the Allahabad division alone is more than enough to account for the whole of the increase. The Commissioner (Mr. Alexander), is of opinion that the excess under this head partially explains the falling off in the issue of notices to quit, and thinks that a good many of the relinquishments are not exactly voluntary. The aggregate for this division alone is considerably higher than the total reached by the whole of the rest of the province. The want of cattle in Bánda, and the hope of escaping liability for payment of rent in Hamírpur, are local suggestions in explanation of the returns from those districts. The ubiquitous káns pest also has probably something to say in the matter. Whatever the cause may be the figures would seem to afford a not unfair index of the present phase of agricultural industry in Bundelkhand and of its unsatisfactory position.

Under the head of applications for the sale of distrained crops there is a decline of about 13 per cent. as compared with the previous year. The Allahabad division, as usual, exhibits the least degree of activity in this connection. Jaunpur alone is responsible for over half the cases in the Benares division. The increase over the previous year is attributed to the action taken by the Court of Wards in the management of the estate of the Rája of Jaunpur. The decrease in Gorakhpur is noticeable, but not attributed to any special reasons. Agricultural prosperity is put forward as the cause of the falling off in Rohilkhand. It is also a useful explanation of the contrary effect as opportunity or expediency dictates.

The increase in the number of suits for arrears of rent is general. "Suits," as Mr. Hardy remarks with reference to the Lucknow division, "had to be brought to prevent the 1303 Fasli arrears from becoming time-barred; and as landlords had to meet increased demands for revenue, viz., the current and, in some cases, the enhanced revenue plus the suspended arrears of 1304 Fasli, they had to press their tenants who had done on the whole fairly well but who were, as a rule, very unwilling to sell the grain at the low prices which ruled." The Rae Bareli district in this division alone shows a fall, which is ascribed to the fact that the district is held chiefly by influential taluqdárs. In the Fyzabad division, Gonda is mainly responsible for the rise, the management of the Ajudhya estate having displayed unequal activity. Three districts show a decrease, viz., Fyzabad, Bahraich and Bara Banki, which is probably due to a sharp rise in prices at the end of the year, which enabled the tenants to sell their produce and to pay off arrears before it became necessary to have recourse to the courts.

The decrease in Class XIV is contributed to by all the districts and was to be expected. The figures for the previous year were unusually high owing to attempts of cultivators to regain possession of holdings which they abandoned in the famine year and which had been taken possession of by landlords. The fall in Class XV is general and is due to there having been fewer distraints than in the previous year. The increase in the number of suits in Class XX is practically confined to the Lucknow division. The rise (as the Commissioner remarks) is natural, the remissions of revenue had left the accounts in an uncertain state and it was only when these were cleared that the lambardárs saw their way to suing their co-sharers.

The following table contrasts the number of suits under the Oudh Rent Act in the past two years and the manner in which they were disposed of:—

Cases have on the whole been disposed of with promptitude. Of the 1,827 cases shown as remaining undisposed of in the Fyzabad division, no less than 1,348 were pending in Gonda, 999 out of this number having been pending for over three months. Litigation in this district has been very heavy, 5,634 cases having been instituted during the year, as against 3,862 in 1897-98. The Board had last year under consideration the question of increasing the staff in this district. It was finally decided to make no change, the Deputy Commissioner being of opinion that the existing staff could cope with the work. To work off the arrears, however, of the year under report the staff of the district has now been temporarily strengthened. It is satisfactory to note that the average duration of contested cases in Gonda has fallen from two months and two days in 1897-98 to one month and twelve days in the year under report.

Appendix B.—III, A. B. and C. Notices of ejectment.

61. The following table shows the number of the different classes of notices of ejectment issued and the number of applications made for the ejectment of tenants for non-payment of arrears of rent in the last two years :—

	1897-98.		1898-99.
	Number.	Area in acres.	Number.	Area in acres.

GRAND TOTAL ...	17,577	177,644	17,943	467,648

These figures disclose no remarkable fluctuations, except as regards the area affected and this is fortuitous, a number of lessees of villages having been ejected during the year. The number of cases in which eviction actually took place was 11,355 (237,266 acres) as against 11,030 (85,670 acres) in the previous year 108,012 acres were let to new tenants.

Appendix B.—III, A. Notices of ejectment of statutory tenants.

62. Notices for the ejectment of statutory tenants on termination of their tenancy rose from 5,204 to 5,568 and the area affected from 19,628 to 25,428 acres. Sultánpur returns the largest increase (219). Here, and in the other five districts which exhibit an increase, the rise is ascribed mainly to the introduction of the revised assessments and to the desire of landlords to shift the burden of the enhanced jamás on to their tenants. The largest drop (138) occurs in Bara Banki and is the natural consequence of the abnormal increase (of 860) in this district in the preceding year. Actual ejectments took place in regard to 3,672 holdings comprising 14,223 acres as compared with 3,476 holdings comprising 11,282 acres in 1897-98. The average increase in the rent of land relet in the districts in which the rents are taken in cash only was 16 per cent. as against a rise of 21 per cent. in the previous year. Of the total number of notices issued, 33 per cent. were contested, and of the 1,837 suits brought to contest ejectment, 694 (or 38 per cent.) proved successful—a slightly lower percentage than in 1897-98. Bara Banki still continues to show the highest number of illegal ejectments (249), the enhancement secured thereby being 7 per cent. Ninety-five suits for compensation for illegal ejectment were instituted against 91 in 1897-98.

Appendix B.—III, B.
Notices of ejectment in respect of which no court-fee was paid.

63. Of the notices in respect of which no court-fee is payable, those under section 48 of the Rent Act on the heirs of statutory tenants decreased from 2,282 to 1,946. The falling off is general, notably Bara Banki (122) and Lucknow (111). Notices under section 69 on tenants holding under registered leases also show a decline from 1,232 to 1,005. As was the case in 1897-98, more than half the notices were issued in Bara Banki, though the number was lesser by 107 than in that year. Notices under other sections of the Act increased from 4,514 to 4,677. This is due principally to a large rise (of 525) in Bahraich attributable to the issue of a considerable number of notices on village lessees—notably in the Bhinga estate in which the policy is now to bring as many villages as possible under direct management. The area affected by the different descriptions of notices shown in this appendix amounted to 399,050 acres, Bahraich contributing 330, 819 and Gonda 34,931 acres. Of the aggregate number of notices 21 per cent. were contested, and 42 per cent. of the suits brought to contest them achieved success. Ejectment took place with respect to 203,527 acres, or 51 per cent. of the total area to which the notices referred. The average rise in the rent of the land relet after ejectment excluding the figures of the districts in which a part of the land was relet on grain rents was 10 per cent. compared with 8 per cent. in the previous year.

Appendix B.—III, C.
Applications for ejectment under section 61.

64. Applications under section 61 for the ejectment of tenants for failure to pay decreed rental arrears rose from 4,345 to 4,747 most of the districts returning an advance, Bara Banki leading with 302. Landlords no longer find it necessary to be lenient to their tenants, and the Deputy Commissioner who stayed their hands during the famine year and immediately afterwards are now prepared to eject tenants in arrear with their rents who either cannot or will not pay. The Commissioners of both the divisions testify that the provisions of the section were carefully and considerately worked. The area from which tenants were ousted was 19,516 acres out of the 43,170 acres to which the applications had reference.

Appendix B.—III, D.
Notices of enhancement.

65. Two hundred and seventy-two notices of enhancement were issued affecting an area of 1,846 acres against 135 notices affecting 857 acres in 1897-98. These notices were confined to seven districts, Unao, Rae Bareli and Sultánpur taking the lead with 110, 70 and 54 covering 764, 571 and 274 acres respectively. Twenty-three notices only were contested, 13 sucessfully. The enhancements gave 7 against 6 per cent. in the previous year, the highest percentage (9) being in the Rae Bareli district.

Cases of illegal enhancement have again come to light. From Sítapur 140 cases are reported, but the Deputy Commissioner questions whether a tenth of this number represents illegal enhancements. As the Commissioner remarks, if this be so, the cases should not have been included in the returns. The Mahmudabad estate is responsible for most of them and the karindas in fault have since been dismissed or otherwise punished. In the latter part of paragraph 63 of the Board's report for 1897-98 the subject of unauthorized enhancements in the Ajudhya estate in Fyzabad was referred to. From a further report since received it appears that practically all the cases in which rents had been enhanced beyond the lawful limit have been settled to the satisfaction of the tenants. Complaints of similar enhancements are said to have been received against three talúkdárs and a village lessee in Sultánpur, but these do not appear to have been well founded. In Bara Banki illegal enhancements are stated to have steadily increased since the recent settlement. In the Mahmudabad estate especially unauthorized enhancements were extensively made, and on complaints preferred by tenants, an enquiry was ordered by Government. This was carried out with the assistance of the Mahárája's Naib, and resulted in every case in the reduction of the enhanced rent to the limit allowed by law. On this subject the Commissioner (Mr. Hooper) writes :—

"While therefore it cannot be denied that, in some districts the revision of settlements has had the not unnatural effect of stimulating evasions or infringements of the limitations placed upon enhancements by the Rent Act, it is, I think satisfactory that, where illegal enhancements have been attempted on any extensive scale, the tenants have not hesitated to appeal to the highest authority even against powerful landlords, with the result that excessive enhancements have been withdrawn, and that disputes have been amicably settled with the co-operation of the proprietors concerned."

Appendix B—II,A. Miscellaneous Applications and proceedings.

66. The only applications in this appendix requiring notice are those under class II (notices of relinquishment) class VIII (applications for assistance to eject) and class X (applications by distrainer for sale of distrained produce). Notices of relinquishment amounted to 9,244 compared with 7,952 in the previous year. With two exceptions, all the districts show an increase, in particular Rae Bareli (370), Hardoi (352) and Fyzabad (284). The rise in Rae Bareli is attributed to the fact that a large number of tenants have had to give up their holdings on account of the sandy condition of the soil near the banks of the Ganges. With regard to the increase in Hardoi the Deputy Commissioner states that the figures for the year under report indicate only a tendency to revert to the normal state of things, and the number of notices would probably have been larger but for the relinquishment or abandonment of much land during the famine. In Fyzabad the increase is due to a large number of tenants in all of the Ajudhya villages having thrown up their holdings. Applications for assistance to eject show a rise from 6,786 to 7,381 most of the districts recording a higher figure than in the previous year. Distraint applications, on the other hand, declined from 7,536 to 5,117. The fall is general, Hardoi showing the largest decline (1,406). The Deputy Commissioner of that district explains that the fee on a notice moreover has lately been trebled.

Appendix B—I Kumaun.

67. The following table compares the number of suits instituted, decided and pending in Kumaun in the past two years:—

District.	Pending.		Instituted.		Total.		Decided.		Pending.

The variations in the number of suits instituted are unimportant. The falling off in Naini Tal is ascribed to good harvests, and that in Garhwál to possibly the prevalence of cholera during the last quarter of the year. The increase in Almora is not explained. Of the 730 institutions, 384 were suits by málguzárs for arrears of revenue and rent (class XII) and 161 for arrears of rent (class II). Almora contributes 243 to the number in the former class, and 43 to the 52 ejectment cases (class III.) There is a marked increase in the average duration of cases in Almora from 16 days to 2 months and 24 days in contested, and from 6 days to 1 month and 11 days in uncontested cases. While no explanation is furnished for the increase in duration in uncontested cases, the Deputy Commissioner advances several reasons for the rise in the period in contested cases, such as verification of land, parties given time to produce evidence, &c. The Commissioner doubts the correctness of the figures for 1897-98, and considers those for the year of report "to approximate more closely to the real conditions of the district." The Board are inclined to agree with the Commissioner.

68. The following table exhibits by divisions the fluctuations during the past two years in the number of appealable suits decided by subordinate courts, and those actually appealed to the Collector or Deputy Commissioner.

The deductions suggested by these figures are obvious. The returns for Kumaun play an insignificant part in the aggregate, and call for no particular comment. Meerut more than atones for contributing least to the number of appealable decisions by showing the highest percentage of appeals actually filed. In nearly one-fourth of the cases in which it is possible appeals are presented in that division. In Muzaffarnagar the percentage rose to 33·72. In Agra, despite the increase in case work, appeals were less frequent than in the preceding year. Allahabad once more exhibits a low percentage of appeals filed, though in this respect the figure for the Lucknow division is even more noticeable. In the eastern portion of the Provinces, as might be expected, this type of litigation is popular. It is not surprising to find Gorakhpur (234), Azamgarh (214), Ghâzipur (187) and Ballia (180) heading the list of districts in regard to the actual number of appeals filed during the year, with the exception of Budaun and Moradabad where the numbers returned are 279 and 201 respectively. Lucknow with only 4 per cent. and Partábgarh with 7 per cent. of their appealable decisions taken before the District Appellate Court, afford instances of an abnormal abstention from appeal. Omitting 182, either summarily dismissed, or dismissed for default, there were 4,650 appeals for disposal. Of these 4,316 were decided during the year and 334 were still pending at its close, 16 of these had been before the courts for over three months, of which Aligarh contributed no less than 12. The average duration in this district was 5 months and 7 days, and is attributed by the Collector, (Mr. Molony) to over work. But, even after allowing for a large addition to his appellate work in the shape of cases transferred for the Collector's disposal by the Commissioner, it is hard to understand why it was not found possible to decide on the average something less than four rent appeals a week more promptly than this figure indicates. Saháranpur, with an average of nearly 2½ months, also exhibits a want of despatch. But the Collector, as is explained, had to devote much of his time to Hardwár affairs during the year. Notwithstanding occasional exceptions of this kind the provincial average of duration, although it rose from 1 month and 8 days to 1 month and 11 days bears testimony to the promptness with which appeals were ordinarily decided. In Oudh there was marked improvement in this respect, the average of 1 month and 14 days in 1897-98 being reduced to 1 month and 3 days only in the year under review.

The results of the disposal of appeals in each division for the past two years are tabulated in the annexed statement:—

Ignoring Kumaun, where the figures are too small to justify inclusion for purposes of comparison, the percentage of undisturbed decisions in the Meerut division is higher than any where else, being 64·70 as against the provincial average of 59·67. In view of the proportionately greater number of appeals filed there this is only what would be expected. The most conspicuous variation from the preceding year is in the Benares division where only 53·99 per cent. of the decisions appealed against were upheld in their entirety, though Lucknow with 54·71 per cent. is not far behind. In the last named division as many as 30·29 per cent. of the lower court's orders were reversed. No doubt the comparatively small proportion of appeals filed has a good deal to say to this. The highest figures are from the districts of Unao, Sitapur and Kheri. But statistics of this nature are apt to be misleading. A single appellate decision may cover several cases, and so prejudice the entire district average for the year.

Appendix B—V N.-W. P. Appeals to Collectors from orders on applications.

69. The number of appealable applications decided by Assistant Collectors of the 2nd class fell from 1,472 to 1,400 in the year under review. As usual, it was in the Meerut division only that appeals to Collectors were at all numerous. There were 166 appeals for decision, of which 149 were disposed of leaving 17 pending to be carried over to the current year.

70. In the following table are given details by divisions for the two past years of suits in which orders appealable to the Civil Courts were passed :—

Notwithstanding the general increase in the number of such suits decided, the actual number of appeals filed was less in some divisions than in the preceding year, and the provincial total exceeded that of 1897-98 by only 172. In both the North-Western Provinces and Oudh the percentage of appeals filed to appealable decisions passed was conspicuously less than in the year before. Meerut once more distinguishes itself by being the only division that refuses to contribute to this result. The percentage here rose from 23 to 27 in the year under report. In this division, too, the number of cases pending at the close of the year was large, though numerically little more than half that for which Benares is responsible, viz. 678 out of the total of 1,648, for the whole province. Out of 3,524 appeals for decision, only 1,876 were actually decided within the year. The average time occupied in hearing them works out to 8 months and one day as against 6 months and 6 days in the year before for the North-Western Provinces, while in Oudh there was a marked reduction from 9 months and 2 days to 6 months and 25 days in the year under review.

71. Figures illustrating the amount of appellate work in Commissioners' Courts in each division during the past two years are placed in juxtaposition in the following table :—

* These are second appeals under sec. 584, C. P. C.

Despite a small net decrease in the number of appealable cases decided, the number of appeals filed rose considerably, and the percentages set forth in column 9 are almost all of them in excess of those for the previous year shown in column 8. Omitting cases transferred to Collectors for disposal, Commissioners had 6,779 appeals to decide, as against 5,834 in the year before. When the year closed there were still 1,848 pending, 242 of which had been before the courts for over three months. For the bulk of these the Commissioner of Fyzabad, (Mr. Hooper) is responsible. But, as he explains, the number of appeals for decision last year was unusually great, the heavy balance of arrears from the previous year being swelled by about 200 settlement appeals which he brought with him when the office of Settlement Commissioner was abolished in July. He writes as follows :—

"The appellate work was thus very heavy, and though 515 more appeals were decided than in 1897-98, the comparatively large number of 606 remained pending when the year closed. It may be noted that of the 1,218 appeals disposed of 1,025 were decided after examining the records and hearing the parties; and the total number decided exceeds by 196, the sum total for disposal during the previous year."

Before submitting his report 356 more had been cleared off, reducing the balance to considerably less than it was at the close of 1897-98. The Meerut file as usual, is very much heavier than that of any other division. Nearly one-third of the appealable orders passed there are taken to the appellate court. Out of 561 cases transferred to Collectors for disposal, all but 29 are accounted for by this division. Despite the relief so afforded the Commissioner himself decided no less than 989 cases, leaving 457 still pending at the close of the year. Allahabad and Lucknow have, comparatively speaking, little to do in this way. Including arrears of the previous year the Collectors of the Meerut and Benares divisions had 729 appeals for disposal, of these 538 were decided within the year, leaving 191 still pending at its close of which Aligarh was responsible for 94 and Meerut for 58.

The number of appeals summarily rejected, or rejected after perusal of records, during the past two years, is compared by divisions in the following table :—

With institutions showing a constant tendency to increase, it is desirable and expedient that advantage should be taken of these methods of disposal, and more especially of that of rejecting the appeal after perusing the record and without requiring the parties to attend. As a matter of fact the Commissioner can in by far the large majority of the appeals before him determine after an examination of the record whether the appeal has any chance whatever of being successful and it is seldom necessary for him to require the parties to appear unless he sees sufficient ground to suppose that he will disturb the order appealed against. There are however sometimes cases in which it is expedient to require the parties to attend in order to obtain a proper elucidation of the facts. On the other hand the danger of summarily rejecting an appeal without reference to the record has to be carefully guarded against and adequate reasons should always be given when this procedure is adopted.

The results obtained in appeal before Commissioners are contrasted for the past two years in the following table. They compare favourably with those of appeals to Collector set forth in paragraph 68.

The figures speak for themselves and call for no special remark. The improvement in Allahabad, Rohilkhand and Benares is worthy of note. In Meerut and in Oudh there is a perceptible falling off from the previous year.

App. B.-IX, N.-W. P.

Action taken to avert sale of land in execution of decrees passed in the Revenue Courts.

73. During the year under review 315 applications for the sale of land under revenue court decrees were filed, as compared with 284 in 1897-98. The total number for disposal, inclusive of those carried forward from that year was 454. The distribution by divisions calls for no special ramark. As usual in the eastern districts the resort to this extreme method of recovery was comparatively rare. As in the previous year it was most popular in the Agra division. In all 283 cases were disposed of, in only 61 of which was the Collector able to avert sale. As the Commissioner of the Gorakhpur division, (Mr. Smith), says :— "Collectors are very rarely able to intervene usefully in these cases."

In 222 instances the Board's sanction to sale was solicited, and out of 199 in which it was accorded sale duly took place in 69. The decree was satisfied in 42 cases, while in 6 the decree-holders themselves asked to have the sale cancelled. In the remaining 82 the sale either had to be postponed for want of bidders, or did not take place for other reasons.

App. B. IX, Oudh.

74. The number of cases in which decrees were taken out in Oudh again shows an increase, and has risen from 890 to 967 in the year under report. In 490 of these application was made to the Chief Commissioner or Commissioners for sanction to sale, in 463 it was accorded and in 225 sale actually took place. In 113 cases the decree was satisfied before sale. It was postponed, or for some other reason did not proceed in the remainder. The bulk of these applications as might be expected, comes from the Fyzabad division, no less than 743 out of the year's total being from there, and it is a natural result of the prevalence of sub-settlement tenures in that part of the province. In this connection the Commissioner (Mr. Hooper) writes :—

"There was an increase in the total number of cases for execution; but more than half of them were pending from the previous year; and the great rise in the number of actual sales is chiefly due to the disposal of old pending cases. 132 of the sales took place in Gonda, and Fyzabad comes next with 34. As the Board remarked last year many of the under-proprietors in Gonda (and, it may be added, in Fyzabad also) have been, for years, in the habit of withholding the rents due to the superior proprietors; and, in such cases, sooner or later sale becomes inevitable."

SECTION III. Deposits of rent. Appendix B-VIII.

75. The total number of rent deposits during the year under review was 787, as against 687 in the previous year. Meerut, Gorakhpur and Lucknow are the only divisions in which there has been any material resort to this method of paying rent. In each case the explanation is to be found in the figures of a single district, and the exigency of local circumstances.

The marginally noted data supply the information wanted. The Collector of Bulandshahr (Mr. Radice) has made no comment on the rise in his district. But it has been touched on elsewhere in his report, and has already been noticed by the Board in paragraph 52 (supra). The incident is an interesting and instructive one. Similar conditions explain the variations in the other two districts. Regarding Gorakhpur, the Collector, (Mr. Calnan), writes :—

	1897-98.	1898-99.
Bulandshahr ...	8	140
Gorakhpur ...	59	122
Sítapur ...	45	139

"Seventyfour of the applications were made in the Padrauna tahsíl alone, the number being so large in consequence of disagreements in the Kindarpatti and Tamkuhi estates."

From Sítapur, the Deputy Commissioner, (Mr. Pike) observes :—

"The increase in numbers is due to the fact that in the Sítapur tahsíl 61 tenants in two villages deposited rent."

The unadjusted balance at the close of the year is a little bigger than it was at the end of 1897-98. Aligarh, Ballia and Azamgarh once more show large arrears, in comparison to the number of deposits made during the year. The high totals in Gorakhpur and Sítapur were only to be expected. Rupees 134 lapsed to Government under the three years limitation rule.

The number of processes issued during the year has fallen from 60,236 to 53,180 ; while the arrears for the recovery of which they were employed were nearly thirty lakhs less than in the previous year. The decline in the number of processes is due mainly to the issue of fewer writs of demand. All the other processes, except attachments of immoveable property, have been more freely employed than in 1897-98, and indicate a generally increased difficulty in the realization of the Government demand during the year under report.

Minor processes.

77. The Meerut Division, in which the number of writs of demand has remained practically the same for several years past, is the only division which now shows an increase (10 per cent.) in the number of such writs, this form of process having been more extensively employed than before in the Aligarh and Saháranpur districts. In Aligarh two-thirds of the number come from the Sikandra Rao and Iglas tahsíls, in which they are reported to have been largely used for the recovery of canal revenue. In Saháranpur the increase is explained by the increase in the arrears to be recovered. Attachments of moveable property were fewer, but more frequent recourse was had to arrest than before, particularly in the Saháranpur and Meerut districts.

In the Agra Division the number of writs of demand was reduced by almost one-half, every district showing a decline, notably Agra, in which the number fell from 1,439 last year to 592 in the year under report, owing it is said to more discretion being exercised than before. Attachments of moveable property also show a large decline. Arrests were slightly more numerous owing to issue of a number of warrants having been found necessary in the Bhongaon tahsíl of the Mainpuri district.

The falling off in the number of writs issued in the Rohilkhand Division is accounted for chiefly by the Bareilly district where their use was discouraged and the severer processes employed in the case of habitual defaulters. Both arrests and attachments of moveable property show a marked increase in all the districts of the division, particularly the latter, the figures for the two years being 903 and 2,106, respectively. Sale took place in 200 instances compared with 90 in the previous year, Bareilly, Budaun and Sháhjahánpur being the districts in which most sales were found necessary. The chief reasons assigned are the heavy arrears that had to be collected and the contumacy of landlords who can but will not pay.

Writs of demand were not so freely used in the Allahabad Division as in previous years, the number issued having fallen from 7,526 to 4,680; but to counterbalance this there has been a more general recourse to nearly all of the other processes. Arrests increased 20 per cent., attachments of moveable property nearly 40 per cent., while the number of cases in which property was sold reached 782, or more than double the figures of the preceding year. The Hamírpur district accounts for half the number of the attachments of moveable property, 1,100 persons being proceeded against, 703 of whom paid up the arrears before sale. The arrears in this district were very heavy, and although the above figures indicate a certain amount of recusancy, it is the Commissioner's opinion that there are many maháls in which the demand presses heavily, especially in the Maudha tahsíl where the cultivated area has greatly diminished and where he considers special measures are still necessary to restore prosperity. Similar remarks are recorded with respect to other districts in this division which will be more appropriately noticed later on. In the Allahabad district there was a drop of over 50 per cent. in the number of writs issued owing to the practice of issuing demand slips through patwáris having been adopted, but the number of arrests increased by 50 per cent. and the number of attachments of moveable property by 70 per cent. Sales took place in 108 out of 631 cases, but only Rs. 5,096 were recovered out of the Rs. 93,092 in arrears. The minor processes, except attachments of moveables, were sparingly used in the districts of Jhánsi and Jalaun. In neither of these districts, however, was the sale of moveables attended with much success.

Looking next at the Benares Division, it is seen that in the Benares district the number of dastaks declined while the number of arrests increased. Only 41 defaulters, however, were detained in custody, and the average term of detention was only five days. Attachments of moveable property rose from 101 to 363, but sale took place in only 11 instances. There is a general decline in the Gházipur district under all heads of minor processes except arrest, and the manner in which processes were used shows the care and attention bestowed on this portion of his duties by the Collector (Mr. Tudball). The figures for Mirzapur and Jaunpur call for no particular remark, and those for Ballia indicate the comparative ease with which the revenue is collected in that district.

The Gorakhpur Division again heads the list in the number of writs of demand issued and arrests made during the year. In Azamgarh a larger number of arrests (515) was made than in any district in the provinces. It is accounted for by the number of pattidári maháls, where one co-sharer withholds payment in hope of the arrears being realized from some other co-sharer.

The figures for the Kumaun Division show that less pressure was applied in Naini Tal and Almora than in Garhwál, but the arrears are larger in Almora than in the other two districts, although twice as many writs of demand were issued. Other processes might have been more effectively employed.

In the Lucknow Division, Sitapur is the only district which shows a rise in the number of dastaks issued, and this the Deputy Commissioner accounts for by saying that the present figures more approximately represent actual facts than the figures previously reported. The decrease in the number of processes is most marked in Rae Bareli and Kheri. In Hardoi 1,867 summonses to appear were issued, for 1,457 of which the Tahsíldár of Bilgram is responsible. The Commissioner (Mr. Hardy) is of opinion that the plan is a sensible one and might be tried with advantage in the Unao and Sitapur districts. In Unao a freer recourse was had to warrants of arrest than the Commissioner was able to approve of. One hundred and sixty-nine warrants were issued as against 49 in the preceding year. In Sitapur attachments of moveable property rose from 359 to 843, and sale took place in 93 cases. The Commissioner's conclusion is that the plethora of petty revenue punishments in this district would have been obviated by the firmer handling of a few recusants.

The statistics of processes for the Fyzabad Division show that the number of dastaks has decreased 25 per cent., while there has been no great variation in the other figures.

System of issuing demand slips through agency of patwáris.

78. The system of issuing demand slips to lambardárs, through the agency of patwáris, showing the instalments of revenue payable a fortnight before they are due, received a further trial during the year. In a number of districts the system had to be held in abeyance owing to the absence of patwáris on settlement work. In Mainpuri the use of the system was discontinued, as from experience gained in previous years it was not found to possess any merit. In Fyzabad, also, it is regarded as one unsuited to local conditions. It was remarked in last year's report that the Gorakhpur Division appeared to be one in which the system would not prove a success, and that it was a question for consideration whether it should be discontinued in that division. The result of the year's working helps to establish this opinion, as in none of the districts does the system seem to find favour. The Deputy Commissioner of Naini Tal thinks that the system is not of much good in Káshipur where there are no large coparcenary bodies. In Hamírpur the system is reported not to have worked successfully. The Collector of Allahabad considers it of little use unless the phantbandi system is rehabilitated. On the other hand the system is favourably reported on in Saháranpur, Muzaffarnagar, Bulandshahr, Muttra, Agra, Jhánsi, and Jalaun, and in some of the Oudh districts.

Service of writs of demand through the post.

79. The service of writs of demand through the post was found by the Collector of Mirzapur to be effective only in the case of big zamíndárs. In the Gorakhpur Division it has again been pronounced valueless, and in other districts, e.g., Etáwah, Fatehpur and Hamírpur, has failed to work successfully. In Farukhabad and Allahabad such writs are ignored, and in Benares treated with silent contempt.

Process-fees.

80. The demand on account of process-fees amounted to Rs. 27,351, out of which Rs. 25,877 were realized. The establishment charges amounted to Rs. 16,431, and a net surplus of Rs. 9,446 accrued at the end of the year.

Attachments of immoveable property.

81. There were 1,033 attachments of immoveable property in the North-Western Provinces as against 1,569 in the previous year, the decrease being chiefly accounted for by the drop in the Allahabad Division from 943 to 335. In the Meerut Division, Aligarh is the only district in which this process was employed, and there to no great extent. In the Agra Division attachments were made in all the districts except Etah, and are reported to have been very effective, most of the maháls being released before the end of the year. The Rohilkhand Division this year shows the largest number of these attachments, every district except Sháhjahánpur (in which an abnormal number of attachments had been made in the previous year) reporting an increase. Budaun shows the largest rise, there having been 159 attachments as against 42 in 1897-98, but 33 of the maháls belonged to one proprietor.

In the Allahabad Division, in which the number of attachments last year was abnormally high, numbering 943, the only district which shows an increase under this head is Bánda, where the figures rose from 22 last year to 163 in the year under report. The Commissioner hopes that the somewhat large scale on which attachments have now been made will result in the improvement of many estates, but is of opinion that it will be necessary to continue considerable advances of takávi for some time to come if such management is to be really effective. In Cawnpore the number of attachments of immoveable property fell from 50 to 41, the same number as in Fatehpur. The Collector of Cawnpore speaks of the increasing difficulty in collecting the revenue in that district. The processes employed have indeed been severer than before, but they were practically sufficient to ensure the collection of the Government demand, whereas in many other districts they did not suffice, and either remissions or suspensions had to be made or considerable balances remained outstanding. In Fatehpur, where consideration was clearly shown to defaulters, the settlement was not a lenient one, and the Commissioner is of opinion that takávi will have to be freely given in villages in which tenants have fallen, owing to bad harvests, into difficulties from which the zamíndárs have done little or nothing to extricate them. Hamírpur and Allahabad are the two districts which show the largest fall in the number of attachments, the drop in the former being from 197 to 32, and in the latter from 532 to 21. In both of these districts excessive recourse was had to this form of process in 1897-98, but in regard to Allahabad the Collector says that it was a case of either attachment and direct management or further suspensions or remissions. Of the state of things in this district, the Collector (Mr. Ferard) writes as follows:—

"The dilatory and recusant spirit which the famine left was noticed by my predecessor last year, and what has to be borne in mind now and for several years to come is that consideration in not pressing for our famine arrears too hurriedly must be coupled with the insistence on getting what we determine to get: otherwise the district will never get straight."

The Commissioner (Mr. Alexander), while agreeing with the Collector as to recusancy being largely responsible for the difficulty in collecting the demand, adds:—

"It is also certain that indebtedness of both tenants and za mindárs has increased owing to the famine. It is also notorious that in this district the settlement was very uneven and that the Government demand presses very heavily on many mahâls. I think, therefore, that while it is necessary to punish recusancy, it is even more necessary to show moderation towards many of the defaulters who undoubtedly find it very difficult just now to pay their way without being directly to blame. The very poor results obtained by sale of moveable property seems to me to point to this, and it is certainly the opinion of the best native authorities I have been able to consult. It is also borne out by the fact that penalties in mutation cases had to be remitted more liberally than in the preceding year owing to the straitened circumstances of the proprietors."

These remarks have the Board's entire concurrence. It is with a view to checking recusancy while at the same time avoiding the selling up of embarassed proprietors that so many mahâls in this district have been attached and placed under the management of a special staff.

In the Benares Division, Ghâzipur is the only district in which the number of attachments has increased. The Collector reports that some zamíndárs applied to have their estates attached, but their request was rejected. A similar request was brought to notice last year in the case of Fatehpur.

In the Gorakhpur Division, Azamgarh is the only district which shows the employment of this process, and there the number has declined from 155 to 136.

In the Kumaun Division there were only two cases of this kind. Both attachments occurred in the Garhwâl district and were for arrears of advances under the Land Improvement Loans Act and the Agriculturists' Loans Act. The sale of the property followed in both instances.

In Oudh the figures show a slight increase from 145 in 1897-98 to 169 in 1898-99. In the Lucknow Division, Unao heads the list with 53 cases of attachments. The Deputy Commissioner says these attachments throw too much work on the district staff, and the Commissioner considers that transfers to solvent co-sharers are a much more effective method of collection. In Hardoi the Deputy Commissioner has found that a mere threat of attachment is sufficient to secure payment.

In the Fyzabad Division all the estates attached were released during the year.

82. The Board regret to observe that the management of estates attached for arrears of revenue has been unsatisfactory in several districts, particularly in Bareilly, Mirzapur and Azamgarh. In the last of these districts there was no pretence of management. The realization of revenue becomes an impossibility if no rent is put upon the cultivatory holdings of proprietors, if the collection of rents is neglected and if zamíndárs are allowed to interfere in the work of collection. District Officers must comply with, and insist on their subordinates complying with, the rules in the Board's circulars on this subject. There will then be less cause for complaint than there is at present. The Board have under consideration the necessity of revising their Book Circular 6D-IV fort he North-Western Provinces and the corresponding Circular for Oudh. The present rules do not provide any effective control over the expenditure of the funds of attached estates, and their general supervision admits of much improvement. At present neither the Commissioner nor the Board is in a position to know anything of the management of the majority of these estates until a report is received, which is often very inadequate and unsatisfactory, at the close of the revenue year. The management of these estates should be equal to that of estates under the Court of Wards but it is not: it is left far too much to subordinate agency and the result is that rents are not properly collected. The question of improving the present unsatisfactory position will receive the careful attention of the Board. These remarks do not apply to all districts and the Board desire to specially mention Mr. Cox, Deputy Commissioner of Hardoi, for the interest he has taken in this portion of his duties.

Transfers of shares or pattis.

83. The number of transfers of shares or pattis increased from 7 in 1897-98 to 72 in the year under report. The Board, in paragraph 78 of their report on the Revenue Administration for 1897-98, expressed their desire to see this process more frequently employed as it is a specially equitable method of securing the payment of revenue. The only districts that have had recourse to this method of realizing arrears to any large extent are Benares (21), Azamgarh (11), Jhánsi and Hardoi (10). In Jhánsi this process would be more largely resorted to only that solvent co-sharers invariably decline transfer, preferring an occasional call for arrears to taking the responsibility of a depreciated share.

Annulment of settlement.

84. The number of maháls in which the settlement was annulled increased from 11 in 1897-98 to 123 in 1898-99. Fourteen maháls were farmed and the remaining 109 were taken under direct management. Of the latter, the largest number is in Jhánsi (61) for arrears aggregating Rs. 63,680. These maháls belong to the Gursarai estate. The circumstances which necessitated the annulment of the settlement of this estate have already been reported to Government. Bánda comes next with 29 maháls for arrears aggregating Rs. 19,765. The settlement of these maháls was annulled in accordance with the directions issued by Government, to which reference has been made in paragraph 16 above. The 12 cases in the Naini Tal district are chiefly deteriorated estates in the Jaspur tract of pargana Káshipur, which it has been found necessary to take under direct management with a view to improvement in anticipation of the new settlement.

Sales.

85. Seven estates were sold during the year as compared with two in the previous year. Of these, two estates in Cawnpore and Benares were sold for arrears of revenue. The defaulters were heavily in debt and must in any case have been sold up in execution of civil court decrees. The remaining five estates were sold for failure to repay advances. In the majority of these cases the loan taken was misapplied and recovery was impossible except by sale.

Appendix—E.—XI. Estates managed direct after annulment of settlement.

86. The rental demand, inclusive of arrears, of estates held under direct management after annulment of settlement during the year under report amounted to Rs. 1,74,562, of which Rs. 83,201 were recovered, leaving a balance of Rs. 91,361 at the close of the year. Almost the whole of this sum is due in Jhánsi, Bánda and Hamírpur. In Jhánsi there were four estates under management, the most important of which is the Gursarai estate in which the rental demand, including arrears, amounted to Rs. 96,265-7-7. Of this sum Rs. 49,162-12-1 were collected, leaving a balance of Rs. 47,102-11-6, viz., Rs. 14,636 on account of current demand and Rs. 32,466 on account of arrears. The balance of current rent includes Rs. 6,201 due from khalsa lands in the possession of lessees. By the terms of the tenure the only process open to the Rais of Gursarai, and the Collector as representing him, to enforce the payment of this rent is the cancellation of the lease. The leases in 12 villages have been cancelled in this way. Of the other arrears a portion is barred by limitation, and the Collector doubts whether it will be possible to collect the remainder. The balances will be carefully tested on the spot, and the amounts found to be irrecoverable will be reported for remission.

In Bánda against a demand aggregating Rs. 40,261-7-8, only Rs. 3,397-11-1 were collected. The poorness of the collections is accounted for by the fact that all the maháls in question were taken under direct management about the close of the year after the collections for both kists were over. Only a small portion of this balance has been classed as irrecoverable, but the Collector is having these balances finally tested before recommending any remissions. In Hamírpur, of the rental demand including arrears of Rs. 6,887-6-2, Rs. 1,866-11-1 were collected. The cause of the short collections and large balances is the bad condition of the tenants who have not yet recovered from the effects of the famine. The balances will be classified after they have been tested during the cold weather.

The expenses on account of management have been heavy: Rs. 5,550-1-3 against Rs. 682 last year. In Jhánsi the expenditure under this head was Rs. 4,395, the establishment charges on account of the Gursarai estate, for which a special manager has been appointed, alone accounting for Rs. 3,263-11-10. The outstanding balance on account of takávi advances at the close of the year under report was Rs. 7,559-11-0 against Rs. 1,607 at the end of the previous year. The districts which are responsible for this amount are Jhánsi (Rs. 4,974), Bánda (Rs. 1,426-12-0), Hamírpur (Rs. 667-7-0), Naini Tal (Rs. 446), and Pilibhít (Rs. 45-8-0). With the exception of Rs. 1,815-12-0 the whole of this amount was advanced during the year.

Appendix E—XII. Estates attached by order of Civil or Rent Courts.

87. The number of estates at the commencement of the year of which District Officers actually held charge as managers or receivers was 104. Thirty-two more were taken charge of during the year chiefly under section 326 of Act XIV of 1882, making a total of 136. Of these 33 were released, including seven estates for which no accounts were furnished, leaving 103 under management at the close of the year. The rental demand including arrears was Rs. 2,08,357, of which, including advance collections, Rs. 1,72,990 (or 83 per cent.) were recovered as compared with 70 per cent. in the preceding year. Of the districts in which the rental demand is over Rs. 1,000 less than half the demand was collected in Fyzabad (where the Bansgaon estate was under management for part of the year only) Ballia, Gorakhpur and Jalaun. The total sum available for expenditure, including the opening cash balance and miscellaneous receipts was Rs. 2,01,955. Out of this amount Rs. 1,27,666 were disbursed for charges, including revenue and proprietors' allowances, and Rs. 25,239 were paid into court towards the liquidation of debts. Of this sum nearly Rs. 14,000 represent profits from the Rampur Kalan estate in the Sitapur district, reference to which has been made in previous reports. The proposal which was under consideration last year to take this estate under Court of Wards management has been negatived by the Board, but it has been decided to sell a portion of the estate in order to liquidate the debts due to one Nawáb Wala Qadr who is the biggest creditor of the estate. The cash balance (Rs. 45,181) in the Meerut district to the credit of the Muhi-ud-dinpur estate is large. Owing to the non-receipt of the orders of the High Court regarding certain objections pending before it in regard to the debts due by the estate it was not found possible to utilize any portion of this sum towards the liquidation of the debts. The unpaid balances of land revenue at the close of the year amounted to Rs. 10,621. The largest balance, Rs. 6,582, was in the Bareilly district and is said to have been due to an indifferent kharíf harvest. The cost of management of the several estates fell on an average at 7 per cent. on the receipts.

Sales by order of court show a rise of nearly 1,000 cases in the last four years, the figures being as follows :—

1896-97	5,452
1897-98	5,836
1898-99	6,043

But the rise in the last two years is no doubt due to sales having taken place which had been postponed at the time of the famine.

The following statement gives the numbers of voluntary transfers for the last five years :—

Year.	Sale of revenue paying lands.		Mortgages.
	North-Western Provinces.	Oudh.	North-Western Provinces.	Oudh.
1	2	3	4	5
1894-95	17,052	2,717	8,256	7,144
1895-96	20,030	3,070	9,486	8,255
1896-97	22,599	3,487	13,388	8,205
1897-98	21,329	4,035	12,077	8,606
1898-99	18,935	4,944	8,262	10,874

The decline in the number of sales and mortgages in every division in the North-Western Provinces, except Allahabad, is undoubtedly indicative of a considerable return of agricultural and general prosperity. In Oudh the increase is more apparent than real, being due entirely to the registration of transfers which had remained unregistered for various reasons in previous years. This is particularly noticeable in Fyzabad, where the revision of the registers in Khandasa and other parganas has resulted in several thousand mutation cases.

The decrease in succession cases was to be expected in a year of low mortality and would have been larger, but for the increase in Oudh, which is due mainly to the 6,000 cases under this head now brought on to the registers in the Fyzabad district.

The number of year's purchase of revenue paying lands sold by order of court was the same as last year, while that of those sold by private transfer fell in both the North-Western Provinces and Oudh. But these figures cannot be pronounced to be a real index of the value of the property sold.

89. The following table shows the penalties levied under section 97, Act XIX of 1873, and section 64 of Act XVII of 1876, and require little comment. Both the number of the cases and the amount of the penalties are larger than in the preceding year. The average penalty was a little over 13 annas as against a little less than 13 annas last year :—

Instructions were issued by the Board during the year for the discontinuance of the practice wherever it existed of the imposition of penalties by tahsíldárs without the order of the Collector or Assistant Collector, and for securing uniformity in the scale of the penalties imposed. In Jaunpur there is a noticeable rise in the number of sales reported, and the Commissioner is of opinion that it will be necessary for the Court of Wards to have recourse more freely to this method of recovering judgment-debts in some of the estates. The bulk of the fixed rate tenants appear to have fallen into the hands of money-lenders (generally themselves agriculturists) and will ultimately have to be sold up.

Jhânsi Encumbered Estates Act (XVI of 1882).

91. No advance was made during the year and eight accounts were closed by regular payments of instalments. Collections have not been satisfactory, and a number of the shares are under attachment. It was found necessary to put up one estate for sale, but there were no bids, and if no purchasers are forthcoming at the next auction, the estate will have to be bought in on behalf of Government.

SECTION III. PARTITIONS. Appendix C—IV. (N.-W. P. and Oudh.)

92. The number of applications for partition for disposal in the North-Western Provinces fell from 3,201 to 3,086, and in Oudh it rose from 919 to 1,042. Taking both Provinces together the pending file was reduced from 1,853 to 1,713.

The following table shows the distribution of the cases by divisions and the progress made in disposing of them :—

In Meerut, Aligarh, Bijnor and Gorakhpur there were cases pending over three years and more. The oldest case is in Meerut, pending from 5th May 1894, but partition work in this district is in abeyance owing to settlement. The next oldest case is in Gorakhpur, pending from 8th March 1895. It refers to the partition of certain land, buildings and gardens in the city, and the delay in its disposal is due to the complicated nature of the objections raised in it.

The Deputy Commissioner of Bara Banki should see to the early disposal of the case pending from 18th March 1896. The pending files in Budaun, Moradabad, Gorakhpur, Unao and Sultánpur are heavy. This branch of the revenue administration requires constant supervision by the District Officers.

The partition operations during the year resulted in a further increase of nearly 3,000 mahâls.

The Commissioner of Allahabad has made some suggestions as to the present system of placing partition work under one officer. He considers that one officer should be in charge and should carry out the partitions, while the pargana officer should go over the proposals in the village, explain them to those concerned, proclaim the jamabandis and dispose of all objections requiring local enquiry and finally that the partition proceedings should be completed by the officer in charge by whom the case should be submitted to the Collector for sanction. This proposal will be considered separately by the Board, and if necessary the opinion of a few selected officers will be asked.

SECTION IV.—ADVANCES UNDER THE LAND IMPROVEMENT LOANS ACT. Appendices C—V and C—VI.

93. The amounts of the advances actually disbursed to landlords and tenants under the Land Improvement Loans Act are shown by divisions in the subjoined table, and compared with the corresponding figures for the previous year :—

There is a marked increase in the amount distributed in the first three divisions. In Lucknow the falling off is in comparison even more conspicuous. Over the whole province there is a decline of about 10 per cent. Until near its close, and even then only in the western districts, the year was a prosperous one, and the seasons favourable. Moreover, the heavy arrears still outstanding in some parts on account of advances accepted in previous years, probably deterred some would-be borrowers from assuming any fresh liabilities.

The increase in the Meerut division is from two districts only. In Saháranpur a sum of Rs. 2,000 was taken by zamíndárs for payment to the Canal Department on account of drainage works, while in Muzaffarnagar a similar amount was advanced for the construction of masonry wells.

The districts of Muttra and Farukhabad are responsible for the increase in the Agra division, which is due to the deficiency in the rainfall at the close of the year. The early cessation of the monsoon of 1899 was seriously felt in several other western districts besides these, and advances on an extensive scale had to be made soon after the close of the year under review, but this is a matter which does not come within the scope of the present report. In the Allahabad division no advances at all were given in Hamírpur, while in Bánda very few applications were received. Advances in the eastern divisions of Benáres and Gorakhpur were again rare. Gházipur is the only district in these two divisions in which loans were taken to any appreciable extent. In Kumaun, as usual, the provisions of the Act remained almost a dead letter. The only advance given was one of Rs. 200 to a landlord in pargana Káshipur. No advances free of interest were made during the year.

Partly recoverable advances for village relief works.

94. Details of partly recoverable advances made in the famine year for the construction of village relief works to which reference was made in paragraph 87 of last year's report are given below:—

Except in the Allahabad division where the collections did not come to more than 70 per cent. of the demand, the amount for recovery during the year was practically realized in full. The balance still outstanding now aggregates Rs. 61,000, most of which will probably be recovered within the prescribed period of two years.

Appendix C.—VII. Demand and collections during the year.

95. Including the arrears carried forward from the previous year, amounting to Rs. 11,65,362, the total demand on account of principal stands at Rs. 12,30,448. Of this sum Rs. 5,04,268 fell due during the year, while only Rs. 3,61,104, or 72 per cent. were collected. Included in this aggregate is Rs. 1,12,529 the amount recovered on account of the special advances made without interest in the famine year for the construction of earthen wells, and temporary irrigation works. About Rs. 56,000 of the total lent for these purposes still remained outstanding at the close of the year under review. With the exception of the Allahabad division, where only 43 per cent. of the demand was realized, the collections in the North-Western Provinces were exceptionally good. In the Meerut, Agra, and Rohilkhand divisions the demand was collected practically in full. In the Allahabad division the zamíndárs are said to have paid in what they could in the first instance towards land revenue and cesses, and to have allowed what was due from them for advances to fall into arrears accordingly. In the Bundelkhand districts, the short recoveries are attributed to the instructions issued by the Board in January 1899, prohibiting the issue of processes for the recovery of arrears of takávi along with the kharíf instalments of revenue then being collected. The Board's orders referred only to the districts of Hamírpur and Bánda. They were extended by the Commissioner (Mr. Petre) to the districts of Jhánsi and Jalaun as well. It was deemed inexpedient that realizations should be pressed, while a systematic enquiry was in progress as to the amount of such advances which should be remitted or the recovery of which should be postponed. It is possible that, in the absence of these directions, larger payments might have been made. But this, as the present Commissioner (Mr. Alexander) observes would have been "an eminently undesirable success." "In fact" he adds "the realization of the Government demand generally was in my opinion in Bundelkhand pushed if anything too far." The question of the realization of arrears of takávi in those tracts where famine was severe, more particularly in the Bundelkhand districts, is one, which, as the Board remarked last year, requires very careful treatment. From the reports now received, it seems likely that further remissions, more especially in the case of balances under the Agriculturists' Loans Act may have to be granted in addition to those recently sanctioned.

Among individual districts, there was cause to hope that the recoveries would have been better in Gorakhpur, Azamgarh, Rae Bareli, Sítapur and Hardoi. In Kheri, also, not even half the demand for the year was collected. It is reported that most of the arrears are due from numerous small pattidárs who were liable for land revenue as well, towards the payment of which all that was realized from them was first credited. These balances have now been paid up, so that better results may be looked for in the current year. In the Fyzabad division, the most noticeable default is in Bara Banki, where only 58 per cent. of the year's demand was collected. No reason has been assigned for this very poor result. The Commissioner's attention has been invited to this balance, and an explanation asked for in regard to it.

The demand for interest during the year was Rs. 1,04,893, out of which Rs. 63,704 were collected.

96. The amounts advanced under the Agriculturists' Loans Act during the two past years are compared by divisions in the statement herewith appended :—

But for the failure of the rains in the western districts towards the close of the year, the seasons were favourable, and the need for extensive advances for seed or cattle less pronounced than it has been for many years. Indeed, not since 1888-89 has the amount so expended been so little as it was in the year under review. The figures given explain themselves, and require no detailed comment.

The demand, inclusive of outstanding balances from previous years, which amounted to Rs. 14,53,994, reached an aggregate of Rs. 16,02,648. Of this sum Rs. 14,29,197 fell due for recovery during the year, and Rs. 7,18,089 or 50·2 per cent. were actually collected, leaving Rs. 8,84,559 still borne on the roll when the year closed. The Allahabad division was responsible for over six lakhs of this arrear, but since the beginning of the current year sanction has been received to the remission of Rs. 1,30,565, thereby reducing the balance against it to Rs. 4,86,728.

As usual, in the matter of collections as well, this division takes the lowest place. Lucknow and Fyzabad also show up badly. In regard to Allahabad, the reasons already stated above in dealing with the collections of arrears due under the Land Improvement Act, are equally apposite here. In Lucknow the largest balances are shown against Sítapur (Rs. 18,776), Hardoi (Rs. 17,769) and Kheri (Rs. 11,081) and special efforts to reduce them will be made during the current year. In the Fyzabad division collections were worst in Gonda which recovered only 52 per cent. of its arrears, and in Bara Banki with only 60 per cent. The balances in Gonda are already receiving the attention of the Deputy Commissioner. In Bara Banki the spring crops are represented as having suffered seriously from frost in parts of the district, while the demand in itself was exceptionally large ; over half, indeed, of the total due from the whole division. In these circumstances the collections were probably as good as could reasonably be expected, and, given prosperous seasons, there is no reason why almost all still in arrear should not be recovered.

The total demand on account of interest, including the arrears of previous years, which amounted to Rs. 91,621, reached an aggregate of Rs. 1,52,606, out of which Rs. 75,130 were collected within the year, leaving a balance of Rs. 77,476 still outstanding at its close.

SECTION V.—LAND REVENUE ADMINISTRATION. Appendix C—IX.

97. This return shows a further increase in the number of mahâls, in the gross land revenue and in the issues and receipts of the Revenue Department. The number of files for disposal and the number disposed of however show a falling off as com pared with the figures of the previous year. The issue and receipts in the Board's office amounted to 24,850 and 24,654 respectively.

SECTION VI.—ARRANGEMENT, INSPECTION AND WEEDING OF REVENUE RECORDS. Appendix C—X.

98. Altogether 1,354,013 files should have been sent into the record-rooms and 1,290,676 were actually deposited, leaving a balance of 63,337 at the close of the year compared with one of 69,165 in the previous year. The heavy arrears in Fyzabad noticed in last two years' reports have been reduced by more than half, though the number remaining to be deposited is still large (6,085). The work in this district for some time past has been exceptionally heavy and the number of files sent into the record-room is the highest in these Provinces. A few districts show larger balances in 1898-99 than in 1897-98; but it is only in Shâhjahânpur, Gorakhpur, Almora and Rae Bareli that they exceed 10 per cent. of the number of files to be consigned to the record-room. The heavy arrears in Shâhjahânpur were the subject of remark also last year. This year there has been a further increase. The arrears consist, as in 1897-98, mainly of the records of the Settlement Department. In Gorakhpur they are reported to be mostly mutation cases and applications for copies, but the latter should not have been included in this return as they find no place in the record-keeper's general registers or indices. The arrears in Almora amount to nearly 32 per cent. of the total number of cases, but the bulk of them consists of mutation files, which are with the land record peshkâr awaiting correction of records. The arrears in Rae Bareli and Agra, noticed last year, have been somewhat reduced in the year under report.

The work of registering and arranging shows a marked falling off, the balance remaining to be dealt with (7,887) being 1,923 more than in the preceding year. Moradabad is responsible for 1,896 out of the whole balance. The Collector has offered no explanation and his attention will be called to the matter. In Naini Tal also the arrears are large, considering the number of files that had to be dealt with.

99. In connection with the work of inspecting and weeding records, it may be noted that 174,855 bastas were inspected and weeded as against 172,919 bastas in the preceding year; the balance remaining being 28,047 in 1898-99 as against 33,447 in 1897-98. Except in Agra, Bareilly, Allahabad and Gorakhpur the arrears are not very heavy in any district. The Collectors of Agra and Bareilly explain that the arrears are due to want of funds. Applications however for allotment of additional grants have not been received by the Board. The explanation given for Allahabad is that the bastas contain patwâris papers and that there being only one assistant to deal with them, it takes some time to get through them. The Commissioner has asked the Collector to explain why there is greater difficulty in this respect in Allahabad than in Cawnpore and Fatehpur. The explanation furnished as to Gorakhpur is that the arrears accrued in consequence of some delay in the appointment of extra weeders, the permanent staff being insufficient to cope with the work. In Muzaffarnagar, which showed large arrears in the preceding year, they have been somewhat reduced, but there is still room for improvement in this district and also in Sitapur.

The work of special weeding was continued during the year in those districts in which it had not been completed. Very little now remains to be done, and the Board will arrange for allotment of the funds required to finish the work during the present year. The work of weeding criminal records, necessitated by the revision of the High Court's rules, was also taken in hand during the year, the necessary funds having been provided by Government. It is expected to be completed in the current year.

SECTION VII. APPEALS UNDER ACT XIX OF 1873 (N.-W. P. REVENUE ACT) AND ACT XVII OF 1876 (OUDH REVENUE ACT).

Appendix C.—XI.

100. The number of appeals filed under the Revenue Acts rose in the North-Western Provinces from 4,553 to 5,057, and in Oudh from 872 to 1,145. The largest number of appeals to Collectors was in Gorakhpur (300), Aligarh following with 269, Saháranpur with 229, Moradabad with 219 and Ballia with 209. Appeals to Commissioners were most numerous in the Meerut (437), Gorakhpur (401) and Fyzabad (395) divisions. The total number of cases pending when the year closed was 864, of which 202 were pending in the court of the Commissioner of Fyzabad. The number of cases pending over three months fell from 89 to 84. The two oldest cases for decision are in the Gorakhpur and Fyzabad Commissioners' courts. The case of 1st February 1899 in the Aligarh Collector's court has since been decided.

SECTION VIII. ACTION TAKEN BY DEPUTY COMMISSIONERS UNDER SECTION 158, ACT XVII OF 1876.

Appendices C.—XII and C.—XIII (OUDH.)

101. Applications to recover the rent of mahâls held in sub-settlement in Oudh rose from 967 to 1,204, and the amount of arrears from Rs. 2,30,127 to Rs 2,51,406. Further particulars are exhibited in the following statement:—

The number of applications is highest in the Fyzabad district, most of them relating to villages in the Ajudhya and Dera talukas. The work being better supervised than formerly, collections have improved, and applications become more numerous. The number will no doubt fall as the sub-settlement holders begin to realize their responsibilities. In Bara Banki numerous applications were filed by the Court of Wards. In Gonda the Mankapur and Ajudhya talukas are responsible for the bulk of the applications filed. A representation on this subject made by the British India Association will be reported on by the Board in due course.

SECTION IX.—Applications for the guardianship of minors.

102. No expenditure was incurred during the year by District Officers in respect of applications under section 8, Act VIII of 1890, for the guardianship of minors succeeding to landed estates.

SECTION X.—Miscellaneous.

Tours by Members of the Board.

103. The Members visited the following districts during the year:—

Mr. Moule.—Almora, Naini Tal, Bareilly, Sháhjahánpur, and Lucknow.

Mr. LaTouche.—Fatehpur, Hamírpur, Bánda, Cawnpore, Lucknow, Sháhjahánpur and Bareilly.

Mr. Evans.—Hardoi, Sháhjahánpur, Lucknow, Bareilly, Bijnor, Muzaffarnagar, Meerut, Bulandshahr, Rae Bareli, Partábgarh, Jaunpur, Azamgarh, Gorakhpur, Basti, Gonda and Bahraich.

Mr. Roberts.—Jaunpur, Sultánpur, Fyzabad, Bara Banki, Lucknow, Gorakhpur, Sháhjahánpur, Bareilly and Meerut.

Record Fund Rules.

104. The record fund rules are generally reported to have worked satisfactorily. The rules for the system of fixed fees for copies could not be introduced last year, as some changes had to be made in them. They have now been finally approved by Government and will be introduced shortly.

Territorial changes.

105. There were no territorial changes during the year.

Boundary pillars.

106. The boundary pillars and survey stations were duly inspected and orders were issued for repairs and renewals where necessary. The dismantled pillars are being replaced by stone pillars of the approved pattern as far as possible. The revised khasras showing the boundary between Nepál and the districts of Pilibhít, Naini Tal and Almora were submitted to Government during the year. Those showing the boundary between Nepál and the districts of Naini Tal and Almora were returned by Government, after the close of the year, for correction of certain defects pointed out by the Resident.

Hamírpur forests.

107. Owing, apparently to press of work, the Joint Magistrate in charge of the Mahoba sub-division was unable to visit more than 7 out of the 14 protected forests during the year. The tahsíldárs visited all the plots except two in tahsíl Kulpahar.

In the forests visited boundary pillars were found in good repair, except a few in the forests of Sigahri and Bilkhi, which have since been repaired. One instance of infringement of the conditions imposed for the preservation of these forests was brought to notice during the year. The Commissioner remarks that the administration appears to have suffered somewhat from the frequent change of District Officers.

Service and character books.

108. Service and character books are reported to have been properly maintained. Commissioners have taken steps to remedy such defects as have come to light.

Touring of Tahsíldárs.

109. The rules regarding the touring of tahsíldárs and the submission of tour diaries were generally complied with. In a few instances the tours fell short of the prescribed term. Notice of such cases has been taken by the Commissioners concerned. Seventy-six tents were purchased for tahsíldárs during the year, and the number of tents for tahsíldárs is now sufficient.

Rent Bill.

110. The Bill to amend the North-Western Provinces Rent Act, which was drawn up during the year, has received due consideration by the Board, whose criticisms with the opinions of District Officers have been forwarded to the Government.

SECTION XI.—MAPS.

111. The progress made in the reproduction of tahsíli and district maps by the Roorkee College Press has fallen considerably short of the standard originally proposed by the Principal, Thomason College, Roorkee, viz., 12 tahsíli maps a year. Between the 1st September 1897 and 30th September 1899, the Press has received in all from this office the revised maps of 23 tahsíls and of 15 districts, of which those noted in the margin have been forwarded during the year under report. Up to date, however, only 4 tahsíli and 4 district maps have been published, viz., the tahsíli maps of Orai, Jalaun, Kunch, and Kalpi, and the district maps of Rae Bareli, Agra, Bijnor and Hamírpur, the two former during 1898-99. The College Press has still in hand for reproduction 19 tahsíli and 11 district maps, of which 16 are stated to be in different stages of progress, while 14 are still untouched. In reply to an inquiry made by this office, the Superintendent reports that the reason why they have not been able to reproduce the full number of district and tahsíli maps as originally promised, is that the work has been found far more difficult than he anticipated, and that the progress is consequently much slower than he had expected. He adds that in order to cope more efficiently with the work proposals will shortly be made to increase the establishment, as now entertained, since the work received by the Press has increased very considerably in recent years.

Tahsíli maps.—Ballia and Bansdih.
District maps.—Basti, Garhwál, Lucknow, Rae Bareli, Hardoi, Sultánpur, Partábgarh and Bara Banki.

The task of revising the maps of the two tahsíls of the Dehra Dún district and of the four tahsíls each of the Saháranpur, Muzaffarnagar and Bulandshahr districts was taken in hand during the year under report. Revised maps of all these districts have been received from the District Officers concerned. Those of Dehra Dún and Muzaffarnagar, however, have had to be returned for correction. The rest are now under examination. It will not be long now before these maps also will be forwarded to the College Press. The revision of the district maps of Almora, Jalaun, Unao, Sitapur and Fyzabad, with a view to their publication on the scale of 4 miles to the inch, has also been started during the year under review, and as soon as they are ready they will be sent on.

SECTION XII. ECONOMIC HISTORY.

112. In this portion of the district and divisional reports for 1897-98, the chief features were the rapid recovery of the provinces from the effects of the famine of 1896-97, and the fall in the prices of food grains which followed upon the good harvests of the year. The reports for the present year (which, as usual, are submitted for the perusal of Government) speak of the continued improvement in agricultural conditions and the continued fall in prices with a further good harvest in the first half of the year. There was a demand for labour every where, and the year was for the labourer (as Mr. Hardy the Commissioner of Lucknow says) as good a one as he is ever likely to see. He was often able to earn enough in a few hours (says Mr. L. A. S. Porter) to maintain him for several days. Complaints, then, of the scarcity of labourers and of their laziness were not at all uncommon. The lessons of the famine year were thrown away on them, but it is satisfactory to find that the classes rather higher in the social scale, the cultivators, the petty traders, the smaller clerks and others had learnt wisdom and took care to lay in stocks of grain while prices were easy to tide them over hard times. The character of the monsoon has already been noticed at length. Just when the population were to all appearances settling down to life under normal conditions and entering upon a period of prolonged prosperity, cause for anxiety was again given by the early cessation of the rains, particularly in portions of the Meerut, Agra and Allahabad Divisions. Other parts of India, however, suffered incomparably more than these provinces, and the immediate consequence was the revival of the export trade accompanied by a sharp rise in prices. Grain poured out of the provinces by rail, by road and by river; and prices, if they did not return to famine rates, went a long way in that direction. Wheat which had been selling in the early part of the year at from 16 to 22 seers per rupee was at the end of the year not to be obtained except at from 10 to 13 seers per rupee, or about the same rate as prevailed at the beginning of 1898, as compared with from 7 to 9 seers at the beginning of 1897. This rise in prices if it cannot be said (in the words of the Deputy Commissioner of Rae Bareli) to have been welcomed by the community as a whole had, at least, an important bearing on the prosperity of considerable sections of it. The low prices in the early part of the year were not an unmixed blessing to landlords. Tenants held up their stocks and complaints of the difficulty in realizing rents were general throughout the provinces, and as a consequence collections of revenue were not made with the facility which perhaps can only be expected in a landlord's ideal year—a year of full crops and high prices. The rise in prices gave tenants a good opportunity for selling and landlords a better chance of getting in their rents, and the large sums of money which exporters brought into the districts benefited not merely the middlemen and petty traders, but likewise many landlords and tenants, though in a lesser degree, whilst the continued demand for labour enabled the labourer to hold his own fairly well. The opinion was expressed in last year's report that three more good harvests were necessary before the bulk of the people who had suffered from the famine, could set themselves up again; and the partial failure of the rains made it clear that in a by no means inconsiderable portion of the provinces the agriculturist population had had (to use the words of Mr. Alexander) a pause in their difficulties which had given them breathing time, but not completely restored them to prosperity. Mr. Alexander's remarks were made with reference more particularly to the Bundelkhand districts, which in his opinion are all more or less in a tottering condition, and will need careful and intelligent management to pull them through the present year. The zamíndárs are considered to be often worse off than the tenants, having to pay revenue on holdings which have dropped out of cultivation for want of sufficient tenants to cultivate them, while land has so depreciated in value as to become a drug in the market. In this connection Mr. Alexander has some remarks on the attachments of maháls for arrears of revenue, which merit reproduction here :—

In Allahabad something has been done to help bonâ fide defaulters by extensive attachments of maháls for arrears of revenue, and in Bánda and Hamírpur a similar course is now being followed. But attachment without annulment of settlement too often merely drives the foolish or impoverished zamíndár to raise the amount of the arrears by a mortgage, which ultimately results in the loss of his property, and I fear that nine out of ten tahsíldars encourage this under a mistaken idea that they are doing Government excellent service by getting in the revenue. In my opinion except when attachment is used merely as a punishment, or as a means of compelling a recusant zamíndár to pay up arrears which he can really afford to pay, annulment of settlement should follow immediately and every effort should be made to prevent the proprietors raising the money by mortgages or sales. Of course there must be many cases when the only object is to get in the Government revenue from defaulters, whose mismanagement or turbulence or craft has caused arrears, which ought not to have accrued, but then attachment is used as a punishment, and it is not such cases that I propose to annul settlement in. It is in those in which the cultivated area has largely fallen or the cattle have died or unavoidable debts have largely increased, and where what is required is time and takávi. And in these cases to drive the zamíndárs to raise the money or even to give them the opportunity of raising it by mortgages and sales seems to me most unadvisable. And these are the kind of cases which are now for the most part coming on our hands, and which require prompt treatment if any good is to be effected.

Happily the condition of things in other parts of the provinces is, except in a few small areas which it is unnecessary to specify, better than in Bundelkhand, and the outlook at the end of the year, though not free from anxiety, was the reverse of gloomy.

The Commissioner of Benares (Mr. L. A. S. Porter) has some remarks relating to the transfer and subletting of holdings :—

The condition of the privileged tenants in the large Dube estate in the Jaunpur district is not satisfactory, and is giving trouble. In Gházipur and Ballia the same state of affairs exists to a certain extent, but the evil does not come so prominently to the notice of the authorities as it does in estates under management. These tenants have taken advantage of the favoured rates of rent at which they hold either to convert themselves into middle-men by subletting their holdings at greatly enhanced rents, or to make over their holdings to mortgagees. In the latter case we have often the curious result of a privileged tenant being the rack-rented sub-tenant of his own mortgagee, or of a landlord cultivating a holding which he has taken on mortgage from his own tenant. All these cases have one feature in common, and that is the difficulty to the authorities of realizing the rent or revenue as the case may be. Where the holding is mortgaged, the mortgagee objects to pay the rent as by the terms of his mortgage the rent should be paid by the mortgagor, and where the holding is merely sublet, the lessor prefers to spend the rent he receives rather than pay his own rent to his landlord. In Court of Wards estates at any rate this state of affairs can only have one result. Every possible concession has already been made to these privileged tenants, and no further leniency can be shown.

The Board is aware that Government already has this matter under consideration, and no remarks upon the subject appears to be called for here.

The development of the Provinces by railways may be briefly noticed. The Bengal and North-Western Railway extension in the Benares Division was opened for traffic during the year, and will be of the greatest benefit to the division. Emigration will be facilitated, the chief marts in the division placed in direct railway communication with the trading centres of these Provinces and Bengal, and the work of administration greatly assisted. The Dehra-Hardwár Railway has recently been opened for traffic. The Ghaziabad-Gurhmukhtesar-Moradabad Railway is nearing completion. The making of the Shikohabad-Fatehgarh Railway has been for the present postponed, but land is being acquired for the Agra Delhi Chord Railway. The new railway from Fyzabad to Allahabad will, when constructed, materially increase the prosperity of the Fyzabad Division. The need for better communication by road is noticed by many of the District Officers, and it will doubtless be necessary to supplement the new railways by a number of good feeder roads before their full benefit can be felt.

The Fatehpur Branch of the Lower Ganges Canal was opened during the year, and good results are looked forward to from the extension of this canal through a portion of the Allahabad district. Schemes for irrigating the worst part of the Chhata tahsíl in the Muttra district from the Agra Canal, for constructing a drainage cut in the neighbourhood of Kosi and for extending irrigation from the Ganges Canal to the Mat tahsíl of the Muttra district are under consideration. Mr. Boas, Collector of Bareilly, recommends the gradual replacement of the innumerable earthen dams in the district by masonry regulators in order to protect the kharíf in years of drought. The cost of doing so would, he thinks, be soon repaid by increased receipts from irrigation.

Mr. Williams, Commissioner of the Meerut Division, wishes before retiring to draw attention once more to the inconveniences that are experienced owing to the frequent changes of District Officers. The matter is one which is already receiving the consideration of Government, and the Board consider it sufficient to note Mr. Williams' remarks.

Chapter V.—SETTLEMENT.

REVISION OF SETTLEMENT IN TEMPORARILY SETTLED DISTRICTS.

113. This chapter is devoted to a brief account of the progress made in the revision of the land revenue demand and the correction of land records as part of the operations in districts which have come under regular settlement.

The revision of settlements in the greater part of Oudh is now over. The final settlement reports of the Lucknow, Unao and Partábgarh districts were submitted to Government last year, and those of Rae Bareli, Sitapur, Hardoi, Sultánpur and Bara Banki were submitted during the year under report. The settlements of all these districts have been confirmed by Government with the exception of that of Hardoi, in which district it has been found necessary to revise the assessments. A special officer has been deputed for this purpose. The final settlement report of Fyzabad has just been printed. In Gonda, settlement operations have commenced after the close of the year.

In the North-Western Provinces settlement operations were brought to a close in Budaun, in the greater part of Bijnor and in the Lalitpur sub-division of the Jhánsi district. The settlements of Bijnor and Lalitpur have been confirmed by Government. The submission of the final report on the settlement of the Budaun district is awaited.

114. Meerut.—The work of attestation was completed for the whole district at the end of last cold weather, and the fairing of records is expected to be finished by March. The rent-rate reports of parganas Loni, Kithor, Hastinapur, Barnawa and Jalalabad were received and sanctioned during the year. These parganas were also assessed besides parganas Hapur, Dasna and Sardhana. All the assessments were sanctioned during the year with the exception of those of parganas Jalalabad, Barnawa and Kithor which were sanctioned after the close of the year. The work of distributing the revised demands was heavy; but by far the greater part of it was finished before the close of the year. The revised assessments of parganas Hapur, Dasna, Sardhana, Loni, and Hastinapur have been declared and will yield an increase of Rs. 1,75,173, or 25·72 per cent. on the expiring demand. The expenditure during the year amounted to Rs. 77,792-6-5, and the total cost from the commencement of the operations amounted to Rs. 1,90,274-0-6, or Rs. 83-2-0 per square mile.

115. Bareilly.—The survey records for the whole district with the exception of some 389 villages of tahsíl Baheri have been received from the Survey office. The city, cantonment and that part of the civil lines which is not included in any mauza were not surveyed with the rest of the Bareilly tahsíl. The survey of the civil lines has been completed for the benefit of the municipality, and the survey of the city has been commenced by the Survey Department on a scale of 32″ to the mile. The attestation work of tahsíl Bareilly was completed in 90 villages of tahsíl Nawábganj and in the whole of tahsíls Mirganj and Aonla, excepting alluvial villages. It is expected that the rest of the Nawabganj tahsíl and the whole of Baheri will be completed before the end of June. The fairing work of pargana Faridpur was also completed. The rent-rate report of this pargana was received and sanctioned in August. The whole of this pargana and the greater portion of pargana Bareilly, covering an area of 444 square miles, were inspected during the year. The assessment report of pargana Faridpur has just been submitted to the Board. The expenditure during the year underr eport was Rs. 42,742-1-7 and the total cost amounted to Rs. 52,736-14-7, or Rs. 41-10-0 per square mile.

116. Bijnor.—The final report on the settlement of eleven parganas of this district was submitted to Government in September last and the orders of Government thereon were received after the close of the year. Pargana hand-books have been prepared for eight of the eleven parganas. For the remaining three, viz., parganas Najibabad, Afzalgarh and Barhápura, they will be prepared after the assessment of the forest mahâls. The rest of the district comprising the four parganas, Nagina, Chandpur, Bashta and Burhpur was surveyed during the year by professional agency. The records prepared by the Surveyor were attested by the Deputy Collector deputed for the work. The fairing of the records was approaching completion at the close of the year. The assessment of these parganas will not be commenced until 1901 A.D., when a special officer will be appointed for the work. The charges for the year amounted to Rs. 13,500-10-8,and the total expenditure, including that on the eleven parganas, came to Rs. 2,33,379-14-2, or Rs. 124-14-5 per square mile.

117. Shâhjahânpur.—The assessments of tahsíls Shâhjahánpur and Jalalabad were reported and sanctioned during the year. The Settlement Officer inspected and assessed tahsíl Pawayan, comprising an area of 598 square miles during the year. The rent-rate report of this tahsíl was sanctioned by the Board in June last. The assessment report has been submitted by the Settlement Officer to the Commissioner, but has not yet reached the Board : there has been undue delay upon the part of the Commissioner to which the Board have found it necessary to call his attention. The cost of settlement operations during the year was Rs. 63,396-3-0 and the total cost came to Rs. 1,19,381-15-11, or Rs. 68-14-2 per square mile.

118. Lalitpur.—The only portion of this sub-division which remained to be assessed was an area of 162 square miles in pargana Banpur. The assessment reports of this pargana and parganas Mahroni and Maraura were submitted, and the orders of Government regarding them were received during the year. The revised assessments of parganas Talbehat, Lalitpur, Banpur, Mahroni and Maraura were also declared. The result of the revision of assessments in these five parganas is an increase of Rs. 10,473, or 6·52 per cent. on the expiring demand. The total expenditure up to the end of the year, including Rs. 19,986-15-4 incurred during the year, amounted to Rs. 95,386, or Rs. 52-10-3 per square mile.

119. Almora.—The district was brought under settlement in pursuance of Government Notification No. $\frac{3616}{\text{I—290.}}$, dated the 17th November 1898, and Mr. J. E. Goudge, Deputy Commissioner of Almora, was placed in charge of the settlement work. He assessed pargana Shor the current assessment of which expired with the year under report. Besides preparing the papers of 418 villages in pargana Shor, statistical forms for 2,091 villages in parganas Kali Kumaun, Gangoli, Sira and Askot were prepared. In pargana Kali Kumaun the amíns have also submitted returns of new cultivation. The expenditure from the commencement of operations has been Rs. 5,842-8-6, or Rs. 233-11-3 per square mile. It has, however, recently been decided that all new cultivation shall be surveyed and a record of rights be prepared for the whole of the Almora district now under settlement Rules for the survey and settlement have recently been prepared by the Board and will shortly be submitted for the approval of Government.

120. Sitapur.—As stated above the settlement of this district has been completed, the only work which remained to be done at the close of the year was the declaration and distribution of the assessments of the alluvial villages, which have received a long term settlement under the revised rules contained in the Board's Extant Circular No. 5—I.

121. Kheri.—Of the 17 parganas in this district three, viz., Aurangabad, Pasgawan, and Kasta Abgaon, had been inspected and assessed in the previous year. The revised assessments of these parganas were declared during the year and resulted in an increase of Rs. 28,666, or 21·15 per cent. on the former revenue. The revenues in these parganas were distributed and the under-proprietary rents fixed during the year under report. Seven parganas, viz., Atwa Piparia, Magdapur, Haiderabad, Muhamdi, Paila, Kheri and Srinagar, covering an area of 854 square miles, were inspected and assessed during the year and the assessments sanctioned by Government. The revision of the khewats of the whole district was completed during the year. The charges for the year amounted to Rs. 37,163-5-5, and the total expenditure up to the close of the year to Rs. 59,551-11-8, or Rs. 23-5-8 per square mile.

122. Bahraich.—The inspection and assessment of the district was completed during the year. The area inspected was 856 square miles (besides some permanently settled villages), and the area assessed was 1,077 square miles. The new assessments of parganas Ikauna, Fakhrpur, and Nanpara were declared during the year. They show an increase of Rs. 1,25,400, or 30·58 per cent. in the revenue demand of the parganas. The assessments of parganas Nanpara and Fakhrpur were sanctioned by Government during the year, and those of the remaining parganas have been sanctioned since the close of the year. The work which remains to be done is the decision of under-proprietary suits, declaration of assessments in three parganas, preparation of the final report, pargana hand-books and other necessary records. The charges incurred during the year were Rs. 34,592-7-5. The total cost from the commencement of settlement operations has been Rs. 94,482-8-10, which falls at the rate of Rs. 40-13-0 per square mile.

PART II.

PATWARIS AND KANUNGOS.

124. The appended report of the Director of Land Records and Agriculture contains a detailed account of the working of the department. The more important points with which it deals are noticed below.

125. Survey and record writing operations were continued in Gonda, and commenced in Farukhabad, Azamgarh and Pilibhít. They were completed in Bareilly, Kheri and the hill parganas of the Naini Tal district. The total area surveyed was 3,312 square miles, comprising 4,376 villages or 4,188,497 plots. Record writing was completed for 4,338 villages containing 3,990,914 plots. The average cost per square mile, including supervision and other charges, was Rs. 62-12-4, or Rs. 3-8-4 more than last year. The increase is small and requires no comment. The number of patwáris trained in survey work during the year under review was 1,720, of whom 1,418 or 82 per cent. were found qualified to survey villages. Fifty-nine kanúngos and 263 apprentice kanúngos were also trained and the greater number qualified and assisted in survey work, as also did 18 scholars from the Agricultural School at Cawnpore. Some general changes have been introduced in the arrangements for surveys by which patwáris are required to survey and write the records of their circles in two years instead of one, except in tracts where boundary marks are specially liable to injury. This change in system will dispense with the need for employing amíns, and prevent the recurrence of the defects in patwáris' records noticed by the Settlement Officers of Kheri and Bareilly. Twelve junior civilians were instructed under the personal supervision of the Superintendent, in the method of surveying villages cadastrally, and were subsequently posted to various districts to assist Survey Officers by checking the work of patwáris. Mr. Scott and his subordinates deserve credit for their good work.

Establishment.

126. The ordinary Land Records establishment under the Director's control was increased by the appointment of an assistant record-keeper in Agra, of three additional supervisor kanúngos with three chainmen in Budaun, and of four assistant teachers for the patwári schools of the Gorakhpur, Etah, and Gházipur districts, but in consequence of the revision of circles in certain districts the number of patwáris and assistants was reduced by 37. The number of officiating appointments to Naib Tahsíldárships given to kanúngos was 30 as against 29 in the preceding year, but no kanúngo received a permanent appointment. Four of these officials were nominated for appointment as Naib Tahsíldárs during the year under report. The question of altering the present method of recruiting kanúngos raised in paragraph 32 of the Government review on the preceding year's report engaged the attention of the Board and the Director, and a draft of the necessary amendments in the kanúngo rules, which has since been prepared, will shortly be submitted for the approval of Government.

Revision of patwáris' circles.

127. The detailed proposals for the revision of the patwáris' circles and salaries in the several districts of Oudh referred to in paragraph 4 of the Director's report will receive the consideration of the Board on receipt of the general sanction of Government which has been asked to the introduction of the scale of pay proposed for patwáris in that province, and to the necessary increase in expenditure. In the North-Western Provinces the final re-arrangement of patwáris' circles and salaries in the districts of Bijnor, Basti and Budaun has recently been sanctioned by Government at an increased cost; and to mitigate undeserved hardship to pátwaris, whose pay has been permanently reduced, personal allowances have been granted to the extent of Rs. 266 per mensem.

Education of patwáris and kanúngos.

128. The percentage of patwáris and assistants (excluding those in Muzaffarnagar, Sháhjahánpur, Almora, and Garhwál) who have passed through the patwári schools has risen from 84·92 to 86·51, while the percentage of men who have still to qualify has fallen from 4 to 3. Allahabad and Basti continue to have the largest number of untrained patwáris, though there is an improvement as compared with last year.

In Jhánsi the number of unpassed patwáris increased by 5. The number of patwaris exempted from examination fell from 3,093 to 2,718 during the year. The number of exemptions was greatly reduced in all districts except in the six districts mentioned by the Director, the largest increase being in Allahabad. The Collector will be asked to explain this. The system of simultaneous examination introduced last year has been working satisfactorily, and the results of the two examinations held during the year under review were better than those of the preceding year.

Out of 234 persons who appeared at the examination of kanúngos only 37 passed in all subjects and 194 in parts. There were only three complete failures.

Residence of patwáris.

129. The figures now given show very little improvement upon those of the previous year. The percentage of resident patwáris rose from 73·03 to 73·18; that of exemptions from residents fell from 14·67 to 13·79; while that of non-residents rose, chiefly owing to withdrawal of exemptions, from 12·30 to 13·03. Definite instructions were, however, issued during the year as to the principles to be followed in securing residence, special stress being laid on the responsibility of supervisors. These instructions will, it is hoped, secure better results next year. In Oudh the enforcement of residence must remain in abeyance till the re-allocation of circles is complete. The experiment of granting advances to non-resident patwáris for house-building purposes has been attended with success in the Basti district, and it might, with advantage, be tried elsewhere.

Filing and testing of patwáris' papers.

130. Excluding the districts which were under settlement or survey, 88 per cent. of area and crop statements and 78 per cent. of jamabandis were filed in time during the year, and 11 per cent. of the former and 16 per cent. of the latter were submitted within one month after the prescribed date. The punctuality with which the village papers were filed was most marked in Muzaffarnagar, Etáwah, Mirzapur, Ballia, Basti, Lucknow, Gonda and Partábgarh. In Basti all the papers have been submitted in time for four years running. The percentage of fields tested by kanungos was slightly higher than it was last year. Leaving out of account the districts where patwáris were engaged in survey or settlement operations, the testing was below 7 per cent. only in Mainpuri where it was due to the misconduct of a single kanúngo. The results of testing by superior officers have, on the whole, been satisfactory. The checking of rent-rolls received special attention during the year in Moradabad, Fatehpur, Cawnpore and some other districts: in Etáwah, Etah, and Bijnor, the percentage of error was very high. A few cases of concealment of rent came to light in Bulandshahr, Gonda, Allahabad, Cawnpore, and Hardoi.

Map corrections in Oudh.

131. The correction of maps in Rae Bareli was completed during the year. Work is approaching completion in Fyzabad, Unao, and Hardoi, and progressing satisfactorily in Partábgarh. In Bahraich and Kheri new maps have been prepared by the Survey Department and a complete re-survey is in progress in Gonda. The question raised in paragraph 13 of the Director's report regarding the correction of maps in Sitapur and Bara Banki will be decided by the Board on receipt of the separate report therein promised.

Tahsíl registers.

132. The progress made during the year as regards the use and maintenance of pargana books is summarized in paragraph 14 of the Director's report. The Board have, since the receipt of this report, instructed the Director to have the preparation of the village registers and pargana books in the revised form taken in hand by the special staff under his control in the Bánda and Hamírpur districts.

Survey and boundary marks.

133. Lists of boundary and survey marks have been prepared in all districts except in a few tahsíls of districts under survey or settlement, and steps taken for their repair or re-erection where necessary.

Amendment of rules.

134. All the important changes in the rules made during the year have been noticed in paragraph 20 of the Director's report. The draft rules for the guidance of patwáris and kanúngos in the Bhábar and hill tracts of the Kumaun division, referred to in paragraph 125 of last year's report, are still under the consideration of the Commissioner of Kumaun.

Patwáris' funds.

135. The receipts and charges of these funds for the year under review are given in paragraph 22 of the Director's report. The amount at the credit of the North-Western Provinces fund rose from Rs. 3,47,625 to Rs. 4,45,526, and the debit balance of the Oudh fund was reduced from Rs. 1,13,048 to Rs. 87,828. The orders of Government have not yet been received on the Board's proposals for maintaining both these funds in a solvent condition.

Director's note on agricultural depression.

136. A note by the Director on agricultural depression is appended to his report; but there is nothing in it which calls for special notice.

I have the honor to be,

SIR,

Your most obedient servant,

H. F. HOUSE,

Secretary.

DIRECTOR'S REPORT.

Part I.—LAND RECORDS ADMINISTRATION.

1. Strength of Establishment.—The following table shows the establishment under the control of this Department during the year under report as compared with that of the preceding year :

In the districts of Agra and Moradabad the post of assistant record-keeper was temporarily abolished in 1894-95 for want of a separate room for patwári papers. In the year under report adequate accommodation was provided in Agra, and an assistant record-keeper appointed there. As regards Moradabad, a project for constructing a record-room in the Collector's Court has been administratively sanctioned, and an assistant record-keeper will be appointed when the room is built next year. One supervisor kanúngo temporarily entertained in Budaun seven years ago, was made permanent, and three more supervisors with three chainmen were sanctioned for the same district. Four assistant teachers were added to the patwári school establishments in the Gorakhpur, Etah, and Gházipur districts. The decrease in the number of patwáris and assistants is due to the revision of patwáris' circles in certain districts.

Proposals were submitted during the year for a reduction in the number of inspectors and an improvement in their status. The principle of the proposed changes received the approval of Government, and specific proposals will be submitted as soon as vacancies occur.

2. Prospects of the kanúngo staff.—During the year under report the number of temporary promotions of kanúngos to náib tahsíldárships was 30 as compared with 29 in the preceding year; but it is disappointing to note that there was not a single permanent promotion, nor were there any officiating promotions to other superior posts. Four kanúngos were nominated for appointment as náib tahsíldárs. Many of the temporary promotions given during the year were for very short periods, and the great majority of the supervisors have now no prospect of promotion except in the clerical line, as they do not possess the examinational qualification required for náib tahsíldárships. The consequence must be that supervisors will devote their attention mainly to the clerical work that goes before their superiors, and will regard their executive work as less important. This is a matter which should right itself in time when many of the supervisors shall have the required qualifications; but during the years of transition the efficiency of the staff must suffer from the absence of any opportunity of rising in the service.

There are at present 42 diplomates of the agricultural school unprovided with permanent appoi ntments as kanúngo. Orders have been issued by the Board during the year to secure that the preferential claims of these men are not overlooked. But promotion among the supervisors is very slow. I believe in some districts there has not been a single vacancy in the past four years, and consequently there is delay in employing some of the diplomates. In connection with the remarks in paragraph 32 of the orders of Government on last year's report, I submitted proposals for altering the present method of recruiting kanúngos. These proposals have received the general approval of the Board, and a draft of the necessary amendments in the Kanúngo Rules will shortly be submitted.

3. A further advance was made during the year towards meeting the wishes of the Government of India, that the Land Record staff should be employed on special agricultural inquiries. A set of questions on matters connected with the sugar question, which has occupied much of my time during the year, was circulated to most districts, the replies received from kanúngos were naturally of unequal value, but some of them were very useful. It must, however, be remembered that the supervisors have, as a rule, ample employment in their land record duties; care will be taken that special inquiries are not instituted so often as to give any excuse for neglect of the proper supervision of the patwáris.

4. Revision of patwáris' circles and salaries.—During the year under report, an estimate was submitted to the Board of Revenue of the number of circles required and the increased expenditure needed to improve the position of patwáris in Oudh. The number of patwáris and assistants estimated is 7,838 against the present staff of 8,262, but the extra cost is estimated at about Rs. 50,000 per annum for the province. Detailed proposals for the revision of circles in the Hardoi and Lucknow districts have, since the close of the year, been submitted for the orders of the Board of Revenue, while those for the Sítapur, Sultánpur, and Bara Banki districts are in course of submission. Further information is awaited from Fyzabad, Unao, Partábgarh, and Rae Bareli, and revision in Kheri, Bahraich, and Gonda has been deferred till the conclusion of survey and settlement operations. In the North-Western Provinces, Government has sanctioned the final re-arrangement of patwáris' circles and salaries in Basti and in Budaun, at an increased cost of Rs. 654 and Rs. 88 per mensem, respectively. To mitigate undeserved hardship to patwáris, whose pay has been permanently reduced, personal allowances have been granted to the extent of Rs. 11 per mensem in Basti and Rs. 69 in Budaun. In Bijnor, where the reallocation was sanctioned in the previous year, personal allowances have been granted, aggregating Rs. 186 per mensem.

5. Patwári Schools.—Local requirements continue to affect the number of patwári schools in the United Provinces. The Muzaffarnagar, Bulandshahr, Muttra, and Ballia districts, where schools are not open, send their candidates to the neighbouring districts for training. The Lalitpur school, which was closed last year, is now going to be reopened. The question of establishing one or more schools for the hill tracts of the Kumaun division, noticed in the last year's report, is now under the consideration of the local authorities. The patwári schools at Sháhjahánpur, Azamgarh, Farukhabad, Gonda, and Pilibhít have been closed and the school staff and pupils attached to survey parties; while the teachers at Bahraich, Mirzapur, Unao, Gházipur, Agra, Aligarh, and Bánda were sent for a portion of the year to go through a course of practical surveying. The survey instruments in use in the several schools were examined by an Inspector of the Survey Department during the year, and arrangements made to supply all deficiencies. The instruments now being issued are inspected and tested by the Superintendent of Surveys.

The proportion of passed patwáris continues to improve. Out of 28,343 patwáris and assistants in the United Provinces (excluding Almora, Garhwál, Muzaffarnagar, and Sháhjahánpur), 24,519 or 86·51 per cent., have now passed through the school course as compared with 84·92 per cent. in the preceding year. The number of patwáris exempted fell from 3,093 to 2,718, and the number of those who had still to pass from 1,252 to 1,106. The annexed statement shows for each district the number of patwáris passed, exempted, and neither passed nor exempted.

* No statistics have been furnished by District Officers owing to the closure of patwári schools.

During the year under report, the number of exemptions has been further reduced in all districts except the seven noted in the margin. In the first six the number being small remained stationary, while in the seventh (Allahabad) the increase is due to fresh exemptions having been finally granted, after three months' attendance at the school, two patwáris who had served for 10 years at the time when the school was established. Reduction in the number of exemptions naturally results at first in an increase in the number of unpassed patwáris. The number of unpassed and unexempted men is high in the following districts :—

(1) Bulandshahr .	... *36
(2) Partábgarh	... 31
(3) Mirzapur	... 30
(4) Pilibhít	... 29
(5) Lucknow	... 17
(6) Jalaun	... 6
(7) Allahabad	... 217

	Number unpassed.

Allahabad	198	143
Basti	145	110
Gorakhpur	76	61
Jhánsi	109	114
Kheri	38	96

The first three show an improvement as compared with last year. Most of the unpassed men shown against Jhánsi belong to the Lalitpur sub division where, for some years past, patwáris have been employed in settlement work. The school at Lalitpur has now been reopened and the number of unpassed men should soon fall. The figures in Kheri include 66 assistant patwáris temporarily appointed, most of whom have passed in one or more subjects.

Of the 44 districts from which patwári school statistics have been received, the percentage of qualified patwáris exceeds 95 in seven districts, is between 90 and 95 in 11, and falls below 70 only in Allahabad, where the Collector is taking steps to have the old unpassed men replaced by their heirs. Difficulty is, however, experienced in finding qualified patwáris in the tahsíls across the Jumna.

Notwithstanding the closure of schools in certain districts the attendance at the schools shows a marked increase. Seven hundred and twenty-eight patwáris and assistants and 2,771 candidates, or a total number of 3,499 pupils, attended the schools during the year under report, as compared with a total of 3,241 in 1897-98. Of these 1,382 or 39·5 per cent. passed the examination against 813 or 25·08 per cent. in the preceding year. The following table shows the number of pupils that attended the schools in each division, the number passed, and the financial results :—

* The Collector notes that the number (15) reported last year was wrong, the correct number being 36.

The system of simultaneous examination introduced last year has been working satisfactorily. During the year under report two examinations were held, the first in October 1898 and the second in April 1899, with the following results:—

	Total number examined.	Total number passed.	Percentage.
			1898-99.	1897-98.
Rules and duties of patwáris ...	2,658	1,239	46·91	27·66
Arithmetic	2,833	1,868	65·82	17·09
Mensuration	2,689	1,480	55·05	41·48

The low proportion of passes in 1897-98 was due partly to the novelty of the system and partly to the first papers being a little too hard. Teachers and students now know the standard for which they have to work, and at the same time the papers set have been somewhat easier. The percentage of passes during the past year is just about reasonable. To secure uniformity of the standard I have called for the papers from districts where the candidates appeared to have done exceptionally well or exceptionally badly, and in some cases I have had the marking revised.

6. Annual examination of kanúngos.—The annual examination of kanúngos was held as usual during August. Out of 234 men who appeard for the examination only thirty-seven passed in all subjects, 194 passed in part, and three failed entirely. Nine of the successful candidates have not yet received practical training in surveying and will be required to join a survey party. On the other hand, 281 candidates for kanúngoship from several districts were attached to survey parties for instruction, of whom the majority succeeded in obtaining the required certificates.

The majority of the candidates at the examination were half-educated and utterly unfit for supervisorships. As remarked in a previous paragraph, I am engaged in completing the draft of a scheme by which it is hoped that better supervisors will be secured.

Seventy-one candidates for aminship were also examined against 53 in 1897-98. Six passed in all subjects and 63 in part. The weakest subject was practical surveying: in some centres not a single candidate could survey correctly the very simple polygon that was assigned as a test. The Board of Revenue have now approved my suggestion, that candidates for amínships should learn practical survey in the same way as candidates for the post of kanúngo.

7. Residence of patwáris.—The increased attention which is being given to enforcing the residence of patwáris within their circles was noticed last year. During the year under report definite instructions were issued as to the principles to be followed in securing residence, special stress being laid on the responsibility of supervisors. No immediate effect can be expected as progress is necessarily slow in this matter, and the figures now received show very little improvement compared with the previous year. The percentage of resident patwáris has risen from 73·03 to 73·18: that of exemptions from residence has fallen from 14·67 to 13·79; while that of non-residents has, chiefly owing to withdrawal of exemptions, risen from 12·30 to 13·03. The following table gives details as to the residence or non-residence of patwáris for each district of the United Provinces:—

* Including 137 patwaris deputed to Settlement Department.

Implicit reliance cannot be placed on the figures in this table. There is little doubt that in some districts absentees are returned as resident by the supervisors; and a district which shows well on paper may have a considerable proportion of absentees. In some districts patwáris are returned as non-resident while they are engaged in settlement or record work at headquarters; and in Oudh the enforcement of residence must remain in abeyance till the reallocation of circles is complete. Out of Rs. 1,496 advanced to patwáris in Basti for building houses, Rs. 913 have been recovered. The number of exemptions here is now nil, and that of non-residents has been reduced from 111 to 66.

8. Filing of patwáris' papers.—The dates on which the more important papers were filed by patwáris in the different districts are shown in Appendix I. The districts of Bareilly, Sháhjahánpur and Pilibhít and certain parganas of districts Meerut, Farukhabad, Bijnor, Azamgarh, Kheri, Gonda, and Bahraich have been excluded from the statement owing to the employment of patwáris on settlement or survey work. The following table compares the results of the year under report with those of the preceding year:—

These figures show on the whole a marked improvement. All the crop and area statements were filed in time in Muzaffarnagar, Jalaun, Mirzapur and Basti; and all the jamabandis in Etáwah, Ballia, Basti, Lucknow, Gonda, and Partábgarh. The districts in which there was the greatest delay in filing papers are shown in the following statement:—

Survey and settlement operations account for the delay in the first four districts, and the recent reallocation of circles in Budaun caused some delay in that district. The repeated delay in Hardoi is, as explained in the last year's report, due to patwáris being engaged in clearing off their arrears, compiling statistics relating to deteriorated villages and doing work in connection with the revision of khewats. In Farukhabad, the delay has been attributed to the patwáris of tahsíl Aligarh being mostly engaged in fluvial work during the year. The delay in Bijnor, Moradabad, and Unao can be attributed only to the negligence of the land records staff.

9. Result of testing papers.—Appendix II shows in detail the testing done during the year under report. The more important figures are brought together in the following abstract statement :—

Testing by kanungos.—The amount of field testing done by kanúngos was generally sufficient.

Leaving out of account the districts where patwáris were engaged in survey or settlement operations, the amount falls below 7 per cent. of the total number of fields only in Mainpuri, where the defect is due to the misconduct of a single kanúngo, who has been properly punished. It is more difficult to speak with certainty as to the value of the kanúngo's testing except in districts where a large number of entries have been retested by superior officers. The largest percentages of error discovered during retesting were in Agra (2·05), Etáwah (2·94), Etah (3·85), Moradabad (2·0), Mirzapur (6·5), Gházipur (2·84), Azamgarh (2·55), Lucknow (3·19) and Unao (7·06). Regarding these districts it may be said with confidence that the work of some at least of the kanúngos was inefficient, and the number of errors found in Mirzapur and in Unao indicates some very bad work. Unfortunately it is not always possible to draw the contrary inference in the case of districts where the percentage of error is low, as the amount of re-testing done was in many cases insufficient.

Testing by Superior officers.—There is generally an improvement in the amount of re-testing, the only way in which the kanúngo's field-work can be effectively supervised. Over the whole of the provinces over three per cent. of the kanúngo's work was retested; and (apart from districts under survey) in no case did the amount fall below one per cent. The improvement during the past few years has in this respect been steady, but I am not prepared to say that the amount of retesting is yet sufficient; remembering that one-third of each district is inspected by superior officers each year, and that they are primarily interested in the kanúngo, and only secondarily in the patwári, about five per cent. of re-testing would be a fair figure to aim at, and this proportion has actually been attained or exceeded in eight districts during the year. Continued attention, therefore, is necessary to secure a proper amount of re-testing: even now over the whole Provinces more than two-thirds of the testing done by superior officers had no bearing on the kanúngo's work. I do not mean to depreciate the value of the work done in testing over five lakhs of fields, but its value for the purposes of practical administration would have been very greatly increased if the fields tested had been already tested by kanúngos.

Compared with the previous year most progress has been made in this respect in the following districts:—

District.	1897-98.	1898-99.
Mainpuri	5·30	8·48
Farukhabad	3·07	8·25
Moradabad	3·98	6·53
Gházipur	·93	5·81
Partábgarh	3·61	5·61
Bulandshahr	1·42	4·83
Basti	1·35	4·19
Benares	·41	3·71

Where the amount done has been markedly insufficient, I have called the attention of District Officers to the matter, so that more may be done in future.

Testing of rent-rolls.—The amount of testing shows on the whole an increase over last year, due to special attention having been given to this matter in Moradabad, Fatehpur, Cawnpore, Jalaun, and some other districts. In some districts, however, little attention was paid to this important matter, Bijnor and Mirzapur being at the bottom of the list. On the whole only two and a half per cent. of the entries were found incorrect; but the percentage of error was very high in Etáwah (6 81), Etah (9·20) and Bijnor (12·7).

10. Concealment of rents.—All the district reports except those from Muzaffarnagar, Muttra, Bánda, Jhánsi, Jalaun, Benares, and Lucknow refer to the correctness of the recorded rents. During the year under report no concealment of importance came to light in 31 districts. Considerable concealment is suspected in grain-rented villages of Pilibhít, but no special cases were discovered, the patwáris being engaged in survey work. Special inquiries were made in Cawnpore during the year, but no case was detected except in a few alluvial maháls. From a recent inspection of the district I am inclined to think that a few cases may be found, but that there is no widespread or general concealment. Two cases were discovered in Bulandshahr, two in Gonda and one in Hardoi. In Allahabad also two cases came to light, one of which covered seven maháls. The Collector believes that there is a good deal more to be done in this respect. Rent-rolls in Basti were found to be wrong and were corrected in 38 cases. As mentioned in the last report the practice of making fraudulent rent entries is believed to exist in Gorakhpur, and during the year under report two flagrant instances were noticed, one of which extended over seven maháls. The Collector has taken steps to have the jamabandis corrected. In Meerut the Settlement Officer has noticed a case where a zamíndár allowed his tenants to be recorded as having a right of occupancy in the hope that the rents recorded would be accepted, though he actually collected considerably higher rents.

11. Sadr kanúngos have done as a rule a sufficient amount of touring. Least was done in Bánda (75 days), Etáwah (74), and Bijnor (74). The form of sadr kanúngo's inspection report has been revised, to show separately the number of village maps examined, and the number of entries tested in khasras, khewats, bahikhátas, and other records. The following memorandum shows the total number of each kind of entries tested by sadr kanungos: —

Name of record.	Total number tested.	Percentage of error found.
Khasra	335,486	4·41
Khewat khatas	38,085	1·79
Bahi-khata	90,666	2·85
Other records	102,286	3·32
Total ...	566,523	3·79

The largest amount of testing done was in Fatehpur (49,538, entries), Muzaffarnagar (44,283), and Gonda (30,210). The districts in which less than 10,000 entries were tested are Jhánsi, Ballia, Benares, Bahraich, Bulandshahr, Rae Bareli, Naini Tal and Hamírpur. Settlement or survey operations interfered with the tours of the sadr kanúngos in Meerut, Sháhjahánpur and Pilibhít.

12. Methodical Inspection of patwari's records.—It is now a general rule that one-third of the circles in each district come each year under the inspection of superior officers. This arrangement has been duly carried out in most districts, but in Meerut, Farukhabad, Sháhjahánpur, Pilibhít, Lalitpur sub-division, Kheri, and Bahraich inspection has been more or less interrupted by settlement and survey operations. The Sitapur report is again silent on the subject.

13. Map correction in Oudh.—The work of map correction was reported to be complete in 1897-98 in Lucknow, Sultánpur, and the temporarily settled villages of the Bara Banki district. The maps remaining in Rae Bareli were corrected during the year under report. In Fyzabad, Unao, and Hardoi, too, the work is approaching completion. Many of the maps in the last mentioned district being hopelessly out of date, considerable difficulty is experienced in correcting them: arrangements for necessary assistance to patwáris have, however, been made. The work is progressing satisfactorily in Partábgarh. The Deputy Commissioner reports that the majority of patwáris can now correct their maps, amíns being deputed to circles in charge of the few incompetent men. In Bahraich and Kheri new maps have been prepared by the Survey Department and a complete re-survey is in progress in Gonda. In Sitapur and part of Bara Banki, where the recent revision of settlement was made on the old maps and records, complaints have arisen that the maps will no longer serve their purpose, as correct indices to the khasras. The Deputy Commissioner of Sitapur put forward a scheme for redrawing the defective maps in that district. I was opposed to his proposals as they seemed to provide no sufficient supervision, and the Board of Revenue declined to sanction them. I subsequently objected on the same grounds to a proposal made by the Deputy Commissioner of Bara Banki. But the general question will have to be taken up sooner or later.

The maps prepared at the first settlement cannot serve for ever; and I am inclined to think that when survey work in the North-Western Provinces is not so urgent as at present, one or more of our survey parties will have to be moved to Oudh to provide fresh village maps as well as topographical features for the district maps. This matter will be referred separately.

14. Tahsíl registers. Preparation of registers in the revised form.—Revised village registers are now complete and in use in the districts noted on the margin.

Compilation is proceeding in Meerut, Sháhjahánpur, Bareilly, and Kheri under the orders of the Settlement Officers; and in the Gursarai Estate of Jhánsi by the special office under my control. All the pargana hand-books have been published for the districts marked with an asterisk in the foregoing list; in the remaining districts they are either being compiled or in process of publication.

The special office has now practically completed the first part of the programme laid down for it on its establishment: all that remains is the completion of work in the Gursarai estate of Jhánsi, and the preparation of hand-books for that district. The Board of Revenue has been asked for orders as to the districts which shall be taken up next.

Maintenance of village registers.—The registers are generally reported to be up to date; but the question whether the entries in them are correct is frequently passed over. The work of testing the statistical entries is most important, as where it is neglected the registrar kanúngo generally becomes careless and enters wrong figures. Sometimes these are so obvious that they catch the eye of the Sub-Divisional Officer, but even gross mistakes are frequently overlooked, and in time the registers become so full of errors that they are almost useless. In this matter I speak from my own experience, gained in testing the accuracy of the registers in 34 tahsíls; the number of errors detected has been far greater than it should have been, and in some cases it has been obvious that the local officers have applied no check whatever. Careful checking, carried back to the original patwári's record, is very tedious work and takes a considerable amount of time; but it is an essential part of the inspection of the registrar kanúngo's department, and on its proper performance depends the whole accuracy of the elaborate system of district analysis. I hope to find time to inspect this department in a good many districts during the current year; but the important point is that District Officers should insist on periodical and thorough testing by the officers in charge of sub-divisions and by the sadr kanúngo.

Use of village registers.—Three years ago sanction was accorded to certain amendments in the kanúngo rules, made with the object of securing that Sub-Divisional Officers should every year before going on tour examine the pargana-books of the sub-division in their charge, and should arrange for the inspection of all villages where the figures showed remarkable fluctuations. During the year under report I was engaged in preparing instructions for the compilation of the reports on agricultural deterioration, and in order to gain information of the needs of various districts I asked District Officers to lend me the notes which Sub-Divisional Officers are required to prepare. It then appeared that in many districts the new rules had not been enforced, and that in some cases no use whatever had been made of the pargana-books. The matter was again brought to the attention of District Officers, and the Board of Revenue, at my instance, invited the attention of Commissioners to the desirability of seeing that the rules were complied with. It is hoped that more attention will in future be given to the working of these rules.

In some districts, on the other hand, the pargana-books have been thoroughly and systematically used, and here their value has been very great. I may perhaps cite Cawnpore as an instance within my own knowledge. Much of the southern part of this district has recently suffered from depression, and considerable reductions of revenue have been made. In selecting the villages for inspection the Collector was guided almost entirely by the pargana books, which at the same time he has enriched with a large number of valuable notes. In other districts, also, the books have been of great use, though Cawnpore is at present perhaps the most striking instance of their value.

15. Maintenance of survey and boundary marks.—Under G. G. O. No. $\frac{510-19}{71}$, dated 10th March 1892, annual lists of survey and boundary marks were prepared in all the districts of the United Provinces except in some tahsíls of districts under survey or settlement. The marks were also inspected and necessary steps taken for their repairs or re-erection. Most of the existing marks are said to need repair in the districts of Moradabad (5,885), Jhánsi (4,084), Allahabad (2,728), and Bara Banki (2,263). The standard pattern of stone trijunction mark mentioned in the last year's report is now being generally used. The reports received show that in some districts ruined masonry platforms have already been replaced by stone pillars; while in many others stones have been ordered and will be set up when received. The slow progress in Gorakhpur, Unao, Hardoi, and Bareilly was noticed in the report for 1897-98. In the first-mentioned district the old boundary marks are now being replaced by stones, while in Unao and Hardoi the supply of stones is being arranged for. The progress in Bareilly is slow owing to settlement operations. In Bánda funds have been allotted for repairs to survey marks not situated on the boundaries of villages.

16. Inspection of districts.—The Kanúngo Inspectors attached to the Department inspected the work of patwáris and kanúngos in ten districts during the year, and their reports were as usual forwarded to the District Officers for information and necessary action. The Director himself inspected the work of the preparation of mauza registers, pargana-books, and pargana hand-books in Gorakhpur and Basti. He also made inspections of survey and record work in Meerut, Farukhabad, Bareilly, Pilibhít, Azamgarh, Kheri, and Gonda. General land record work was inspected in Etáwah, Mainpurí, and Etah.

17. Preparation of districts for settlement.—Four districts were reported on during the year; Jalaun by my predecessor, and Mainpuri, Etawah and Etah by myself. The condition of the maps in Agra, Muttra and Jalaun was reported on by the Superintendent of Surveys.

18. Survey operations.—The following report on the work of the year has been prepared by Mr. G. B. Scott, the Superintendent of Surveys:—

"The revision of village maps and records was during the season completed in districts Bareilly, Kheri and the hill parganas of Naini Tal, continued in Gonda and commenced in Farukhabad, Azamgarh and Pilibhít.

"The total area surveyed was 3,312 square miles, the number of villages, 4,376 and of fields, 4,188,497. Of these the record writing in the field was completed of 4,338 villages containing 3,990,914 fields. The average size of the fields ranged from 0·1 of an acre in Azamgarh (omitting Naini Tal as exceptional) to 1·6 in Kheri. The total number of patwáris in the tracts surveyed was 1,720, of whom 1,418 or 82 per cent. qualified and completed the survey and records of some or all of the villages in their circles. Of those who from old age or other physical incapacity were unfitted for survey work, the greater number provided substitutes in the person of their own heirs or other relatives, and a few substitutes were appointed by Survey Officers with the consent of the District Officers. In addition 59 kanúngos and 263 umedwár kanúngos (candidates) sent for training by the officers of other districts were trained and the greater number qualified and assisted in survey work; as also did 18 scholars from the Agricultural School, Cawnpore. The average daily outturn of patwáris ranged from 4 to 10 acres of survey in December and January to 20 acres in the later months of the year and 42 fields of record writing.

"No village plan was passed till it had been carefully checked, first by the Inspector of the circle and after completion of survey and deposit of the plan in office by an "independent partaller." These are native surveyors employed exclusively in running check lines over completed villages, having no access to the plans and registering details in field-books, which are plotted in office and compared with field sheets by the Survey Officers. All plans which on application of these tests were found incorrect were rejected and resurveyed. The total area thus rejected only covered about 10 square miles. This does not of course include small portions of sheets rejected while work was in progress. The average length of check lines run by Europeans on board plan was 289 lineal miles, by Inspectors 6,932 lineal miles, and by independent partallers 3,362 lineal miles, giving an average of about three lineal miles per square mile of survey. Of the records those of 663,799 fields or 12 per cent. were checked, chiefly by Inspectors. As these are attested by Deputy Collectors before settlement operations commence, there is not the same necessity for so large a percentage being checked by European Officers as was usual in the Survey of India Department, when records were passed on to Settlement Officers without further attestation.

"No amíns were employed on survey work except in Naini Tal where there are no patwaris, in portion of the Farukhabad district where the near expiry of old settlement rendered it necessary to complete the survey of the Kaimganj and sadr tahsíls in one year, and in the alluvial tracts along the Ganges in Gonda. Some villages in Pilibhít where annual settlements are made, and jungle villages north of the Chaka river were also surveyed by amíns at the request of the Collector. The cultivation of these villages was scattered in dense jungle and none but experienced Surveyors could have done this work correctly; certainly not newly trained patwáris. The rest of the work being on the two years' system, the patwáris needed little or no assistance according to the size of their circles, and where it was needed, kanúngos and candidates fully met the want.

"Cost rates on the two years' system must be in excess of those for work done on one year's system, owing to the large number of Inspectors and still more of mirdahas or chainmen required over a double extent of country. On the other hand the patwáris after two years are, as a rule, not only good Surveyors, but also good at record writing, area estimating and drafting. Expenditure is largely increased also when the patwáris are called away from survey duties for long or frequent intervals, and to ensure the completion of records of certain areas, muharrirs have to be entertained to complete the work. This year, owing to the necessity for reports on cattle, crops, &c., in connection with the threatened scarcity or famine, the patwáris were more often withdrawn from survey work even than in previous years. An examination of the records of attendance shows that taken all round every patwári was absent from survey work for three months of the year, during which either the work had to remain unfinished or, when necessary, completed by outsiders at increased cost. This was specially necessary in Bareilly and Kheri where the survey was completed and only records remained to complete, and in Farukhabad where the papers of two tahsíls were urgently needed for attestation this year.

"Of boundary disputes 259 were reported, most of which were settled on the ground with the aid of former settlement maps. A few are still unsettled and have been reported to the Record Officers.

"Rewards for good work to patwáris amounted in all to Rs. 374-13-1.

"Record writing has been much facilitated by the issue of the "Rules of Procedure" by the Board of Revenue, and uniformity ensured. In accordance with these rules the demarcation of soils is now left for the Settlement Officers. Khatauni or holding slips are prepared in the field simultaneously with khasras and khataunis, prepared from them subsequently in office. The preparation of Jamabandis has been discontinued. The survey of districts Bareilly, Kheri, and Naini Tal having been completed and the records made over to Settlement Officers, the permanent establishments of these parties have been transferred to Mainpuri, Etáwah, and Etah respectively.

"In district Bareilly only 344 square miles remained for survey and in Kheri 284. When such small areas are supervised by the strength of a full party, the cost per square mile is necessarily heavy. In Bareilly a portion of the establishment was utilized in helping the Bisalpur section of Pilibhít, and the cost per square mile was therefore kept down to Rs. 69-2-8. This includes the cost of a small establishment employed in preparing plots of the Aligarh district. It was impossible to reduce expenditure or increase the area to be done in Kheri, and the work remaining to be done was of the most difficult nature, numerous patches of cultivation scattered over a large area of heavy jungle and intersected by numerous water-courses. The cost of this year was Rs. 128 per square mile. But this rate does not apply to the entire area. This district is now completed, the area is 2,551 square miles, the cost from October 1895 = Rs. 1,36,423-15-2 or an average of Rs. 53-8-0 per square mile nearly. The average cost per square mile, for the year, of the remaining districts is Rs. 52-12-4. This does not include cost of headquarters establishment, which might add another Rs. 10 per square mile for expenditure under various heads.

"The survey and record writing of the cultivated area in the hill parganas of the Naini Tal district were completed. There is nothing to add to the remarks on this survey made in previous reports. The area surveyed this year was 21 square miles on the 64-inch scale, making the total surveyed in the district 101 square miles. Excluding carefully from this the area of all tenures and non-cultivated land, the area under crop or lying fallow, but held in occupation by tenants, is 61 square miles. The area according to previous papers in district office is 49 square miles,—a difference of 12 square miles or 25 per cent. increase, although the actual cultivation appears rather to have diminished than increased since last settlement owing to the tenants obtaining more valuable lands in the Bhabár. The cost of the 64-inch survey and record work and of 4-inch index maps (excluding cost of instruments transferred for use in other parties) was Rs. 426-6-9 per square mile. Mr. F. B. Powell, who has been in charge of this difficult work from the start, deserves credit for its successful completion.

"The annual reports submitted by the various Survey Officers give full details of the work. I need hardly add that all Survey Officers have worked with their usual zeal and ability. The work of Mr. Freeman (Deputy Collector on survey duty) in Azamgarh was specially difficult, and needed all his exceptional experience in survey and record work with his zeal and energy to ensure correct results.

"The Superintendent visited the several districts under survey, and when time permitted personally examined the work of patwáris in the field, especially in Pilibhít and Farukhabad, where work was commenced this year. He also completed the relaying of lost boundaries between Sháhjahánpur on one side and Budaun and Farukhabad on the other, where the Rámganga and Ganges rivers had swept away all old land marks over a large extent of country.

"The Superintendent also personally supervised a training class of 12 Junior Civilians from 1st to 20th November. After surveying a small block of cultivation each, these officers were posted to surrounding districts, to gain an insight into the system of survey and to assist Survey Officers by checking the work of patwáris. At this time of year the patwáris are, as a rule, only commencing work, and it is therefore not a seasonable time for observing the full working of a party. The training class will in consequence during coming season be held in January.

"In the month of December, having no competent assistant available for the work, the Superintendent personally refixed the sites of lost boundary pillars or selected others on the Nepál-Almora and Nepál-Naini Tal (Tarai) boundary. In March and April he ran check lines over numerous villages in the Agra and Muttra districts to test the present accuracy of the village maps. These districts having been cadastrally surveyed by the Survey of India Department, the original maps were of course correct. The Superintendent found few changes as a rule, and where field limits had been changed, these had been correctly recorded on the maps; a resurvey was considered unnecessary. Mr. Johnson at the same time ran check lines across the Jalaun district and found the old maps as a rule much changed and at times seriously incorrect. It is believed a resurvey will be ordered of this district.

"The Deputy Surveyor General inspected the offices at Gonda, Farukhabad and Bareilly, and expressed his satisfaction with the systematic way in which the surveys were being conducted."

19. Some general changes of importance have been made in the arrangements for surveys. Under the orders of Government, patwáris are now required to keep up the village accounts during the progress of survey and settlement operations. This took a lot of time last year, but it is hoped that in future things may be done more rapidly. It has been decided that in future, except in tracts where boundary marks are specially liable to injury, all patwáris are to have two years in which to survey and write the records of their circles. This is slightly more expensive than the "one year system," but it trains the patwáris better; it ensures much greater accuracy in the records, and it dispenses with the need for employing amíns. Arrangements have also been made to post an assistant to each survey party.

As directed in paragraph 29 of the orders on last year's report, I have obtained the opinion of Settlement Officers as to the accuracy of the work made over to them. Mr. Butler, Settlement Officer, Kheri, writes that the maps leave nothing to be desired; but that the records received were frequently inaccurate. Mr. Fremantle, Settlement Officer of Bareilly, says that the records were generally received in fair condition. He points out, however, that there were frequently inaccuracies due to the record having been prepared by a stranger. The defects pointed out by both officers arose under the "one-year" system, and may be expected wherever amíns are employed. The change in system to which I have just referred is the best guarantee against their recurrence.

The remaining Settlement Officers received no records during the year, and consequently have not been consulted. The work of Mr. Freeman at Azamgarh, and of Mr. Powell at Naini Tal, has been highly spoken of by the District Officers. I have inspected all the Survey Offices during the year, visiting Azamgarh and Farukhabad twice: and I cordially agree with the commendation bestowed by Mr. Scott on the officers who work under his orders.

20. Amendment to rules.—Among the amendments to rules sanctioned during the year may be mentioned those relating to certain doubtful points connected with the record of the rights of lessees and mortgagees of proprietary rights. It has been decided—

(a) that a lessee to whom the right of collecting rents or enjoying profits in a village or part of a village is leased by the landlord, is a tenant under the Rent Acts, and is not bound to notify the lease, as if it were a transfer under section $\frac{97, \text{N.-W.P.}}{61, \text{Oudh}}$, Revenue Act;

(b) that the cultivation undertaken by a thekadár as such during the currency of his lease is not khudkásht, though analogous to it; such land will be shown in a separate head in the patwáris' records, and for purely statistical purposes it will be included in khudkásht in the máhal or mauza register, and

(c) that cultivation by a mortgagee of proprietary rights, as such on land where no tenant rights already exist is khudkásht; no sír rights can be acquired by a mortgagee as such on his khudkásht land.

The system under which patwáris registered brood mares and their produce has been abolished. Patwáris have been ordered to render all reasonable assistance to the officers of the Public Works Department in maintaining correct plans and registers of land in their charge. Instructions have also been issued as to the duties of patwáris and kanúngos in the matter of reporting encroachments on nazúl or Government property. The question of recording Government properties has been under consideration for some time past. Government has now issued orders, and the kanungos rules on the subject are being revised. The draft rules for patwáris in the hill tracts of the Kumaun Division as well as for the whole Bhábar tract noticed in the last year's report are now under the consideration of the local authorities. In the North-Western Provinces rules for survey procedure, necessary amendments have been made consequent on the omission of the rough khatauni from the list of papers to be prepared by Survey Officers. Some minor amendments have also been sanctioned in these rules.

21. Supply of patwári and kanúngo forms.—The total expenditure on patwári and kanúngo forms during the year amounted to Rs. 65,655 against Rs. 68,463 in 1897-98. The decrease is mainly due to a change in the dates of payment.

22. Patwári Funds.—The following figures show the receipts and charges of these funds for the year under report:—

	N.-W. P. Rs.	Oudh Rs.	Total Rs.
Patwari rate and miscellaneous receipts	21,39,439	5,51,133	26,90,572
Contribution from Provincial revenue	5,79,858	4,20,142	10,00,000
Total receipts	27,19,297	9,71,275	36,90,572
Charges	26,21,396	9,46,055	35,67,451
Surplus	97,901	25,220	1,23,121

This is the first surplus since 1894-95; and it is accidental, being due mainly to large collections of arrears which accrued during the famine. The 1898-99 transactions have raised the amount at credit of the North-Western Provinces Fund from Rs. 3,47,625 to Rs. 4,45,526, and reduced the debit balance in the Oudh fund from Rs. 1,13,048 to Rs. 87,828.

PART II.—AGRICULTURAL STATISTICS.

23. Crop and area returns:—These returns have been received from all districts except Meerut, Sháhjahánpur, Pilibhít, Bareilly, and Kheri and certain parganas of the districts of Farukhabad, Bijnor, Azamgarh, Gonda, and Bahraich which were under survey or settlement operations. For these tracts figures have been taken as usual from the preceding year's returns to complete the provincial statement.

24. During 1898-99 the Provinces continued to make satisfactory progress towards recovery from the famine of 1896-97; the total cultivated area having risen from 32,332,621 to 33,073,917 acres—an increase of 741,296 acres or 2 per cent. It now approximates to the area of 1894-95, which amounted to 33,522,034 acres; but is still 2½ per cent. below the average of the years 1893-95. The districts of Dehra Dún and Muttra show a drop of less than 1 per cent. each. Elsewhere there has been an increase, which varied from 1 to 7 per cent. The increase amounted to 187,630 acres in the Allahabad division to 158,335 acres in Lucknow to 122,809 acres in Fyzabad, and to about half a lakh of acres in each of the other divisions. The total cultivated area of each division is shown below for the past three years:—

Divisions.	1896-97.	1897-98.	1898-99.
	Acres.	Acres.	Acres.
Meerut	4,258,136	4,463,583	4,510,941
Agra	3,389,679	3,834,735	3,888,624
Rohilkhand	4,188,438	4,304,332	4,351,757
Allahabad	4,065,593	4,650,717	4,838,347
Benares	2,452,178	2,626,333	2,688,801
Gorakhpur	3,667,968	3,944,822	4,006,204

Total, N.-W. P. ...	22,191,121	24,013,731	24,473,883
Lucknow	3,750,828	3,920,054	4,078,389
Fyzabad	4,321,758	4,398,836	4,521,645
Total, Oudh ...	8,072,586	8,318,890	8,600,034
Total, N.-W. P. and Oudh ...	30,263,707	32,332,621	33,073,917

25. The total crop area of the provinces advanced from 40,141,759 to 41,014,764 acres, showing an increase of 873,005 acres or 2 per cent. over the figures of 1897-98. The kharíf area increased by 162,471 acres and the rabi area by 748,361 acres; but there was a fall of 37,827 acres in the zaid area. The figures for the different harvests are shown below :—

	1897-98.	1898-99.
	Acres.	Acres.
Kharíf	21,710,112	21,872,583
Rabi	18,172,955	18,921,316
Zaid	258,692	220,865
Total cropped area ...	40,141,759	41,014,764

In the division of Meerut there has been a decrease in the crop area of 25,783 acres; of 69,082 acres in Agra, and of 39,915 acres in Rohilkhand; but the other divisions show an increase, which amounts to 215,825 acres in Allahabad; to 334,244 acres in Lucknow, and to 321,433 acres in Fyzabad. In the latter divisions rain continued till nearly the end of September, thus enabling a large area to be sown with rabi after the kharíf was cleared. The crop area for each division is shown in the following table for the past three years :—

Divisions.	1896-97.	1897-98.	1898-99.
	Acres.	Acres.	Acres.
Meerut	5,304,163	5,559,873	5,534,090

In tracts where rice is extensively sown rain commenced in good time and was sufficient, hence an increase of about 6¾ lakhs of acres took place in the cultivation of this crop in 1898-99. With such a large area under rice, the figures for arhar, maize, bajra and the smaller millets naturally show a decline from the abnormally large area sown in 1897-98. The decline in the area under indigo was due to the discouragement which its cultivation has received in consequence of the very low prices obtained on the preceding year's sales, and also to uncertainty regarding the future. Juár and cotton were sown to almost the same extent as last year. The area placed under sugarcane, which had declined in the preceding two years, rose materially in 1898-99.

The increases under wheat, gram, and peas were in continuation of those which occurred last year; while the falling off in the area under barley is apparently due to the substitution of the more paying crop of wheat. The decrease in the area under linseed was caused by the insufficiency of moisture in the rice fields of some districts where it is commonly sown as an after crop. The area under opium which fell off in 1897-98 again rose in the year of report.

27. As the cold weather rains were timely and sufficient, irrigation was not necessary to the same extent as in the preceding year. The area irrigated from wells dropped by 229,933 acres and that from canals by 44,971 acres; but an increase of 162,826 acres occurred in the area irrigated from tanks and other sources; the net decrease in the irrigated area of the province being 112,078 acres or 1 per cent. The irrigated area dropped by 21 per cent. in the Rohilkhand division; by 12 per cent. in Lucknow, and by 6 per cent. in Allahabad. In the other divisions there has been an increase which amounts to 8 per cent. in Gorakhpur to 4 per cent. in Benares and to less than 1 per cent. elsewhere. The variations which took place in the different sources of irrigation are given below:—

	1897-98.	1898-99.	Difference.
	Acres.	Acres.	Acres.
Irrigated from wells	5,412,820	5,182,887	—229,933
„ „ canals	1,780,053	1,735,082	—44,971

Total, irrigated area ...	9,711,586	9,599,508	—112,078

The total number of masonry wells reported for 1897-98 amounted to 306,743. Of these 2,056 fell in during the year under report; but 4,921 new wells were constructed during the year. This gives a net increase of 2,865 wells during the year and raises the area protected by well irrigation from 2,806,249 to 2,831,737 acres or by 25,488 acres.

28. Classification of holdings and rental demand and collections.—This return, which is for 1897-98, has been received from all districts except Meerut, Sháhjáhanpur, Pilibhít, Kheri, and Bahraich and portions of Farukhabad, Bareilly, Bijnor, Jhánsi (Lalitpur sub-division), Hardoi, Sultánpur and Gonda, where survey or settlement operations were in progress.

The following table compares the areas under each class of holdings in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh separately during the year 1897-98 with those of 1896-97:—

Nature of tenure.	N.-W. Provinces.			Oudh.

29. During the preceding year the total holdings area of the North-Western Provinces had dropped by about two lakhs of acres. During 1897-98 there was a recovery to the extent of 71,997 acres. The Meerut division shows a substantial increase of 82,673 acres; and the Agra, Rohilkhand, and Gorakhpur divisions to a smaller amount; but the Allahabad division again shows a drop of 92,826 acres and the Benares division of 21,830 acres. During the two years (1896-97 and 1897-98) taken together a drop of 53,913 acres occurred in Bánda; of 71,100 acres in Hamírpur; of 28,489 acres in Jhánsi; of 12,396 acres in Jalaun, and of 55,509 acres in Mirzapur. The area under sír fell off by 18,161 acres, the decrease being shared by almost all parts of the province; while the area under khudkásht rose by 39,540 acres. Here again the Meerut, Agra, and Gorakhpur divisions show increases. The decrease of 13,915 acres in Budaun is probably owing to correction of records in connection with settlement operations. The area held with exproprietary or privileged rights, which hitherto was on the increase, exhibits this year a small decrease of 2,643 acres. The Allahabad and Benares divisions and the district of Naini Tal show decreases; elsewhere there has been an increase of a few acres. The general and steady decline in the occupancy area was maintained during the year under report; the only important exception being Budaun, where the new settlement record has given an increase of 65,118 acres, with a corresponding reduction under other heads. Elsewhere there has been a decline, which in the Allahabad division amounts to 40,714 acres; the net decrease for the province being 8,854 acres. The area held by tenants without declared rights, which from the effects of the famine had dropped in the preceding year by 221,754 acres, rose by 74,280 acres. The increase is almost general except in Budaun, the Bundelkhand districts and Mirzapur, where marked decreases took place. In Budaun the decrease is due to the new record of occupancy tenants: elsewhere it is to a large extent due to the famine; names of tenants who abandon their holdings are not always removed from the records until it is clear that the abandonment is final. Land held without rent declined by 12,165 acres. Basti shows a decrease of 22,710 acres of land, which was hitherto held without rent in lieu of wages, but on which rent has now been fixed. The change is perhaps due to the introduction of cash payments for chaukidárs. The decrease of 5,645 acres in Agra is stated to be due to correct compilation of figures this year; while the small variations in the figures of Bijnor, Budaun and Jhánsi are not real as the districts were under settlement and complete statistics compiled by the patwáris are not available for the past two years for purpose of comparison.

30. The total holdings area of Oudh, which in the preceding year had dropped by 191,112 acres, has now risen by 155,531 acres, owing mainly to an increase of 130,712 acres which has taken place in the area held without declared rights and of which Sítapur contributed no less than 115,536 acres. Small increases have also occurred in the area held as sír as khudkásht and in that held with sub-proprietary and occupancy rights; and the variations in district figures call for no remarks. The area held without rent increased by 7,289 acres in Sítapur; but some decreases in this area took place in Rae Bareli, Fyzabad and Sultanpur; the net decrease for the province being 496 acres.

31. The rent-paying area of the United Provinces, which in 1896-97 had declined by 423,161 acres, has risen from 27,879,271 to 28,079,390 acres or by 200,119 acres. The Allahabad division shows a drop of 94,772 acres and Benares of 22,559 acres; elsewhere there have been increases which are greatest in Meerut (71,545 acres) and Lucknow (118,437 acres). The total rental demand was Rs. 12,34,51,843 as compared with Rs. 12,17,24,203 in the year before. The increase of Rs. 17,27,640 is distributed over all the parts of the province except the Allahabad division, which shows a decrease of Rs. 1,80,571. Cash rent formed 90 per cent. of the total demand; the cash value of the crop rental 8 per cent. and the "siwai"

2 per cent. The total recorded demand and collections on tenants' land in 1897-98 were as under :—

				Rs:

Collections made in 1897-98

(b) for previous years	...	...	...	2,10,00,468
		Total	...	11,33,53,753

32. The percentage of total recorded collections on the total demand of the province for 1897-98 rose from 79 to 92. It is lower than last year in Dehra Dún Saháranpur, Muzaffarnagar, Bulandshahr, Budaun, Naini Tal, and Sítapur and was the same as in the preceding year in Meerut, Sháhjahánpnr, Pilibhít, Kheri and Bahraich. The remaining districts show a higher percentage than last year owing mainly to the recovery during 1897-98 of arrears of rents of past years. The record of collections is still the most unsatisfactory part of these statistics, and collections are somewhat higher than the figures show. The following table shows the percentage of total recorded collections on the total demand in each division of the province for the past two years :—

Part III.—NOTE ON AGRICULTURAL DEPRESSION DURING RECENT YEARS.

The reports received for the past year do not indicate any widespread depression ; and the only general remark that can be made is that the year up to June was marked by continued improvement in the tracts that suffered most severely in the recent famine. The results of the failure of the rains in September are, however, likely to retard the progress of recovery in some tracts. I give below an abstract of the information that has reached me. In the districts which do not appear in the abstract no depression has been reported, or nothing new has been added to what was reported last year.

Meerut Division.

Saháranpur.—The tracts referred to in previous reports have been subject to injury from waterlogging. They have not suffered during the last three years and they are being dealt with by the Irrigation Department which has several drainage projects in hand.

Muzaffarnagar.—The only tract in the district now classed as precarious is the Ganges khádir ; it is now improving.

Meerut.—Tracts north of Baraut and near Shahdara in the Ghází'abad tahsíl are subject to flooding in wet years. Pargana Loni has suffered from want of irrigation facilities. The Irrigation Department has proposed the introduction of canal irrigation in part of the pargana, and the Collector approves of their proposal. Advances for the construction of wells are also being freely given.

Bulandshahr.—All the villages known to be deteriorated, mostly situated in the Jumna khádir, were inspected during the year and one new village was brought on the list. The recent failure of the rains has affected some villages, but full information about these cannot be supplied till the end of the cold weather.

Aligarh.—The Collector sends a full and interesting report on two tracts which have recently suffered. The first of these includes 44 villages in the north west of tahsíl Khair. Most of these lie in the Jumna khádir, but a few of them are in the adjoining bangar. The soil of this tract does not admit of the construction of kachcha wells and the distress in them is entirely due to drought. The last rabi was a very poor crop owing to insufficient rainfall ; the recent kharíf was only a four-anna crop, and prospects of the next rabi are poor. Some reductions in the revenue of this tract were allowed in 1888, and further reductions made in 1898, but it is still heavily assessed. The second tract includes 31 villages lying in tahsíls Háthras and Iglas along the border of the Muttra district. Here the distress is due partly to the recent drought, partly to a fall in the level of the sub-soil water, and partly to the spread of a weed named baisurai, which "flourishes in a dry year and sucks all the moisture out of the soil." The Collector has forwarded certain proposals to the Commissioner; he recommends the construction of a branch of the canal, and asks for the deputation of an officer of the Irrigation Department. The deterioration caused by the fall in the water level is a very serious matter, and the whole tract should certainly be examined by an expert Engineer.

Agra Division.

Muttra.—A tract in Chhata tahsíl, comprising 19 villages west of the Kosi, on the borders of Gurgaon and Bharatpur, has been gradually deteriorating. The well water is brackish and unfit for irrigation, so that the crops depend entirely on rain. An extension of canal irrigation has been proposed ; but the Irrigation Department are at present unable to do any thing. A small area in the same tahsíl suffers from waterlogging ; the Irrigation Department have for some years been endeavouring to find a remedy but nothing has yet been done.

Farukhabad.—Almost all the deteriorated villages, which are mostly on the banks of the Káli Nadi, were inspected during the year. No marked alterations in their condition necessitating any interference were brought to light.

Rohilkhand Division.

Bareilly.—Two small tracts are reported to suffer from waterlogging. An escape has been constructed to relieve one tract, and proposals for the relief of the other are under preparation.

Bijnor.—The tracts that have suffered from depression in recent years are parts of Chandpur and Bashta. The depression in Chandpur is due almost entirely to the scanty rainfall of recent years. The soil on the upland overlooking the Ganges is very poor and sandy, and cultivation has declined greatly owing to the want of any means of irrigation. In pargana Bashta the depression is largely in the Ganges khádir, and appears to have commenced in 1880 with the heavy floods from the rivers. There were again severe floods when the Gohna dam burst in 1894. The smaller landlords are poor and the richer ones careless, so that nothing has been done to improve the tract.

Budaun.—Floods between the Sot and the Ganges affected a few villages ; but the injury was serious in one village only where sand was deposited. The rest of the khádir has been prosperous. The bhur tract is slowly recovering from the recent depression : deer and pig have increased here, but licenses are being given with fair liberality, and the Collector thinks this matter should right itself in time.

Moradabad.—The bhur tracts of parganas Hasanpur and Sambhal have now been reassessed and some remissions and reductions of revenue allowed.

Sháhjahánpur.—The tracts of stiff clay in Jalálabad, Jamaur, and Nigohi were mentioned last year as depending mainly on the rice crop. They have consequently suffered in the recent failure of the rains, the crop being estimated at less than one-third of the normal. Tahsíl Powayan, mentioned in last year's note as needing inquiry, has been inspected during the year by the Settlement Officer. There is a tract of very poor sandy soil lying along the Gumti and minor streams : at the present time it is described as a "waste of bhur and jungle grass." The portion of this tahsíl adjoining the forests is as usual precarious; and in pargana Baragaon lying in the southern part of the same tahsíl, some villages suffer from the floods of the Sukheta stream. There are also some large jhíls in the tahsíl which in wet years cause injury by waterlogging.

Pilibhít.—Tracts bordering on the forest on the east of Pilibhít and Bisalpur tahsíls are liable to suffer in years of scanty rainfall. Many of the villages lying in these tracts have a sandy sub-soil in which kachcha wells cannot be dug and irrigation is difficult and expensive. These tracts did not suffer during the year of report.

Allahabad Division.

Cawnpore.—A great deal of rice land has gone out of cultivation especially in Shiurájpur. The Collector could find no satisfactory reason for this. It may possibly in some cases be due to anticipation of settlement.

Fatehpur.—Káns occurs in a few villages in Kora pargana round Amauli, and in parts of pargana Ghazipur; in four villages a reduction of revenue was sanctioned during the year, but in the rest the deterioration was not such as to justify a reduction. During a recent tour I have noticed that some parts of this district have not recovered so rapidly as was to be expected from the famine of 1896-97. I have drawn the attention of the Commissioner and the Collector to these tracts.

Bánda.—The Collector has favoured me with a detailed analysis of the district, based mainly on Mr. Fremantle's inspection notes and on later observations. Káns appears to be decreasing, the cultivated area is extending, and it is only in a few isolated villages that an improvement is not visible.

Allahabad.—The black soil tracts across the Jumna are causing anxiety at present, they were showing some recovery from the acute depression of recent years, but the failure of the last rains has thrown them back. Káns is on the decrease in these tracts: it has appeared in a few poor villages in the Allahabad tahsíl.

Jhánsi.—In Jhánsi proper, material decrease is reported in the cultivated area of 59 villages seven of which are in Jhánsi, twenty four in Mau, 16 in Garotha and 12 in Moth tahsíl. In 32 of these villages the decrease has been attributed to the carelessness or poverty of zamíndárs and in the remaining 27 to the spread of káns. The red soil tracts of the whole district are at present in a precarious state owing to the failure of the rains. Proposals for remission and suspension of revenue in affected tracts are now under preparation. Mr. Silberrad in Lalitpur recommends construction of storage tanks and maintenance of these under Government supervision at the cost of the landowners. Under existing conditions, so long as rain is plentiful the tanks are allowed to fall out of repair and are thus useless when wanted. I understand these proposals have been submitted separately.

Jalaun.—Part of this district is liable to the growth of káns. The Collector regards as actually depressed the major portion of pargana Orai, the south of Kálpi, and the south-east of Jalaun, with a few villages in Kúnch. Káns appears to be increasing at present.

Benares Division.

Benares.—Fifty two villages on the banks of the Garai and Karamnasa suffered to some extent from floods and excessive rains.

Ballia.—Considerable damage was done to kharíf crops by excessive rains in the Rasra and Bansdih tahsíls, and by floods in Basantpur and in parganas Sikandarpur west and Bhadaon. Part of Sikandarpur also suffered severely from cattle disease.

Gorakhpur Division.

Gorakhpur.—Large tracts of land in the Gorakhpur, Deoria, and Padrauna tahsíls suffered during the recent kharíf from floods and excessively heavy falls of rain. In the case of the two former tahsíls, the damage is to be expected almost every year except, perhaps, in a year of partial drought, and the danger was recognised and allowed for at settlement. In Padrauna, the millets were destroyed by the excessive rain; but the damage is only temporary and a leniency in the collection of revenue and some suspension in a few cases will, in the Collector's opinion, meet the situation.

Azamgarh.—Some damage was done by floods chiefly in places along the larger rivers where the cost of constructing protective works would be prohibitive.

KUMAUN DIVISION.

Almora.—The Deputy Commissioner divides the district into three sections:—(1) Bhot or the northern pattis, (2) the southern pattis from which the tenants migrate in the cold weather to the Bhábar, and (3) the middle belt lying between the two sections. The first section is inhabited mainly by traders and carriers, and is little affected by agricultural fluctuations. The pressure of population in the second section may cause slight distress from time to time. The third section is flourishing and prosperous. No depression has been observed during the year in any part of the district.

Naini Tal.—The Deputy Commissioner sends the following note which I give in full as illustrating the precarious nature of cultivation in the Tarái: "In the Jaspur pargana there is a tract of land which has been going from bad to worse for some years past; for the most part it adjoins sál forests. This deterioration commenced originally, in most cases by the exactions of the landlords. Then came a spell of bad harvests when the tenants had still to pay their rents instead of getting help from their zamíndárs. At any time the population along the whole Tarái is precarious as it depends on immigration: given a bad season or two and inconsiderate treatment, the tenants forsake their lands and migrate to neighbouring but more healthy and flourishing districts. In the case of the villages bordering on Kilauli sál forests the cultivating population rapidly diminished by sickness and emigration, whilst no new immigrants filled up the void. The result was that the tree and grass jungle rapidly spread, bringing with it wild animals, fever, and a deteriorated water-supply; so that, with these increased evils to deal with, the wretched cultivators that remained lost all heart and fled.

"Of the worst cases of deteriorated villages 11 are now being managed direct after annulment of settlement, one is attached for arrears of revenue, five are under the Court of Wards, and seven still remain with the landowners."

LUCKNOW DIVISION.

Unao.—The central bhur tract has been examined and found to present the ordinary features of such tracts; it is liable to much injury in dry years, and requires occasional rest from cropping. There are two other tracts which are suffering from agricultural depression. The first tract occupies portions of parganas Sikandarpur, Pariar, and Unao: the main portion, however lying in pargana Sikandarpur. The affected villages lie in an old bed of the Ganges and on the adjoining slopes. In wet years the crops in this area are swamped: the Deputy Commissioner attributes this to the railway embankment which prevents the immediate escape of flood water. The second tract consists of a number of villages lying along the Kalyani Nadi in the low lands of tahsíl Safipur. The course of the nadi is not continuous, and it is very inefficient as a drainage channel.

Sítapur.—Seventeen villages in pargana Kundri south and five in pargana Manwan have been found liable to depression owing to inundation caused by the overflow of the Chauka, Gogra, and Gumti. They did not, however, suffer during the year under report.

Hardoi.—No particular villages suffered seriously during the year from agricultural depression. The low lands in the district are liable to floods in case of heavy rains, and almost the entire district is extremely sensitive to any deficiency in the rainfall. The Deputy Commissioner suggests no remedy for the former; the danger of drought can be minimized by encouraging to the utmost the construction of wells. Considerable temporary reductions of revenue have been made and the district is now rapidly recovering from the results of the drought of 1896.

FYZABAD DIVISION.

Bahraich.—The late rice lands in the Tarái along the north of the district are liable to suffer in a season like the present when the rains cease abnormally early. In some localities the crop has this year been saved by irrigation from hill streams, and in the Bhinga estate large tanks are being constructed with a view to storing water for the protection of such lands. Irrigation from wells is probably out of the question here as in similar tracts. The whole Tarái tract also suffers from the bad climate and water.

Bára Banki.—The Deputy Commissioner reports that no less than 414 villages covering an area of 33,778 acres are subject to injury from inundations of the Gumti, Gogra, Chauka and other rivers. They did not, however, suffer during the year.

The reports are on the whole fuller and more detailed than hitherto, and there can be no doubt that the gradual accumulation of information of this kind will in time give most valuable results. In cases where the reports are not very definite I have asked for further particulars, which will on receipt be inserted in the detailed abstracts kept in my office.

During the past year I drew up instructions for the preparation of the district reports with the object of obtaining earlier and fuller information of all matters of interest in this connection. These instructions have now been issued with the sanction of Government, and reports will be submitted under them for the current year. I have further been able to arrange for the compilation in my office of the most important statistics for each pargana in the provinces. These registers will be for the provinces what the pargana-book is to the district, and with their aid it will be possible to recognise any depressions serious enough to affect the figures of a pargana. The Director will then be able to check the district reports and to obtain information on matters that have either escaped the attention of the local officers or have by oversight been omitted from the reports.

ORDERS OF GOVERNMENT.

No. $\frac{1400}{\text{I—454D}}$ OF 1900.

RESOLUTION.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT.

Dated Naini Tal, the 30th April 1900.

READ—

Letter from the Secretary to the Board of Revenue, North-Western Provinces and Oudh, No. $\frac{1212}{\text{XII—163}}$, dated 4th April 1900 (received on 18th April 1900), being the Board's Report on the Revenue Administration of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh for the year ending 30th September 1899.

OBSERVATIONS.—The year ending 30th September 1899 was a distinctly less prosperous one for the agricultural community than the exceptionally good year which preceded it. The seasons were less favourable for the crops, and lower prices further reduced the money value of the diminished outturn.

2. The total rainfall was ample, averaging 47½ inches; but in the western districts the monsoon of 1898 practically ceased to give rain after the first half of September, while further east unusually heavy rainfall caused considerable damage. The winter rains were light, but beneficial. In the two western divisions of Meerut and Agra the outturn was generally good; in the two eastern divisions of Benares and Gorakhpur the autumn crops suffered from excessive rain, and the indigo crop was specially bad owing to this cause. The spring harvest was in places above the average, but, on the whole, was inferior to that of the previous year. The winter was an unusually cold one, and much damage was done by frost, especially to arhar and gram. The damage caused by hailstorms and floods was nowhere on such a scale as to necessitate remissions of revenue. Widespread complaints were made of the damage done by field rats, but the loss actually suffered from the ravages of this pest appears to have been less than was at one time anticipated.

Rainfall and harvests, hailstorms, floods, and other calamities. (Paragraphs 4 to 9.)

3. Towards the close of the revenue year, that is, in the autumn of 1899, the outlook was extremely unfavourable. After heavy and continuous rainfall in June and July 1899, which did much damage, there were breaks in July and August, followed in the western part of the Province by light and insufficient rain. The position gave ground for much anxiety, but happily rain in September removed all cause for serious uneasiness, except in some of the districts to the south-west of the Provinces, where there was practically no rain, and where in consequence arrangements to provide for the possible approach of famine had to be made.

4. The public health remained fairly good, and, except for a few outbreaks of cholera, there was little epidemic disease. There was, however, a general increase in the mortality amongst cattle, and both foot-and-mouth disease and rinderpest were prevalent. Advantage was taken of the opportunity afforded by rinderpest epidemics to make some experiments as to the value of inoculation. When explained to the people, it was found that the experiments did not excite opposition, and the results, though on a small scale, indicated that effective protection against the disease might be given by the operation. In other directions some progress is being made in spreading a knowledge of the steps that should be taken to protect cattle during epidemics, and the influence of the veterinary staff is beginning to have some slight effect. Much, however, requires to be done, and a very large increase to the staff will be necessary before any real advance can be made in combating the ravages of cattle disease.

Prices. (Paragraph 12.)

5. The rapid fall of prices after the scarcity of 1896-97 attracted attention last year. At the beginning of 1898 prices were still high, but by the end of the calendar year a very low level had been reached, and the average prices for the whole year were in some districts below the average of the years preceding the famine. Thus in Cawnpore the average price of the five grains wheat, barley, juár, bájrá, and gram throughout the year was approximately 21 sérs per rupee, as compared with 20 sérs in the five years 1891 to 1895. The violent oscillations of prices during the year require to be constantly borne in mind in any attempt to appreciate its economic and commercial conditions. On the 1st of January 1898, or just before the beginning of the year under review, gram was selling at Cawnpore at $10\frac{3}{4}$ sérs per rupee, or at a higher price than wheat. A year later the rate was $23\frac{1}{2}$ sérs, or considerably less than half of what it had formerly been; and this low range of price was maintained to the end of July 1899, when the apprehensions caused by the apparent failure of the monsoon, the certainty of severe famine in other parts of India, and the possibility of its extending to these Provinces caused a rapid rise. In August the rate for this grain at Cawnpore was 18 sérs; in September it was below 13. Similar, though less violent, fluctuations occurred in the case of other grains. Thus wheat, the price of which is less subject to purely local influences, was selling at 11 sérs per rupee in Cawnpore in January 1898, and at $16\frac{1}{2}$ sérs a year later. From March to June 1899 the rate varied from about 18 to 16 sérs, while by September only 11 sérs could be obtained for a rupee.

Current demand. Land revenue on the roll. (Paragraphs 14, 15, and 16.)

6. The amount of land revenue due on account of the year 1898-99 was $619\frac{1}{2}$ lakhs, as compared with $614\frac{1}{2}$ in the previous year, the increase of 5 lakhs being accounted for by enhancements in Meerut, Bijnor, and Budaun, and the majority of the Oudh districts. The collections were 606 lakhs, leaving over 13 lakhs outstanding at the close of the year. Of this sum, however, $4\frac{1}{2}$ lakhs are nominal, and the real balance is under 9 lakhs of rupees. This is certainly satisfactory.

7. The Meerut, Agra, and Kumaun Divisions show a nearly clear balance sheet, and in Oudh the real balances are comparatively small.

But in the districts of Sháhjahánpur in the Rohilkhand Division, Jaunpur in Benares, and Azamgarh in Gorakhpur, and in most of the districts of the Allahabad Division, the arrears are heavy. In Jaunpur and Azamgarh the large balances are attributed to some extent to ineffective management and supervision. The latter district is not at present in a prosperous condition, but better results would probably have been attained with more effective control. In Jaunpur also the management appears to have been slack. The state of the revenue collections in Sháhjahánpur has for some years been unsatisfactory. The expiring settlement was not a successful one, and portions of the district suffered severely in the famine; but, after making allowance for all difficulties, the Lieutenant-Governor agrees with the Board that sufficient care has not been given to the revenue administration of this district. The Allahabad Division, in which two-thirds of the arrears accrued, suffered more severely than other tracts in the famine and has had less favourable seasons since. Part of the division is again on the verge of famine, and south of the Jumna prospects are nowhere favourable. Steps were taken after the famine to reduce excessive enhancements; but the deterioration, which was then believed to have reached its maximum, has gone on increasing, and further measures of relief may be required if there is not an early improvement. For the present direct management of estates and annulment of settlement have been largely resorted to.

Arrears of previous years. (Paragraphs 14, 17, and 18.)

8. Further substantial progress has been made during the year in clearing off the arrears left over from the famine period, though it has not been found possible to collect the balances in the time originally anticipated. At the beginning of the year the arrears were 86 lakhs of rupees, or somewhat more than half of the total amount originally suspended during the famine. Of this sum, 49 lakhs have been recovered, and, after allowing for remissions, the balance of old arrears outstanding was brought down by the close of the year to 29 lakhs of rupees. The method of dealing with the arrears in the districts in which they are heaviest has formed the subject of much correspondence during the year. On the one hand, it is undesirable that these arrears should be kept hanging indefinitely over the heads of the people; on the other, the Government has already granted remissions to an extent without any parallel, and there are not wanting indications that the result has been in places to encourage a spirit of recusancy, and a tendency to struggle against payment in the hope that payment may eventually be excused. As a rule, therefore, the Lieutenant-Governor has considered it sufficient to extend the time allowed for payment of the old arrears, though in some cases it has been necessary to grant further remissions. The total uncollected arrears now amount to 13 lakhs on account of the current demand and 29 lakhs on account of the uncollected balances of previous years, and, having regard to the unfavourable outlook at the close of the year, this result cannot be regarded as altogether unsatisfactory.

9. The demand on account of occupier's rates for canal water was, as usual, collected practically in full. As a consequence of the favourable rainfall, there was again a decline in the total amount, the demand being 67 lakhs, as compared with 72 in the previous year, and 82 lakhs two years ago. Owing to the extension of the Lower Ganges Canal to Fatehpur, that district for the first time appears in the returns, and it may be noticed that the District Officer appears to have overlooked the necessity of collecting the demand punctually.

Canal rates. (Paragraphs 32 to 35.)

10. The most important State properties are the Dudhi Estate in Mirzapur and the large estates in the Kumaun Division, regarding the management of which separate reports are submitted to Government. The total rental demand of all the estates rose from Rs. 8,11,575 to Rs. 8,39,191, but the increase is more than accounted for by the improvement in the rent-roll of the Tarái Government estates. In those estates the rental was practically collected in full; elsewhere the collections did not quite reach 70 per cent. of the demand, which, though better than in the previous year, still shows that the condition of the estates is far from satisfactory. Some explanation of this may be found in the fact that the largest estates, other than those already mentioned, are in districts of the Allahabad Division—Allahabad, Bánda, and Jhánsi,—where the seasons have not been favourable and where agriculture is still in a depressed condition. In Mirzapur also a very large sum remained uncollected. The Lieutenant-Governor observes with satisfaction that the Board have called attention to the necessity of a more liberal expenditure on improvement of the properties belonging to Government, and on advances to enable the tenants to tide over bad seasons. It is the duty of Government in estates belonging to itself to present an example of liberal and advanced management, and to make every effort to maintain the agricultural condition of its properties in the highest state of efficiency.

State properties. (Paragraph 36.)

11. The use of the money-order system in remitting revenue and other dues continues to spread, and its drawbacks and advantages are discussed in some of the reports. There is no doubt that the system must have the effect of weakening the position of the lambardárs, who already in many places have ceased to be an active agency for the representation of their co-sharers, and it must be considered, when the legislation for strengthening their position proposed in the Land Revenue Bill comes into force, whether any check on the practice of receiving revenue direct from co-sharers is necessary. The decrease in money-orders in Basti, owing to the steps taken to prevent the harassment of co-sharers bringing their revenue to the tahsíl, affords a suggestive indication of some of the reasons that make for the popularity of the system. If it were possible to enforce on the officials at all subordinate offices a habit of promptitude and businesslike procedure in their dealings with the public, the business of the administration would, in all departments, be facilitated; and, while progress in this direction must necessarily be slow, owing to the difficulty which everywhere exists, but which is nowhere greater than in this country, of escaping from dilatory and harassing practices which have become traditional, the Lieutenant-Governor is not without hope that, with the better educated agency which is rapidly becoming available at subordinate revenue offices, much may be done to improve the methods in use; and he would be glad to see endeavours on the part of all District Officers to impress on their tahsíldárs and náib tahsíldárs the necessity of recognising that, while the payment of Government dues must be strictly enforced, the actual process of payment should, by punctual and intelligent arrangements, be made as little troublesome and take up as little of the time of the taxpayer as possible.

Payment of land revenue and other dues by means of money-orders. (Paragraphs 40 and 41.)

Rent law litigation. (Paragraphs 42 to 75.)

12. The number of suits under the Rent Act instituted in the North-Western Provinces has increased from 116,875 to 124,221, or by 6·29 per cent. The number of applications has, however, fallen from 176,827 to 158,360, so that the combined total shows a decrease of 11,121, or 3·79 per cent., as compared with the preceding year.

An interesting table has been furnished by the Board, showing that, since the passing of the present Rent Act, the number of suits filed has increased steadily, with scarcely any check except in the famine year of 1896-97. The number of suits filed during the year under review was by far the largest on record; the increase over the figures of the previous year was, however, entirely in suits for arrears of rent, which comprise more than 91 per cent. of the total litigation. In other respects the fluctuations call for no remarks. The Rohilkhand Division alone showed a decrease in the number of rent arrear suits, while the increase was largest in Gorakhpur and Allahabad, the latter of which accounts for an increase of 4,697 institutions, or nearly two-thirds of the excess in the whole Province. Nearly half of this is due to the Allahabad district, where the large increase in resort to the courts is attributed to the growth of the practice of individual co-sharers suing separately for their share of rent.

The proportion of contested cases has risen slightly, but still amounts to only 21·39 per cent. of the whole number, while 45·41 per cent. of the cases filed were disposed of ex parte. The pending file at the close of the year rose from 5,886 to 6,055 cases, a result not unsatisfactory in view of the increase in the volume of litigation. The Agra Division, with a pending file of 585 cases, or 3·1 per cent. of cases instituted, and with the lowest average duration of contested cases, shows by far the best results; while the least satisfactory are in Benares, where, at the end of the year, there were 1,556 cases pending, and where the average duration was over two months to each contested case. The Ballia district had no less than 319 cases pending for more than three months, and in this and the Azamgarh district, after every allowance is made for the greater complexity of litigation in those parts, better supervision over the working of the courts appears to be called for.

13. There was a slight increase of 1·8 per cent. in the amount of rent remitted by money-orders in the united provinces, the total amount being Rs. 9,31,190, as compared with Rs. 9,13,858 in the previous year. There has been a marked increase in Bijnor and Bulandshahr, which between them account for nearly two and a quarter lakhs, and in Mirzapur. Recourse to this method of payment is usually considered to indicate some degree of distrust on the part of tenants towards landlords, and the enquiries made in Muzaffarnagar go to show that this explanation is correct. In Bijnor, where such payments are very numerous, the explanation appears to be that the tenants desire to prevent any reversion from cash to kind rents, the practice in a large part of this district being to change periodically from the one class of rents to the other. This mode of paying rent appears never to have gained ground in Oudh. In the past year the amount remitted in Oudh, which in 1894-95 was 7·2 per cent. of the combined provincial total, only formed 4·9 per cent. of the whole. It is again satisfactory to notice the extension of the practice of giving printed receipts, though in the Benares and Gorakhpur Divisions, where the litigious character of the people renders its introduction particularly desirable, less progress has been made in this direction than elsewhere.

Rent money-orders, &c. (Paragraphs 46 and 47).

14. The number of applications under the Rent Act amounted to 158,360, which is considerably less than in the previous year and is only slightly in excess of the average, 154,168, of the last ten years' figures. The decrease, as compared with 1897-98, is almost entirely due to the diminished number of applications connected with the ejectment of tenants-at-will. A substantial decrease of 2,280 in the number of enhancement cases has been more than counterbalanced by an increase of 2,467 in applications to eject tenants with rights.

Applications. (Paragraph 48 et seq.)

The percentage of cases in which ejectment of privileged tenants actually took place rose from 32·58 to 33·70. The divisional returns vary considerably, the percentage exceeding 40 in Rohilkhand and Allahabad, and falling considerably below 30 in Meerut and Benares.

15. All divisions, except Gorakhpur, show a decline in the number of notices of ejectment issued against non-occupancy tenants, the decrease being most considerable, in Meerut and Rohilkhand. The decrease is, as the Board remark, noteworthy, and it is accompanied by a corresponding decrease of 5·52 per cent. in the area affected by the notices issued. The figures of the previous year were, however, exceptional, and the decrease cannot be taken as indicative of any change in the policy of landlords in dealing with tenants who have no rights. Probably the fact that the free exercise of the power to eject tenants-at-will was brought under examination in the discussion on the revised Rent Bill had something to do with the decrease. The proportion of notices contested rose from 24 to 26 per cent., and the landlords were, as in the previous year, successful in about half of the cases contested.

16. The pending file of applications at the close of the year showed a reduction from 16,569 to 13,099. The results, on the whole, are creditable to the courts concerned, as of the pending balance no less than 10,393 cases were concerned with enhancement or determination of rent or the ejectment of privileged tenants, all cases of a complicated character, many of them involving local inspections. The Ballia district is unfavourably mentioned as having 392 cases pending for over three months at the close of the year.

It is satisfactory to notice that in the Allahabad district, which was mentioned very unfavourably in this connection last year, a marked improvement has been effected, but in other districts, notably Pilibhít and Aligarh, special attention and supervision to prevent procrastination is called for.

Notices of relinquishment of tenant holdings exhibit no marked fluctuation, except in the Allahabad Division, where the number increased by half and where more relinquishments were filed than in all the other divisions together. The Commissioner is of opinion that many of these relinquishments are not purely voluntary, but this explanation cannot in any way account for the increase. The landlords would not in these depressed tracts put pressure on their tenants to abandon their lands. The figures, as the Board remark, are clearly indicative of the unsatisfactory position of agriculture in Bundelkhand at present.

Oudh rent law litigation. (Paragraphs 60 to 66.)

17. In Oudh, where the distinction between suits and applications existing in the North-Western Provinces does not obtain, there has been a continued increase in rent litigation of 4·80 per cent., as compared with an increase of 20·42 per cent. in the previous year. The latter increase, however, only represented a return to normal conditions after the famine year. As in the North-Western Provinces, the increase is entirely due to the rise in the number of suits for arrears of rent, which number 28,287 as against 26,214 in the preceding year.

The only other classes of suits which exhibit any significant change are suits contesting enhancement or ejectment and suits for arrears of revenue, which have increased by 233 and 316 respectively, and suits for recovery of occupancy and suits connected with distraint, which have declined by 819 and 251, or 37 and 36 per cent., respectively.

The increase in suits for arrears of rent is attributed to a desire to prevent arrears of 1303 fasli from becoming barred by limitation, and a reluctance on the part of tenants to sell their produce during the time that low prices prevailed.

The pending file increased from 1,993 to 2,378 cases, a result hardly satisfactory, but largely due to one district, Gonda, which accounts for no less than 1,348 of the cases. The heavy litigation in that district was due to activity in the management of one large estate, and the staff had to be temporarily strengthened.

18. The remarkable increase in the number of notices of ejectment, commented upon last year, has not been maintained, the figures of the year being 13,196 as against 13,232. The area affected has, however, risen in a remarkable degree, from 145,257 to 424,478 acres. This increase is explained as being fortuitous, and due to the ejection of a number of lessees in the Bhinga estate in Bahraich district.

Enhancements of rent in excess of the statutory limit are reported from several districts. In one estate in which these were extensively made, enquiry was ordered by Government and the rents were reduced.

Litigation in Kumaun. (Paragraph 67.)

19. Kumaun again differs from the rest of the Provinces in showing a slight decrease in litigation, the number of suits instituted having fallen from 760 to 730. In spite of the small number of institutions, 122 cases remained pending at the end of the year, 90 of which belonged to the Almora district. The average duration of contested cases rose to 2 months and 24 days in this district.

Appeals to Collectors, Judges, and Commissioners. (Paragraphs 68 to 71.)

20. There has been a further increase from 4,052 to 4,370 in the number of appeals to Collectors, and, generally speaking, this branch of the Collector's work was performed with despatch. The percentage of decisions unmodified has fallen from 56 to 55, while reversals have increased from 22 to 23 per cent.

The number of appeals to Judges rose from 1,913 to 2,085, but the percentage of appeals filed to appealable suits shows a slight but satisfactory decrease from 23 to 19. The pending file, in spite of a marked reduction in the average duration of decided cases, has risen from 1,441 to 1,648, towards which the Benares Division contributes no less than 678.

In Commissioners' Courts the opposite condition prevails, a slight decrease in the number of appealable cases being accompanied by an increase of 9 per cent. in the appeals filed. The pending file has in consequence risen from 1,499 to 1,848 cases.

The number of appeals summarily rejected has again largely increased. The free resort to this power in Meerut was commented upon last year, but no explanation of the further increase from 226 to 259 which has occurred in the year under review has been submitted. The Lieutenant-Governor agrees with the Board that adequate reasons should always be given when this procedure is adopted; and when recourse is had to it as freely as in Meerut, the circumstances should be explained in the annual report.

Judicial work of the Board of Revenue. (Paragraph 72.)

21. The number of fresh cases which came before the Board of Revenue for disposal fell from 3,761 to 3,095. The number of cases decided within the year amounted to 3,326, as compared with 3,922 in the previous, but, owing to the decrease in institutions, the pending file was reduced from 680 to 429 cases. The orders of the lower courts were modified in 10·85 per cent. of the cases from the North-Western Provinces, and in 15·2 per cent. of the Oudh cases.

Coercive processes. (Paragraphs 76 to 85.)

22. The returns of coercive processes employed in the collection of the revenue indicate greater difficulty in securing its realization. Fewer writs of demand were issued in both the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, but the number of processes employed other than writs increased in the North-Western Provinces from 13,147 to 16,173 and in Oudh from 3,099 to 3,252, while the arrears for which these severer processes were used amounted in all to Rs. 42,69,940, as compared with Rs. 39,56,620 in the previous year. The most noticeable increases are in the attachments of movable property in which sale had actually to be enforced, and in annulments of settlement followed by direct management. The decrease in the number of writs is probably owing to the instructions issued to regulate the use of this process and to prevent resort to it where it is obviously unnecessary or useless. Free use was made in the Hardoi district of the authority to summon the defaulter to appear given by section 114 of the Oudh Land Revenue Act, and the existence of this power possibly explains the comparatively small number of arrests in Oudh as compared with the North-Western Provinces. In the latter Province arrest was followed by detention in only 1,538 cases out of 3,577, while in Oudh 361 persons out of 455 arrested were actually detained. These figures go to show that the power of arrest is used in the North-Western Provinces as a means of securing the attendance of the defaulter, a result which can be attained in Oudh by a simple summons. No use was made in Oudh of the special power given by section 116 of the Land Revenue Act of confining defaulters in the civil jail for a period of six months, and in recent years generally this power, which it is not proposed in the new Land Revenue Bill to retain, has been very sparingly made use of.

In the Allahabad Division, where many of the proprietors have become seriously involved, recourse has largely been had to annulment of settlement, followed by direct management. Only in this way can the real assets of the properties be ascertained, and the extent to which non-payment is owing to undue severity in the assessment be determined. The Lieutenant-Governor regrets in these circumstances that the management of estates under attachment has not been satisfactory. Care must be taken to secure a competent staff, and to see that the management is supervised with the same care as Court of Wards work, especially in districts where a large extension is being given to the system of direct management after annulment of settlement. In the case of attached estates there is no doubt greater difficulty in securing good management, as the attachment may be temporary, but it is unsatisfactory to find that in some cases no adequate efforts were made to bring the estates under proper management.

Transfers. (Paragraph 88.)

23. It is difficult to draw any satisfactory conclusions from the statistics of transfers and mortgages during a single year. But the figures for the year under report are, on the whole, not unsatisfactory. There has been some increase in sales by order of court, but in all the divisions of the North-Western Provinces, except Allahabad, there has been a , decline in the number of sales and mortgages, which may reasonably be attributed to returning prosperity. There has also been a very marked increase—an increase of over 40 per cent.—in the number of redemptions of mortgages, which might be taken as a further satisfactory sign, were it not that a large proportion of the cases occur in the Fyzabad district, where the registers were under revision, and they probably therefore represent the transactions of several years.

Advances under the Land Improvement Loans and Agriculturists' Loans Acts. (Paragraphs 93 to 96.)

24. As the seasons were favourable during the greater part of the year, there was comparatively little demand or necessity for agricultural advances, and the amounts advanced on loan fell from—

Rs.		Rs.
72,138	under the Land Improvement Loans Act to	65,086
3,54,100	„ Agriculturists' Loans Act to	1,48,654

At the close of the year, owing to the deficiency of rainfall in the western districts, arrangements had to be made for the grant on a much more liberal scale of taqávi, but these transactions have not affected the accounts of the year under review.

The collections of outstanding balances were not good, only 72 per cent. of the amounts due under the one Act and 50 per cent. of those due under the other being actually repaid. These bad results are, however, due to the impossibility of realizing the large outstandings in the Allahabad Division. The people had, in the first place, to meet the demand for revenue and had not the wherewithal to repay advances of taqávi. At the same time some progress was effected in reducing the large aggregate of debts outstanding on account of advances taken in the famine years, the balances being reduced from Rs. 11,65,362 and Rs. 14,53,994 at the end of the previous year to Rs. 8,69,344 and Rs. 8,84,559 respectively at the close of the year under review. After very careful examination of the conditions of the borrowers concerned, a large sum due in the Allahabad Division has been written off; but the burden which has been laid on the agricultural classes by the famine is still heavy, and, unless the seasons continue favourable, further remissions of the outstanding balances may be inevitable.

Applications to recover the rent of mahâls held in sub-settlement, Oudh. (Paragraph 101.)

25. There was an increase from 967 to 1,204 in the number of applications to recover the rent of mahâls held in sub-settlement in Oudh. Complaints have been received during the year of the dilatoriness and ineffectiveness of the action taken by the revenue authorities on such applications, and these complaints proved on enquiry not to be devoid of foundation. The question has been energetically taken up in the Fyzabad Division, which is principally concerned, by the Commissioner, Mr. Hooper, and, notwithstanding the increase in the number of applications, the arrears outstanding at the end of the revenue year amounted only to a lakh, as compared with a lakh and a half twelve months before. This is a considerable improvement, and further improvement may be expected from the Commissioner's action; but it requires to be impressed on the staff that, when Government undertakes the collection of arrears of rent as land revenue, the same care must be given to the matter as is shown in the collection of the revenue.

Settlement. (Paragraphs 113 to 123.)

26. Reports of the completion of settlement operations in six districts and in the Lalitpur sub-division of Jhánsi were received during the year. These reports are now submitted with much more punctuality than in former times, but there has been delay in the case of Fyzabad and Budaun, the reports of which districts should be expedited. Settlement work in Meerut, Sháhjahánpur, Kheri, and Bahraich is now approaching completion, and in Bareilly and Almora the work of assessment has begun. The assessments made in all districts have been very carefully examined by the Board and the Government with a view to preventing the imposition of demands which would press too heavily on the landowning classes, while at the same time securing for the Government the increased revenue which the progress of the country and the change in the value of money entitles it to receive. The proposals of the Settlement Officers have in individual cases required frequent alteration, generally in the direction of increased moderation in the assessments, and with these changes it has been possible for the Government to confirm the settlements in all districts, except Hardoi, a district which was thrown back by the severity of the famine, and in which the proposals of the Settlement Officer could not be accepted without further enquiry.

Land Record Surveys. (Paragraph 125, and paragraph 18 of Director of Land Records and Agriculture's report.)

27. Survey and record writing operations were completed in Bareilly, Kheri, and the hill parganas of Naini Tal district. They were continued in Gonda, and commenced in Farukhabad, Azamgarh, and Pilibhít. An area of 3,312 square miles was surveyed, and training in survey work given to 1,720 patwáris, 59 kánúngos, and 263 apprentice kánúngos.

The general character of the patwáris' work as surveyors appears, both from the report of the Superintendent of Surveys and from the opinions expressed by the Settlement Officers of Kheri and Bareilly, to have been very satisfactory. As record writers they are incomparably superior to the occasional outside amíns, who will be displaced by the introduction of the two years' system.

Patwáris. (Paragraphs 128 and 129, and paragraphs 5 and 7 of Director of Land Records and Agriculture's report.)

28. Continued efforts have been made to improve the standard of qualification of patwáris, and the percentage of passed men has risen from 84·92 to 86·51 per cent. The number of exempted patwáris has been reduced from 3,093 to 2,718, and the percentage of unexempted patwáris who have still to pass has fallen from 4·34 to 3·90.

The percentage of passed patwáris is over 99 in Bijnor, and exceeds 95 in Etáwah, Jalaun, Gorakhpur, Sitapur, and Bara Banki, but it falls below 75 in Saháranpur and Rae Bareli, and in Allahabad only amounts to 65. Progress must necessarily be slow in filling all posts with qualified men, but the special attention of the District Officers in the three last mentioned districts should be given to obtaining a better class of men for the post.

About three-fourths of the patwáris are, as in the previous year, returned as resident in their circles. The Director of Land Records and Agriculture is, however, probably right in his assumption as to the unreliability of these statistics. Taken as they stand, they show a satisfactory proportion of resident patwáris only in the Agra Division, the Bundelkhand districts, Gorakhpur, and Basti. The whole of Oudh and Rohilkhand furnish very poor results, while in Allahabad district nearly half the patwáris are non-resident. The experiment tried in Basti of giving advances to patwáris to build houses is reported to have been attended with success.

Kánúngos. (Paragraph 128, and paragraphs 2 and 6 of the Director of Land Records and Agriculture's report.)

29. Thirty kánúngos were promoted temporarily to náib tahsíldárships during the year, but the Director notes with disappointment that no permanent promotion to a náib tahsíldárship was given during the year. As a class the kánúngos have not the educational qualifications now required in náib tahsíldárs, but better educated men are being introduced as vacancies occur.

The annual examination of candidates for kánúngoships gave very poor results, only 37 candidates out of 234, or 15 per cent., as compared with 29 per cent. in the preceding year, passing completely. The Director reports the majority of the candidates to be badly educated and generally unfit for supervisorships. The question of restricting the admissions to these examinations was raised by Government last year. The report now submitted indicates that it is a matter for consideration whether admissions to kánúngoships should not be confined to men who have passed through the Agricultural School, and the examinations at divisional centres be dispensed with altogether, as at present it is found impossible to provide all the men who have passed through the School with situations.

Testing of records. (Paragraph 130, and paragraph 9 of Director of Land Records and Agriculture's report.)

30. It is satisfactory to learn that the amount of field testing by kánúngos has been, on the whole, sufficient, and that a general improvement has been effected both in the checking of rent-rolls and in the re-testing by superior officers, though the Director points out that the re-testing done requires to be more closely directed to the check of the kánúngos' work.

Filing of patwáris' papers. (Paragraph 130, and paragraph 8 of Director of Land Records and Agriculture's report.)

31. The very marked improvement in the punctuality with which the annual papers were filed is observed with satisfaction. Where the papers were not filed promptly, the delay was in many cases owing to survey and settlement operations being in progress.

Pargana books. (Paragraph 14 of Director of Land Records and Agriculture's report.)

32. The pargana books in some districts have been intelligently utilized; but elsewhere proper attention has not been given to checking and keeping them up. Instructions on this subject have been issued from time to time, and the Director should in future report the districts in which it has come to his notice that these instructions are not complied with.

Agricultural depression. (Paragraph 136, and note by Director of Land Records and Agriculture.)

33. The third part of the report of the Director of Land Records and Agriculture consists of notes on precarious tracts in various parts of the Provinces, abstracted from information given by District Officers. There is, as the Board remark, nothing in the notes calling for notice. The Director is now engaged in ledgering and systematizing the information available regarding the liability of each district to agricultural deterioration; it would be interesting to find in this report some information of the progress made in this work, and any facts of importance elicited.

34. The reports of District Officers were written at a time when there were grave reasons to fear that portions at least of many districts in the Province would not escape from the famine from which other parts of the country were already suffering. Nevertheless these reports, as a rule, represent the year ending in September 1899, as having been in itself a not unsatisfactory one, and the experience since gained fully confirms this view. The low prices of the early part of the year were of material benefit to the labouring and urban classes, though, on the other hand, they appear to have led to depression of trade, and to increased difficulty in the collection of rent and revenue. Several reports refer to the losses sustained by the sugar and indigo interests, and grain was stored in the hope of better prices not only by regular traders, but also, there is reason to believe, in large quantities by agriculturists themselves. Consequently, when prices rose, owing to the apparent failure of the monsoon, and the news of famine in surrounding Provinces, food stocks were unusually large, and the export trade rapidly attained unusual dimensions. Grain was exported as fast as the railways could remove it; indeed, many complaints have been made of the inability of the railways to meet the traffic, and there has been no indication as yet that the exports were in excess of the quantity that could easily be spared. Nor has there been any marked sign of the pressure of high prices on the labouring classes. The briskness of trade, and the necessity towards the end of the year of utilizing all possible means of artificial irrigation, created a sharp demand for labour, which in many districts caused an appreciable rise in wages. In the Agra and Muttra districts, from which the monsoon had entirely withdrawn at an early date, test works were opened after the close of the year under report, but there was no such pressure as to make famine wages attractive, and the works had to be closed. It is believed that the traffic in grass, an entirely new industry, which sprang up in those districts to supply the wants of Rájputána, afforded work for some time to large numbers of the labouring classes. The wanderers from the western Native States, numbers of whom were forced by the drought to cross into these Provinces, appear to have been absorbed, or to have found occupation without difficulty; and no recourse has been necessary to special measures for their relief. All these circumstances occurring after the close of the year sufficiently indicate that, if not so prosperous as the year preceding, it was by no means an unsatisfactory one on the whole. The trans-Jumna tracts of Bundelkhand still form an exception to the generally favourable condition of the Provinces, and their slow recovery from the effects of the previous famine will be still further retarded by the losses of the past year. The administration of those districts must for some years, even in the most favourable circumstances, tax to the utmost the ability of the officers in charge.

The material development of the Provinces has been furthered by the opening of the Bengal and North-Western Railway extensions in the Benares Division, and of the Hardwár-Dehra and Gháziabad-Moradabad Railway lines; while other projects are in hand or in contemplation. The opening of the Fatehpur Branch of the Lower Ganges Canal also calls for notice.

35. In conclusion, the Lieutenant-Governor desires to acknowledge the care which the Board of Revenue have given to the land revenue administration during the year under review.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of the above Resolution be forwarded to the Secretary to the Board of Revenue, North-Western Provinces and Oudh, for the information of the Board.
